The assizes closed yesterday afternoon. Mr. Justice Street has returned to Toronto.

A Lenten lecture was delivered in St. Luke's last night by Rev. George Warren, of Lakefield.

"Kind hearts are more than coronets,"
But, somehow, with the belles,
In choosing mates for life, it is
The coronet that tells.

Last year in the Ontario general elections in Haldimand, Mr. Senn, Patron, beat Dr. Baxter, Liberal, by fifteen of a majority. On Tuesday in the bye election, Dr. Baxter beat Mr. Senn by several hundred majority. Sir Oliver Mowat appears not only to have captured the Patrons in the Legislature, but his party has absorbed them in the country.

ENNISMORE ITEMS.

On Tuesday an election was held in Ennismore to fill the vacant seat at the Council Board, caused by the action of the court. It will be remembered that at the January elections Mr. James Scollard was returned as Councillor for Ennismore, though Mr. John Moloney, another candidate, claimed that he had a majority of the votes. On that ground he entered a protest against Mr. Scollard's return. At the hearing of the case before Judge Weller, March 5, the seat was declared vacant by consent, and a writ for a new election was issued. The election took place on Tuesday, the same two candidates being in the field. There was a large vote polled, and the result was exceedingly close, Mr. Moloney receiving 93 and Mr. Scollard 92 votes. The highest number of votes received by any Councillor at the January elections was 109. The result being so close in Tuesday's election, it might be suggested that this was an opportunity for a recount, but it does not seem probable that there will be any recount. It is stated that the ballots were counted over 15 times at the close of the poll.

THE PRESIDENT'S MEDAL

Skip Rutherford Wins it—Greenies Defeat Newspaper Men.

Another game of hockey was played on the rink last night between a newspaper combination team and the "Greenies." The latter were not so green as their name might indicate and they succeeded in defeating their opponents. The teams lined up as follows:

COMBINATION.		GREENIES.
Dobbin	Goal	W Hall
Glover	Point	R H. Bradburn
Heap	Cover Point	W Dumble
Hubbs		E Goldsmith
McWilliams	Forwards	G Frost
McWilliams		Gus Hay
Terrill		C Dumble

CURLING.

The final match for the President's medal was played last night between skips Rutherford and Ferguson. It was a close and intensely interesting game resulting in a victory for skip Rutherford by 2 shots. The rinks were:

H Phalen	J Wylie
C Rutherford	E B Clegg
G Brown	D Davidson
T Rutherford, sk..14	W G Ferguson, sk...12

GENERAL SPORTS.

John L. Sullivan announces that he will challenge the winner of the O'Donnel-Kilrain "go" at Boston.

Jack McAuliffe says that as Griffo seems unable to cover his forfeit of $500 he will scale it down to suit Griffo's purse.

Owen Sound parties have written to Eddie Durnan asking him to arrange a regatta this June for a new club that has been organized in the town.

At the Toronto Opera House last night young Jim Popp tried his skill with Champion George Dixon, and James Lovett boxed Joe Walcott.

At Philadelphia on Saturday night Charles (Bull) McCarthy showed up as quite the equal of Griffo. The match was only four rounds, and no decisions are given in these contests, so that the Club can come within the law. Griffo landed frequently, but he showed punishing powers.

There will be 16 professional baseball leagues under the protection of the national agreement in 1895. This will mean the employment of about 2,000 players with the 116 clubs, at an outlay for salary and travelling expenses of over $500,000. How the business side of the game has developed within a decade!—Sporting Life.

C.P.R. SALARIES.

They Are to Come Down—A Policy of Retrenchment.

At a meeting of the Executive of the C.P.R. in Montreal it was decided, among other matters of retrenchment, to make a general reduction in salaries. A five per cent. cut will be made in those salaries up to two thousand; above that ten per cent. All officers, without distinction, will be affected by the operation of this decision, including the president, Sir Wm. C. Van Horne.

THE S. A. GRANT.

Editor Morning Times.

DEAR SIR,—The Salvation Army, an institution that has been a power for good in Peterborough has asked the council to give them a grant of $50 for the purpose of buying new instruments and improving their band. The request is a modest one, and in view of the great influence for good that the Army has and is exercising in Peterborough, I think the council should grant their request.

RATEPAYER.

DELAY IS DANGEROUS.

Editor Morning Times.

DEAR SIR—As far as I can learn, the Council has not yet taken any action towards offering the Howry Lumber Co., and other manufacturing industries that evinced a willingness to locate in Peterborough, inducements that would secure their location. I am in possession of information to the effect that other towns are trying to secure the location of these industries. In view of this, delay is dangerous.

MERCHANT.

A SENSIBLE VIEW.

Editor of the Times.

DEAR SIR,—I note with pleasure the recommendation of the Grand Jury for the establishment of a House of Industry. The confinement of the vagrant and poor classes with criminals in the jails, is morally wrong and conducive to the corruption of those whose only crime is that of poverty. Further than this the establishment of a House of Industry where the vagrant class would be put to work and compelled to earn the bread they ate, would have a deterent effect upon idleness and would tend to diminish the ranks of that class who prefer warm quarters in the jail during winter months, rather than their liberty and work.

INDUSTRY.

THE BRIDGE AT AUBURN.

Editor of The Times.

DEAR SIR,—I have waited to see your fearless and outspoken paper take some stand on the question of a highway or foot bridge across the Otonabee at Auburn. The Council has shelved the question for a month, but with the wise view, I take it, of watching developments that might lead to a co-operation in the construction of a bridge on the part of the Street Railway Company. The present crossing at Auburn is certainly dangerous, and a bridge of some kind is a necessity. I think that in view of the generous offer of the Auburn Woollen Mills Company of a right of way through their property of sixty-six feet, that the town should erect a highway bridge. It is only a matter of a few years when a highway bridge will be needed. Why not erect it now, and secure this right of way. The difference in cost for a foot bridge is a small sum compared to the relative advantages of the former. I would like to know THE TIMES' opinion on this question.

TO THE ELECTORS

OF

East Peterborough

GENTLEMEN,—Having some time ago been nominated by the Patrons of Industry, and lately by the Liberal party, as a candidate for the representation of East Peterborough in the House of Commons at the approaching Dominion Elections, I have decided to accept the candidature as an Independent Liberal, and if elected I shall support, to the best of my ability, the following policy:—

1. Maintenance of British Connection.
2. Public lands for the actual settler and none for the speculator.
3. Independence of Parliament and economy in the public expenditure.
4. The abolition of the Canadian Senate.
5. Tariff for revenue only and to be levied principally on the luxuries and not the necessaries of life.
6. Reciprocal trade between Canada and any other country in the world if it can be obtained on fair terms.
7. Repeal of the Dominion Franchise Act and a return of the voters' lists made out by our municipal officers.
8. That electoral districts conform as nearly as possible to county boundaries.
9. Responsible government in practice as well as theory.

As it will be impossible for me to call on you all personally during the short time at my disposal, I take this means of placing my views before you an soliciting your support. I shall also endeavor to hold as many public meetings as possible in the several municipalities, at which I hope to have an opportunity of presenting my views more fully before you. I beg to remain, gentlemen,

Your humble servant,
JOHN LANG.

Can Catarrh Be Cured?
MOST POSITIVELY SO BY THE USE OF
Oxygenator

The record of our remedy is remarkable, it having shown itself equally efficacious in every form of the disease, from the simplest first symptoms to the most aggravated type. We confidently believe that any person suffering from Catarrh who has vitality sufficient to keep him alive until Oxygenator is given time to impart its properties can be completely cured by its use. That all other remedies have failed is no evidence that it will not cure.

INTERESTING TO LADIES
SOMETHING FOR NOTHING
CAN YOU GET IT?

Many who should know better, are well pleased to get a good sized glass jar or tin of bulky alum, ammonia or other powerful but injurious mixture, for use as Baking Powder, at much less, perhaps even half the price, of the really good article, overlooking the fact that the amount thus APPARENTLY saved is of small moment in comparison with the real but not always immediately observed inevitable injury following the use of these articles. If in addition to the SEEMINGLY low prices there is attached some showy gift or prize to give the impression of extra value, the inferior or hurtful nature of the powder is lost sight of in the expectation (a vain one) of getting "something for nothing."

"LADIES' HOME" and "HAPPY THOUGHT" on the other hand, can always be depended on as articles of first class quality, and such as can be AND ARE guaranteed not only free from everything in the slightest degree injurious, but invariably sure, satisfactory and economical.

A Metal Breadboard

THE WOMAN WHO HAS BEEN USED to kneading dough on the old fashioned wooden breadboard knows what a bother it is to get them clean and how cumbersome and heavy they are. When they begin to crack or check its almost impossible to thoroughly cleanse them, and they may easily become dangerous conveyances of disease. It was left for a woman, of course, to remedy this state of affairs, and Mrs. M. M. Everhard, of St. Joseph, Mich., has patented a metal bread board, which is one of the greatest labor-savers imaginable. It is light, does not absorb grease, dough does not adhere to it, and while it possesses all the advantages of the marble bread-board it is much cheaper and, of course, far lighter and easier to handle. If readers want to confer a favor upon their wives that will be forever appreciated, let them send $1 to the manufacturers, 101 Bay street, Toronto, for one of these boards.

ONTARIO HOTELMEN.

They Unanimously Re-elect Last Year's Office Holders.

Special to the Times.

TORONTO, March 21.—The Ontario License Holders' Protective Association convention was resumed at Victoria hall at 10 o'clock this morning. Last year's officers were unanimously re-elected, as follows:

President, Harry Maxey, Hamilton; first vice president, F. X. St. Jacques, Ottawa; second vice-president, David Sare, London; secretary, E. Deckle, 290 Dunn avenue, Toronto; treasurer, William Armstrong, Toronto; auditors, A. S. Smith, St. Thomas, and James McParland, Kingston; solicitor, James Haverson, Toronto.

The deputation that waited upon the Ontario Cabinet last evening say they were most cordially received, but regrets that the Government could not see its way clear to revise the whole License Act this session.

A private meeting of the Brewers' Association and a deputation from the hotelkeepers is being held this afternoon.

IRISH MANHOOD SUFFRAGE.

The Bill May Be Passed After a Struggle Lasting Twenty Years.

Special to the Times.

LONDON, March 21.—In the House of Commons the bill introduced by Mr. Healy, giving to every ratepayer in Ireland a vote in the borough in which he is rated, passed its second reading.

Though the measure is similar to the Municipal Franchise Act, which has long been in force in England, it has been brought forward annually for the last 20 years and its progress blocked by the Conservative members of the House.

Mr. Balfour and other Conservative speakers announced that they approved the measure.

HYAMS' HELD FOR TRIAL.

THE MAGISTRATE SAYS THAT SOME ONE KILLED WELLS.

He Commits the Twins to Stand Their Trial for Murder, Refusing an Application for Dallas Hyams' Discharge.

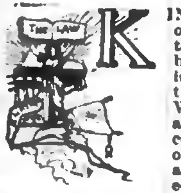
TORONTO, March 21.



KINGSTON penitentiary or the gallows may be the fate of the Hyams brothers. Convincing is the evidence that the death of young Wells was not due to accident. The weight could not have come off the hook as alleged, and killed the deceased. Some one killed him, and these two men were the only people present when he met his death. I will commit both for trial."

With these words Police Magistrate Denison brought to a close the most expensive preliminary investigation ever held in the Police Court, and committed H. P. Hyams and D. T. Hyams to stand their trial on the charge of murdering William C. Wells in their warehouse on Jan. 16, 1893.

The defence made no effort to evade trial in the case of Harry P. Hyams, but E. F. B. Johnston made a strong appeal for the discharge of Dallas Hyams on the ground of insufficient evidence. He claimed that no motive had been proved, that Dallas had nothing to do with the placing of the insurance on Wells' life and that nothing showed that he had received any of the insurance money or participated in renting the warehouse.

Crown Attorney Curry replied, showing that Dallas was a party to the transaction by which Wells, Aylesworth and Miss Wells had been induced to put their money into the hands of the Hyams; that Dallas gave directions for the alterations in the elevator by which the weights were to be changed; that Dallas was on the scene of the tragedy when it happened.

TESTING THE WEIGHT.

This morning a group of gentlemen assembled at 26 and 28 Colborne street, the scene of the Wells tragedy. They were ex District Attorney Wellman, his partner, W. W. Gooch, E. F. Johnston, Q. C., and Barristers Horn and Barrett. These gentlemen represented the defence in the Hyams case. Besides these there were present expert elevator men, Sergeant Reburn and Detectives Black and Davis, the latter representing the Crown, and having in their charge the rope and hook and fatal weight. The warehouse was unlocked, the party entered and proceeded to the elevator, with which divers experiments were made. The hook and weight were attached and the elevator run up and down at various rates of speed, the weight rope was jerked and other manoeuvres gone through. These were conducted under the direction and supervision of the defence, while the detectives looked and saw that the hook was not opened any wider, the weight stolen, or the elevator turned upside down. These experiments were made with a view to show that the weight could fall off.

E. F. B. Johnston was seen by a reporter as to the result of the experiments.

"There was no experiment in the sense that we dropped the weight or tried to drop it. That is not possible on account of the boilers that have been placed below. In fact the changes in the building preclude the possibility by either the Crown or the defence of ascertaining what might or might not happen at the time of the accident.

DALLAS BREAKS DOWN.

Dallas T. Hyams broke down completely last night on his return to the jail after his committal. During the course of E. F. B. Johnston's appeal on his behalf his nervousness and agitation were apparent to everybody. He sobbed bitterly when going down to jail.

Almeda Chattelle's Trial Will Take Place at the Perth Assizes at Stratford Next Week—An Old Dodge, Insanity, to Be the Line of the Defence.

Special to the Times.

TORONTO, March 21.—The Perth Assizes will open at Stratford on next Tuesday, and Almeda Chattelle, the sel-confessed murderer of Jessie Keith, near Listowel, last October, will be placed on trial during the week. John Idington, Q.C., of Stratford, will act as Crown prosecutor, while H. M. East, of Toronto, will defend the prisoner, at the request of Prosper Chattelle, of St. Hyacinthe, Que., a half brother of the prisoner.

Mr. East will endeavor to show that Chattelle is insane.

The Crown will be asked to pay the expenses of witnesses on this point in behalf of the prisoner. The life of the accused will depend alone on this plea.

If insanity be established, Chattelle will not be hanged.

OTTAWA, March 21.—When told that the Liberal papers were conjuring up lurid pictures of a row between him and Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, the Premier laughed quite heartily at the idea.

"The fact is," he said, "I have not seen him since these reports were circulated. With him in the Western Block and me in the Eastern Block every day it is pretty hard for us to have a row at that distance."

It is understood that so soon as the Order-in-Council granting relief to the Manitoba Catholics is passed the Sovereign Grand Master of the Orange Order will make an announcement of his position.

A summons has gone out to every one of the Cabinet to attend the special meeting at 3 o'clock today, when his Excellency will attend in person to sign the remedial order.

The El Globo Affair—The Flight of Newspaper Editors—Death of Prof. Morayta.

MADRID, March 21.—The officers of the garrison yesterday drew lots in order to decide which of them should demand satisfaction from the editors and utterances deemed to be insulting to the Spanish army.

A despatch from Barcelona says that the issuing of an order by a military tribunal for the arrest of the directors of two local newspapers for publishing articles protesting against the recent riotious conduct of the military in Madrid caused the real authorship of the articles to become known. The writer at once fled to Lisbon, in order to avoid arrest. Several other persons who feared the power of the military tribunal have fled to France.

Prof. Morayta, who occupied the chair of history at the University of Madrid, is dead.

Special to the Times.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, March 21.—A special from Red Canyon says: A terrible explosion at Rocky Mountain mine No. 5, situated at Red Canyon, Wyo., is believed to have killed eighty men, who are imprisoned in the mine, in addition to ten who were in the power house above ground, or near the shaft openings.

The slopes and entrances to the lower workings are all blockaded by wreckage and it is thought at least three days will be required for rescue parties to reach the bodies in the mine. The horror occurred at 5.45 last evening at No. 5 Central Pacific mine, Red Canyon, five miles north of Evanston.

The explosion in the mine shocked the whole country around, wrecked the power plant, a fan house, and several other buildings.

THE GIBBS CASE ENDED.

ROBINSON SENTENCED FOR LIFE AND SADIE FOR 20 YEARS.

A Verdict of Murder in the Second Degree Against the Former and of Manslaughter Against Sadie Robinson—The Prisoner's Demeanor.

Special to the Times.

BUFFALO, N.Y., March.

YESTERDAY evening Judge Hatch's charge to the jury in the Montgomery Gibbs murder case, was a long one. He drew attention to the statements made by the defendants after their arrest, in regard to the murder, and said that these statements, the defendants not being in the presence of each other at the time they were made, were only binding on, and could only be considered as affecting the person speaking, and cannot be considered as affecting the person speaking, and cannot be binding against the absent party. The judge referred to the "meagre discussion of the matter by the defence," and said, "the testimony on the part of the people has been clearly presented, and you would be wholly authorized to find that these defendants committed this crime as alleged in the indictment."

CALLED THE JUDGE A LIAR

Twice during Judge Hatch's charge Sadie Robinson interrupted with an exclamation of "liar," but the judge paid no attention to the interruption. During the delivery of the judge's charge Sadie and Clarence held each other's hands very affectionately.

WHAT THE VERDICT IS.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 21.—The jury in the Robinson case agreed upon a verdict at 2.40 this morning, and rendered it when the court opened at 10 a. m.

THEY WILL NOT HANG.

BUFFALO, March 21.—Clarence Robinson has been found guilty of murder in the second degree, and Sadie Robinson of manslaughter in the first degree.

Judge Hatch sentenced Clarence Robinson to life imprisonment, and his wife, Sadie, to 20 years' imprisonment.

Sadie's sister leaned over her chair and kissed her, and Sadie, in return, fondly kissed her husband. The verdict and sentence were evidently a pleasant surprise to the Robinsons, and they left the court room looking better and happier than at any time during the past 10 days.

THE ARMENIAN HORRORS.

A TURKISH OFFICER'S DEATHBED STATEMENT.

The Reina Regente Wreck—Coast about Cadiz Strewn with the Wreckage—The Elbe-Crathie Case—Died for Love.

Special to the Times.

LONDON, March 21.

THE special representative of the Daily News says in his enquiry on the Armenian outrages: There is abundant and unanimous evidence of the bloodiest, most fiendishly premeditated and damnably perpetrated massacre of innocents. This I intend to prove out of the mouths of the perpetrators themselves. The correspondent sends from the Russian frontier, under date of Feb. 28th, the story which he himself elicited from a Turkish non-commissioned officer. This officer, acting under orders, shared in the slaughter. He described the revolting horrors at great length. He has now left the army, says the correspondent, and has fled to Russia, where he is persecuted by the infinite horror of his own thoughts and is dying surely and rapidly. I questioned him in the presence of responsible witnesses. He was deeply impressed with his resigned melancholy and invincible despair. He said that throughout the fighting he never heard of a single soldier being wounded, much less killed.

THE FATE OF THE CRUISER.

LONDON, March 20.—A despatch from San Fernandino, near Cadiz says that the coast near Conil, somewhat further south, is strewn with wreckage, uniforms, flags and numerous other articles from the lost cruiser Reina Regente. The officials along the coast have forbidden the people to approach the points where the wreckage has been cast up ostensibly to prevent the scenes of anguish which would accompany the search for bodies of friends and relatives. The officials refuse to say what they are doing to recover the bodies and wreckage and the people there are doing nothing.

THE ELBE-CRATHIE CASE.

ROTTERDAM, March 21.—The trial of the action of the North German Lloyds Steamship Co. against the owners of the British steamer Crathie for damages for the loss of the S.S. Elbe, was called in the civil court here this morning. The lawyer of the North German Lloyd Co. argued that the Crathie alone was responsible for the disaster. In claiming damages for the company, he held that an embargo ought to be placed on the Crathie until the owners indemnify the North German Lloyd Co. for the loss of the Elbe, interest and cost of suit included. The lawyer representing the Crathie's owners made a counter claim of damages in view of the injury sustained by her in the collision. He demanded that the North German Lloyd Co. give security for the damages and costs to the amount of $24,000. After making the formal statement, he informed the court that it had been impossible for the defendants to prepare their case in the short time since the action was begun, and asked that the trial be postponed for eight days.

DIED FOR LOVE.

CELINA, O., March 21.—A team belonging to Robt. Mangler, a livery stablekeeper at Monticello, five miles from here, came into the stable yard last night with the body of a girl named Annie Frisch sitting in the vehicle stone dead. There was a bullet wound in the right temple and another in the left arm. Later in the evening the body of the dead girl's lover, Arthur Spread, who was known to have gone driving with her, was found alongside the roadside.

A DYNAMITE EXPLOSION.

EXPLOSIVES DO TERRIBLE HAVOC TO LIFE AND PROPERTY.

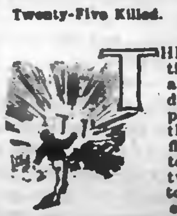
BERLIN, March 21.



THE report is in circulation to the effect that a terrible explosion of dynamite had taken place at Oberwesel, on the Rhine. Twenty-five persons are said to have been killed, two ships are reported to have been destroyed, and many houses wrecked by the explosion. Oberwesel is a town of Rhenish Prussia, about 19 miles from Coblentz, on the Rhine; its population is estimated to be about 2,500.

COLOGNE, March 20.—A terrible explosion of dynamite took place yesterday evening at Salmorth, in the district of Dusseldorf. The cargo of the ship Elizabeth, consisting of 20,000 kilos of dynamite, was being unloaded at the time of the explosion, killing a number of people and doing a terrible amount of damage. The exact number of persons killed is not yet known. A vessel which was alongside the Elizabeth caught fire and was burned. The force of the explosion was felt for miles, and it was at first believed to have been the result of an earthquake. Several houses collapsed at Keeken and other villages, and windows were shattered within a wide area. At Cleaves, five miles from the scene of the explosion, doors were torn off and window frames were smashed. The bodies of five victims of the explosion have already been recovered, and six persons, believed to have been killed, are still missing.

The force of the explosion was so great that three vessels at Lobith, the last Dutch village on the Rhine, were sunk. It appears that the Elizabeth was taking the dynamite on board, instead of discharging it, as was at first reported. Two hundred and twenty tons of the explosive were taken in six boats from Lobith to Salmorth last January en route to Antwerp, whence it was to have been shipped to Australia. Owing to the ice blockade in the river, the dynamite was landed at Salmorth, where it was stored away, waiting the reopening of navigation. Meantime the Elizabeth had been chartered to take the dynamite forward, and the cargo was being stored yesterday, when part of it exploded. The cause of the explosion is unknown, as every person on board was killed.

The fact that two English woman doctors should be simultaneously sent for to the bedside of an Indian queen and an Afghan King, in each case with the happiest of results, is a romantic episode of the "women's movement," thinks the Westminster Gazette.

Mr. W,B. Scarth, who is on a visit east from the Northwest, declares that the farmers of Manitoba have not lost heart on account of the low price of wheat, and he believes the total acreage sown this year will be greater than last, when the yield was about 17,000,000 bushels.

Bark is a favorite fuel in the Northwest. The evergreens of the region consume quickly in the open fireplace and leave nothing but light ashes, but the bark of these same trees, very thick and heavy, burns more slowly and falls into embers that give out a satisfying heat for hours.

Incandescent electric light is the least harmful to the eyes of all artificial lights, says Dr. Trousseau, surgeon of the Paris Quinze Vingts Eye Hospital. Next comes the light given by kerosene lamps, which is good for ordinary purposes. He condemns as injurious the light of oil, and particuliarly by candles, and considers the gas jet the most hurtful of all.

A women weighing 183 pounds eloped from her husband at Essen, in Germany, lately. He found out the train she had taken and telegraphed only her exact weight to the officials at the other end of the line, telling them to arrest her. When the train came in, every woman on it was taken to the baggage room and weighed ; the runaway was at once identified and sent back to her husband.

It was significant of the intense feeling that prevails throughout the Province when George Taylor, M.P., and J. W. Bell, ex-M.P., were called upon at the public meeting held in connection with the Grand Lodge of Ontario East to declare publicly that they will oppose any attempt to interfere with Manitoba. It was still more significant when, on the same day, Darby Bergin—who is not sound on this question—was overwhelmingly rejected by the Conservative nominating convention in Cornwall and Stormont.

Under the law as it stands a drinking place cannot be transferred from one point to another unless a majority of residents in the neighborhood to which it is proposed to move petition for it. Those interested in the liquor traffic are going to agitate for a repeal of this clause, and for the vesting in the License Commissioners of the right so make transfers of their own motion. This relaxation in the law cannot be allowed. The people of each neighborhood must have continued to them the right to prevent the establishment in their midst of an undesirable business.

HORSES FOR BELGIUM.

A syndicate is forming in Belgium to import Canadian horses into that country, and agents will shortly arrive in Canada to open up the trade. This movement should stimulate the horse industry in this country ; and according to all accounts farmers could dispose of a good many surplus horses at the present time. It may be remarked that horses of a certain grade are cheap on this continent, caused as frequently explained, by an over-production of horses that have use for general work only on farms, on roads and for street car purposes. All these belong to the "plug" class. And, notwithstanding that there has been a gradual decrease in the price of this class for the last few years, farmers appear to have been breeding as many as ever.

If our breeders intend to supply the foreign market in which there is such an inviting and promising field, there must be more class and line breeding. Hap-hazard production will not pay in the horse line as has been amply shown of late in American horse breeding. A good style of horse is saleable now, and great prices can be realized, but few appear to have the class of horses that are in demand in the great markets of the world. This trade with Belgium should be looked to by our farmer with increased interest, and encouragement should be given to the development of this foreign trade.

EGYPT LAND MAY BE A DESERT.

The time may come when there will be no corn in Egypt, if that country does not command the Upper Nile, as far as Victoria Nyanza. Sir Colin Scott-Moncrieff in a late lecture said it would be a perfectly easy matter for a hostile power to cut off the water in the Soudan and put Egypt in a starving condition. There is nothing new in this opinion, and excellent authorities believe it is worthy of grave attention. The idea even occurred to the barbarous people of the Soudan, for long before the Egyptian subjugation of the Upper Nile region the inhabitants of Sennaar boasted that they had it in their power to turn Lower Egypt into a desert. The late Gen. Gordon and the late Sir Samuel Baker shared the view expressed by Sir Colin. Ten years ago Baker declared that the security of Egypt depended upon her command of the Upper Nile. It is well known that the rich sediment from the Atbara tributary coming from the Abyssinian highland created the Delta of the Nile and made the fertile belt along the lower river. Gordon and Baker declared that an enemy, without engineering knowledge, might deflect the waters of the Atbara, by a dam thrown across its bed during the dry season, when it is devoid of water, about 250 miles from its junction with the Nile. The Atbara flows through a perfectly flat desert for that distance, and the effect of a dam would be the dispersion of its waters over a vast area of thirty sands, which would absorb the greater portion and prevent the necessary inundation of Lower Egypt.

THEATRICAL "KNOCKERS," GENERALLY KNOWN AS "BACKCAPPERS."

How Some Men and Women In the Profession Buzz the Manager's Ear—An Illustration In Which Barry Sullivan Was the Central Figure.

Somebody once remarked that there are three kinds of people—men, women and actors. Certainly the dramatic profession, as a class, is totally distinct from all other classes. There are more peculiarities and superstitions connected with it and more distinct types of character in its forces than one would suppose possible in a line of effort that should be followed only by the intellectually inclined. Good men and bad men can be found in the ranks of every calling, but there is one type of character that originated in the dramatic profession, and that is the "knocker." Until recently the "knocker" was known only to the theatrical profession and confined his labors entirely to the people of the theater.

The "knocker" is one who states untruths, that is apparent, but let me make it a little bit clearer. The "knocker" is one who by some peculiar art or device watches to get you into bad repute. The "knocker" always is despised and shunned by those who thoroughly know him; but, like all persons who deal in nebulous matters, "knockers" are difficult to convict. Almost every theatrical company has at least one "knocker" in its ranks, while the manager of a successful theater has a whole army of them to contend with.

The "knocker" is a "backcapper"—in plain English, one who does as much injury as he can to men who, his poor instincts tell him, are his superiors. If a person is discharged from a company, it is hinted that the "knocker" has been at work, and all sorts of explanations are made in the attempt to keep secret the causes which led to the discharge. Criminations and recriminations are indulged in, wherein Mr. Smith is accused of having "queered" Miss Jones, and Actor Smith and Actress Jones are given a temporary importance which is quickly forgotten.

"Who cares for Smith?"

"Miss Jones.'"

"Who under the sun is Miss Jones? The manager could get 20 persons in three hours' notice, but"—

And there's the "but."

The "knocker" has so got the manager's ear that the manager discharges either Smith or Jones without the slightest cause and wholly because of the "knocker's" diplomacy. Diplomacy, by the way, is a mild word to use in this connection.

There are all sorts and conditions of "knockers." First is the man who gets the ear of the manager and is constantly telling that a certain person in the company is "good!" "very good!" "excellent!" He is thoroughly in earnest, to all appearances, and keeps up his praise so long and so persistently that the manager gets disgusted—probably suspicious—and the actor is discharged. Some "knockers" work in a diametrically opposite way. They say out and out that such an actor or actress is bad. But this is only when a relationship of familiarity has been established between the "knocker" and the manager. Next comes the insinuating "knocker." He usually wears a placid smile whenever the name of the person whom he wishes to "knock" is mentioned. He will shrug his shoulders and murmur: "Yes, he is good—that is, I think so. Ahem!" This often sets the manager thinking, and it only remains for the "knocker" to draw his attention to the "good man" on one of his off nights to finish the work.

Then "Johnny" goes marching home.

Another interesting specimen of the "knocker" tribe is the man who works on superstitions. The large majority of stage people are superstitious, and the "insinuating knocker" has simply to drop a hint that Mr. So-and-so is a "Jonah," quoting a few instances of his hard luck, and another head goes under the managerial guillotine, for no manager wants a "Jonah" in the company. Above all, if bad business is being done, the slightest word will have the desired effect.

Barry Sullivan, the celebrated English tragedian, discharged the best leading man he ever had through the influence of a "knocker."

Sullivan opened at the Alexandria theater in Liverpool with an elaborate revival of "Richard III." The tragedian prided himself on his performance of Gloster and made extensive preparations to dress the part correctly. A new suit of armor was one of the many new things he purchased for the production. After the performance was over Sullivan, who was delighted with his success, was sitting in his dressing room, still dressed in his armor, when Mr. "Knocker," unusually apropos of his name, knocked for admittance.

"Mr. Sullivan," said the wily one, "I hope you will pardon me for disturbing you, but I wished to say how pleased I was that everything turned out all right."

Sullivan looked up.

"I don't understand," he said.

The "knocker" smiled as he spoke again.

"Oh, no one would know it, sir. It fits beautifully, just as if it had been made for you."

Sullivan was perplexed. He looked again at the speaker and asked him in language more forcible than polite what he meant.

"Why, the armor," said the "knocker."

"Well, what about it?" demanded Mr. Sullivan.

"Well, sir, I don't believe he meant any harm, but Mr. —— confided to me—though he made me promise not to speak of it—that he loaned it to you for the night."

The air was blue for a few moments, and it was said that the sulphur in the room tarnished the armor worn by the tragedian to such an extent that he never wore it again.

He rushed blindly out of the room upon the stage and roared out for his leading man.

The leading man had gone to his hotel.

"Gone to his hotel, eh?" cried the infuriated actor. "Come here!" he cried to the property boy, who was standing near by.

The property boy approached.

"Take that man's trunk," shrieked Sullivan, "and put it in the street. Then go around and tell him from me never to show his face to me again!"

With that he stalked majestically to his dressing room, and taking off his armor flung it into a corner.

The property boy delivered the message to the astonished leading man, who, innocent as he was of any offense, could not understand why such an insult should be offered him and was too proud to ask for an explanation. He took the first train for London, and it was not until after the great tragedian's death that he heard the truth of the story.—New York Herald.

SAVED AT SEA.

The Brave and Heroic Rescue of a Crew After a Thrilling Experience—Noble Work of Tars.

Special to the Times.

PROVINCE BROWN, Mass., March 20.—The British schooner Gypsum Prince has arrived here with the crew of the schooner B. H. Jones, of Thomaston, Maine. The B. H. Jones was dismasted in a gale on Monday night, 25 miles southeast of Thatcher's Island. The rescue of Jones' crew is told in the following interesting report: The Gypsum Prince reports having passed Pollock lightship Sunday night about 9 o'clock and at midnight was off Cape Cod banging away in the teeth of a norther trying to work by the Cape. Early next morning those on board discovered a dismasted wreck tossing around at the mercy of the tempest with her rigging and spars thrashing alongside. The first officer, Mr. Bezaun, called for volunteers to mann the lifeboat and go to the rescue. The seas were fearful to look at, and the only way they could get the boat into the water was to poise her on the rail with the men in place at the oars and when the vessel settled in the rough sea bringing her rail level with the water, the lifeboat was given a shove clear off the vessel and fell fully eight or nine feet before striking the water. For two solid hours fought, and at last they won. A favorable lull gave them a chance and they threw a line to the wreck which was caught and fastened. And during another lull between two seas the boat was hauled up, the crew on the wreck jumped and safely landed in the boat. In the meantime the Prince had drifted some three miles astern. The line was let go and stern first went the lifeboat toward her. The return on board the Prince was as hazardous in the mountainous seas running as was the departure but the men at the stern was equal to it. Watching his chance when his boat was on the top of a rushing combre he steered toward the big four master and landed almost on deck, near enough at least for all to jump and reach safety. The boat was quickly hoisted in and the schooner bore away for Boston. She was, however, obliged to put in here for harbor.

ANOTHER FOR SIR OLIVER.

Dr Baxter, of Haldimand, Gives Patron Senn a Bad Beating.

CAYUGA, Marhh 20.—Since 1867 Dr. Baxter has represented this constituency in the Ontario Legislature. In 1886 he was elected by a majority of 265, and from 1887 to 1891 he was Speaker of the House. In June, 1890, E. F. Sheppard was defeated by the doctor with a majority of 333.

Last June Patron John Senn contested the riding successfully, and Dr. Baxter met with his first defeat; the vote stood, Senn 1,693, Baxter 1,678, leaving a majority of 15 for the Patron. A protest resulted in the reopening of the constituency, and the Patron again contested it against Dr. Baxter, who received yesterday a majority of 282. The following are the returns of majorities.

Dr. Baxter—Cayuga, 134; township of North Cayuga; 99; township of Oneida, 8; township of Rainham, 92; township of Walpole, 78: total, 408.

Mr. John Senn—Caledonia, 2; Hagersville 18; township of Dunn, 92; township of Seneca, 10, township of South Cayuga, 4; total, 126. Majority for Dr. Baxter, 282.

An Extra Heavy Fish.

Frank Buckland, who was my cousin, told me this story. He belonged to a fishing club on the Thames, which held its meetings once a week, and the chairman for the evening was the one who had caught the heaviest fish. On one occasion a Mr. Jones was the fortunate individual. It was the first time that he had earned the honor, and he was very proud of it, though his prize fish had only been a barbel. One of the members of the club was unable to stay for dinner and asked Jones for the fish to take home with him, as it was not to form part of the menu. He consented, though rather unwillingly, and nothing was heard of the matter till the next meeting, when Buckland chanced to be present.

"A curious thing happened about that barbel which Jones gave me last Saturday," observed its recipient. "It had swallowed a little pike."

"You will not make me swallow that," observed Buckland confidently. "A barbel could not do it. Its conformation forbids it."

"You may theorize as you like," returned the other, "but I must be allowed to believe the evidence of my senses. I saw the jack taken out of the barbel with my own eyes."

"I don't believe it," said Buckland.

The conversation, in fact, was growing very warm, when Jones broke in with: "Don't quarrel, gentlemen. You are both of you right. The fact is, I was so afraid that somebody might catch a heavier fish than I that I poked the little jack down the barbel's throat with my fishing rod to make him weigh more."—James Payn in Contemporary Review.

Easy to Work.

"I told the peddler to carry 75 cents' worth of potatoes into the basement, and when he did it I gave him a $5 bill."

This was Mrs. Fifty-second street.

"He gave me a 25 cent piece and then counted four $1 bills. I don't see now what made him so nervous, poor man. He wet his finger and thumb and lifted up the ends of the four bills over and over until I lost patience and just took the money from his hands and went into the house with it. When I happened to want some more money, I discovered that he had given me only three $1 bills, one of them folded so that both ends were between the ends of the other two. You see, he had counted each of those two ends for a dollar. Think how badly he'll feel when he discovers it! He may even think I suspect he did it purposely to cheat me. When do you think he will return it?"

"When flimflammers have grown honest," replied Mr. Fifty-second street, and his wife wondered what that had to do with it.—New York Sun.

One Sure Method.

There is a story of a medical student before a board of examiners to whom the question was put again and again of how he would produce perspiration in a patient. He proposed all sorts of things, to which one importunate examiner always replied:

"Well, and if that would not do?"

At last the poor young man, driven to his wits' end, exclaimed, "I would send him before this board to be examined, and I warrant that would make him perspire."—Liverpool Mercury.

WITH THE PUEBLOS.

A PEOPLE WHOSE CIVILIZATION BEGAN LONG AGO.

An Interesting Tribe of Indians Who Have Withstood All Sorts of Opposition and Temptation and Have Gone on Steadily Progressing.

Of fascinating interest is a study of the ethnological evolution of the Pueblo Indians, who occupy the picturesque region between the upper Rio Grande and the Rio Colorado. When Vasques de Coronado and Cabesa de Vaca marched into New Mexico in 1540, they found these people already in semiculture, living in villages of solid edifices, three stories high and fortlike in construction. That they were able to hold their own during almost four centuries is the more surprising, since they had constantly as neighbors nomadic tribes of warriors and robbers, against whose attacks they were obliged to defend themselves with their primitive weapons.

For two years they were able to withstand the Spanish invaders in their "casas grandes." It had been reported to the Spanish commanders that several hundred miles to the north lay a great empire named Cibola, which had seven large cities. In these there were long streets on which only gold and silver smiths resided. Imposing palaces towered in the suburbs, with doors and columns of pure turquoise. The windows were made of precious stones, brilliantly polished. At the sumptuous feasts of the prince of the land enchanting slaves served the most delicate dainties on golden dishes. There were mountains of opal rising above valleys reveling in jewels, with crystal streams whose bottoms consisted of pure silver sand.

The disappointment of the Spaniards was great. A number of large Indian villages were found whose inhabitants subsisted upon the fruits of a primitive agriculture. The frugality and thrift of the Pueblos excited the interest of the voluptuous Spaniards. The peculiar architecture of the villages and houses also drew their admiration. Taken as a whole, the circles of houses resembled the cells of a wasps' nest, of which the upper stories were reached on a crude ladder. Entrance could be gained only through a small opening in the roof, not even the sides facing the streets containing doors.

Situated, as the Moqui villages and Acoma were, on top of an inaccessible rock, the Spaniards despaired of conquering them. The supposed Cibola not panning out according to expectation, they did not seek re-enforcement and left the Pueblos in peace. Only toward the end of the sixteenth century the Pueblos had to submit to Spanish rule, under which they remained until 1848, when the territory embracing New Mexico and Arizona was ceded to the United States.

In some respects the Spanish supremacy proved beneficial to the Indians. They virtually maintained their independence. Many innovations in their life and customs can be traced from this period. The only domestic creatures in their villages were large turkeys, whose feathers served as head ornaments for the warriors, but horses, cows, sheep, goats, dogs, and, last, but not least, the indispensable burros, were added to their domestic stock.

The most important change in their communistic mode of living dates from the annexation of New Mexico to the United States and the introduction of railroads. Their unfriendly neighbors, the Apaches, Comanches, Kiowas and Navajoes, were restricted to their own reservations.

Feeling safe under the powerful protection of the government, these peaceable people have begun to relinquish their old mode of communistic existence in the strange dwellings. Until recently there was a promiscuous living together of large families in the numerous apartments of a single house, to which access could only be obtained through the small aperture in the roof. More modern cottages are being built for large families, farming is carried on on a large scale, and in some parts grape and fruit culture is attempted, with good results.

All the villages are characterized by a certain industrial monopoly. In one of them, for instance, the pottery for all the Pueblos is manufactured. In others, like the Moqui villages, all the people are employed in the making of finely woven goats' hair blankets, in which occupation many are great experts. Although a large number are engaged in the sale of blankets and Indian goods in the southwestern part of the Union, in the gold diggings of California, in Mormon settlements, in the small railroad stations of Arizona, the average Pueblo Indian prefers a settled life. He is domestic in his habits and loves his family, his cattle, his farm and his neighbors as dearly as does his palefaced brother. And has he not good cause to rejoice and be contented with his lot? Has he not a faithful and charming wife? There are some pretty girls of perfect contour among the Pueblo Indians, especially in the Tigua villages. Are not his gleeful children, who are enjoying a jolly romp on yonder sand hill, obedient and reverential in his presence? The impudent spirit of young America has not yet exerted its baleful influence here.

How scrupulously clean are the households! The good housewives of the Netherlands do not excel the Pueblo squaws in cleanliness. Floors carefully swept, all along the walls of the spacious rooms seats and couches covered with fine variegated rugs, the walls tastefully decorated with pictures and mirrors and large cupboards filled with luxurious fruits, meats, pastry and jellies. Thousands of white breadwinners in the large cities would envy these Indians if they could behold their affluence and contented state. Nor do they obtain all this without fatiguing toil. The land is barren and dry, which compels them to induce irrigation through long canals from faraway streams.

The Pueblo pottery of today differs but little from that of the sixteenth century. In the pottery villages the work is done mostly by men, who sit on the broad, shaded platform and shape their immense vessels in imitation of human beings and every imaginable animal shape. The grotesquely shaped mouth is generally intended for the opening through which the water, soup or milk is poured. The squaws are assuming more and more the occupations of the modern housewife, though they still grind their corn in the stone troughs used hundreds of years ago, and they still bake their bread in thin layers on hot, glowing stones.

Dressmakers and tailors still go a-begging among the Pueblos, and no attention whatever is paid to Parisian dictators of fashion. The good Pueblo squaw cuts, fits and sews all the clothing for the family, which used to be composed mostly of buckskin. Her husband's wardrobe consists now of a few multicolored shirts, a pair or two of leather pantaloons, with silver buttons, moccasins and a shoulder blanket.—Chicago Tribune.

NOTHING IN DEFENCE.

The Gibbs Murder Trial Draws to a Sudden Close.

Special to the Times.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 20.—The counsel for Robinsons announce they will make no defence. They moved for dismissal of the charges on technical grounds. The motion was overruled. Mr. Kenrick is summing up for the people.

District Attorney Kenrick addressing the jury, went over the case from beginning to end, making a terrible arraignment. When he asked if the false words of Sadie were to outweigh those of responsible witnesses, Sadie broke down and sobbed pitifully. Again, when he referred to her as an adventuress, she sprang from her chair and shouted "I'm not an adventuress." Her sister pulled her back into her seat and tried to quiet her, but the strain was tremendous and she was unable to restrain herself.

When the lawyer asked "Who is this Clarence Robinson?" Sadie fairly screamed "He's better than you," and struggled to free herself from her sister and counsel, who were kept busy preventing her from springing at the district attorney.

It was 11.15 o'clock when Judge Hatch began his charge. He said that before the jury could find a verdict of murder in the first degree they must be reasonably sure the prisoners went out with the deliberate intention of killing Gibbs. He said the confessions should be given the weight and consideration they deserve.

Sadie evidently realized the gravity of the situation, for again she broke down and sobbed bitterly, but Clarence sat calmly and made no sign. Finally he leaned forward and attempted to comfort his wife, but she turned and gave him a venomous slap in the face, and then buried her head in her hands and renewed her weeping.

THEY KICKED TOO LATE.

Methodist Ministers Warn the Government of What May Happen.

Special to the Times.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 20.—At a special meeting of the Methodist Ministerial Association yesterday, before it was known that a remedial order would be issued, the following resolution was passed and wired to Premier Bowell:

"Fearing lest silence be construed as indifference, we respectfully but firmly protest against interference with the school system in Manitoba as now established by law; first, because by this law no injustice is done to any individual; secondly, because such interference would infringe upon provincial rights, which are sacred, having been uniformly recognized since Confederation, notably in dealing with the Jesuits Estates."

Now that the remedial order is passed another meeting is likely to be held to pass stronger resolutions.

WHAT SHE KNEW.

An Arkansas Woman Who Didn't Tell Too Much at a Time.

"Madam, I am looking for a stray horse," said a man, stopping at an Arkansas house and leaning his chin on the top rail of the fence. "Have you seen anything of him?"

"How long has he been gone?" asked the woman, leaning against the door facing and regarding the man with that inquiring look of curiosity which in the country so plainly speaks of the scarcity of strangers.

"Been gone about two days."

"What sort of a horse was he?"

"Roan, with white fetlocks."

"How old was he?"

"About 10 years."

"Good work nag, I reckon?"

"First rate."

"Are you certain that he has white fetlocks?"

"Certainly. Have you seen anything of him?"

"No, I ain't seen him."

"Have you heard any one speak of seeing him?"

"Yes, since you mention it, I think I have. I heard a man talk about seeing a roan horse with white fetlocks."

"That's my horse. Do you know the man's name?"

"No."

"Where do you suppose I can find him?"

"You can find him out here at the stable."

The stranger went to the stable, looked around, hallooed and returned to the fence.

"He's not there."

"Not now."

"Didn't you know he wasn't there before I went?"

"Yes, I know he wasn't there before you went."

"Then what did you send me there for?"

"To see him. I knowed he'd be there agin you arrive."

"I'll be blamed if I understand you."

"Now, look here, stranger, you can't make me tell a lie. You axed me if I seed the horse, and I said no. You axed me if I heerd anybody speak of the horse, and I said yes. You axed me whar you would find the man, and I told you. You went thar and"—

"But who was the man?"

"Yourself, stranger."

And she turned away to rock a "dugout" cradle, while the stranger, shoving down a panel of fence in his anger, turned away and sauntered down the road.—Detroit Sun.

Raleigh's Personal Courage.

One instance of Raleigh's personal courage may be mentioned—a courage that was afterward so conspicuous in many a sea fight. At one time, when he had only five or six men with him, he was surprised by the seneschal of Imokilly at the head of 14 horses and threescore kerns (light armed men) at a ford between Youghal and Cork. Raleigh himself forced his way across the ford. His Irish guide "shifted for himself." The horse of one of his followers fell midstream, and his rider would assuredly have been killed had not Raleigh returned, and in the face of great odds rescued him and waited, pistol in hand, until the rest of his little band were safely over.—St. Nicholas.

The Family Scrapbook.

Mrs. Sauers (to Willy, as minister calls to see Mr. Sauers)—Willy, is your father in?

Willy—Yes, he's up stairs looking over your scrapbook.

Mrs. Sauers (puzzled)—You mean my family account book?

Willy—Well, it's all the same. He and you always have a scrap every time he goes over it.—Cincinnati Tribune.

Several marine animals propagate by voluntary self division. A piece breaks off and floats away. For a considerable time it shows no sign of life, but when it has recovered from the shock of separation it develops into a perfect animal.

Lake Superior was named for its size. It was also called Lac de Conde and Lac de Tracy, while the Indians termed it Kitchigarnie, "Big Sea Water."

The Patrons of Industry of East Durham met on Tuesday at Millbrook and selected Mr. Samuel Grandy as their candidate for the coming Dominion elections.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 22, 1895

Peterborough Will be Visited by an Earthquake.

Does that catch your eye? Well read this. Rev. W. R. Young will give a straight talk to men, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Y.M.C.A. hall. Special music will add to the interest of the service. Be there! 21-1f

A Deserved Tribute.

The Campbellford Herald says: A popular preacher, and we should judge a favorite among the congregations to whom he has ministered, is the Rev. W. R. Young, B. A., pastor of the George street Methodist church, Peterborough. He was in Campbellford on Sunday last, and conducted the morning and evening services in the church here. Mr. Young is a quiet, yet forcible speaker in the pulpit, presenting excellent thoughts in good language, and and strong points in support of his statements, and his well arranged ideas in rounding off a good sermon are strengthened with many very apt illustrations.

UNCLE SAM WILL FIGHT

If Spain Does Not Call Off Her War Dogs—Another Scrape.

Special to The Times.

NEW YORK, March 21.—A despatch from Tampa, Fla., says the steamer Mascot arrived this evening direct from Havana, and brought late reports from the seat of revolution. Copies of La Lucha confirm the report of the sinking of the schooner Irene by the Spanish gunboat off Puerto Padre, near Gibara. For two days uncertain and untraceable reports have reached here regarding an American schooner being fired upon by a Spanish gunboat on the southern coast of Florida.

A steamer brought news from Key West which is said to be authentic, claiming that the schooner Irene, of Key West, had been fired upon and dismantled by the Infanta Isabel near Charlotte Harbor, after which the schooner drifted ashore, where she now lies aground south of the above harbor.

It is generally understood that the authorities at Washington have been notified. The Irene is a coasting schooner of sixty tons, commanded by Captain Carballo, and generally carried a crew of eight. The incident must have occurred on Saturday.

Tracked to his Lair.

SANTE FE New Mexico, March 20.—The body of Vincent Silva, Chief of the San Miquel band of robbers assassins and that of his wife Telesfora Sandova have been brought here The officers, have been searching the country over for Silva for the last two years, there being rewards for his capture, dead or alive, aggregating $7,000. He was the leader of a band of desperadoes who terrorized the southwest for years. It is claimed that no less than 12 men fell at the hands of Silva alone.

When the officers got on his trail, his capture and conviction was but a question of hours. Silva who was suspicious of his wife, fearing she had betrayed him to the officers, killed her on the night with a bowie night and buried the body in the sands of the deep aroya, near Las Almos. Boasting of his crime to some of his followers, they in turn murdered him, and buried him in the same grave with his victim.

PRIVATE BILLS PASS.

YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS IN THE PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE.

Examining the Bursars—James Cochrane, of Mimico Asylum Gives Evidence in the Public Accounts Committee.

TORONTO, March 21.—When the Public Accounts Committee met this morning Patron Macpherson said that he wanted to make a suggestion regarding the printing of accounts. While he liked the Ontario method better than the Dominion yet he wanted to see a little more detail introduced, such as price per ton and kind of coal. He thought the Government didn't wish to hide anything, and would give every opportunity to the members or electors to examine accounts.

Col. Matheson said that was just the line along which he was working, and it was decided to leave it to the Minister of Finance to add any such details as were convenient.

Bursar James Cochrane, of Mimico Asylum, was before the committee today.

He said that coal, flour, butter, split peas and oatmeal were purchased by tender. The butter, bread and tea used by the patients are the same quality as that supplied to the superintendent.

Flour was one of Mr. Cochrane's strong points. It was bought by tender, and 900 barrels was the amount asked. He thought he could have saved 75 cents per barrel in 1892, 50 cents in 1893 and not so much in 1894, if he had done the buying himself. So far in 1895 he would have saved 50 cents per barrel,

THE CROSS-EXAMINATION.

Mr. Thomas Crawford, the indefatigable ally of Mr. Col. Matheson, began the cross-examination by asking the bursar how long he had been in business.

"Since the 5th of September, 1848," was the ready answer.

"Then, after forty years of business experience, you are an acknowledged failure as a business man?" was the next interrogation.

"Nothing of the kind, I paid 100 cents on the dollar and I can do it every day," was the indignant answer.

The bursar wanted to make a statement and give references as to his business qualifications, and Mr. Crawford protested that he did not want to cast any approbrium upon Mr. Cochrane. And so the examination wore on all the morning, Mr. Ganon and Col. Matheson enlivening the occasion with desultory discussion on account of interjecting questions which the Colonel thought were leading or warning the witness.

Col. Matheson said that this was part of the obstruction which his party complained of.

Mr. Ganon said this remark was personal and unjust.

Mr. Cleland wanted to know if the witness was on trial for his life and thought the questions were intended to corner the witness.

IN THE PRIVATE BILLS.

Five bills went through the Private Bills Committee today at a full session. These are the bills:

An act to enable the town of Palmerston to have certain lands separated from it.

An act confirming by-laws 680 and 761 of the city of Hamilton, regarding the bonusing of smelting works.

An act to enable the town of Gananoque to bonus a woodenware factory with a loan of $10,000.

An act to confirm the Tilsonburg, Lake Erie and Pacific railway, and regarding Port Burwell harbor.

An act respecting the Stormont Electric Light and Power Company, who are asking for permission to extend their charter to enable them to supply gas and water as well as electricity.

RAILWAY COMMITTEE.

The Railway Committee met and organized, Hon. E. H. Bronson being appointed to the chair. Two bills were fixed for next Tuesday, that concerning the Hamilton Electric Radical railway, and the act respecting the Irondale and Bancroft railway.

Crushed to Death.

CHICAGO, March 20.—Christopher W Larrabee, cashier and head accountant for Stickney & Co., wholesale coal dealers and a nephew of ex-Governor Larrabee of Iowa, is missing and his accounts are short about $10,000. Larrabee is said to have spent considerable money in maintaining an establishment on the west side with a notorious woman at its head.

To Select a Candidate.

All the leading supporters of the Conservative party of East Northumberland have been notified that the annual meeting of the Liberal Conservative Association of the riding, will be held in the town hall at Warkworth, on Monday, April 1st, at the hour of one o'clock p. m. Among other business at this convention is the choice of a candidate to contest the riding at the approaching Dominion election.

Fell Down Cellar.

Mrs. Malloy met with a serious accident yesterday. While scrubbing the floor in Mr. Scofield's drug store, she passed through a dark room in the rear to empty a pail of water, and fell through an open trap door. When found, she was unconscious and upon examination it was found that the right arm was broken and otherwise severely bruised about the head and body. Dr. Clarke, who attended to her injuries, had her removed to St. Joseph's hospital.

Rev. Mr. Rae Complimented.

At the third quarterly meeting of the Charlotte street Methodist church board, a very complimentary resolution was moved to the Rev. Mr. Rae, inviting him to remain for another year as pastor of the church. Mr. Rae in reply accepted the invitation, giving expression in pleasing terms to the satisfaction he had experienced and the encouragement met with in his intercourse with the members of the congregation which had been of a nature most delightful and happy.

An Exciting Ride.

Three occupants of a cutter had a rough voyage between Havelock and Campbellford on Sunday. Their horse, unaccustomed to the numerous pitch holes which ornamented the road, became unruly and fractious, and they were pitched out. Three times the animal made a desperate effort at running away, twice he was run into a fence, and six or seven times the cutter was nearly upset. Finally, the troublesome beast was unhitched near the IXL cheese factory and led to Campbellford by one of the party, while the other two hitched themselves to the cutter and drew it here—a distance of only three miles! The experience was by no means enjoyed by either of the party.

STRUCK BY A TREE.

The Instaneous and Violent Death of Mr. Howard Oke.

The Port Hope Guide gives the following account of the death of Howard Oke, a nephew of Mr. J. B. Oke, town: "Two brothers, Messrs. William and Howard Oke, of Welcome, were engaged in getting out wood on the farm of Mr. Joseph Simmons, in the Mast Woods. About 11 o'clock this (Wednesday) morning they cut a tree and ran to what they considered a safe point. They did not calculate correctly, for the tree in falling alighted upon its limbs, which acted in this case like strong springs, causing the tree to rebound with great force and pinioning Howard across the trunk of another large tree. His brother was instantly by his side but Howard never moved or spoke. William had to go over half a mile to procure assistance, and upon his return and the removal of the tree it was found that the poor fellow was quite dead. Dr. Corbett, coroner, was notified, viewed the body and decided an inquest unnecessary.

Howard Oke was a young man 18 years of age, greatly respected, and his widowed mother has the sympathy of all the community in this last and very great loss of her youngest son."

PETERBORO PRESBYTERY.

Regular Quarterly Meeting Held in Port Hope—Largely Attended.

The regular quarterly meeting of Peterborough Presbytery was held Tuesday in Port Hope. There were present the Revs. Dr. Torrance and A. McWilliams of Peterborough; William Bennett, Apsley; Richard Hyde, Warsaw; A. C. Reeves, B. A., Harwood; A. K. McLeod, Brighton; Peter Duncan, Colborne; A. C. Lord, B. D. Grafton, John Hay, B.D., Cobourg; W. Jamieson, Harvey; Dr. J. K. Smith, James Cleland, A. McNaughton and Alex. Laird, ministers also Robert Tully, Peterborough; W. Spiers, Grafton; R. Graham, Lakefield; E. Sanderson, Springville; A. Russell, Cobourg; and J. McCulloch, elders.

Rev. A. Laird, B. A. was elected moderator for the next six months. Delegates from Springville, Alenwick and Bethesda appeared before the Presbytery and matters in connection with the congregations were satisfactorily adjusted. The remit from the assembly to appoint a special committee on the Mission to the Jews was disapproved of. The overture on the amalgamation of certain committees was agreed to so far as the committees on the State of Religion, Sabbath Observance and Systematic Beneficence are concerned.

An interesting report on statistics was presented. The Presbytery has now 28 pastoral charges. Five congregations were settled during the year, Havelock, Mill St. Port Hope, Millbrook, Norwood and Lakefield and 2 remaining vacant, Omemee and Springfield. The total membership under the charge of the Presbytery is 5,150. One church and two manses were built during the year. For foreign missions the congregations have contributed slightly less than the year before, but the W. F. M. S. has made a gain greater than this loss. About $140 more than last year have been raised for the schemes of the church as a whole.

Delegates were chosen to represent the Presbytery at the meeting of the General Assembly in London and Rev. Dr. Gregg of Knox College Toronto, was nominated as moderator of the assembly. The Presbytery adjourned to meet in St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, on the 2nd day of July.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES.

Items of Interest Intelligently Presented for Busy Readers.

The Central Presbyterian church in Chicago extended a call last night to Rev. Marcus Scott, Campbellford, Ont., formerly of Toronto, at a salary of $2,000 per year.

Mr. S. S. Merrick, Grand Patriarch of the I. O. O. F., of Carleton Place, will arrive in town today on a visit and will attend a meeting of Hiawatha Encampment tonight.

Mrs. Armstrong, wife of Reeve W. W. Armstrong, received a telegram on Wednesday, conveying to her the sad intelligence of the death of her father, Mr. Joseph Kyle, which took place the day previous at Wolfe Island, opposite Kingston. Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong left here on Thursday to attend the funeral. The deceased was 82 years of age.—Campbellford Herald.

About three o'clock Wednesday morning fire broke out in the stables and barns belonging to Mrs. Thomas Harrington, a widow living on the 6th concession line of Ennismore. The fire swept all before it, including the stables, a new barn, hay and grain, which was stored therein, a horse and new set of harness, a top buggy and new waggon and a quantity of poultry. The cause of the fire is unknown. Loss partially covered by insurance.

An old lady in Campbellford is in possession of a wedding ring which was in use one hundred and twenty five years ago. It was worn by her grandmother when a young married woman in Cornwall, England, and has been in use ever since. To day it is so thin that it can be bent like wire. If any of our readers have heirlooms in their families, let us hear of them, and we will be pleased to publish them in these columns. Send particulars on a post card. There is always something of interest in a keepsake of the days long gone by.

Any man can take a newspaper. It is the cheapest thing he can buy. It costs the price of a postage stamp—less than to send and receive a letter. What good does it do you? It instructs you and your wife, and teaches your children. It comes to you every week, rain or shine, calm or storm, and brings you the best news of the neighborhood. No matter what happens, it enters your door a welcome friend, full of sunshine, cheer and interest. It shortens the long summer days and cultivates the long winter nights. It is your adviser, your medium of news and friend. No man is just to his children and wife who does not give them the home paper to read.

A few days ago a newly married couple in the parish of St. Theodore d'Acton, went to pass the evening at a neighbor's residence with a visiting lady friend. The party played a game of cards and the young man was a loser during the whole evening. On the way home, the man suddenly left his two companions and ran towards his home. When they arrived there the two women not finding him in the house commenced to make a search in the outbuildings and finally found him hanging from a rope in the barn. They cut the rope and rushed for the doctor who finally succeeded in resuscitating the man. The act is attributed to temporary aberration, caused by ill-luck at the card-playing.

Music, Song and Story.

Only a fair audience greeted Mr. Snazelle, the unique and world famed entertainer, at the Opera House last night; yet "Music, Song and Story," is deserving of a crowded house. The pictures were superb and realistic, and it is safe to say that nothing approaching them for their vivid and faithful portrayal of the scenes illustrated has ever been exhibited in Peterborough before. Mr. Snazelle's as a vocalist and narrator of story is par excellence and his experience on the operatic stage combined with these talents render his efforts doubly appreciative to an intelligent audience. His narrations of "The Whistler" and "How Bill Adams won the Battle of Waterloo," told in Mr. Snazelle's inimitable style, were humorous in the extreme, and kept his audience convulsed with laughter. The whole entertainment is of a high class order and worthy the support of the pick of the refined and cultured citizens of Peterborough.

CRIMINAL LIBEL CASE.

Chief Roszel's Charge Against The Publisher of The Times.

In the police court yesterday morning, a charge of criminal libel against Mr. W. H. Robertson, of THE MORNING TIMES, preferred by Chief of Police Roszel, was heard by Police Magistrate Dumble. The plaintiff was represented by Mr. R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney, and the defendant by Mr. A. P. Poussette, Q. C. The charge was as follows:

The said informant says that William Hepburn Robertson, at the town of Peterborough, in the county of Peterborough, on Saturday, the 16th day of March, 1895, unlawfully and maliciously intending to injure and prejudice the said complainant, then holding the office of Chief of Police, of the said town of Peterborough, and intending to deprive him of his office and of his good name and reputation, and to bring him into public contempt and ridicule and disgrace, did publish and cause to be published in the Peterborough TIMES, a newspaper published in the said town of Peterborough, a false and defamatory libel, in the form of a letter containing divers false and defamatory matters of and concerning the said complainant, which letter is in the words and figures following:—

A LETTER.

Editor of the Times.

A few days ago a telephone message was received at police headquarters asking for protection in a row at the Italian colony. Chief Roszel (alone) responded to the call, and to his consternation saw with his own eyes as object of the sunny south brandishing a dagger and placing life and limb in danger. Did he arrest him? Did he have the courage to arrest him? Did he show any disposition to arrest him? Did he try by any persuasion to make the sunny desperado subside into perfect quiet? These are questions I would like answered. In addition, he might, while answering the above questions, answer the following: Why did he not arrest the desperado on the spot? Why did he issue a warrant for his arrest and ask a subordinate to carry it into execution? How does he recognize the above facts with a sense of duty?—a duty which ought at all times to be exhibited with that degree of courage necessary to the true fulfilment of the position of Chief of Police.

Yours sincerely,
"BRAVERY."

Meaning, thereby, that the said complainant had seen a breach of the peace committed in the said town of Peterborough, and had, as Chief of Police of said town of Peterborough, acted in an unmanly and cowardly manner, and had utterly failed to do his duty as such Chief of Police in respect of such breach of the peace, and was unfit for his said office of Chief of Police, he, the said William H. Robertson well knowing the said defamatory libel to be false, contrary to the statute in that behalf.

A plea of not guilty was entered and the defendant elected to be tried by a jury.

Before any evidence was entered into, Mr. Poussette stated that the letter signed "Bravery" had been published without the knowledge of Mr. Robertson. As soon as it was learned that the charges contained therein were incorrect, an apology had been published in THE TIMES, headed "An Apology to Chief Roszel," which was inserted in almost the same position in the paper that the letter appeared in. He offered to read the apology but upon Mr. Wood saying that it was ample so far as a retraction of the statements contained in the letter were concerned, it was not read.

At this juncture, Mr. Wood said the plaintiff would drop the charge if THE TIMES would publish an apology for previous articles which had appeared in its columns, and, further, if Mr. Robertson would deliver up the letter signed "Bravery" and the name of the writer. He did not think that the plaintiff was asking too much.

Mr. Poussette replied that his client could not reveal the name of the writer unless forced to do so. The hearing of evidence was then taken up.

PROPRIETORSHIP ADMITTED.

The first witness was R. J. Sanderson who stated he had purchased a copy of THE SATURDAY TIMES at the office, of the date of March 16, which he produced. It was shown to contain the letter signed "Bravery."

The next witness was C. H. J. Mitchell, day foreman of THE TIMES. Witness said Mr. Robertson was publisher of THE TIMES, but he could not say whether or not he was the proprietor. The business was known as THE TIMES Printing Company, and letterheads and correspondence were printed and signed Times Printing Company, with Mr. Robertson as general manager. He had never known anyone to be associated with Mr. Robertson in the business. He knew nothing of the letter until he read it in the paper on Tuesday.

Evidence as to the lease of the premises was given by Mr. H. C. Winch. He understood Mr. Robertson was the lessee of the building in which THE TIMES is published, and he also understood Mr. Robertson was the proprietor.

Mr. Poussette at this juncture stated that Mr. Robertson would admit proprietorship.

Fred Green, an apprentice of THE TIMES office, was next called. His evidence was to the effect that on Friday night, March 15, a letter signed "Bravery" was given him to set up by Mr. Harris the reporter. When he had finished his copy it was put on a file, and at the conclusion of the night's work was put into the waste paper basket, the contents of which were burned. The letter was written on paper bearing "The Snowden House," heading. He was given the letter shortly after 11 o'clock.

The next witness was F. T. Harris, reporter for THE TIMES. On Friday night last he went on duty between 6 and 7 o'clock. Mr. Robertson had left the office when he arrived and he did not see him that night. Upon returning from the council meeting he found two letters on his desk, one signed "Bravery," and the signature to the other, he did not remember, but it was not the name of the writer. The first he had seen or heard of the letter was the finding of it on his desk. He was alone in charge of the office and heard no one telephoning to the Snowden House. He read the letter for the purpose of punctuating it and gave it to Green to set up.

He did not know from what place it had been sent nor who had brought it to the office. He had an idea who wrote it.

Mr. Wood—Well, who wrote it?

An objection to the name being given was made by Mr. Poussette, who contended that the proprietor was responsible for its publication and it was not necessary to disclose the writer's name.

The Magistrate—If he sent a letter to a newspaper did he not publish it? I do not think there is any right to privilege.

Mr. Poussette again objected. It might furnish grounds for an action against another person. The Magistrate overruled the objection and the question was again asked the witness.

Witness said he did not see the letter written but he recognized the writing and to the best of his knowledge the author of the letter was Mr. Andrew McNeil. The second letter was not published.

To Mr. Poussette—He had not consulted Mr. Robertson about the letter for the reasons that it was after 11 o'clock and he did not want to disturb him, and because he believed the letter to be from a reputable source.

Mr. Wood asked what instructions had been given witness by Mr. Robertson regarding articles that were to be published. Witness replied that he had been told to exclude everything of a defamatory nature and to consult Mr. Robertson on articles of a personal character. He understood these instructions to apply to Chief Roszel. Mr. Wood then asked who wrote the article headed "Man and Boy" in THE TIMES of Feb. 2.

An objection was raised by Mr. Poussette to this evidence being given. The Magistrate noted the objection but admitted the evidence.

Witness then said he wrote the article and had published it without showing it to Mr. Robertson. A paragraph in the issue of February 6th under the heading of "Ins and Outs" he had also written. Mr. Robertson might have seen it before publication, but he was not certain. A letter signed "Councillor" in the issue of February 8th he knew nothing about. He did not know who wrote "The Lime Juice Club," nor certain editorial paragraphs in the issue of February 9th. He acknowledged having written numerous other paragraphs, an article headed "Thirty Years Hence," and an item headed "A False Alarm" published in the issues of February 18th and January 26th. He thought Mr. Robertson had looked over the manuscript of "Thirty Years Hence."

Witness explained to Mr. Poussette that the Weekly contained articles selected from the Daily "forms." The selections he thought were made by Mr. Mitchell or his assistant. This accounted for the repetition of some articles.

Mr. Wood asked witness what had incited the animosity that had prompted the writing of the paragraphs which he had acknowledged writing. Witness replied that he had no personal animosity against Chief Roszel. Mr. Wood asked if witness had not offered to bet two to one that Chief Roszel would be dismissed. Witness replied that he made one bet that way, but disclaimed that it was prompted by animosity.

Mr. Wood—You lost it.

Witness—Yes.

The Magistrate—He was trying to win it.

CONSTABLE STEWART.

The next witness was Constable Stewart. He stated that he had overheard some remarks which Mr. Robertson had addressed to a citizen.

Mr. Poussette objected to the conversation being given as evidence, on the grounds that they had no right to go beyond the newspaper itself. The Magistrate thought it might show malice, and said that in a case where a man who was allowed to continually attack and malign a person, against whom, he says, he has no personal animosity, the proprietor is himself the responsible party.

Constable Stewart then told of a conversation between Councillor Best and Mr. Robertson. The latter, he said, made the remark that he would never let up on the Chief or be satisfied until he had driven him out of town. The conversation took place on George street, near Mr. Best's store, last summer. Witness could not remember the exact date. The remarks, he thought, were lead up to by a criticism of the Chief's action regarding the blocking of some street by the Grand Trunk. Other remarks were made by Mr. Robertson about the Chief following him and some friends down to the Snowden House on one Sunday night with the purpose of getting evidence against that hotel of a liquor nature. The remark that Mr. Robertson made, said the witness, was that if that was all the chief had to do they should get him some other duty.

Mr. Poussette—I think they should, too.

Upon cross examination witness, when asked if he was a member of the P.P.A., stated that he was not. He had been accused of that before, and he was glad to be given an opportunity of denying it under oath.

CHIEF ROSZEL.

Chief Roszel was the next and last witness. He said he was the person mentioned in the letter "Bravery." The statements contained therein were false with the exception that he did issue a warrant. On Monday night Mr. Robertson had called at the police station after having been served with a summons and had told him there were two men prepared to swear that the charges in the letter were true.

Mr. Poussette asked the witness if it was not so that he had personal feelings against the defendant. Witness said he had not. Little disputes, he admitted, had arisen, but they were due to the fact that he had been obliged to lay several informations against the defendant and not on account of personal animus. He had followed Mr. Robertson and other gentlemen on the Sunday night mentioned because he thought they were going to the Snowden House, and he wanted to see where they were going. He did not go any further than Mr. Sam English's house, and he denied looking in the windows of the Snowden House or peeking around. He had not listened at the door of the defendant's private office. He tried the door, found it locked and rapped. The door was opened. Some gentlemen were inside but he saw nothing. This was four years ago. When asked if he was a member of the P.P.A. he replied that he knew no such society. He had joined a society but had only attended the meetings once.

Magistrate Dumble, at the conclusion of the evidence, said that it was a pity that two reputable citizens could not bury the hatchet and make open confessions. Incautious people, no doubt, furnished newspapers with information which was not always correct and made grievances that were unfounded. In this way he thought that Mr. Robertson had doubtless heard complaints against the Chief, but if he had had as good an opportunity as the Police Magistrate of knowing the Chief's good qualities, he was sure there would have been no trouble. He hoped the hatchet would be buried deep.

"That is what we propose to do," replied Mr. Poussette. Continuing he said that an ample apology had been made for the letter. Mr. Robertson conducted a fearless newspaper and had criticised town officials. Mr. Robertson could not be expected to promise not to criticise the Chief in the future, but what he was willing to do, was to submit to the Chief any charges or complaints that were made, and if the Chief denied them they would not be published. Mr. Poussette said this was certainly an evidence of fair intention.

Mr. Wood said that the Chief felt the sting of the continued attack. The Chief, he thought, would consent to drop the case if Mr. Robertson would publish an apology for the various articles that had appeared from time to time in THE TIMES and he would ask for an enlargement of one week pending the publication of such an apology.

Mr. Poussette replied that the proceedings of the court would be published in THE TIMES, which ought to be sufficient vindication. As regards the various articles mentioned it had not been shown that they were not true.

Mr. Robertson stated that if all that could be, was related, the feeling would not all be in favor of the Chief. He was willing, however, to bury the hatchet.

The Magistrate reiterated his remarks for a favorable settlement, which would save much trouble and expense. He thought it would be best to enlarge the case for one week, and in that time he hoped some amicable settlement would be made.

Concerning Leather.

At the Board of Trade on Monday, at 1.30 p. m., the tanners and leather dealers of Canada will meet under the auspices of the tanners' section of the Board, to discuss matters of mutual interest. One important feature of the business to be brought before the meeting will be a proposition looking to the curtailment of the ruinously long credits that now predominate. Mr. James Patterson, of town, will be in attendance at the meeting.

INTERESTING TO LADIES
SOMETHING FOR NOTHING
CAN YOU GET IT?

Many who should know better, are well pleased to get a good sized glass jar or tin of bulky alum, ammonia or other powerful but injurious mixtures, for use as Baking Powder, at much less, perhaps even half the price, of the really good article, overlooking the fact that the amount thus APPARENTLY saved is of small moment in comparison with the real but not always immediately observed inevitable injury following the use of these articles. If in addition to the SEEMINGLY low prices there is attached some showy gift or prize to give the impression of extra value, the inferior or hurtful nature of the powder is lost sight of in the expectation (a vain one) of getting "something for nothing."

"LADIES' HOME" and "HAPPY THOUGHT" on the other hand, can always be depended on as articles of first class quality, and such as can be AND ARE guaranteed not only free from everything in the slightest degree injurious, but invariably sure, satisfactory and economical.

A Metal Breadboard

THE WOMAN WHO HAS BEEN USED to kneading dough on the old fashioned wooden breadboard knows what a bother it is to get them clean and how cumbersome and heavy they are. When they begin to crack or check it is almost impossible to thoroughly cleanse them, and they may easily become dangerous conveyances of disease. It was left for a woman, of course, to remedy this state of affairs, and Mrs. M. M. Everhard, of St. Joseph, Mich., has patented a metal bread board which is one of the greatest labor-savers imaginable. It is light, does not absorb grease, dough does not adhere to it, and while it possesses all the advantages of the marble bread board it is much cheaper and, of course, far lighter and easier to handle. If readers want to confer a favor upon their wives that will be forever appreciated, let them send $1 to the manufacturers, 101 Bay street, Toronto, for one of these boards.

FOUND DEAD IN A HUT.

TWO MEN POISONED BY EATING RABBIT'S FLESH.

While on a Hunting Expedition They Set Poison for Foxes and Rabbits Ate It—They Ate the Rabbits—A Tale of Suffering.

Special to The Times.

CALGARY, N.W.T., March 22.

ERY sad was the death of Robert and David Smith, sons of Sergt. Smith, of Quebec, whose bodies were brought here from Edmonton last night in hermetically sealed boxes. They look very natural but seem very thin. As far as your correspondent can learn, it is supposed that the young men, who had been hunting and trapping during the winter and had been poisoning wolves, and eaten of rabbits which had partaken of some of the poison. This had sickened them and being unable to communicate with any person outside, they died from want of medical attendance. One of the brothers was lying on the bed with his eyes closed and his arms folded on his breast, as if he had died first, and had been laid out by the surviving brother, who then securely closed the door and window and sank down to die himself. The Edmonton Bulletin, to hand, gives the following details:

Last Thursday H. Bass reported to the police and said he wished them to go the hut occupied by the Smith Bros. on Sucker Island, as he had been there and found the door and window securely fastened, and on looking through the window it appeared to him as if both men were lying dead. Dr. McInnis, coroner, was sent for by the police and found the report of Mr. Bass to be only too true. An entrance was forced, the door being fastened with a bolt, and the windows securely nailed up. The doctor on entering found the two men lying in bed, side by side in their last sleep. On investigation the coroner considered it unnecessary to hold an inquest. The following notes show that deceased had both been suffering for some time, and their touching appeals indicate that they tried hard to get as far as the trail. These notes also show that both of the men were in a pitiable condition. The first note was written by D. Smith and the last, dated March 4, by R. J. Smith. Written on the door in pencil was: "I'll try and make the trail if I——"

The first note is not dated, but the Coroner's opinion is that it was written about February 15. It reads:

"Any person will be doing a kindness by driving a sick man up to the fort; will be paid whatever it is worth. By following this trail down it will lead you to the place. It's not over a mile South at the head of the island."

(Signed) D. SMITH.

Another note, not dated, is to the same effect.

The next note is dated February 28, 1895, and headed "Notice:"

"Flour, money or gold will be paid to anyone who will drive a sick man up to the Fort. Follow the trail down the river. It will lead you to the house at the head of the island; it is not quite a mile; you can drive down over half way.

"(Signed) D. SMITH."

Another note was found fastened to a board in the house, behind the door, dated March 14, 1895: "Would any person passing come down, right away, for God's sake, and give us help, for our legs and bodies are badly swollen from eating rabbits, and we can hardly leave bed. Will pay money, gold or flour to any one who will lend us assistance. Do not let anything stop you from coming down, as we will pay all expenses. By following this trail right down to the river it will lead you to the house at the head of the island. (Signed) R. J. Smith."

In the house there was found a good supply of everything. The deceased men came here last summer from Calgary. They built the house they were found in last August and had been washing gold in the autumn and hunting during the winter.

It is supposed the poor fellow wrote the notes, hoping to send them out attached to their dog, who might attract the attention of some one; or, perhaps, they intended to post them at the junction of the trail and the path to their house, but were too weak to carry the message to the desired point.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

A Toronto Traveller's Sudden Death in a Montreal Hotel.

MONTREAL, March 22.—Don. Macdonald, a Torontonian, who travels real, was found dead in bed in St. Lawrence Hall this morning.

At present the cause of death is unknown. An inquest will be held this afternoon. The deceased had been correspondent in the Lear divorce case, now pending in the Halifax courts. He had been charged with having registered at a Halifax hotel with Mrs. Lear, who is now in Boston. Mrs. Lear was a well known concert and church singer.

ANOTHER CHURCH BURNED.

The First Methodist Church in St. Thomas Destroyed - Loss Fully $25,000.

Special to the Times

ST. THOMAS, March 22.—This afternoon the First Methodist church, situated on the corner of St. George and Curtis streets, was burned to the ground. The building was the finest Methodist church in the city and cost $25,000, and was re-beautified two years ago at a cost of $5,000. The fire is supposed to have originated in one of the furnaces. The loss is estimated at fully $25,000. The building was insured for $15,000. The pastor is Rev. James Hannon, D. D., formerly of Queen's avenue, London which church was also recently destroyed.

A Bull-Fighter Fatally Gored.

CITY OF MEXICO, March 22.—Word has been received of the fatal goring at Culiacan, State of Sinaloa, of Pencoat Diaz, the most famous bull-fighter in Mexico. He was gored in the groin three times, and badly trampled upon, making death certain. Demetric Rodriguez, who was lately killed in a similar way at Durango, was an old associate of Diaz.

A PAIR OF BRUTES.

A Young Girl Unmercifully Beaten by Cruel Parents.

Special to the Times.

HEPWORTH, March 22.—Information was laid on Wednesday before P. Anderson, J. P., of Amable, against J. W. Henderson and his wife for maltreating their daughter, a child about 13 years of age. It appears from the information laid that the accused have been in the habit of tying the child's hands and suspending her from a beam overhead and brutally beating her with a black snake whip and a leather strap, to which a buckle is attached. When Constable Kruse served the summons he brought the child to the village and had her examined by Dr. Campbell, who says that in all his practise he never saw a case of such brutality. The child is one mass of bruises and partly healed sores from the severe beatings she has received. The examination commenced today at 1 o'clock before Magistrates Anderson and Parke, of Wiarton, and will be continued at 10 a. m. tomorrow. The whole community is in a red hot state and lynching is freely talked of.

A Close Call for Two of Britain's Warships in the East.

Special to the Times.

HONG KONG, March 22.—Advices have been received here stating that two of Her Majesty's warships recently had a narrow escape from disaster. While the British squadron was weighing anchor in the harbor of Wei Hai Wei, during a fierce gale, a heavy sea swept over the forecastle of the flagship Centurion, drowning a seaman named Edwards. During the confusion which followed, the Alacrity came into collision with the Centurion and seriously damaged her bow plates. Both ships drifted dangerously near the lee shore, but managed to get clear and steam out to sea.

A FATHER'S AWFUL CRIME.

UNKNOWINGLY HE MURDERS HIS OWN SON FOR HIS MONEY.

When the Truth is Known the Father Goes Crazy—A Story from London That Sounds Familiar.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, Eng., March 22.—The Daily News prints a story from Wina, regarding a shocking tragedy enacted in that city a few days ago. A man, who as a youth, had emigrated to the United States many years ago, and there amassed a considerable fortune, returned about a fortnight ago.

His appearance was so much changed that his old neighbors, with one exception, failed to recognize their youthful acquaintance. The exception was an old friend of the family, who was leaving Wina on a short absence by a departing train just as the young man alighted.

THE SON UNRECOGNIZED.

Finding himself unrecognized the young man spent a few days loitering about his old haunts and picking up information of his father and sister, the latter a pretty girl whom her brother had left as a mere child. One evening he went to his father's house during the latter's absence. His sister was greatly attracted by the strange guest, who had so many interesting experiences to relate, and they supped together.

The brother, feigning fatigue, begged to be allowed to remain over night, as he had something of importance to say to the girl's father in the morning. The sister, though somewhat surprised at the request, consented, and she prepared his sleeping apartment. On her father's late return the girl informed him of their unexpected guest and dilated unfortunately on the stranger's wealth.

KILLED HIM WITH AN AXE.

The old man's cupidity was aroused, and during the night he stole into the guest's bedroom and murdered him in his sleep with an axe. During the next day the old neighbor, now returned who had recognized the young man at the railway station, came with a number of friends to hear news of their emigrant relatives in the States.

"Where is your son?" he enquired to the murderer.

"Whose son?" said the latter with blanched face.

"Your own boy," said the neighbor, "who returned some days ago and has made a fortune. Did he not sleep here last night?"

Suddenly the horrible truth flashed upon the unhappy father, who rushed to the scullery, where his son's body was hidden. He is now in prison, but it is said his reason is shaken.

FACED TWO HUSBANDS.

Millie Whitemore's Unique Excuse for Breaking the Law.

Special to the Times.

ORANGEVILLE, March 21.—The bigamy case against Mildred Whitemore, which has been so much talked of here, has at length been brought to a close. Today she was found guilty and sentenced to six months' imprisonment. A unique feature of the case is that both husbands were in court, and apparently Millie is undecided which one she would choose were she at liberty to make a choice. Her defence was that when she married Harkies she was under the impression that her first husband, Whitemore, was dead, and also that she was forced to marry Harkies. She is now an inmate of Orangeville goal,

MANY PETTY ROBBERIES.

An Alleged Hamilton Pickpocket Sent Up for Trial.

Special to The Times.

HAMILTON, March 22.—Chief of Police Smith and the city detectives are working very industriously in the endeavor to find out where all the stuff stolen daily in this city is being disposed of. The chief failed to discover any trace of it in Toronto yesterday.

Several more petty robberies have been reported. Joseph Cook, the alleged pickpocket, who was arrested last Sunday night, charged with operating in St. Patrick's church, was sent up for trial at the Assizes this morning.

A Child Falls 20 Feet.

TIGERTOWN, Tex., March 22.—An eighteen-months'-old child of William Gee, a farmer, fell feet first into a ten inch bored well, which had been completed to a depth of 20 feet, and lodged upon the boring machinery. It remained there 23 hours while the neighbors were digging and tunnelling to get it out. It will recover.

THE REMEDIAL ORDER.

SIGNED AND DELIVERED TO MANITOBA'S PREMIER.

If the Terms of the Order Are Not Complied With the Dominion Will Pass an Irrevocable Act.

Special to the Times.

OTTAWA, March 22.

COPY of the minute of the Privy Council, in reference to the Manitoba school case together with the remedial order, was directed to be forwarded to Lieutenant Governor Schultz of Manitoba, today.

The "minute" is as extraordinary as it is lengthy. It deals with the whole question and claims to show why Manitoba is bound to restore the school rights of the minority as they existed prior to 1890. That is to re establish Separate schools. The minute then adds:

NO UNCERTAINTY HERE.

If your Excellency should see fit to approve of the foregoing recommendation, the committee desires to state that it follows that refusal or neglect on the part of the Legislature of Manitoba to enact remedial legislation, which to your Excellency-in-Council seems requisite, will confer upon Parliament authority to pass such a law. In this connection it was urged by counsel on behalf of the Province that should Parliament legislate under these circumstances its enactment would be absolute and irrevocable, as far as both Parliament and Provincial Legislature are concerned."

The committee, without necessarily adopting this view, observe that section 14 of "The Manitoba Act" may admit of that construction.

This is a distinct promise that if Manitoba does not act promptly the Dominion Parliament will.

A DOMINION MEASURE IRREVOCABLE.

The minute then points out the consequences of Manitoba not acting in the matter:

"The committee therefore recommend that the Provincial Legislature be requested to consider whether its action upon the decision of your Excellency-in-Council should be permitted to be such is, while refusing to redress a grievance which the highest court in the Empire has declared to exist, may compel Parliament to give the relief of which under the constitution the Provincial Legislature is the proper and primary source, hereby according to this view permanently divesting itself in a very large measure of its authority, and so establishing in the province an educational system which, no matter what changes may take place in the circumstances of the country or the views of the people, cannot be altered or repealed by any legislative body in Canada."

THE REMEDIAL ORDER.

The remedial order, after reciting the hearing of the appeal by the Governor in-Council, concludes:

"His Excellency the Governor General-in-Council was pleased to order and adjudge, and it is hereby ordered and adjudged, that the said appeal be and the same is hereby allowed in so far as it relates to rights acquired by the said Roman Catholic minority under legislation of the Province of Manitoba passed subsequent to the union of that province with the Dominion of Canada, and his Excellency the Governor-General-in-Council was pleased to adjudge and declare and it is hereby adjudged and declared that by the two Acts passed by the legislature of the Province of Manitoba on the first day of May, 1890, intituled respectively 'An Act respecting the Department of Education' and 'An Act respecting Public Schools,' the rights and privileges of the Roman Catholic minority of the said province in relation to education prior to the first day of May, 1890, have been affected by depriving the Roman Catholic minority of the allowing rights and privileges which previous to and until the first day of May, 1890, such minority had, viz:

RIGHTS OF THE MINORITY.

(a) The right to build, maintain, equip, manage, conduct, and support Roman Catholic schools in the manner provided for by the said statutes which were repealed by the two Acts of 1890 aforesaid.

(b) The right to share proportionately in any grant made out of the public funds for the purpose of education.

(c) The right of exemption of such members of the Roman Catholic church is contribute to such Roman Catholic schools from all payment or contribution of the support of any other schools.

And his Excellency the Governor General-in-Council was further pleased to declare and decide, and it is hereby declared, that it seems requisite that the system of education embodied in the two Acts of 1890 aforesaid shall be supplemented by a Provincial Act or Acts which will restore to the Roman Catholic minority the said rights and privileges of which such minority has been so deprived as aforesaid, and which will modify the said Acts of 1890 so far, and so far only, as may be necessary to give effect to the provisions restoring the rights and privileges of paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) hereinafore mentioned.

Whereof the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Manitoba for the time being, and all persons whom it may concern, are to take notice and govern themselves accordingly.

Japan Searching British Vessels.

LONDON, March 22.—A Central News despatch from Shanghai says that the Japanese war vessels have been searching British and German merchantmen in the Gulf of Pechili for contraband of war. The cruiser Æolus has been ordered to lie at Taka to protect British interests. The Japanese fleet has since retired from Taku, and the Chinese have a number of junks ready to be sunk at that place in order to blockade the entrance to the Pei Ho River.

No Wrecks on Sable Island.

HALIFAX, N. S., March 22.—Owing to the report that some missing American vessels had been wrecked on Sable Island the Dominion Government sent the steamer Newfield there last week. She returned this morning and reported that there have been no wrecks there this winter.

Three Years Knocked Off.

OTTAWA, March 22.—The Minister of Justice has remitted three years of the sentence passed on John Simpson, burglar, at Victoria, B.C., recently by Judge Crease. He was sentenced to five years' imprisonment by the judge and immediately remarked in a sneering tone, "Thank you, sir." The judge thereupon tacked on three years more.

Another Victim of the Falling Tree.

HARRISTON, March 22.—John Kerr, a farmer, who lives a few miles from town was instantly killed yesterday by a falling tree.

THE ARMENIAN HORRORS.

TURKISH OFFICER'S DEATHBED STATEMENT.

The Reina Regente Wreck—Coast about Cadez Strewn with the Wreckage—The Elbe-Crathie Case—Died for Love.

Special to the Times.

LONDON, March 21.

THE special representative of the Daily News says in his enquiry on the Armenian outrages: There is abundant and unanimous evidence of the bloodiest, most fiendishly premeditated and damnably perpetrated massacre of innocents. This I intend to prove out of the mouths of the perpetrators themselves. The correspondent sends from the Russian frontier, under date of Feb. 28th, the story which he himself elicited from a Turkish non-commissioned officer. This officer, acting under orders, shared in the slaughter. He described the revolting horrors at great length. He has now left the army, says the correspondent, and has fled to Russia, where he is persecuted by the infinite horror of his own thoughts and is dying surely and rapidly. I questioned him in the presence of responsible witnesses. He was deeply impressed with his resigned melancholy and invincible despair. He said that throughout the fighting he never heard of a single soldier being wounded, much less killed.

THE FATE OF THE CRUISER.

LONDON, March 20.—A despatch from San Fernandino, near Cadiz says that the coast near Conil, somewhat further south, is strewn with wreckage, uniforms, flags and numerous other articles from the lost cruiser Reina Regente. The officials along the coast have forbidden the people to approach the points where the wreckage has been cast up ostensibly to prevent the scenes of anguish which would accompany the search for bodies of friends and relatives. The officials refuse to say what they are doing to recover the bodies and wreckage and the people there are doing nothing.

THE ELBE-CRATHIE CASE.

ROTTERDAM, March 21.—The trial of the action of the North German Lloyds Steamship Co. against the owners of the British steamer Crathie for damages for the loss of the S.S. Elbe, was called in the civil court here this morning. The lawyer of the North German Lloyd Co. argued that the Crathie alone was responsible for the disaster. In claiming damages for the company, he held that an embargo ought to be placed on the Crathie until the owners indemnify the North German Lloyd Co. for the loss of the Elbe, interest and cost of suit included. The lawyer representing the Crathie's owners made a counter claim of damages in view of the injury sustained by her in the collision. He demanded that the North German Lloyd Co. give security for the damages and costs to the amount of $24,000. After making the formal statement, he informed the court that it had been impossible for the defendants to prepare their case in the short time since the action was begun, and asked that the trial be postponed for eight days.

DIED FOR LOVE.

CELINA, O., March 21.—A team belonging to Robt. Mangler, a livery stablekeeper at Monticello, five miles from here, came into the stable yard last night with the body of a girl named Annie Frisch sitting in the vehicle stone dead. There was a bullet wound in the right temple and another in the left arm. Later in the evening the body of the dead girl's lover, Arthur Spread, who was known to have gone driving with her, was found alongside the roadside.

A DYNAMITE EXPLOSION.

EXPLOSIVES DO TERRIBLE HAVOC TO LIFE AND PROPERTY.

Fifty Houses Wrecked and Vessels Blown to Pieces With Their Crews—From Ten to Twenty-Five Killed.

BERLIN, March 21.

THE report is in circulation to the effect that a terrible explosion of dynamite had taken place at Oberwesel, on the Rhine. Twenty-five persons are said to have been killed, two ships are reported to have been destroyed, and many houses wrecked by the explosion. Oberwesel is a town of Rhenish Prussia, about 19 miles from Coblentz, on the Rhine; its population is estimated to be about 2,500.

COLOGNE, March 20.—A terrible explosion of dynamite took place yesterday evening at Salmorth, in the district of Dusseldorf. The cargo of the ship Elizabeth, consisting of 20,000 kilos of dynamite, was being unloaded at the time of the explosion, killing a number of people and doing a terrible amount of damage. The exact number of persons killed is not yet known. A vessel which was alongside the Elizabeth caught fire and was burned. The force of the explosion was felt for miles, and it was at first believed to have been the result of an earthquake. Several houses collapsed at Keeken and other villages, and windows were shattered within a wide area. At Cleaves, five miles from the scene of the explosion, doors were torn off and window frames were smashed. The bodies of five victims of the explosion have already been recovered, and six persons, believed to have been killed, are still missing.

The force of the explosion was so great that three vessels at Lobith, the last Dutch village on the Rhine, were sunk. It appears that the Elizabeth was taking the dynamite on board, instead of discharging it, as was at first reported. Two hundred and twenty tons of the explosive were taken in six boats from Lobith to Salmorth last January en route to Antwerp, whence it was to have been shipped to Australia. Owing to the ice blockade in the river, the dynamite was landed at Salmorth, where it was stored away, waiting the reopening of navigation. Meantime the Elizabeth had been chartered to take the dynamite forward, and the cargo was being stored yesterday, when part of it exploded. The cause of the explosion is unknown, as every person on board was killed.

IRISH MANHOOD SUFFRAGE.

The Bill May Be Passed After a Struggle Lasting Twenty Years.

Special to the Times.

LONDON, March 21.—In the House of Commons the bill introduced by Mr. Healy, giving to every ratepayer in Ireland a vote in the borough in which he is rated, passed its second reading.

Though the measure is similar to the Municipal Franchise Act, which has long been in force in England, it has been brought forward annually for the last 20 years and its progress blocked by the Conservative members of the House.

Mr. Balfour and other Conservative speakers announced that they approved the measure.

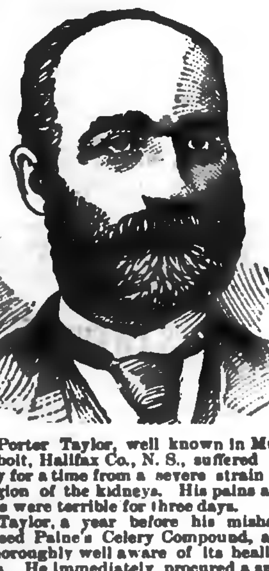
Paine's Celery Compound Restores the Victim to Perfect Health and Strength

'Tis the Spring Medicine that Renews and Invigorates Life



Mr. Porter Taylor, well known in Musquodoboit, Halifax Co., N. S., suffered intensely for a time from a severe strain in the region of the kidneys. His pains and agonies were terrible for three days.

Mr. Taylor, a year before his mishap, had used Paine's Celery Compound, and was thoroughly well aware of its healing virtues. He immediately procured a supply of the strength-giving medicine, and found himself cured and quite strong after the use of two bottles.

Every message of this kind should prove comforting and interesting to all who suffer from disease and general weakness. This is the time to put the system in healthy condition, and no medicine known to the medical world can so well do the good work as Paine's Celery Compound.

Mr. Taylor, thankful for his speedy release from suffering, writes as follows:—

"I wish to inform you as to results received from your valuable medicine, Paine's Celery Compound. I strained my back across the kidneys while lifting a heavy piece of plaster rock. I fell to the ground like one shot down, and it was with the most excruciating pain that I crawled to my house. I fainted twice before I reached my door. I got to bed, and there suffered untold agonies for three day, and could not move without the greatest pain. Knowing what Paine's Celery Compound had done for me a year before, my wife went to our merchant, Mr. Edgar Archibald, and procured a supply. I used two bottles and feel as strong and as well as ever before. I wish you continued success in your work."

NINETY PEOPLE KILLED.

In a Colliery Disaster at Red Canyon, Utah—Rescuing the Bodies.

Special to the Times.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, March 21.—A special from Red Canyon says: A terrible explosion at Rocky Mountain mine No. 5, situated at Red Canyon, Wyo., is believed to have killed eighty men, who are imprisoned in the mine, in addition to ten who were in the power house above ground, or near the shaft openings.

The slopes and entrances to the lower workings are all blockaded by wreckage and it is thought at least three days will be required for rescue parties to reach the bodies in the mine. The horror occurred at 5.43 last evening at No. 5 Central Pacific mine, Red Canyon, five miles north of Evanston.

The explosion in the mine shocked the whole country around, wrecked the power plant, a fan house, and several other buildings.

MR. WALLACE

Will Declare Himself as Soon as Formalities are Over.

Special to The Times.

OTTAWA, March 21.—When told that the Liberal papers were conjuring up lurid pictures of a row between him and Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, the Premier laughed quite heartily at the idea.

"The fact is," he said, "I have not seen him since these reports were circulated. With him in the Western Block and me in the Eastern Block every day it is pretty hard for us to have a row at that distance."

It is understood that so soon as the Order-in-Council granting relief to the Manitoba Catholics is passed the Sovereign Grand Master of the Orange Order will make an announcement of his position.

A summons has gone out to every one of the Cabinet to attend the special meeting at 3 o'clock today, when his Excellency will attend in person to sign the remedial order.

ONTARIO HOTELMEN.

They Unanimously Re-elect Last Year's Office Holders.

Special to the Times.

TORONTO, March 21.—The Ontario License Holders' Protective Association convention was resumed at Victoria hall at 10 o'clock this morning. Last year's officers were unanimously re-elected, as follows:

President, Harry Maxey, Hamilton; first vice-president, F. X. St. Jacques, Ottawa; second vice-president, David Sare, London; secretary, E. Deckie, 260 Dunn avenue, Toronto; treasurer, William Armstrong, Toronto; auditors, A. S. Smith, St. Thomas, and James McParland, Kingston; solicitor, James Haverson, Toronto.

The deputation that waited upon the Ontario Cabinet last evening say they were most cordially received, but regrets that the Government could not see its way clear to revise the whole License Act this session.

A private meeting of the Brewers' Association and a deputation from the hotelkeepers is being held this afternoon.

OLD COUNTRY CABLES.

THE SPANISH MINISTRY TO RESUME OFFICE.

Newfoundland and Canada—Japs at Formosa—Rosebery's Illness—Britain's Ultimatum—Sagasta Must Stand.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, March 20.

THE Times tomorrow will publish a despatch from Shanghai, saying a rumor is current there that the Japs are about to send an expedition against Formosa. The report is not credited here, however. It is considered more likely that a forward move will be made toward the north in the event of the failure of peace negotiations.

SAGASTA MUST STAND.

LONDON, March 20.—The Post tomorrow will publish an interview with Gen. Martinez de Campos, Captain General of Madrid, in which Gen. de Campos expresses the opinion that Premier Sagasta ought to continue in office. If he does not do so, Gen. Campos says, the first regiment will be regarded as being led by a few officers. Such a thing must not be allowed, as it would bear the semblance of justification. The idea of a change in the ministry being ascribed to such a case cannot be tolerated.

ROSEBERY'S ILLNESS.

LONDON, March 20.—The News today says that although Lord Rosebery has recovered from his recent attack of influenza, he is still suffering from insomnia, in regard to which trouble no great improvement can be reported. The change from London to Epsom has not yet produced the desired effect, and his Lordship is still unable to attend any but the most urgent business.

SPANISH CRISIS.

MADRID, March 20.—Queen Regent Christiana yesterday granted an audience to Senor Canovas de Castillo, who assured her that the Conservatives were not eager for office, but they were willing to assume the duties of the various ministries if they were called upon to do so.

CANADA AND NEWFOUNDLAND.

LONDON, March 20.—The Post today says that there is reason to believe that the sole object of the government in sending Mr. Herbert Murray, formerly chairman of the Customs department to Newfoundland is that he may provide the fisherman with funds as the banks and leading merchants have hitherto done at the beginning of the fishing season. It is not known whether or not Mr. Murray will require the same security for the advances as those who have previously supplied the funds. His mission has nothing to do with the present position of the colony. There are many reasons for Canada's taking the liabilities of Newfoundland and admitting that colony to the federation. Her fisheries are a source of wealth, while the possession of her bait grounds would be a good card to play against the U. S. Morever the inclusion of Newfoundland in the Dominion virtually means the security of the Gulf of the St. Lawrence in the event of a foreign invasion. Newfoundland, however, would gain little else than pecuniary assistance; yet if Canada does not guarantee the colony's debt nobody else will. The idea of her reverting to a crown colony may be abandoned, and it will probably happen that Newfoundland will become part of Canada with Premier Whiteway as her first lieutenant.

THE FATE OF THE REGENTE.

MADRID, March 20.—The Government has not received official news regarding the report of the finding of the cruiser Reina Regente, and the statement that she had been found sunk in shallow water near the Straits of Gibraltar, is generally discredited by the authorities. All the Madrid newspapers, however, publish the statement that Alfonso XII discovered the cruiser sunk at Bajo Aceitunos, with only a small portion of her masts above the water.

ENGLAND'S ULTIMATUM.

LONDON, March 20.—Lord Kimberley, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, yesterday personally handed to the Nicaraguan Minister at the Foreign Office the ultimatum of the British Government demanding reparation for the expulsion from Bluefields of Mr. Hatch, the British Consular agent. A copy of the document was cabled to the British Minister resident in Nicaragua. Lord Kimberly emphatically demands adequate satisfaction from Nicaragua. In official circles the belief is general that the matter will be amicably settled and no demonstration by a British squadron will be necessary to enforce the demands of Great Britain.

PRIVATE BILLS PASS.

YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS IN THE PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE.

Examining the Bursars—James Cochrane, of Mimico Asylum Gives Evidence in the Public Accounts Committee.

TORONTO, March 21.—When the Public Accounts Committee met this morning Patron Macpherson said that he wanted to make a suggestion regarding the printing of accounts. While he liked the Ontario method better than the Dominion yet he wanted to see a little more detail introduced, such as price per ton and kind of coal. He thought the Government didn't wish to hide anything, and would give every opportunity to the members or electors to examine accounts.

Col. Matheson said that was just the line along which he was working, and it was decided to leave it to the Minister of Finance to add any such details as were convenient.

Bursar James Cochrane, of Mimico Asylum, was before the committee today.

He said that coal, flour, butter, split peas and oatmeal were purchased by tender. The butter, bread and tea used by the patients are the same quality as that supplied to the superintendent.

Flour was one of Mr. Cochrane's strong points. It was bought by tender, and 900 barrels was the amount asked. He thought he could have saved 75 cents per barrel in 1892, 50 cents in 1893 and not so much in 1894, if he had done the buying himself. So far in 1895 he would have saved 50 cents per barrel.

THE CROSS-EXAMINATION.

Mr. Thomas Crawford, the indefatigable ally of Mr. Col. Matheson, began the cross-examination by asking the bursar how long he had been in business.

"Since the 5th of September, 1848," was the ready answer.

"Then, after forty years of business experience, you are an acknowledged failure as a business man?" was the next interrogation.

"Nothing of the kind, I paid 100 cents on the dollar and I can do it every day," was the indignant answer.

The bursar wanted to make a statement and give references as to his business qualifications, and Mr. Crawford protested that he did not want to cast any approbrium upon Mr. Cochrane. And so the examination wore on all the morning, Mr. Ganon and Col. Matheson enlivening the occasion with desultory discussion on account of interjecting questions which the Colonel thought were leading or warning the witness.

Col. Matheson said that this was part of the obstruction which his party complained of.

Mr. Ganon said this remark was personal and unjust.

Mr. Cleland wanted to know if the witness was on trial for his life and thought the questions were intended to corner the witness.

IN THE PRIVATE BILLS.

Five bills went through the Private Bills Committee today at a full session. These are the bills:

An act to enable the town of Palmerston to have certain lands separated from it.

An act confirming by-laws 680 and 761 of the city of Hamilton, regarding the bonusing of smelting works.

An act to enable the town of Gananoque to bonus a woodenware factory with a loan of $10,000.

An act to confirm the Tilsonburg, Lake Erie and Pacific railway, and regarding Port Burwell harbor.

An act respecting the Stormont Electric Light and Power Company, who are asking for permission to extend their charter to enable them to supply gas and water as well as electricity.

THE GIBBS CASE ENDED.

ROBINSON SENTENCED FOR LIFE AND SADIE FOR 20 YEARS.

A Verdict of Murder in the Second Degree Against the Former and of Manslaughter Against Sadie Robinson—The Prisoner's Demeanor.

Special to the Times.

BUFFALO, N.Y., March.

YESTERDAY evening Judge Hatch's charge to the jury in the Montgomery Gibbs murder case, was a long one. He drew attention to the statements made by the defendants after r arrest, in regard to the murder, and said that these statements, the defendants not being in the presence of each other at the time they were made, were only binding on, and could only be considered as affecting the person speaking, and cannot be considered as affecting the person speaking, and cannot be binding against the absent party. The judge referred to the "meagre discussion of the matter by the defence," and said, "the testimony on the part of the people has been clearly presented, and you would be wholly authorised to find that these defendants committed this crime as alleged in the indictment."

CALLED THE JUDGE A LIAR.

Twice during Judge Hatch's charge Sadie Robinson interrupted with an exclamation of "liar," but the judge paid no attention to the interruption. During the delivery of the judge's charge Sadie and Clarence held each other's hands very affectionately.

WHAT THE VERDICT IS.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 21.—The jury in the Robinson case agreed upon a verdict at 2.40 this morning, and rendered it when the court opened at 10 a. m.

THEY WILL NOT HANG.

BUFFALO, March 21.—Clarence Robinson has been found guilty of murder in the second degree, and Sadie Robinson of manslaughter in the first degree.

Judge Hatch sentenced Clarence Robinson to life imprisonment, and his wife, Sadie, to 20 years' imprisonment.

Sadie's sister leaned over her chair and kissed her, and Sadie, in return, fondly kissed her husband. The verdict and sentence were evidently a pleasant surprise to the Robinsons, and they left the court room looking better and happier than at any time during the past 10 days.

EASTERN ARMS.

The Carrying of Weapons a Universal Practice In the Orient.

Almost every one in Haidarabad is armed to the teeth, and the spears, sabers, daggers and pistols which gleam amid the white and crimson robes or bristle in sash and turban convert the entire city into a formidable armory. Bazaars filled with deadly weapons brighten dim alley and moldering arcade with the polished steel and burnished brass of a hundred unfamiliar native instruments of attack and defense.

Sheaves of slender Persian rapiers are held in place by the sharp sickles of murderous, double edged scimiters, and swords with watered blades of fabulous value fence off a jagged heap of pointed "serotis" and crooked "talwars." A strong handle of twisted camel sinew guides the yielding blade of the subtle "jambia," narrowing to a vicious looking hook, and the turbaned armorer leaves his anvil to show us the needlelike "karoli," minute enough to be concealed in the palm of the hand and used by distraught lovers to inflict the wounds provoked by jealousy or disappointment.

Spiky "marus" of sharpened black buckshorn and piercing blades known as "bichwas," or "scorpions," fill a brasen tray, and a bundle of elephant goads, inlaid with ebony and silver, leans against a stack of shining spears. Daggers, curved and straight, rough and smooth, jagged and pointed, show endless possibilities of inflicting every degree of punishment, from a deathblow to a scratch, from the severing of an artery to a puncture deep and deadly, but small enough to defy detection. The muslin turbans of the passing multitude are thickly set with inlaid daggers and glittering blades.

The merchant who smokes his narhileh among green and purple bales of costly embroidery carries a sharp stiletto behind his ear and pricks off a list of goods with this warlike instrument. A haughty looking noble, on a richly caparisoned elephant, examines the temper of a huge sword which he draws from a jeweled scabbard as he rides on his way, and a money lender, chinking the heavy native rupees into a silver bowl, looks up as a curtained palanquin darkens his doorway and offers the caller a parchment scroll on the shaft of a long knife without rising from his seat.—All the Year Round.

Oshawa's Treasurer Dead.

OSHAWA, Ont., March 19.—Henry Carswell, town treasurer for the past thirty years, died suddenly of apoplexy last night. Mr. Carswell was one of the oldest settlers here, having been a resident of this place for the past fifty years. He was seventy years of age, and had always enjoyed the best of health.

The Lindsay Fire.

At the fire in Lindsay, a number of travellers stopping at the Benson House had valuable samples burned. Among the number were: Messrs. J. Ross, Montreal; C. H. Kelk, Montreal; J. A. Ross, Montreal; A. H. Cabb, Toronto; W. H. Martin, Toronto; R. J. Sailsbury, Toronto; Wm. Caldwell, Toronto; A. A. Mark, Toronto; L. B. Howland, Brockville.

In Electrical Lines.

Mr. R. H. Bradburn has taken an agency for electrical supplies, and has opened an office two doors south of THE TIMES. A full and complete line of electrical appliances, incandescent lamps, gas and combination fixtures will be supplied to customers. This will be a great convenience to those who are in need of this line of goods and no doubt Mr. Bradburn will do a large and successful business.

To Select a Candidate.

All the leading supporters of the Conservative party of East Northumberland have been notified that the annual meeting of the Liberal Conservative Association of the riding, will be held in the town hall at Warkworth, on Monday, April 1st, at the hour of one o'clock p. m. Among other business at this convention is the choice of a candidate to contest the riding at the approaching Dominion election.

Fell Down Cellar.

Mrs. Malloy met with a serious accident Thursday. While scrubbing the floor in Mr. Scofield's drug store, she passed through a dark room in the rear to empty a pail of water, and fell through an open trap door. When found, she was unconscious and upon examination it was found that the right arm was broken and otherwise severely bruised about the head and body. Dr. Clarke, who attended to her injuries, had her removed to St. Joseph's hospital.

Rev. Mr. Rae Complimented.

At the third quarterly meeting of the Charlotte street Methodist church board, a very complimentary resolution was moved to the Rev. Mr. Rae, inviting him to remain for another year as pastor of the church. Mr. Rae in reply accepted the invitation, giving expression in pleasing terms to the satisfaction he had experienced and the encouragement met with in his intercourse with the members of the congregation which had been of a nature most delightful and happy.

Secretary—Miss Nicholls.

Concerning Leather.

At the Board of Trade on Monday, at 1.30 p. m., the tanners and leather dealers of Canada will meet under the auspices of the tanners' section of the Board, to discuss matters of mutual interest. One important feature of the business to be brought before the meeting will be a proposition looking to the curtailment of the ruinously long credits that now predominate. Mr. James Patterson, of town, will be in attendance at the meeting.

An Exciting Ride.

Three occupants of a cutter had a rough voyage between Havelock and Campbellford on Sunday. Their horse, unaccustomed to the numerous pitch holes which ornamented the road, became unruly and fractious, and they were pitched out. Three times the animal made a desperate effort at running away, twice he was run into a fence, and six or seven times the cutter was nearly upset. Finally, the troublesome beast was unhitched near the IXL cheese factory and led to Campbellford by one of the party, while the other two hitched themselves to the cutter and drew it here—a distance of only three miles! The experience was by no means enjoyed by either of the party.

FIRE AT LINDSAY.

Gough Bros' Stock Completely Damaged by Fire and Water.

FIRE broke out in the sample rooms in the Benson House, Lindsay, at 8.45 o'clock Monday afternoon and did considerable damage before the flames were subdued. Several commercial travellers lost their samples and others had their goods damaged by smoke and water.

Messrs. Hurley and Brady, grocers, suffered severely from the immence quantities of water which flooded their premises. They are well insured.

Gough Bros., clothiers, are heavy losers They, too, suffered severely from the over zeal of the fire department. Their stock is utterly ruined by water and smoke. The firm carry $12,000 on stock.

Braund's fancy story will have a small loss and is well insured. The Benson House will do business as formerly and is now running as usual.

The insurances are as follows: Benson House—contents insured in London & Lancashire, Manchester and Western. Gough Bros., insured for $12,000 in the Manchester, London & Lancashire, Sun, Liverpool London & Globe, Northern, North British, and Ætna; building insured in the Norwich Union. Hurley & Brady—insured in Manchester for $3,000 London & Lancashire, $1,000.

PETERBORO PRESBYTERY,

Regular Quarterly Meeting Held in Port Hope—Largely Attended.

The regular quarterly meeting of Peterborough Presbytery was held Tuesday in Port Hope. There were present the Revs. Dr. Torrance and A. McWilliams of Peterborough; William Bennett, Apsley; Richard Hyde, Warsaw; A. C. Reeves, B. A., Harwood; A. K. McLeod, Brighton; Peter Duncan, Colborne; A. C. Lord, B. D. Grafton, John Hay, B.D., Cobourg; W. Jamieson, Harvey; Dr. J. K. Smith, James Cleland, A. McNaughton and Alex. Laird, ministers also Robert Tully, Peterborough; W. Spiers, Grafton; R. Graham, Lakefield; E. Sanderson, Springville; A. Russell, Cobourg; and J. McCulloch, elders.

Rev. A. Laird, B. A. was elected moderator for the next six months. Delegates from Springville, Alenwick and Betheada appeared before the Presbytery and matters in connection with the congregations were satisfactorily adjusted. The remit from the assembly to appoint a special committee on the Mission to the Jews was disapproved of. The overture on the amalgamation of certain committees was agreed to so far as the committees on the State of Religion, Sabbath Observance and Systematic Beneficence are concerned.

An interesting report on statistics was presented. The Presbytery has now 28 pastoral charges. Five congregations were settled during the year, Havelock, Mill St. Port Hope, Millbrook, Norwood and Lakefield and 2 remaining vacant, Omemee and Springfield. The total membership under the charge of the Presbytery is 5,150. One church and two manses were built during the year. For foreign missions the congregations have contributed slightly less than the year before, but the W. F. M. S. has made a gain greater than this loss. About $140 more than last year have been raised for the schemes of the church as a whole.

Delegates were chosen to represent the Presbytery at the meeting of the General Assembly in London and Rev. Dr. Gregg of Knox College Toronto, was nominated as moderator of the assembly. The Presbytery adjourned to meet in St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, on the 2nd day of July.

DEATH'S HARVEST.

Demise of Mr. Wm. Lang, Mr. Chas. Eastland and Mr. Thos. Edminson.

Monday morning Mr. William Lang, of London street, succumbed to a brain affection from which he has suffered for some months. Deceased was in his 71st year at the time of his death. Over 60 years ago he left his native place in Scotland and settled in North Monaghan where he resided continuously until seven years ago when he removed to Smith township. Last fall he came to Peterborough. A widow and fourteen children survive him. The funeral will take place from the family residence, 177 London street, at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

DEATH OF MR. CHAS. EASTLAND.

The death of Mr. Charles Eastland, for some years a resident of Peterborough, occurred on Sunday. Deceased was a native of Yorkshire, England, and came to this county 69 years ago, settling in South Monaghan. Early in life he was married to Miss Hannah Foster and nine children were the result of the union, eight of whom survive. The sons are Alfred in Creemore, Thomas and Herbert in Winnipeg and Fred in town—and the daughters are Mrs. Turner, Michigan; Mrs. Mulner, Charlotte, N. Y.; Mrs. Morvin, Toronto, and Miss Bertha Eastland at home. At 2.30 this afternoon the funeral will take place to the Little Lake Cemetery.

MR. THOMAS EDMINSON DEAD.

The grim reaper removed an old resident of the county yesterday morning in the person of Mr. Thomas Edminson, who for over 50 has been a resident of Smith. Deceased was in his 89th year. He was well and widely known as a consistent Methodist and an upright, honorable man. Two sons, only, survive him, his wife having died about six months ago.

STRUCK BY A TREE.

The Instaneous and Violent Death of Mr. Howard Oke.

The Port Hope Guide gives the following account of the death of Howard Oke, a nephew of Mr. J. B. Oke, town: "Two brothers, Messrs. William and Howard Oke, of Welcome, were engaged in getting out wood on the farm of Mr. Joseph Simmons, in the Mast Woods. About 11 o'clock this (Wednesday) morning they cut a tree and ran to what they considered a safe point. They did not calculate correctly, for the tree in falling alighted upon its limbs, which acted in this case like strong springs, causing the tree to rebound with great force and pinioning Howard across the trunk of another large tree. His brother was instantly by his side but Howard never moved or spoke. William had to go over half a mile to procure assistance, and upon his return and the removal of the tree it was found that the poor fellow was quite dead. Dr. Corbett, coroner, was notified, viewed the body and decided an inquest unnecessary.

Howard Oke was a young man 18 years of age, greatly respected, and his widowed mother has the sympathy of all the community in this last and very great loss of her youngest son."

Peterborough Will be Visited by an Earthquake.

Does that catch your eye? Well read this. Rev. W. H. Young will give a straight talk to men, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Y.M.C.A. hall. Special music will add to the interest of the service. Be there! 23-1f

THE GRAND JURY

Sworn in at the High Court Jury Sittings Tuesday.

At the Jury Sittings of the High Court of Justice, presided over by Mr. Justice Street, the grand jury was sworn in, composing the following:

Dawson Kennedy (foreman), John Carlisle, Geo. E. Elliott, Wm. Fowler, Wm. Fowler, Wm. A. Graham, Robt. Miller, Wm. McIlmoyle, John A. Rose, F. J. Johnston, Jos. Milburn.

In his address Mr. Justice Street congratulated the jurors on the absence of criminal cases and upon the fact, that in consequence their duties would not include the investigation of such. His Lordship explained the change in the law which required the summoning of but 13 jurors instead of 23 as formerly.

ELECTED OFFICERS.

Annual Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Johns.

The annual meeting of the St. John's Branch of the Women's Auxiliary was held at the rectory on Monday.

The attendance was good, and the reports of secretary, treasurer and superintendent of Mission Band showed that good work had been done throughout the past year.

The report of the Parochial Secretary, Mrs. Samuel White, plainly showed that the missionary zeal of the W. A. members is not limited to the Northwest or foreign missions, the poor of our own town and parish being worked for and materially assisted.

After the president had read the annual address the election of officers took place, which resulted in the re-election of the former officers with the exception of Mrs. Jas. Best, 2nd Vice President, and Miss McCallum, Assistant-Superintendent Mission Band, resigned. Scrutineers of votes reported:

Mrs. G. A. Smith—President.
Mrs. Weller—1st Vice-President.
Mrs. Clarke—2nd Vice-President.
Miss Kirkpatrick—Treasurer.
Miss M. Rubidge—Parochial Treasurer.
Miss Beck—Secretary.
Mrs. S. White—Parochial Secretary.
Mrs. Salisbury—Superintendent Mission Band.
Mrs. R. M. Roy—Assistant Superintendent.

A vote of thanks was moved by the Rector, seconded by Mrs. Vernon to the officers of the Woman's Auxiliary for the very efficient manner in which they had discharged their duties. The rector also appointed Mrs. Vernon and Mrs. Perry in andition to the former Board of Management.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES.

Items of Interest Intelligently Presented for Busy Readers.

The Central Presbyterian church in Chicago extended a call last night to Rev. Marcus Scott, Campbellford, Ont., formerly of Toronto, at a salary of $2,000 per year.

Mr. S. S. Merrick, Grand Patriarch of the I.O.O.F., of Carleton Place, will arrive in town today on a visit and will attend a meeting of Hiawatha Encampment tonight.

Mrs. Armstrong, wife of Reeve W. W. Armstrong, received a telegram on Wednesday, conveying to her the sad intelligence of the death of her father, Mr. Joseph Kyle, which took place the day previous at Wolfe Island, opposite Kingston. Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong left here on Thursday to attend the funeral. The deceased was 82 years of age.—Campbellford Herald.

About three o'clock Wednesday morning fire broke out in the stables and barns belonging to Mrs. Thomas Harrington, a widow living on the 6th concession line of Ennismore. The fire swept all before it, including the stables, a new barn, hay and grain, which was stored therein, a horse and new set of harness, a top buggy and new waggon and a quantity of poultry. The cause of the fire is unknown. Loss partially covered by insurance.

An old lady in Campbellford is in possession of a wedding ring which was in use one hundred and twenty five years ago. It was worn by her grandmother when a young married woman in Cornwall, England, and has been in use ever since. To day it is so thin that it can be bent like wire. If any of our readers have heirlooms in their families, let us hear of them, and we will be pleased to publish them in these columns. Send particulars on a post card. There is always something of interest in a keepsake of the days long gone by.

Any man can take a newspaper. It is the cheapest thing he can buy. It costs the price of a postage stamp—less than to send and receive a letter. What good does it do you? It instructs you and your wife, and teaches your children. It comes to you every week, rain or shine, calm or storm, and brings you the best news of the neighborhood. No matter what happens, it enters your door a welcome friend, full of sunshine, cheer and interest. It shortens the long summer days and cultivates the long winter nights. It is your adviser, your medium of news and friend. No man is just to his children and wife who does not give them the home paper to read.

A few days ago a newly married couple in the parish of St. Theodore d'Acton, went to pass the evening at a neighbor's residence with a visiting lady friend. The party played a game of cards and the young man was a loser during the whole evening. On the way home, the man suddenly left his two companions and ran towards his home. When they arrived there the two women not finding him in the house commenced to make a search in the outbuildings and finally found him hanging from a rope in the barn. They cut the rope and rushed for the doctor who finally succeeded in resuscitating the man. The act is attributed to temporary aberration, caused by ill luck at the card-playing.

ENNISMORE ITEMS.

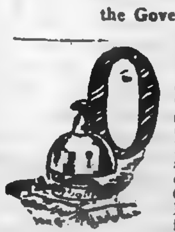
On Tuesday an election was held in Ennismore to fill the vacant seat at the Council Board, caused by the action of the court. It will be remembered that at the January elections Mr. James Scollard was returned as Councillor for Ennismore, though Mr. John Moloney, another candidate, claimed that he had a majority of the votes. On that ground he entered a protest against Mr. Scollard's return. At the hearing of the case before Judge Weller, March 5, the seat was declared vacant by consent, and a writ for a new election was issued. The election took place on Tuesday, the same two candidates being in the field. There was a large vote polled, and the result was exceedingly close, Mr. Moloney receiving 96 and Mr. Scollard 92 votes. The highest number of votes received by any Councillor at the January elections was 100. The result being so close in Tuesday's election, it might be suggested that this was an opportunity for a recount, but it does not seem probable that there will be any recount. It is stated that the ballots were counted over 15 times at the close of the poll.

A Deserved Tribute.

The Campbellford Herald says: A popular preacher, and we should judge a favorite among the congregations to whom he has ministered, is the Rev. W. R. Young, B. A., pastor of the George street Methodist church, Peterborough. He was in Campbellford on Sunday last, and conducted the morning and evening services in the church here. Mr. Young is a quiet, yet forcible speaker in the pulpit, presenting excellent thoughts in good language, and and strong points in support of his statements, and his well arranged ideas in rounding off a good sermon are strengthened with many very apt illustrations.

MANY CHANGES

Will Provincial Hotelkeepers Propose to the Government.



OVER 300 members from all quarters of the Province will crowd into Toronto today to attend the annual convention of the Provincial License holders Association which will convene in the Queen City this afternoon. It will be the most important meeting in the history of the association.

Important amendments to the law respecting hotel men and the business will be asked from the Ontario Government.

LEGISLATORS WILL BE BESIEGED.

Every member of the Local Assembly is to be seen during the convention by a deputation of hotel men from his own constituency and the necessity of his support for the amendments when they come up emphasized. By judiciously dividing up their forces in this way the delegates feel sure of getting the amendments through this session.

A large number of amendments have been drafted. One of the most startling is the severe penalties the hotel men propose to impose on those guilty of illegal selling. If it is adopted not a glass of liquor is likely to be sold in the province on Sunday or during other prohibited hours.

THE PROPOSED PENALTIES.

This amendment in effect is as follows:

"That on the first conviction for illegal selling an hotelkeeper be fined $100 and costs or three months.

"That on a second conviction the penalty be three months' imprisonment without the option of a fine.

"In case of a third conviction the offender is to get six months' imprisonment without the option of a fine, all subsequent convictions to rank as a 'third offence' and be punished as such."

OTHER PROPOSALS.

Other proposed amendments of importance are as follows:

"That all holders of licenses be eligible for election to municipal offices.

"That all hotels close at 12 p.m. at night, and on Saturdays at 9 p.m., these hours to be uniform in city and country.

"That boards of license commissioners have full discretion in transfers of licenses." At present a petition has to be taken around in the polling sub division to which the transfer is to be made, and a majority of the electors in the division must sign in favor of the transfer before the commissioners may act.

"That the power of municipal councils to deal with licenses be taken away and vested in the Provincial Government.

"That all hotels be allowed to supply their guests and lodgers during prohibited hours.

"That all clubs holding charters from the Ontario Government in cities and towns pay a license fee.

"That baggage may be sold in 15 days for board and lodging instead of after three months as at present."

The Montreal association will send up a deputation to the convention, that association having been invited to fraternize.

GRAND JURY'S PRESENTMENT.

They Recommend the Establishment of a House of Industry.

The jury in the case of Murray vs. Bell Telephone Company brought in a verdict of $400 and full costs to the plaintiff. W. H. Moore and George H. Watson, Q. C., for plaintiff and Edwards & Murray for the defendant. The particulars of the case were published several days ago.

Wednesday a verdict for the plaintiff was found in the case of Henderson vs. Henderson, and an order was made by which both parties pay their own costs. Hall & Hayes for plaintiff, Edwards & Murray for the defendants. This was an action brought by David Henderson and John Henderson, of Otonabee, against Annie Henderson, of Otonabee. David Henderson, sen., who died in February, 1894, willed to the plaintiffs the west half of lot No. 13 in the ninth concession of Otonabee, but the defendant, after the death of David Henderson, sen., entered into possession of the said lot. The plaintiffs claimed possession of the lot and $500 for meane profit of the premises since the death of David Henderson, sen. The defendant denied the allegation made by the plaintiffs.

The Grand Jury brought in the following presentment:

To His Lordship Justice Street:

We, your Grand Jury of our Sovereign Lady the Queen, present as follows:

We congratulate your Worship and this county on the law abiding nature of its citizens as shown by the fact that no criminal cases appear on the docket of this Assize.

We appreciate the change in the law reducing the number of the Grand Jury to thirteen, as we believe the increasing intelligence in the magistracy of our country and the practical care they bestow upon their duties amply justify it.

As instructed by your Lordship we have inspected the gaol and beg to report that we found everything connected therewith very satisfactory indeed. The number of prisoners confined there now is twenty-two, over two-thirds of whom are vagrants. In view of this and of the fact that nearly all the time a large number of people are confined in gaol because they are poor, shiftless and without friends, your Grand Jury would recommend that the town and county unite in considering the advisability of establishing a House of Industry on terms of mutual satisfaction.

We also visited the Nicholls and St. Joseph hospitals, and beg leave to record our high appreciation of the provision made by both these institutions for the care and comfort of the sick and destitute under their charge.

DAWSON KENNEDY,
Foreman.

The remarks regarding the establishment of a House of Industry were endorsed by his Lordship, who stated that he would place the recommendation before the proper bodies.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 20 1895.

Good morning !

Wagon-makers like to have hickory timber cut in winter and peeled. While it is seasoning keep it up off of the ground.

The citizens of Nagaski have presented Professor Kitasato with a beautiful gold cup in honor of his discovery of the bacillus of the plague.

The fact that two English woman doctors should be simultaneously sent for to the bedside of an Indian queen and an Afghan King, in each case with the happiest of results, is a romantic episode of the "women's movement," thinks the Westminster Gazette.

Mr. W,B. Scarth, who is on a visit east from the Northwest, declares that the farmers of Manitoba have not lost heart on account of the low price of wheat, and he believes the total acreage sown this year will be greater than last, when the yield was about 17,000,000 bushels.

Bark is a favorite fuel in the Northwest. The evergreens of the region consume quickly in the open fireplace and leave nothing but light ashes, but the bark of these same trees, very thick and heavy, burns more slowly and falls into embers that give out a satisfying heat for hours.

Incandescent electric light is the least harmful to the eyes of all artificial lights, says Dr. Trousseau, surgeon of the Paris Quinze Vingts Eye Hospital. Next comes the light given by kerosene lamps, which is good for ordinary purposes. He condemns as injurious the light of oil, and particuliarly by candles, and considers the gas jet the most hurtful of all.

A women weighing 183 pounds eloped from her husband at Essen, in Germany, lately. He found out the train she had taken and telegraphed only her exact weight to the officials at the other end of the line, telling them to arrest her. When the train came in, every woman on it was taken to the baggage room and weighed ; the runaway was at once identified and sent back to her husband.

It was significant of the intense feeling that prevails throughout the Province when George Taylor, M.P., and J. W. Bell, ex-M.P., were called upon at the public meeting held in connection with the Grand Lodge of Ontario East to declare publicly that they will oppose any attempt to interfere with Manitoba. It was still more significant when, on the same day, Darby Bergin—who is not sound on this question—was overwhelmingly rejected by the Conservative nominating convention in Cornwall and Stormont.

Under the law as it stands a drinking place cannot be transferred from one point to another unless a majority of residents in the neighborhood to which it is proposed to move petition for it. Those interested in the liquor traffic are going to agitate for a repeal of this clause, and for the vesting in the License Commissioners of the right so make transfers of their own motion. This relaxation in the law cannot be allowed. The people of each neighborhood must have continued to them the right to prevent the establishment in their midst of an undesirable business.

B. B. Osler has been retained by the Ontario Government to prosecute all Ontario murderers. If our learned friend has really so much influence over the intelligent juryman as he gets credit for having, the new scheme is a good one. As the defender of a murderer Mr. Osler might influence a jury to let a guilty man off ; but it would require even greater eloquence than B. B's to induce a juror to commit murder by hanging an innocent man.

The latest scientific dictum regarding the planet Mars is to the effect that there certainly is not an atmosphere surrounding that interesting sphere, which would permit the existence of living creatures like ourselves. A popular hope of sometime establishing communication with the red planet must therefore be given up, and it becomes more than ever probable that this earth is the only place in the universe where Grit politicians have the privilege of denying the national benefit of wise tariff regulations.

Japan's grasp of the essential, practical results of our nineteenth century civilization is, to Western eyes at least, the most startling feature in the war now waging in the East, the inovation which the Japanese government, as is reported, intends to introduce in its rewards for military valor would do honor to any hard headed Yankee or British business man. Instead of a bit of ribbon with a medal or a cross attached to it, to be worn on state occasions, the veteran on his return will receive a watch that he can use without ostentation every day of his life, and on whose case will be inscribed the service which he has rendered to his country. The presentation of a watch as a reward for gallant deeds, or because of personal esteem, is not unknown among us, but Japan has got the start of us in this general application of the utile cum honesto, and once more shows her amazingly progressive sense.

A correspondent of the New York Sun, who says he has had exceptional opportunity to study the negro race, both in the South and in the West Indies, writes to that paper that the negroes on the islands have no musical talent, sing nothing but a few hymns they have been taught by the missionaries, have no plantation dances, and no musical instrument but the gumba drum, which is still used in Africa. This writer infers from the lack of musical developement among the people, who have been free for many years, and little exposed to white influence, that musical developement in the negro is merely imitative ; that the southern negroes of this country have it because they have lived with white men, that their songs are really nothing but modifications of Scotch, French and Italian airs, and that Dr. Dvorak has made a serious mistake in accepting them as in any sense national.

The opening of the Baltic canal, connecting the Baltic with the North sea, will be the occasion of an imposing demonstration on the part of Germany, signalizing, as it will, the establishment of direct water communication between that country's principal naval station and the great oceans that are ploughed by the navies of other nations. The building of this canal was begun in 1887, and now at the end of eight years and at an expense of $40,000,000 its originators and builders are about to witness the crowning of their work. The entire length of the canal is 61 miles, its width 200 feet at the surface and 85 feet at the bottom, and its average depth of 28 feet is sufficient for the easy movement of the largest ships in the German navy. Provided with double locks, spanned by two fixed bridges and lighted by an elaborate electric system, it is pronounced by engineers to be as perfectly adapted as anything of the kind can be to both commercial and naval purposes.

HORSES FOR BELGIUM.

A syndicate is forming in Belgium to import Canadian horses into that country, and agents will shortly arrive in Canada to open up the trade. This movement should stimulate the horse industry in this country ; and according to all accounts farmers could dispose of a good many surplus horses at the present time. It may be remarked that horses of a certain grade are cheap on this continent, caused as frequently explained, by an over-production of horses that have use for general work only on farms, on roads and for street car purposes. All these belong to the "plug" class. And, notwithstanding that there has been a gradual decrease in the price of this class for the last few years, farmers appear to have been breeding as many as ever.

If our breeders intend to supply the foreign market in which there is such an inviting and promising field, there must be more class and line breeding. Hap-hazard production will not pay in the horse line as has been amply shown of late in American horse breeding. A good style of horse is saleable now, and great prices can be realized, but few appear to have the class of horses that are in demand in the great markets of the world. This trade with Belgium should be looked to by our farmer with increased interest, and encouragement should be given to the development of this foreign trade.

EGYPT LAND MAY BE A DESERT.

The time may come when there will be no corn in Egypt, if that country does not command the Upper Nile, as far as Victoria Nyanza. Sir Colin Scott-Moncrieff in a late lecture said it would be a perfectly easy matter for a hostile power to cut off the water in the Soudan and put Egypt in a starving condition. There is nothing new in this opinion, and excellent authorities believe it is worthy of grave attention. The idea even occurred to the barbarous people of the Soudan, for long before the Egyptian subjugation of the Upper Nile region the inhabitants of Sennaar boasted that they had it in their power to turn Lower Egypt into a desert. The late Gen. Gordon and the late Sir Samuel Baker shared the view expressed by Sir Colin. Ten years ago Baker declared that the security of Egypt depended upon her command of the Upper Nile. It is well known that the rich sediment from the Atbara tributary coming from the Abyssinian highland created the Delta of the Nile and made the fertile belt along the lower river. Gordon and Baker declared that an enemy, without engineering knowledge, might deflect the waters of the Atbara, by a dam thrown across its bed during the dry season, when it is devoid of water, about 250 miles from its junction with the Nile. The Atbara flows through a perfectly flat desert for that distance, and the effect of a dam would be the dispersion of its waters over a vast area of thirty sands, which would absorb the greater portion and prevent the necessary inundation of Lower Egypt.

WHERE IS THAT "CONFESSION?"

We agree with the Toronto Telegram in stating that the stories crediting the younger of the St. Thomas prisoner with confessing the crime for which be has been convicted are too opportune to be true.

Why was not the confession used at the trial ? The confession was not good enough to influence the jury, and is used now to influence the public in favor of a verdict which Chief Justice Meredith did not endorse.

It is important that murderers should be punished, and it is just as important that the right of every man in this country to fair trial should be upheld. The appearance of an unverified confession story is an admission that the verdict rendered by the jury at St. Thomas cannot stand alone in the strength of the evidence for the prosecution. If the Crown authorities had knowledge of a confession, why did they not use that knowledge in the trial ? And if there be no confession, the story is an outrage even upon a convict under sentence of death.

THE NEW SENATE.

Of the three legislative deadlocks which threatened to compel the new American Senate to begin work short-handed, two have been broken and now but one—that in Delaware—remains. Oregon elected a Republican of doubtful currency views ; and Idaho chose an out-and-out silver Republican. In Delaware the struggle between Higgins and Addicks, both Republicans, is still in progress. It was decided by the Senate in the case of Lee Mantle, the gentleman whom the Governor of Montana appointed to represent that State in the Senate when the Legislature had failed to elect a man, that no such appointment is valid ; so if the Legislature of Delaware fails to elect, the Senate will be one short of the complement. This will be of importance to the Republican party, for it will leave them with one short of half the Senate ; thus giving a combination of the Democrats and Populists an actual majority. Such a combination may not seem very likely under present conditions, but politics across the border are in a state of flux and no one can tell just how the lines will be drawn in the new Congress.

A LIBERAL VICTORY.

The restrictive policy on which Germany embarked with the accession of Prince Hohenlohe to the Chancellorship, and which has expressed itself in the orders prohibiting the admission of cattle and meal from foreign countries and in the Anti-socialist Bill, has, it seems, not been permitted to go to the wild length of stopping Hebrew immigration and making it difficult for Germans to emigrate and for foreigners to acquire German citizenship. On Wednesday resolutions aiming at both objects were defeated, after a session of the Reichstag of unusual excitement and bitterness. The Conservatives were the active supporters of the proposals, and they vociferously cheered the offensive and vulgar attacks of the loud-mouthed anti-Semite agitators. The votes were in a sense a defeat for the Government, for the Imperial Secretary of the Interior admitted that he was not opposed to hampering the acquisition of German citizenship.

The sentiment against Hebrews in Germany is strong. Otherwise it would have been impossible to have stirred up such a scene in the Reichstag. It comes about through the success of the people of that race in commercial and other lines. The Hebrews stand for commercial enterprise and they have made their way with wonderful success. The Conservatives, who live upon the land mainly and see the prestige of their class yielding to the mighty power of trade, are both jealous and bitter. But theirs is a losing fight. The landlord class is rapidly passing from power in Europe, giving way to the enterprising dwellers in cities and handlers of money. In refusing to pass the measures mentioned the Reichstag is simply recognizing and admitting the inevitable.

THE CHILDREN'S PROTECTION ACT,

Mr. J. J. Kelso, the superintendant of neglected and dependent children for Ontario, has published a report of his year's experience in the practical working of the Ontario Children's Protection Act that contains a number of valuable hints. The system is based upon the principle that there is no training school for a child like a Christian home. If the child find all requirements in its own home, then happy is the child and content may be the State ; but if it have no home or only a bad home, then the State interferes as wisely as it can and endeavors to transplant the child to a foster home where its great loss may be partially made up to it. As the report says : "By ensuring a healthier and happier home life for the children of the poor it will mean much waste material converted into valuable product, and, above all, a large diminution in the vicious and criminal class now being maintained at tremendous cost in our public institutions. For the class known as dependent children, the concensus of opinion abroad is that family life is by far the most natural, wholesome and economical method of disposal, and under the Children's Law of Ontario this is the officially recognized principle,"

The Children's Aid Societies, which are the voluntary instruments of the law in this case, have increased in number during the year from five to nineteen, and they have done a vast deal of good work. Difficulties have arisen, of course, and the superintendant seems to be especially anxious for more power in rural districts. Some things have been learned, too. For instance, girls are much more in demand than boys ; and the report remarks with a naive humor that "in order to find homes for little boys, some missionary work will be necessary among Christian, kindly-disposed people." Another piece of information picked up was that the city children must be sent away to the country when very young, if they are to be content there. Mr. Kelso placed seven lads between 12 and 15 on farms, but not one of them would remain. "The two excuses were hard work and loneliness," says the report. "They found the country so totally different to what they had been accustomed to that some of them could not get back to town quick enough. The experiment was a most valuable one nevertheless for it conveyed this important lesson—that if dependent children are to grow up contentedly in the country they must be transplanted very young." Before the age of eight is reached is considered the safest period.

The law on the whole is considered a success as far as it goes, and its future developement will be watched with interest.

Market Reports.

PETERBOROUGH.

The market has been brisk this week, especially in grain. Peas and oats have advanced in prices, and are still advancing Sheep and hog markets on Monday and Tuesday of next week, respectively. A good market may be expected to-day, as the demand for all kinds of produce, etc., is good, and the roads are in a fair condition for travel.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

March 22.—In Liverpool to-day the market was steady. The Chicago market closed 10c to 25c firmer. This market was firmer for eggs.

Butter—The offerings are fair and the market is steady with the demand mostly for large rolls, which sell at 12c to 15c, the latter for choice baskets. Dairy pound rolls are quoted at 16c to 17c, but the quality of much what comes in is not satisfactory. Dairy tub is very slow at 7c to 10c for low grade to medium, and 14c for fine tubs, with very little really extra good tub offered here.

Eggs—The receipts are smaller, there is a better demand and the market is firmer at 13c to 13½c.

Potatoes—There is a fair inquiry and the market is steady. Cars on the track here are quoted at 60c. Potatoes out of store sell at 65c to 70c.

Poultry—The receipts are fair, there is a fair demand and the market is steady at 12c for turkeys, 8c for geese and 65c to 70c for chickens.

Baled Hay — Is in fair demand and steady. Cars on the track here are quoted at $8 75 to $9.

Baled Straw—The market is dull. Cars on the track here are quoted at $5 50 for oat and $5 for wheat.

Maple Syrup—Is in good demand, and steady at 80c to 90c per imperial gallon, according to size of package.

Lard is in good demand and steady at 8c to 8½c for tierces, 8½c to 8¾c for pails and 8¾c to 8⅞c for tubs.

Dressed Hogs—The offerings are small, there is an active demand and the market is firm. A few rail lots sold here to-day at $5 90. On the street market here local packers paid $5 85 to $5 95.

FARMERS' MARKET.

The receipts of grain on the street market to-day were small, being one load of wheat, which sold at 66¼c, and 200 oats at 41c to 42c. Other grains are nominal at quotations. The receipts of hay a straw were fair and prices were firmer, 30 loads of hay selling at $11 to $12 for timothy and $8 50 to $9 50 for clover, and 4 loads of straw at $7 to $8 50. The receipts of dress hogs were fair, there was a good demand and the market was firm at $5 85 to $6.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

March 22.—Local shippers are buying a few cattle in the country on the basis of about 4½c to 4¾c. Little or no spot business for export is being done. There were about 350 head of butchers' cattle, 800 calves, 100 sheep and 50 spring lambs offered for sale at the East End Abattoir to-day. There seemed to be many more people than usual, among whom were over thirty farmers, with their teams, who brought calves and a few sheep for sale. The butchers were also numerous, but trade in cattle seemed to drag and few sales were made in the early part of the day. Prices were decidedly lower than on Monday. At few of the best cattle sold at from 3¾c up to near 4c per lb, with pretty good stock at from 3¼c to 3½ per lb, and half fatted beasts, including some hard looking bulls, were sold at from 2¾ to 3c per lb. There was a number of milkmen's strippers on hand, and sales of these were made at from 2½c to 3¼c per lb.

CONCERNING THE SCHOOL OF DOMESTIC SCIENCE.

"The stomach is the seat of the affections."—Bangs.

Reader have you got a wife ?
  Send her off to school,
'Twill save an endless tale of strife
  To send her off to school,
Where she'll learn to bake and boil,
Seethe, and roast, and fry and broil,
Salads dress with cream or oil,
  So send her off to school.

Everything is done by science
  At the cooking school,
So you may put your reliance
  In the cooking school.
If you want to learn to bake
Sally lunns or angel cake,
Gingerbread, or Spanish flake,
  Try the cooking school.

Call and see the work we do
  At the cooking school.
I know you'll want to join us too,
  At the cooking school.
Pastry, puddings, puffs and pies,
Rolls of every shape and size,
Boston beans, and lover's ties,
  At the cooking school.

That's the place you all should go,
  To the cooking school.
Come before you older grow,
  To the cooking school.
When your hubby's sick and sad,
You can learn some little fad,
That will make his stomach glad,
  At the cooking school.

AN APOLOGY TO CHIEF ROSZEL.

In Saturday's issue of "THE TIMES" a letter appeared, signed "Bravery," referring to a row at the Italian Colony, in which it is stated that Chief Roszel, in response to a telephone message, proceeded to the spot, and, although "to his consternation he saw with his own eyes a subject of the Sunny South brandishing a dagger and placing life and limb in danger," he made no arrest. The letter in other respects reflects upon the Chief's conduct on that occasion. While our columns are open to the public for any fair criticism of the Town's officials, we would not willingly allow defamatory matter to be published. We find upon enquiry that the statements made in the letter referred to are wholly without foundation, so far as they contain any imputation upon Chief Roszel's courage or conduct on the occasion referred to ; and we regret exceedingly that the letter appeared. It was received late at night and was printed and published without the knowledge or authority of the proprietor or chief editor, neither of whom saw it until after the paper was issued. So far as we are concerned, we fully retract every imputation that the letter contains against Chief Roszel, and tender him a sincere apology for its publication.

Can Catarrh Be Cured?

MOST POSITIVELY SO BY THE USE OF

Oxygenator

The record of our remedy is remarkable, it having shown itself equally efficacious in every form of the disease, from the simplest first symptoms to the most aggravated type. We confidently believe that any person suffering from Catarrh who has vitality sufficient to keep him alive until Oxygenator is given time to impart its properties can be completely cured by its use. That all other remedies have failed is no evidence that it will not cure.

Obtain precise but simple directions how to use it from head office, and we will guarantee you splendid results with the first jar you start with. Chronic cases desired.

PERMANENT RESULTS GUARANTEED

LIEUT.-GOV. MAY DESERT

AND HON. J. C. PATTERSON MAY BECOME LIEUT.-GOVERNOR OF ONTARIO.

The Former Will Then Get a Seat in the Cabinet—Dr. Montague to Get a Portfolio—Political Rumors These.

Special to The Times.

OTTAWA, March 22.—The rumor that Hon. J. C. Patterson proposes to retire from the Cabinet lacks official confirmation, but nevertheless there is reason to believe that it is well founded. Several months ago, it is understood, the minister expressed a wish to retire from politics, but at the time it was out of the question, just as it is at the present time. It is altogether likely, however that he will surrender his portfolio to Mr. Dickey and retain his seat until after the approaching session, Dickey being succeeded as Secretary of State by Dr. Montague. Mr. Patterson's retirement at present would necessitate a bye election in West Huron, which the Government is by no means anxious to face. Should this be effected there will be a bye election within a few week in Haldimand owing to the acceptance by Dr. Montague of an office of emolument.

MIGHT BE LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR OF ONTARIO.

Whatever takes place, Patterson will not retire without the opportunity of accepting a high office under the Government and one to which his general qualities eminently fit him. It is not unlikely that when the retirement of Mr. Patterson is announced officially it will be accompanied by the intimation that he is to succeed to a Lieutenant-Governorship.

Your correspondent was informed today that Lt.-Governor Kirkpatrick is to be called to Ottawa to take a seat in the Cabinet, and that Mr. Patterson will reside for the next four years in Government House, Toronto. Touching this, however, no official confirmation can be elicited.

CLARK WALLACE IS DUMB.

The quietest man in Ottawa is Hon. N. Clarke Wallace. When the school question is mentioned his mouth is sealed. To no one will he talk about it, not even to members of the Government and his intimate friends. The Sovereign Grand Master is waiting, and when he has concluded that the proper time has arrived, will send forth his broadside.

A prominent Conservative last night declared that so soon as the remedial order was passed fifteen members of Parliament would resign their seats. Sam Hughes, M. P., who was here yesterday, went west last night full of indignation against the Government and declaring that he will undoubtedly vote against it next session.

A Quarter of a Million Fire.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 22.—A fire in the International Cotton Press at Gainnie and South Peters streets this morning burned between 15,000 and 20,000 bales of cotton. The loss will probably exceed $250,000, covered by insurance.

CRIMINAL LIBEL CASE.

Chief Roszel's Charge Against The Publisher of The Times.

In the police court yesterday morning, a charge of criminal libel against Mr. W. H. Robertson, of THE MORNING TIMES, preferred by Chief of Police Roszel, was heard by Police Magistrate Dumble. The plaintiff was represented by Mr. R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney, and the defendant by Mr. A. P. Poussette, Q. C. The charge was as follows:

The said informant says that William Hepburn Robertson, at the town of Peterborough, in the county of Peterborough, on Saturday, the 16th day of March, 1895, unlawfully and maliciously intending to injure and prejudice the said complainant, then holding the office of Chief of Police, of the said town of Peterborough, and intending to deprive him of his office and of his good name and reputation, and to bring him into public contempt and ridicule and disgrace, did publish and cause to be published in the Peterborough TIMES, a newspaper published in the said town of Peterborough, a false and defamatory libel, in the form of a letter containing divers false and defamatory matters of and concerning the said complainant, which letter is in the words and figures following:—

A LETTER.

Editor of the Times.

A few days ago a telephone message was received at police headquarters asking for protection in a row at the Italian colony. Chief Roszel (alone) responded to the call, and to his consternation saw with his own eyes an object of the sunny south brandishing a dagger and placing life and limb in danger. Did he arrest him? Did he have the courage to arrest him? Did he show any disposition to arrest him? Did he try by any persuasion to make the sunny desperado subside into perfect quiet? These are questions I would like answered. In addition, he might, while answering the above questions, answer the following: Why did he not arrest the desperado on the spot? Why did he issue a warrant for his arrest and ask a subordinate to carry it into execution? How does he recognise the above facts with a sense of duty?—a duty which ought at all times to be exhibited with that degree of courage necessary to the true fulfilment of the position of Chief of Police.

Yours sincerely,
"BRAVERY."

Meaning, thereby, that the said complainant had seen a breach of the peace committed in the said town of Peterborough, and had, as Chief of Police of said town of Peterborough, acted in an unmanly and cowardly manner, and had utterly failed to do his duty as such Chief of Police in respect of such breach of the peace, and was unfit for his said office of Chief of Police, he, the said William H. Robertson well knowing the said defamatory libel to be false, contrary to the statute in that behalf.

A plea of not guilty was entered and the defendant elected to be tried by a jury.

Before any evidence was entered into, Mr. Poussette stated that the letter signed "Bravery" had been published without the knowledge of Mr. Robertson. As soon as it was learned that the charges contained therein were incorrect, an apology had been published in THE TIMES, headed "An Apology to Chief Roszel," which was inserted in almost the same position in the paper that the letter appeared in. He offered to read the apology but upon Mr. Wood saying that it was ample so far as a retraction of the statements contained in the letter were concerned, it was not read.

At this juncture, Mr. Wood said the plaintiff would drop the charge if THE TIMES would publish an apology for previous articles which had appeared in its columns, and, further, if Mr. Robertson would deliver up the letter signed "Bravery" and the name of the writer. He did not think that the plaintiff was asking too much.

Mr. Poussette replied that his client could not reveal the name of the writer unless forced to do so. The hearing of evidence was then taken up.

PROPRIETORSHIP ADMITTED.

The first witness was R. J. Sanderson who stated he had purchased a copy of THE SATURDAY TIMES at the office, of the date of March 16, which he produced. It was shown to contain the letter signed "Bravery."

The next witness was C. H. J. Mitchell, day foreman of THE TIMES. Witness said Mr. Robertson was publisher of THE TIMES, but he could not say whether or not he was the proprietor. The business was known as THE TIMES Printing Company, and letterheads and correspondence were printed and signed TIMES Printing Company, with Mr. Robertson as general manager. He had never known anyone to be associated with Mr. Robertson in the business. He knew nothing of the letter until he read it in the paper on Tuesday.

Evidence as to the lease of the premises was given by Mr. H. C. Winch. He understood Mr. Robertson was the lessee of the building in which THE TIMES is published, and he also understood Mr. Robertson was the proprietor.

Mr. Poussette at this juncture stated that Mr. Robertson would admit proprietorship.

Fred Green, an apprentice of THE TIMES office, was next called. His evidence was to the effect that on Friday night, March 15, a letter signed "Bravery" was given him to set up by Mr. Harris the reporter. When he had finished his copy it was put on a file, and at the conclusion of the night's work was put into the waste paper basket, the contents of which were burned. The letter was written on paper bearing "The Snowden House," heading. He was given the letter shortly after 11 o'clock.

The next witness was F. T. Harris, reporter for THE TIMES. On Friday night last he went on duty between 6 and 7 o'clock. Mr. Robertson had left the office when he arrived and he did not see him that night. Upon returning from the council meeting he found two letters on his desk, one signed "Bravery," and the signature to the other, he did not remember, but it was not the name of the writer. The first he had seen or heard of the letter was the finding of it on his desk. He was alone in charge of the office and heard no one telephoning to the Snowden House. He read the letter for the purpose of punctuating it and gave it to Green to set up.

He did not know from what place it had been sent nor who had brought it to the office. He had an idea who wrote it.

Mr. Wood—Well, who wrote it?

An objection to the name being given was made by Mr. Poussette, who contended that the proprietor was responsible for its publication and it was not necessary to disclose the writer's name.

The Magistrate—If he sent a letter to a newspaper did he not publish it? I do not think there is any right to privilege.

Mr. Poussette again objected. It might furnish grounds for an action against another person. The Magistrate overruled the objection and the question was again asked the witness.

Witness said he did not see the letter written but he recognized the writing and to the best of his knowledge the author of the letter was Mr. Andrew McNeil. The second letter was not published.

To Mr. Poussette—He had not consulted Mr. Robertson about the letter for the reasons that it was after 11 o'clock and he did not want to disturb him, and because he believed the letter to be from a reputable source.

Mr. Wood asked what instructions had been given witness by Mr. Robertson regarding articles that were to be published. Witness replied that he had been told to exclude everything of a defamatory nature and to consult Mr. Robertson on articles of a personal character. He understood these instructions to apply to Chief Roszel. Mr. Wood then asked who wrote the article headed "Man and Boy" in THE TIMES of Feb. 2.

An objection was raised by Mr. Poussette to this evidence being given. The Magistrate noted the objection but admitted the evidence.

Witness then said he wrote the article and had published it without showing it to Mr. Robertson. A paragraph in the issue of February 6th under the heading of "Ins and Outs" he had also written. Mr. Robertson might have seen it before publication, but he was not certain. A letter signed "Councillor" in the issue of February 8th he knew nothing about. He did not know who wrote "The Lime Juice Club," nor certain editorial paragraphs in the issue of February 9th. He acknowledged having written numerous other paragraphs, an article headed "Thirty Years Hence," and an item headed "A False Alarm" published in the issues of February 18th and January 26th. He thought Mr. Robertson had looked over the manuscript of "Thirty Years Hence."

Witness explained to Mr. Poussette that the Weekly contained articles selected from the Daily "forms." The selections he thought were made by Mr. Mitchell or his assistant. This accounted for the repetition of some articles.

Mr. Wood asked witness what had incited the animosity that had prompted the writing of the paragraphs which he had acknowledged writing. Witness replied that he had no personal animosity against Chief Roszel. Mr. Wood asked if witness had not offered to bet two to one that Chief Roszel would be dismissed. Witness replied that he made one bet that way, but disclaimed that it was prompted by animosity.

Mr. Wood—You lost it.

Witness—Yes.

The Magistrate—He was trying to win it.

CONSTABLE STEWART.

The next witness was Constable Stewart. He stated that he had overheard some remarks which Mr. Robertson had addressed to a citizen.

Mr. Poussette objected to the conversation being given as evidence, on the grounds that they had no right to go beyond the newspaper itself. The Magistrate thought it might show malice, and said that in a case where a man who was allowed to continually attack and malign a person, against whom, he says, he has no personal animosty, the proprietor is himself the responsible party.

Constable Stewart then told of a conversation between Councillor Best and Mr. Robertson. The latter, he said, made the remark that he would never let up on the Chief or be satisfied until he had driven him out of town. The conversation took place on George street, near Mr. Best's store, last summer. Witness could not remember the exact date. The remarks, he thought, were lead up to by a criticism of the Chief's action regarding the blocking of some street by the Grand Trunk. Other remarks were made by Mr. Robertson about the Chief following him and some friends down to the Snowden House on one Sunday night with the purpose of getting evidence against that hotel of a liquor nature. The remark that Mr. Robertson made, said the witness, was that if that was all the chief had to do they should get him some other duty.

Mr. Poussette—I think they should, too.

Upon cross examination witness, when asked if he was a member of the P.P.A., stated that he was not. He had been accused of that before, and he was glad to be given an opportunity of denying it under oath.

CHIEF ROSZEL.

Chief Roszel was the next and last witness. He said he was the person mentioned in the letter "Bravery." The statements contained therein were false with the exception that he did issue a warrant. On Monday night Mr. Robertson had called at the police station after having been served with a summons and had told him there were two men prepared to swear that the charges in the letter were true.

Mr. Poussette asked the witness if it was not so that he had personal feelings against the defendant. Witness said he had not. Little disputes, he admitted, had arisen, but they were due to the fact that he had been obliged to lay several informations against the defendant and not on account of personal animus. He had followed Mr. Robertson and other gentlemen on the Sunday night mentioned because he thought they were going to the Snowden House, and he wanted to see where they were going. He did not go any further than Mr. Sam English's house, and he denied looking in the windows of the Snowden House or peeking around. He had not listened at the door of the defendant's private office. He tried the door, found it locked and rapped. The door was opened. Some gentlemen were inside but he saw nothing. This was four years ago. When asked if he was a member of the P.P.A. he replied that he knew no such society. He had joined a society but had only attended the meetings once.

Magistrate Dumble, at the conclusion of the evidence, said that it was a pity that two reputable citizens could not bury the hatchet and make open confessions. Incautious people, no doubt, furnished newspapers with information which was not always correct and made grievances that were unfounded. In this way he thought that Mr. Robertson had doubtless heard complaints against the Chief, but if he had had as good an opportunity as the Police Magistrate of knowing the Chief's good qualities, he was sure there would have been no trouble. He hoped the hatchet would be buried deep.

"That is what we propose to do," replied Mr. Poussette. Continuing he said that an ample apology had been made for the letter. Mr. Robertson conducted a fearless newspaper and had criticised town officials. Mr. Robertson could not be expected to promise not to criticise the Chief in the future, but what he was willing to do, was to submit to the Chief any charges or complaints that were made, and if the Chief denied them they would not be published. Mr. Poussette said this was certainly an evidence of fair intention.

Mr. Wood said that the Chief felt the sting of the continued attack. The Chief, he thought, would consent to drop the case if Mr. Robertson would publish an apology for the various articles that had appeared from time to time in THE TIMES and he would ask for an enlargement of one week pending the publication of such an apology.

Mr. Poussette replied that the proceedings of the court would be published in THE TIMES, which ought to be sufficient vindication. As regards the various articles mentioned it had not been shown that they were not true.

Mr. Robertson stated that if all that could be, was related, the feeling would not all be in favor of the Chief. He was willing, however, to bury the hatchet.

The Magistrate reiterated his remarks for a favorable settlement, which would save much trouble and expense. He thought it would be best to enlarge the case for one week, and in that time he hoped some amicable settlement would be made.

PRODUCTS OF SCIENCE FOR HOME USE

BEAUTIFUL AND BRILLIANT COLORS

Within the last few years science has been at work, and the results are the fast Diamond Dyes for Cotton; Turkey Red, Scarlet, Pink, Crimson, Purple, Seal Brown, Orange, Olive, Green, and other colors.

These dyes make colors so fast that even washing in strong soap suds will not cause them to fade. If women will ask for Fast Diamond Dyes for Cotton, and see that they get them, they will be able to dye any of the above colors absolutely fast and unfading, colors that will remain until the goods are worn out.

Fast Diamond Dyes for Cotton give grand a brilliant colors to carpet rags, and are therefore invaluable to country people who make Rag Carpets. These popular dyes are far ahead of all other forms of dyestuffs, and many large dye houses use them regularly.

Common package dyes—worthless imitations—are now sold in some stores; beware of these; insist every time upon getting the guaranteed Fast Diamond Dyes: tried, sure, true, brilliant and unfading.

Almeda Chattelle's Trial Will Take Place at the Perth Assizes at Stratford Next Week—An Old Dodge, Insanity, to Be the Line of the Defence.

Special to the Times.

TORONTO, March 21.—The Perth Assizes will open at Stratford on next Tuesday, and Almeda Chattelle, the sel-confessed murderer of Jessie Keith, near Listowel, last October, will be placed on trial during the week. John Idington, Q. C., of Stratford, will act as Crown prosecutor, while H. M. East, of Toronto, will defend the prisoner, at the request of Prosper Chattelle, of St. Hyacinthe, Que., a half brother of the prisoner.

Mr. East will endeavor to show that Chattelle is insane.

The Crown will be asked to pay the expenses of witnesses on this point in behalf of the prisoner. The life of the accused will depend alone on this plea.

If insanity be established, Chattelle will not be hanged.

UNCLE SAM WILL FIGHT

If Spain Does Not Call Off Her War Dogs—Another Scrape.

NEW YORK, March 21.—A despatch from Tampa, Fla., says the steamer Mascot arrived this evening direct from Havana, and brought late reports from the seat of revolution. Copies of La Lucha confirm the report of the sinking of the schooner Irene by the Spanish gunboat off Puerto Padre, near Gibara. For two days uncertain and untraceable reports have reached here regarding an American schooner being fired upon by a Spanish gunboat on the southern coast of Florida.

A steamer brought news from Key West which is said to be authentic, claiming that the schooner Irene, of Key West, had been fired upon and dismantled by the Infanta Isabel near Charlotte Harbor, after which the schooner drifted ashore, where she now lies aground south of the above harbor.

It is generally understood that the authorities at Washington have been notified. The Irene is a coasting schooner of sixty tons, commanded by Captain Carballo, and generally carried a crew of eight. The incident must have occurred on Saturday.

Tracked to his Lair.

SANTE FE New Mexico, March 20.—The body of Vincent Silva, Chief of the San Miquel band of robbers assassins and that of his wife Telesfora Sandova have been brought here. The officers, have been searching the country over for Silva for the last two years, there being rewards for his capture, dead or alive, aggregating $7,000. He was the leader of a band of desperadoes who terrorized the southwest for years. It is claimed that no less than 12 men fell at the hands of Silva alone.

When the officers got on his trail, his capture and conviction was but a question of hours. Silva who was suspicious of his wife, fearing she had betrayed him to the officers, killed her on the night with a bowie night and buried the body in the sands of the deep aroya, near Las Almos. Boasting of his crime to some of his followers, they in turn murdered him, and buried him in the same grave with his victim.

HYAMS' HELD FOR TRIAL.

THE MAGISTRATE SAYS THAT SOME ONE KILLED WELLS.

He Commits the Twins to Stand Their Trial for Murder, Refusing an Application for Dallas Hyams' Discharge.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, March 21.

KINGSTON penitentiary or the gallows may be the fate of the Hyams brothers. Convincing is the evidence that the death of young Wells was not due to accident. The weight could not have come off the hook as alleged, and killed the deceased. Some one killed him, and these two men were the only people present when he met his death. I will commit both for trial."

With these words Police Magistrate Denison brought to a close the most expensive preliminary investigation ever held in the Police Court, and committed H. P. Hyams and D. T. Hyams to stand their trial on the charge of murdering William C. Wells in their warehouse on Jan. 16, 1893.

The defence made no effort to evade trial in the case of Harry P. Hyams, but E. F. B. Johnston made a strong appeal for the discharge of Dallas Hyams on the ground of insufficient evidence. He claimed that no motive had been proved, that Dallas had nothing to do with the placing of the insurance on Wells' life and that nothing showed that he had received any of the insurance money or participated in renting the warehouse.

Crown Attorney Curry replied, showing that Dallas was a party to the transaction by which Wells, Aylesworth and Miss Wells had been induced to put their money into the hands of the Hyams; that Dallas gave directions for the alterations in the elevator by which the weights were to be changed; that Dallas was on the scene of the tragedy when it happened.

TESTING THE WEIGHT.

This morning a group of gentlemen assembled at 26 and 28 Colborne street, the scene of the Wells tragedy. They were ex-District Attorney Wellman, his partner, W. W. Gooch, E. F. Johnston, Q. C., and Barristers Horn and Barrett. These gentlemen represented the defence in the Hyams case. Besidrs these there were present expert elevator men, Sergeant Reburn and Detectives Black and Davis, the latter representing the Crown, and having in their charge the rope and hook and fatal weight. The warehouse was unlocked, the party entered and proceeded to the elevator, with which divers experiments were made. The hook and weight ware attached and the elevator run up and down at various rates of speed, the weight rope was jerked and other manouvres gone through. These were conducted under the direction and supervision of the defence, while the detectives looked and saw that the hook was not opened any wider, the weight stolen, or the elevator turned upside down. These experiments were made with a view to show that the weight could fall off.

E. F. B. Johnston was seen by a reporter as to the result of the experiments.

"There was no experiment in the sense that we dropped the weight or tried to drop it. That is not possible on account of the boilers that have been placed below. In fact the changes id the building preclude the possibility by either the Crown or the defence of ascertaining what might or might not qappen at the time of the accident.

DALLAS BREAKS DOWN.

Dallas T. Hyams broke down completely last night on his return to the jail after his committal. During the course of E. F. B. Johnston's appeal on his behalf his nervousness and agitation were apparent to everybopy. He sobbed bitterly when going down to jail.

A THRILLING EXPERIENCE.

They Started Out to Fight Fire and Met Something Else.

An incident of the forest fires in the Pine creek region is related by Sam Campbell, who works in the woods near Blackwell's. Sam was one of the crew of men sent out to "back fire" (fight fire with fire), and he declares that their experience was most thrilling.

While setting fire to a thicket that crowned a rocky ridge he and his crew were startled to find themselves suddenly in the midst of a lot of rattlesnakes. The forest fire was advancing up the side of the hill at a rapid rate. Its whistling, whirring sound as it devoured the hemlock tops was terrific, and the men were bent on building a line of fire to start toward it, hoping that when the two lines met the fury of the flames would be subdued for lack of material on which to feed. It was while thus employed that they encountered the snakes.

The ground seemed to be literally alive with rattlers, the reptiles crawling in the direction of a rocky bluff not more than 100 yards distant. The men were all equipped with high topped leather boots and paid little heed to the snakes, stepping on them as though they were harmless old sticks. Campbell says that the rattling made by the reptiles could be heard above the roar of the distant flames.

The "back fire" made by the men caught dozens of crawlers, and they were burned to death. Campbell said he watched several of the rattlers "give up the ghost." When the flames advanced so close that the snakes saw further escape was impossible, they would coil up in a heap, darting their heads angrily at the tongues of flame, then suddenly relapse, when the heat overcame them, a moment later to be devoured.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Napoleon's Schoolboy Character.

In August Buonaparte and Bourrienne shared the first prize in mathematics, and soon afterward, in the same year, 1783, a royal inspector, M. de Keralio, arrived at Brienne to test the progress of the king's wards. He took a great fancy to the little Buonaparte, and declaring that, though unacquainted with his family, he found a spark in him which must not be extinguished, wrote an emphatic recommendation of the lad, couched in the following terms: "M. de Bonaparte (Napoleon), born Aug. 15, 1769. Height, 4 pieds, 10 pouces, 10 lignes (1 metre, 59 centimeters, 73 millimeters), of good constitution, excellent health, mild (soumis) disposition. Has finished the fourth form. Straightforward (honnete) and obliging (reconnaissant). His conduct has been most satisfactory. Has always been distinguished for his application to mathematics, is fairly acquainted with history and geography, is weak in all accomplishments—drawing, dancing and the like. This boy would make an excellent sailor; deserves promotion to the school in Paris." Unfortunately for the prospect of a place in the navy, M. de Keralio, who was a powerful friend, died very soon afterward.—Professor Sloane's "New Life of Napoleon" in Century.

A Narrow Escape.

On Saturday morning of last week, the Strickland & Co.'s office, Lakefield, had a narrow escape from being destroyed by fire. It appears that the pipe going through the ceiling became heated and melted the solder on the thimble which caused it to slip down and the heat became so intense that the woodwork around the pipe became ignited and communicated from there to the wall of the building. The fire was discovered before it had made much progress and a few pails of water soon extinguished the blaze.

Incendiarism is Suspected.

On Tuesday afternoon Chief Bell, of Lindsay, arrested one Charles Geneveckow, on the charge of having set fire to the store of Gough Bros., there, on the night of March 6th. The prisoner was remanded until Monday next, when he will come before P. M. McIntyre to answer to the charge preferred. This is the first arrest in connection with these mysterious fires in Lindsay and it will be hard to tell just where it will end. The council has offered a reward of $200 for information leading to the arrest of the incendiary.

Oddfellows Entertain.

A joint meeting of Mount Hebron and Hiawatha Encampments, I.O.O.F., entertained Mr. S. S. Merrick, Grand Patriarch, last night in their lodge rooms. Their distinguished visitor was met at the 7 30 C.P.R. train by a deputation and escorted to the lodge where a large number of Oddfellows had assembled. A very pleasant evening was spent. Addresses were made by the Grand Patriach, Dr. Bell, Mr. Thos. Workman, Mr. W. Hill, Mr. J. McGill, Mr. Robert Stewart, Mr. J. D. Tully and Mr. R. M. Roy. During the evening the brethren adjourned to Bro. H. Long's and partook of a supper.

The Woman's Globe.

Canadian women are already noted for many graces of person, character and heart, and now they propose showing that they also possess mental powers of a high order, combined with business qualities. They have undertaken to assume charge of an entire issue of the Toronto Daily Globe (for April 18, next). The regular editorial and reportorial staffs, certainly all the male members thereof, will be displaced for that issue by a staff of ladies who will cover every department of the paper—business, editorial, local and general. The issue will be a very large one, both as to the number of pages and as to circulation, and will also be non-political and non-sectarian. The result of this unique undertaking will, we are sure, be watched with keenest interest, not only by the fair sex of the Dominion, but also by the, on this occasion, more curious male element.

PETERBORO'S DEFEATED.

Collegiate Institute Vanquishes the Champions in a Score of 11 to 6.

For the first time in two years the Peterborough hockey team was defeated last night by the Collegiate Institute hockeyists. Citizens who witnessed the game say it was the fastest and most exciting of the season. There is no doubt that it was the hardest fought battle the Peterboroughs ever engaged in. In no game this season was there such splendid combination work.

The Collegiates rushed things from the start and at the end of the first half had completely winded the players, who did not sufficiently recover to put up as good a fight in the second half as they are capable of. At the end of the game the score stood 6 to 11 in favor of the Collegiates. The latter team was perfect in every point and it is hard to determine who were the bright particular stars of the aggregation. All did effective work and King and Adams especially distinguished themselves. The teams lined up as follows:

Collegiate		Peterborough
Hamilton	Goal	Dixon
Pousette	Point	Montgomery
Adams	Cover Point	Parsons
King	forwards	Phelan
Belleghem		Lefevre
Lewis		Wonham
Goldsmith		Davidson

The "Greenies" have instructed The Times to publish a challenge to the Peterboroughs to play a game of hockey at their earliest convenience. The challenge goes forth.

The Peterborough lacrosse team will meet for organization on Tuesday night, March 26.

MARKET TOLLS SOLD.

Mr. R. H. Green Bids Them in for the Sum of $2,250.

The market tolls were sold by public auction yesterday morning at the Council Chamber and Mr. R. H. Green again was the highest bidder. Last year Mr. Green had to pay $2,070 before he silenced the other gentlemen who were bidding against him, and when the market was sold yesterday morning he had to go up to $2,250 before he secured it.

When Mr. Stapleton called for bids at 11 o'clock there were four gentlemen who had presented their bonds and were present to bid. They were Messrs. R. H. Green, John Kincaid, John Kelly and Thos. A. Choate of Warsaw. No bid under $10 would be accepted.

Mr. Kincaid started the bidding with an offer of $1,500. Mr. Choate raised this to $1,600 and Mr. Kelly made it $1,700. The bids came rapidly. Mr. Choate offered $1,800, Mr. Kelly raised it to $1,900, Mr. Choate to $2,000, Mr. Kelly to $2,050 and Mr. Choate to $2,075. Mr. Kelly then made the even $2,100, but Mr. Choate raised it to $2,125. Mr. Kelly made his bid $2,150, and Mr. Green made his first bid, raising it to $2,175. Mr. Choate then bid $2,200, Mr. Kelly raised it to $2,210, Mr. Choate to $2,220, Mr. Green to $2,230. Mr. Choate to $2,240, and Mr. Green to $2,250. A halt was reached here, and after giving ample time for other bids the hammer fell and the market went to Mr. Green.

TWO MARKET DAYS.

A Wednesday Market Can be Built up if the Effort is Made.

Peterborough's Saturday market is acknowledged to be one of the best if not the best in the province. The attendance of both buyers and farmers with produce is certainly very gratifying. The fact is Saturday's market is somewhat large—too large to admit of the sale of the whole of the produce that is brought in. This fact suggests that there should be two recognized market days, and Wednesday would be just the day for the first market of the week. This would be a great advantage not only to merchants and citizens generally, but also to the farmers. Belleville, a town not so large as Peterborough has three market days each week, and all are largely patronized. The railway gives a cheap rate on these days, which enables the people for miles around to attend. No doubt the railways will fix a rate on Wednesdays the same as prevails on Saturdays. The Board of Trade is willing to co-operate with the Council in an effort to secure a half rate on Wednesdays. A good market on Wednesdays can be built up if the proper action is taken and an effort made in the right direction.

A FEW RESOLUTIONS

Passed at a Congregational Meeting of St. John's Nission.

A congregational meeting of St. John's mission was held last night at which Rev. J. C. Davidson presided. The proceedings were as follows:

Moved by Miss Chamberlain, seconded by Mrs. Buller,—That Messrs. W. B. Bamford and A. Pearson be elected assistant wardens of the parish.—Carried. These gentlemen will be formally elected at the Easter Monday Vestry meeting.

Moved by Mr. Pearson, seconded by Mr. Evans,—That Miss Rubidge be requested to retain her position as treasurer.—Carried.

Moved by Mrs. Buller, seconded by Mrs. Bamford,—That a vote of thanks be tendered our two organists, Mrs. Hibbard and Miss Hurley, for services rendered.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Point, seconded by Mr. Pearson,—That a vote of thanks be tendered Mr. Lambe and Mr. Parker for services rendered.—Carried.

Mr. Long, churchwarden of St. John's, made a short address before the meeting closed.

WEDDING BELLS.

The Nuptials of Miss Mabel Deyell and Mr. Jas. Thorne, of Otonabee.

On Wednesday evening, March 20th, Miss Mabel Deyell and Mr. James Thorne were united in the holy bonds of matrimony at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. John Deyell, of Otonabee.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. W. C. Beer, of Ashburnham, a very appetising repast was served, and some time was pleasantly spent in social intercourse, after which the young couple departed to their new home in Otonabee.

The presents were exceedingly numerous and handsome, and testified to the high esteem in which the bride was held by her many friends. The young couple have the best wishes of all for many years of happy wedded life.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Miss Lola Pettit has returned home after a pleasant visit with friends in Millbrook, Ida and Cavanville.

Mr. S. S. Merrick, returned to his home last night. A number of Oddfellows accompanied him to the train.

Mr. Alf. Jackson, representing the well known Dominion Brewery Company, is in town taking orders from the firm's many customers here. The Dominion is one of the leading brewery companies in Canada, and its different brands in wood and bottle have for years withstood the brunt of numerous competition. Today it enjoys a large and popular patronage and Mr. Jackson has all he can do in the way of taking orders. "Alf's" many friends in town are delighted to see him once more.

Mr. A. Kingscote has just completed an order of eight large tents for the William Irwin Lumber Company, Wahnapitae. This speaks well of his business increasing.

Mr. R. J. Pybus, of Napanee, had the good luck to shoot a silver grey fox, striped with red, on Mr. Hugh Davy's farm, the hide of which will bring him about $90.

Old winter's game must ere long close,

The bloom will soon be on the rose,
The bloomers on the maid.

Mr. W. F. Trude has purchased three thoroughbred Durham cattle from Mr. William Collins, of Peterborough. Mr. Trude now owns some of the best cattle in the county in the thoroughbred line.

"Unwilling to leave a doomed city" is the subject of a talk, to men only, by Rev. J. J. Rae, Sunday afternoon, in Y. M. C. A. hall. Men cannot afford to miss this service, which is to commence at 4.15.

Two young lads in South ward, whose names cannot be learned, were "playing butchers" yesterday when one cut the other's finger off. The boy who lost his finger had his hand on a block and the other handled an axe. When the axe descended the lad was to pull his hand away, but didn't do so in time, and in consequence lost his first finger.

On Friday of last week, while Conductor Fred Russell, of this town, was running a snowplow on the Whitby division, the plow broke loose from the engine while going down the steep grade at High Point and dashed through to Whitby, attaining a speed of over 70 miles an hour at certain points. The runaway was switched onto a siding and ran into a huge pile of ties, thus bringing it to a standstill.—Lindsay Post.

In their annual report the Ontario game and fish commissioners recommend that two more wardens should be appointed this year; that H. K. Smith, warden in charge of the eastern portion of the province, be appointed chief warden, rendered vacant through the resignation of Mayor Stewart, of Hamilton, and that deputy warden be made constables under the act so as to allow them to serve their own summonses, subpoenas, etc.

Burglars broke into the store of Mr. R. Harstone, of Warkworth, on Monday evening of last week. The thieves made an entrance through the side window. Foot prints were discovered near the window which indicated that there were two in the robbery, one wearing a six and the other an eight rubber. The burglars not being able to find any money carried off some clothing, boots, etc. Some persons are suspected of the deed. That same evening a cutter was stolen from Mr. W. Evans, Norham, and one in a very battered up condition left in its stead. The broken cutter had been borrowed from Mr. Mowat, Warkworth.

A SOLID CONCERN.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and Its Advantages.

A prosperous and enterprising concern is the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, which justly lays claim to be the leading industrial company of America. A very interesting circular has just been issued by Mr. William McMullen, of Peterborough, the assistant superintendent, setting forth many pertinent facts. It will be to the advantage of our readers to secure one of these and familiarize themselves with the very liberal conditions surrounding the taking out of policies in this company.

The Monetary Times, which is well known to be the leading finance and trade journal of Canada, has the following to say of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company:

"Our readers have heard from time to time of the enterprise of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and its remarkable progress in industrial insurance. We have just seen a copy of the statement for 1894, and an astonishing one it is. The new insurance written by the company in that year was 308 millions of dollars, which is more than double that of 1893. It paid no less than 57,782 claims, amounting to $5,746,592, which is a little less than $100 per claim. Its income last year was over 18 millions of dollars. The assets of the company, whose total is $22,326,622, consists of bonds and mortgages, $9,733,000; Government bonds, city and railway stocks and bonds at market value, $5,307,000; real estate, accrued interest, cash, etc., forming the remainder. In addition to the re-insurance fund required by law, a special reserve is maintained by the company. All liabilities being deducted, there remains the sum of $4,035,740 capital and surplus as security for policy holders. Such splendid results as are indicated by these figures are the result of unusual skill and prudence on the part of the management and of loyal efforts on the part of 15,000 agents and employees. When one hears anything of the Metropolitan one involuntarily thinks of the president. And we observe with interest that on the occasion of the January meeting of Directors that gentleman was presented by the board and the officers with a gold medal bearing a medallion of himself and on the reverse the inscription: "A well rounded year, 1894. Semi centennial of John R. Hegeman."

LAKEFIELD NEWS.

CONCERT.

The Choral Society's concert last week was fairly well attended, and the various items on the programme gave great pleasure to an appreciative audience.

THE RINK.

The continued frost has extended the season for skaters and curlers beyond the usual limits. On Friday the 15th, an exciting and closely contested game of hockey between Keene and Lakefield resulted in a victory for the home team by seven goals to four. The play was good and free from roughness or dispute.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

Amongst many others Mr. Onderdonk was here on Tuesday looking over the route. It is reported that up to Saturday last eleven tenders had been handed in for this section and no doubt during this week, the last available, many others will be sent in, thus providing that healthy competition which we are told is the "soul of business."

CANADIAN ORDER OF FORESTERS.

Regular meeting on Thursday evening, March 21, of Court Lakefield, No. 43.

TIMBER.

Some fine sticks of square timber are being skidded alongside the G.T.R. tracks for Messrs. Elias Thompson & Sons.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.

The lecture last night on "Combustion" by Mr. Fife, of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, drew a fair attendance at the above society's hall. He ably handled the subject and illustrated it with chemical experiments.

TO THE ELECTORS

—OF—

East Peterborough

Gentlemen,—Having some time ago been nominated by the Patrons of Industry, and lately by the Liberal party, as a candidate for the representation of East Peterborough in the House of Commons at the approaching Dominion Elections, I have decided to accept the candidature as an Independent Liberal, and if elected I shall support, to the best of my ability, the following policy:—

1. Maintenance of British Connection.
2. Public lands for the actual settler and none for the speculator.
3. Independence of Parliament and economy in the public expenditure.
4. The abolition of the Canadian Senate.
5. Tariff for revenue only and to be levied principally on the luxuries and not the necessaries of life.
6. Reciprocal trade between Canada and any other country in the world if it can be obtained on fair terms.
7. Repeal of the Dominion Franchise Act and a return of the voters' lists made out by our municipal officers.
8. That electoral districts conform as nearly as possible to county boundaries.
9. Responsible government in practice as well as theory.

As it will be impossible for me to call on you all personally during the short time at my disposal, I take this means of placing my views before you an soliciting your support. I shall also endeavor to hold as many public meetings as possible in the several municipalities, at which I hope to have an opportunity of presenting my views more fully before you. I beg to remain, gentlemen,

Your humble servant,
JOHN LANG.

INTERESTING TO LADIES
SOMETHING FOR NOTHING
CAN YOU GET IT?

Many who should know better, are well pleased to get a good sized glass jar or tin of bulky alum, ammonia or other powerful but injurious mixture, for use as Baking Powder, at much less, perhaps even half the price, of the really good article, overlooking the fact that the amount thus APPARENTLY saved is of small moment in comparison with the real but not always immediately observed inevitable injury following the use of these articles. If in addition to the SEEMINGLY low prices there is attached some showy gift or prize to give the impression of extra value, the inferior or hurtful nature of the powder is lost sight of in the expectation (a vain one) of getting "something for nothing."

"LADIES' HOME" and "HAPPY THOUGHT" on the other hand, can always be depended on as articles of first class quality, and such as can be AND ARE guaranteed not only free from everything in the slightest degree injurious, but invariably sure, satisfactory and economical.

A Metal Breadboard

THE WOMAN WHO HAS BEEN USED to kneading dough on the old fashioned wooden breadboard knows what a bother it is to get them clean and how cumbersome and heavy they are. When they begin to crack or check its almost impossible to thoroughly cleanse them, and they may easily become dangerous conveyances of disease. It was left for a woman, of course, to remedy this state of affairs, and Mrs. M. M. Everhard, of St. Joseph, Mich., has patented a metal bread-board, which is one of the greatest labor-savers imaginable. It is light, does not absorb grease, dough does not adhere to it, and while it possesses all the advantages of the marble bread-board it is much cheaper and, of course, far lighter and easier to handle. If readers want to confer a favor upon their wives that will be forever appreciated, let them send $1 to the manufacturers, 101 Bay street, Toronto, for one of these boards.

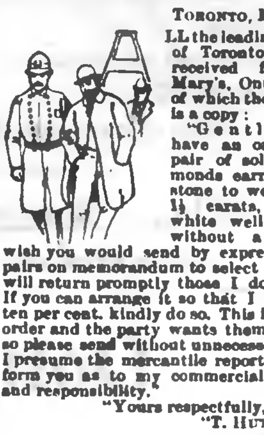
HE WANTED DIAMONDS.

BUT GOT QUARTERS IN THE POLICE STATION INSTEAD.

J. G. Coleman Arrested at St. Mary's After an Attempt to Swindle Toronto Jewelers Out of Diamonds,

Special to The Times.



TORONTO, March 23.

ALL the leading jewelers of Toronto yesterday received from St. Mary's, Ont., a letter of which the following is a copy:

"Gentlemen,—I have an order for a pair of solitaire diamonds earrings, each stone to weigh about 1½ carats, perfectly white well cut and without a flaw. I wish you would send by express several pairs on memorandum to select from and will return promptly those I don't want. If you can arrange it so that I can make ten per cent. kindly do so. This is a special order and the party wants them at once, so please send without unnecessary delay. I presume the mercantile reports will inform you as to my commercial standing and responsibility."

"Yours respectfully,
"T. HUTTON."

RATED AT $100,000.

The jewellers promptly looked up the mercantile reports and saw that T. Hutton, banker and business man, is rated at $100,000. The goods were put up and prepared for shipment.

One man alone was suspicious. He was P. W. Ellis, who communicated with Inspector Stark. The latter at once directed him to put up and ship a package of diamonds to St. Mary's, which was done. Detective Slemin was also shipped on the same train, the other merchants being warned of the trap.

Everything worked like a charm. The diamonds were taken charge of by the bogus Mr. Hutton, and he in his turn was taken charge of by Detective Slemin, who notified Inspector Stark of his capture on Saturday morning.

A NOTORIOUS SWINDLER.

The man who planned this game is one of the most notorious thieves in America. His name is J. C. Coleman and he worked exactly the same fraud in the United States. He swindled Atlanta, Georgia, jewellers out of $3,000, and also fleeced those of Macon, Augusta, Charleston and Savannah. The extent of these steals is estimated at $10,000. As in the case at St. Mary's he personated a well-known man, J. C. Coleman, of Swansboro', Ga.

Detective Slemin will arrive in Toronto tonight with his men.

DO NOT OWN THE STREET.

Brokers on the London Stock Exchange Called Down by a Magistrate.

Special to the Times

LONDON, March 23.—Mr. Paxton, the prominent member of the Stock Exchange who was arrested yesterday in Throgmorton street as a result of the disturbances between the brokers who do business in the street after the close of the Exchange and the police, was discharged this morning.

The magistrate, however, said that the brokers must understand that Throgmorton street was not for their use alone but for general traffic, and any interference with the police in clearing the street would be severely dealt with.

PROTEST AGAINST A UNION.

Newfoundland People who do Not Want to Come Into Confederation.

Special to the Times.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfd., March 23.—An enthusiastic meeting was held here last night. Two thousand protested against union with Canada.

A league has been formed, with branches throughout the colony.

Bullets Flew in the Air.

MARTIN'S FERRY, O., March 23.—The non-union men employed at the Buckeye glass works were stoned and shot at last night on Fourth street under the terminal railroad viaduct. One was struck on the arm and the other on the leg by stones. They took refuge in the barricaded works. Tonight while Peter Dunn, a workman, was walking on Carlisle, three shots were fired at him. He returned the shooting, but nobody was hurt. Two of the non-union glass workers arrived at the Buckeye factory tonight from Fostoria.

Poisoned Sugar.

PHILADELPHIA, March 23.—Nearly a million pounds of beet root sugar, mingled with which there is a quantity of arsenic, said to be sufficient to poison the entire population of Philadelphia, are to be sold to satisfy the government. The sale is to take place on Friday morning at a bonded warehouse, where the sugar, part of the cargo of the German steamus Remus, is stored. No mention is made of the fact that the sugar to be sold is mixed with arsenic, but an analysis shows the presence of a large quantity of the drug. The cargo, which has been abandoned to the government, was damaged in transit across the Atlantic and got mixed with arsenic in the ship's hold.

Diamond Cutters Deported.

NEW YORK, March 23.—The examination of the diamond cutters who arrived on the Majestic on Wednesday last was continued at Ellis Island today. Sixty five of the suspected men were released, and they took the first boat for this city. Sixty-two will be deported. There are thirty more suspects who came on the Werkenham still to be examined.

Over the Grave of One of Henry VIII.'s Wives.

LONDON, March 23.—The Katherines of the United Kingdom and America have just placed a beautiful slab of Irish grass fossil marble over the grave of Katheriny of Aragon, in Peterborough Cathedral. The inscription and the arms of the Queen are beautifully carved.

THE QUEEN IS ILL.

Her Majesty Stooped a Great Deal, Was Weary and Seemed Unable to Raise Her Head—Rosebery Will Soon Resign—Gladstone May Again Be Premier

Special to the Times.

LONDON, March 23.—Mrs. Emily Crawford, the well known Paris correspondent, in Truth this week has drawn a painful picture of Queen Victoria as she looked upon her arrival at Nice.

It appears that the Queen stopped a great deal, was weary and seemed unable to raise her head. She looked up and around under her eyelids as if lacking the strength to look otherwise. Her clothes were all loose and bundly, and in keeping with her facial expression.

The condition of the health of Lord Rosebery is not changed but there is no question that he is seriously ill and that the complications of the political situation are such as to deprive the Premier of the energy necessary to fight difficult and delicate questions.

Under these circumstances it is not astonishing that the wildest rumors are circulated, and that many people are turning their thoughts toward Mr. Gladstone as likely to be the man who will guide the Liberals once more out of political darkness and into the sunshine of harmony. Mr. Gladstone is now on his way to London.

HE TOOK $3,300.

Dry Goods Store Cashier Gets Away with Some of the Firm's Money.

Special to the Times.

BROOKLYN, March 23.—A general alarm was sent out from Brooklyn police headquarters tonight for the apprehension of Wm. Brunbusch, aged 31, of No. 93 Herbert street, who for some time past has been employed as cashier by Harry Batterman, a dry goods dealer at Broadway and Graham avenue.

Brunbusch was sent today to deposit $5,000 in the Broadway bank. His failure to return after a reasonable length of time caused the firm to make an investigation, which resulted in the discovery that the cashier had visited the bank, where he had deposited $1,700 of the money and had disappeared with the remaining $3,300. The police, on visiting his home, found that all his household effects had been packed up with the evident intention of a speedy removal. Brunbusch has a wife but no children.

Mrs. Brunsbusch professed to know nothing of her husband's whereabouts.

BARBAROUS TREATMENT.

ROBBERS BRUTALLY TORTURE AN OLD PENNSYLVANIA COUPLE.

Merritt Childs and Wife Bound and Gagged by Masked Men and Forced by Torture to Disclose the Hiding Place of the Money They Had in the House.

Special to the Times.

BRADFORD, Pa., March 23.—On Wednesday night at Palmer's Mills, a lonely place in Marvin Creek Valley, this county, Merritt Childs and wife, an aged couple, were tortured and robbed by three masked men. Mrs. Childs may die from her injuries.

It was 8.30 o'clock when a knock came to Childs's door. Mrs. Childs opened the door only to receive a blow on the head that felled her to the floor. Her husband came to her assistance and received similar treatment. On recovering consciousness the old people found their little house in the possession of the intruders.

They were bound hand and foot and gags placed in their mouths. Search was made of the house and $500 secured. Then the gag was removed from Mrs. Child's mouth and she was told to tell where the balance of the money could be found. She refused to talk, whereupon her bare feet were pressed against a red hot stove. She could not endure the torture and told where more money could be found. An additional $100 was secured by this experiment.

Then Mr. Childs and his wife were tortured again. All that remained of their funds was 30 cents and when this had been obtained the fiends again bound them up and gave them a few parting admonitions and brutal kicks. The trio then took their departure. After long struggling the old couple succeeded in loosening the bonds and giving the alarm.

Mrs. Childs is in a critical condition from the punishment and shock and may die as a consequence. Her husband was not so badly hurt. Sheriff Walker is working on the case. As yet there are only slight clews to work upon but suspicion rests on three men recently seen about the place.

Suspicion attached to two men who came in from the scene of the robbery over the Johnsonburg Railroad, a branch line that connects with the W.N.Y. & P. at Clermont, P. These two men displayed a quantity of gold, and when the appearance of so much coin excited comment, they explained their possession of it by the statement that they had won it playing poker. It was believed that these two men went to Buffalo or to Olean, and the police of both cities have been asked to look out for them.

SUICIDE AT YORK MILLS.

Duncan McLean Found Hanging to a Limb Tree in a Bush.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, March 23.—Duncan McLean, aged 28, was found hanged to a tree in the bush on Robert Anderson's farm near York Mills yesterday morning.

McLean, who worked for Anderson, went out to work on Thursday afternoon and as he did not return in the evening it was thought he had skipped out.

Anderson's boys went to the bush yesterday to see if McLean had done any work and found him hanging to a tree with his feet touching the ground.

Reeve Sylvester and Coroner Armstrong were notified, and having learned the circumstances decided an inquest unnecessary.

A Whipped Scholar Gets Damages.

SEYMOUR, Conn., March 23.—Martin Holden, who sued Edgar Stiles, principle of the local High School, for whipping him in school, was awarded a verdict of $30 and costs.

Surprise for Debs and His Allies.

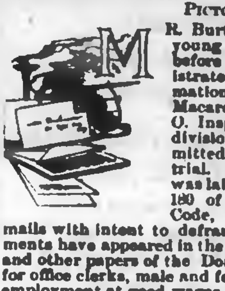
CHICAGO, March 23.—Judge Grosscup has decided to rehear the case of Eugene V. Debs and other American Railway Union officers on May 6. This will be a surprise to Debs and other labor officials, as they confidently believed the case would never reach a rehearing.

HE DEFRAUDED BY MAIL.

A PICTON STUDENT INVOLVED IN A SERIOUS FAKE SCHEME.

A Gasoline Explosion—Fell Into Ambush—Shot Through the Heart—Casualties Told by the Wires.

Special to The Times.



PICTON, March 23.

MR. Burton Spafford, a young man, was up before the police magistrate today on information laid by P. H. Macarow, (acting P. O. Inspector for this division) and committed to stand his trial. The complaint was laid under section 180 of the Criminal Code, for using the mails with intent to defraud. Advertisements have appeared in the Toronto dailies and other papers of the Dominion asking for office clerks, male and female, offering employment at good wages, applications to be addressed, Gross Grange Co., Box 13, Picton, P. O., and another advertisement of a similar nature, applications to be addressed to Box 12, Picton, P. O. Some parties who answered these advertisements, not feeling satisfied, communicated with the P. O. authorities, who quietly proceeded to investigate the matter, resulting in the arrest of Mr. Spafford, who is a young man attending the high school here, and respectably connected in the country. A good deal of credit is due to the acting inspector for the promptness and energy shown in working up this case, the result of which is likely to be an effective deterrent to others who might use the mails to assist them in defrauding the public by means of advertisements and circulars.

FELL IN AMBUSH.

CALCUTTA, March 23.—News was received here yesterday of the defeat of a Sikh company, under Lieutenant Ross, by Chitralis. Lieutenant Ross and 60 Sikhs were marching to reinforce the troops at Reshun. The natives, who were behind breastworks, near Karagh, fusiladed them and forced them to retreat. They followed the company closely and eventually surrounded them on all sides. There were about 1,000 natives, all firing steadily upon the Sikhs. Ross and 46 Sikh soldiers and eight camp followers were left dead on the field. The rest escaped. Another relief force will be started for Reshun with all haste.

SHOT THROUGH THE HEART.

WATERBURY, Conn., March 22.—Dr. G. C. Gay, 36 years old, shot himself through the heart tonight on account of financial troubles. He tried to shoot himself in his residence but his wife stopped him. He ran out to the barn. She followed him. The doctor aimed at his temple but she threw up his hand, when he aimed at his heart and fired. After calling for help his wife grabbed the revolver and threatened to shoot herself but neighbors took the pistol from her.

GASOLINE EXPLOSION.

DETROIT, March 22.—A fatal gasoline explosion occurred this morning at No. 265 Third street, where Mrs. Edwards and her son Robert, aged two years, are living with the former's mother, Mrs. Reading. This morning Mrs. Reading left a two-quart pail filled with a gasoline on the kitchen table. While her back was turned Mrs. Edwards came into the room. Supposing that the pail contained water, she carried it to the stove, raised the lid of the tea kettle and poured the gasoline into the kettle. An instant later it exploded, bursting the kettle and throwing the blazing liquid all over the room. Little Robert was standing close to the stove and was drenched from head to foot. Although he was completely enveloped in flames, his mother succeeded in tearing off his clothes and smothering the flames but not until the child was fatally burned. Mrs. Edwards was terribly burned about the hands, arms and face.

THE ORIENTAL WAR.

China to Endeavor Once More to Get the Powers to Interfere.

Special to the Times.

LONDON, March 23.—A despatch from a correspondent in Pekin says: "The Minister, Chang Hang, recently had three audiences with the Emperor. He has given sound advice, striving to forward Li Hung Chang's work. A new request is being addressed to the European powers to intervene and procure an immediate peace."

A newspaper's correspondent Tien Tsin mentions a report that telegrams from the Chinese peace envoys in Somonoseki to Pekin are intercepted by Japanese officials.

The Times correspondent in Hong Kong says there is a rebellion in Muiluk and the near by towns in the southwestern part of Kwang Tung. The rebels repulsed a punitive expedition from Canton, with a heavy loss. It is now intended to besiege Muiluk.

LONDON, March 23.—A despatch to the Pall Mall Gazette says the Japanese are making an attack on the Pescadore islands and have already taken possession of the largest of the group. These islands are situated between Formosa and the Chinese mainland.

Hong Kong, March 22.—Advices have been received here stating that two of Her Majesty's warships recently had a narrow escape from disaster. While the British squadron were weighing anchor in the harbor of Wei Hai Wei during a fierce gale a heavy sea swept over the forecastle of the flagship Centurion, drowning a seamen named Edwards.

Special to The Times.

EL PASO, Tex., March 23.—The report that Catarina Garza, the Mexican revolutionist, was killed at Bocas del Toro, Republic of Colombia, on March 7th, is positively denied by Victor L. Ochoa, another border revolutionist and a companion of Garza, who is now in jail here on the charge of violating the neutrality laws.

Ochoa says he has has heard from Garza regularly and that the latter is now in the State of Chiapas, Mexico.

Three Babies Cremated.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 23.—Three children of Charles Ross, a laborer, were left locked in their home while their parents went visiting. The house caught fire from a lamp and all the children were burned to death. All were under 3 years of age.

The Fire Record.

WINNIPEG, March 22.—The Northwest Mounted police canteen at Regina was burned last night. The barracks escaped with slight damages. Loss, $3,000.

The Ogilvie elevator at Methuen was totally destroyed by fire last night with 15,000 bushels of wheat.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 25 1895.

Good morning!

The sinking of the Spanish ironclad, Reina Regente is a painful reminder of the fact that there is always room at the bottom.

A military court at Barcelona has ordered the arrest of two local editors who protested against the looting of the newsoffices in Madrid, and the officers of the garrison at the capital are preparing to fight duels with the injured editors. If the present agitation results in giving Spain a free press, it will be the best thing that ever happened to that degenerate country.

The wreck of the Spanish cruiser, Rena Regente, brings up once more the question of the seaworthiness of modern warships. This is the third or fourth demonstration that their tendency is to be top heavy, owing to the weight of guns and armor. That is a fault which does not apply to the monitor type. What is the matter with Ericcson's famous model as a warship?

It has been charged that the number of employes in the Legislature at Toronto—sessional writers especially—is nearly as large as the number employed in the Ottawa Parliament, although the number of members is not one half. The practice at Toronto in regard to these matters resembles that of the Wisconsin State Legislature, where it had grown to so great scandal that a special committee has been appointed to suggest reforms.

In the House of Commons on Wednesday the bill giving to every ratepayer in Ireland a vote in the borough in which he is rated passed its second reading. Though the measure is like the Municipal Franchise Act, which has long been in force in England, it has been brought forward annually for the last 20 years and its progress blocked by the Conservative members of the House. Mr. Balfour and other Conservative speakers, however, announced on Wednesday that they approved the measure. This is a fair sample of the way in which Ireland has been governed from Westminster.

If the Buffalo murderers, Clarence and Sadie Robinson, had been tried in Canada they would either have been sentenced to death or set free. The Canadian law admits no compromise. In this country a man accused of murder is either guilty and deserves to be hanged, or he is innocent and should be allowed to escape unpunished. In New York State the jury has discretionary power, which it exercised in the Robinson case. From the evidence it was clear that the male prisoner killed Gibbs, but probably had not premediated the murder; therefore the jury found him guilty only of murder in the second degree, a verdict which saved Robinson from the death penalty and condemned him to life imprisonment. With regard to the female prisoner, who was an accessory in the killing, the jury refused to find her guilty of murder, but convicted her of manslaughter, and she received a sentence of 20 years' imprisonment. It is very probable that if the jury had been compelled to bring in a straight verdict either way, these prisoners would have been acquitted.

MURDER AND LIFE INSURANCE.

The detection and conviction of Welter and Hendershott a few days ago for the murder of the latter's nephew in order to obtain his insurance presents a new phase of crimnality to the public; at least it is a new scheme in this part of Canada. But there is no reason to believe from the Hyam's trial in Toronto and the developments brought to light in New York some time since of Dr. Meyers, that life insuring in order to profit by killing is more prevalent than the public are aware of. The insurance companies through this new scheme have been badly victimized, and they are now on the alert. To successfully murder, get the money out of the companies and not be found out, requires a high order of cunning and design on the part of the operator. It is an old saying that "murder will out," but murder in order to obtain insurance is almost doubly sure of detection, from the fact that the perpetrator first supplied a motive—in having a large interest in the death of the client.

The Dr. Meyer mentioned, who was brought up suddenly in New York for this new crime of defrauding insurance companies. was a man of fertile resource in planning, and, being a medical man, he had access to hospitals, and morgues where corpses could easily be had to fill the places of the persons insured, and by a little perjury on his part and well-feed coroners and well-trained accomplices, Meyers managed to get a good many fraudulent and heavy insurances. But when he finally poisoned his accomplice in order to get his life insurance, with all the aliases he assumed and all the cunning, and dodging from one large city to another, he was found out.

This Hendersott's and Welter's case, however, was one of the most stupid attempts at fraud ever perpatrated, to say nothing about it inhuman and brutal execution. Some time in May last Hendershott induced his nephew to take out a life insurance policy for $11,000. The firs year's premium for this amount was $240, and for subsequent years it would have been $158. At this time young Hendershott was only getting $144 a year, or $9 less than his yearly insurance premium. The policies were made out, of course, in favor of the uncle, John Hendersott. As a stroke of business there was no possible way of the latter making any gain except by the death of his nephew. And it was a well-known fact that the uncle was in straightened circumstances and could ill afford to pay premiums for his nephew, who was at least 20 years his junior. There is no denying that the insurance was a speculation, and the only way to realize on it and save paying any more premiums was to terminate the life of the insured. Executing the murder on the part of Hendershott for his gain was about as stupid as the original design of insuring his nephew. In order to kill it was arranged that young Hendershott and Welter should fell some trees in a bush near at hand, whilst the uncle Hendershott was to go to a village called Eden on some business. Whilst these young men (Welter and Hendershott) were at work suddenly the former lifted his axe and knocked Hendershott on the head, striking him again and again to make sure of his bloody work. Then the body was carried to a fallen tree and the head placed underneath to make the world believe that the tree did the work of the murderous axe. After this Welter ran a mile to the house of a relative, although there were half a dozen houses close at hand. The next move was to notify Uncle Hendershott of the death of his nephew by telegraph to Eden. It is strange that although there were two Willam Hendershotts (one a brother), John, the uncle, knew that it was the nephew, the insured, and that he had been killed by a tree. Nothing was mentioned in the telegram which William it was, nor how he was killed, yet Uncle John knew!

The life insurance companies started from this point. It was strange a man eight miles from an accident should know how it happened and who it was. The insurance companies were after Hendershott and Welter from the start, and link after link they forged a chain which has manacled two as deep-dyed inhuman aud merciless scoundrels as ever lived. It is to be hoped that the conviction of these two assassins to a rope's end will effectually put a stop to this stupid and murderous schemes of insuring for the sake of murder. Nobody but a reckless fool would try such a dangerous and sure-to-be-found-out-scheme.

THINGS YET TO BE.

Some say this world is an old, old world,
But it's always been new to me,
With its boundless range of ceaseless change
And hope of things to be.
A new friend takes my hand
When the old ones pass away.
The old days die, but the light in the sky
Is the dawn of another day.

Some say this world is a cold, cold world,
But it's always been bright to me,
With its hearthstone fires and warm desires
For the things that are yet to be.
And if I must labor I wait
And trust to the fields I have sown,
For I know there is truth in the promise of youth.
I will some time come to my own.

Some say this world is a sad, sad world,
But it's always been glad to me,
For the brook never laughs like my soul when it quaffs
And feasts on the things to be.
The night comes on with its rest,
The morning comes on with its song,
The hours of grief are few and brief,
But joy is a whole life long.

Some say this world is a bad, bad world,
But it's always been good to me,
With its errors there live dear hearts that forgive
And hope for the things to be.
This world is not old nor cold,
This world is not sad nor bad,
If you look to the right, forgetting the night,
And say to your soul, "Be glad."

—Alfred Ellison in Chicago Record.

A WESTERN ROMANCE

"Hi, there, sawbones! You all air wanted over to the Long Horn. The stray that rounded thar this mornin air breathin short. Pizened, they say. Better go a-runnin."

The postmaster as well as the only doctor in the little Kansas town was distributing the lately arrived mail when the cow puncher dashed in with his call for a physician's services.

"Dump the mail, doc," called out one of the group of loungers in the front of the small storeroom, which, with the saloon, was the favorite loafing place of the cowmen, the postoffice portion being defined by a row of packing cases set on end "Dump the mail and git a move on you. We ain't goin hungry fer no letters, and mebbe so the stray air worth savin."

"It stands in need of savin grace, too," broke in Billy-be-dam—his name was Van Dam, and he was fond of reciting his right and title to belong to New York's Four Hundred, but his choice of language of the expletive kind at once established the appropriateness of the change. "An you'd better take 'Ole Orthodoxy of the Cross an Crown' range along, fer if he's got a dead cinch on facts this here veal ca'f ain't in no ways bound fer glory hallelujy, fer they do say it ain't branded."

Billy-be-dam was a boaster and a born coward, but so insignificant and powerless for actual harm that his sneering observations were seldom noticed; hence he was utterly unprepared for the commotion his slurring remarks raised. In a second six hands were on as many hip pockets, and as the doctor slipped out of the back door, medicine case in hand, he saw the craven cow camp member of New York's Four Hundred gazing in trembling horror down the barrel of Pinto Dan's 44, he having been quicker than the other five.

"Now, you close that deal right here, or I shall close it for you," growled Pinto Dan, and the other five fell back, satisfied that the business would be properly attended to. "If so it ain't a-inquirin too deep into fambly affairs, I'd like to know who growed you up to kick a woman that's down, or to say mean things about a pore innercent little kid what kain't stand up agin you." Dan's towering figure and savage manner intimidated Billy to the verge of paralyzation, and he sank back against the wall, feebly remonstrating that infants born out of wedlock or dying unbaptized were, according to the teachings of his youth, condemned to torment, and that "Ole Orthodoxy preached a sermon only last Sunday, when he said the same thing." This stammering explanation of ancient theories only added fuel to the flame, and, evidently fearing that shooting was too good for the shrinking coward, Dan caught him by one shoulder and shook him till his spurs jingled, then flung him in a corner and turned the batteries of his big voice loose on him.

"When I git tired of ornamentin this here room with your ole carcass, I'll shore give you warnin," continued his tormentor as he playfully twirled his gun in close proximity to the terrified man's nose. "Your religious views needs revisin, an I ain't shore that it ain't my duty to shoot you up a whole lot by way of warnin of you to begin. If this here veal ca'f air 'lopin to everlastin perdition along of bein so misfortunate as to be born of lust an sin, which I take it, it kain't in noways he'p what sort of a sideshow, with bloomin redhot trimmin's, do you s'pose is bein set up fer to entertain us ol' sots. Thare's brands an brands, but there ain't no mistakin yours. Nobody won't never take you fer no maverick. The devil's took good care of that. Now git an do it a-runnin."

The terrified cow puncher obeyed literally. He had been taught his lesson. Like hundreds of other men whose own low moral standard blinds their perceptions to any purity of purpose in others, he had attempted to measure his fellow men in his own half bushel and found them too big for it. It is true that cow punchers, as a class, are neither educated nor refined. The English language is not concise enough for them, so they speak a jargon of their own that would set a purist crazy.

They abjure forks and are afraid of a napkin. The regulation cow puncher would probably put his feet on his hostess' prettiest sofa pillow, smoke in her reception room, spit on her Persian rugs and swear at her troublesome tidies, but he would not stare a pretty woman out of countenance nor accost her without warrant, and it is altogether probable that there would ensue a knockdown argument between him and the first man he caught annoying a woman thus, though both were strangers to him.

In those vast expanses of country given up to cowmen a woman's face is seldom seen, and "women are jewelry" in cowboy parlance. The woman who goes among them, be she Magdalene or Mary, is sure of kind treatment according to the cowboy code, which, though rude, is always sincere; hence the controversy over the unfortunate creature who had landed in the town that morning alone, friendless and penniless, with a sick baby in her arms. The man that Dan had been scoring had marked her arrival, and, with a dozen others, had at once leaped at the conclusion that she and unwedded sorrow were companions. Van Dam's mistake lay in giving voice to his opinion, which is contrary to cowboy ethics. They never indulge in anything that savors of street corner "mashing" or theater entrance gossip. It is only a tenderfoot or imbecile who breaks over these unwritten laws of cow puncher etiquette, and one infraction usually suffices to teach the transgressor his lesson.

"I allows it's about second drink time," observed Pinto Dan lazily as he watched his victim's retreat, "an I moves that we adjourn this here meetin to the Roun Up," and the cowboy congress forthwith adjourned to meet at the saloon.

The Long Horn, toward which the doctor wended his way, was the one poor excuse for a hotel in the little cow town. He entered the parlor, which was on the second floor, where he found a lot of hysterical women, wildly anxious to be of some assistance, but actually doing more harm than good. They fell back as he entered the room, and he saw the strange woman whose arrival had set the tongues of the town wagging.

She sat in a low chair by the open window. Her wan, white face was beautiful and refined, despite its pinched and pained expression. Her bosom was bare, and a curl from the end of the coil of heavy black hair had slipped down, just touching the head of the baby, which she was frantically urging to nurse. The child's lips were blue, and as she pressed them apart disclosed tight set pearly teeth.

"Mamma's precious little one must be hungry," she urged, with pathetic tenderness. "Louie! Louie, little man! Look up at mamma, just once, darling!" The agonized tones fell on deaf ears. Then, with a startled upsweep of her mournful dark eyes, she cried out bitterly: "He won't look at me! My God, will he never open his eyes again!"

Hugging the limp form close to her breast, she sprang to her feet and started nervously down the room, meeting the doctor almost at the door.

"Let me take the child," he said, reaching out his hands.

"No, no! He is mine—all mine! You shall not touch him!" she cried angrily. "Everybody tries to get him away from me, but I will not give him up. There, there, darling!" she crooned soothingly in the dulled ears as she laid her face caressingly against the child's. "Mamma will shield you from harm." And she began to hum a cradle song as she paced the length of the narrow room, while the curious, frightened women huddled in a corner, mentally characterizing her as "crazy as a loon."

The doctor was nonplused for a moment. Then he said gently, "Perhaps I can do something for your baby."

"Oh, you must be the doctor they sent for. Why didn't you say so at once? You must pardon my abruptness. My baby is so very ill, and I—I am so nervous." And she loosened her clasp that he might see the child. She watched his face anxiously as he laid his fingers on the tiny wrist. He had seen at a glance that human skill was powerless, but had not the heart to tell the mother so just then. He took the little one from her unresisting arms and placed it on a shawl on the piano; then, turning to the landlady, who had followed him up, ordered several articles and requested the crying women to vacate the room for the present.

"Now, madam," he said as he turned to chafe the tiny blue hands, "how did this happen? What have you given this child?"

"He was suffering so much pain and cried so hard, and a woman on the train said if I would give him some opium it would quiet and help him. She said she had some and insisted that I should try it, so I did."

"How much did you give him?"

"All she gave me—a piece as big as a peppercorn, I guess."

"Good heaven! Why, that much crude opium would kill a man. Did you want to get rid of the child?" The doctor was actually brutal in his astonishment.

"Get rid of him?" she echoed piteously as she caught the little form in her arms and hugged it to her heart. "Kill my baby, the one thing that holds me to this farce called life? Louie, look up at mamma just once, precious, and let your pretty eyes tell her that you don't believe the foul slander. Louie! Oh, my darling, just one little look, or mamma's heart will break!"

The tender, agonized tones seemed to pierce the deadened hearing, for the heavy white lids swept up from the big brown eyes so like his mother's. A smile of ineffable sweetness passed over the pinched features; then, with a long, fluttering sigh and an almost imperceptible thrill the little form straightened out in her arms, and the child was dead.

Instead of the outburst of frenzied grief naturally expected, the mother stood gazing at the lifeless form, and the doctor saw steal over her countenance an expression of peaceful resignation that he could not comprehend. Without sob or moan the great tears gathered in her eyes dropped on the dead baby's face. Alarmed at last, he touched her, and she responded instantly.

"You may take him now, doctor. He will never need mamma again. Where his little feet now wander she cannot guide them. Hunger and cold cannot reach him, and there shall be no more pain, except for me," she murmured drearily as she pressed a long kiss on the still smiling mouth. Then she laid the child in the doctor's arms.

He straightened the little form out upon the piano, and turning to Mrs. White, the landlady, who had just come in, followed by two or three women, he bade them array the child for burial. As the month was June and the weather oppressively hot, he felt the necessity for haste. Before leaving, however, he drew the landlady to one side and asked her what she knew of the woman. She replied that she had asked her no questions.

"She was a woman and in trouble, and I didn't need to know nothing more," was her sturdy response. It was enough. Western etiquette never questioned the unfortunate—never attempted to analyze grief. They were drafts honored on sight. Fraud was sometimes practiced, but western heart and hospitality argued that it was better to lend the helping hand to ten impostors than to risk passing, like the Levite, on the other side of one deserving of succor. Blasting winds and consuming drought often devastate and destroy the result of a whole year's labor, Texas fever kills the cattle, and the scab lays low the sheep profits, but the milk of human kindness, instead of souring, seems to raise purer and richer cream than ever for the vicissitudes through which the tried hearts pass. The doctor knew that in Mrs. White's house the desolate stranger would find shelter, and telling her that he would make all the burial arrangements he left the Long Horn on his errand. Being himself the coroner and a law to himself, he felt that an inquest was unnecessary.

Just across the street from the Long Horn was the one saloon in the town, kept by an Irishman, Dennis O'Brian. O'Brian was one of those characters peculiar to the west, between whom and his former life everybody knew a stone wall had been dropped. The whyfore nobody questioned. Nobody really cared to know. And then safety lay on the side of silence.

A FATHER'S AWFUL CRIME.

UNKNOWINGLY HE MURDERS HIS OWN SON FOR HIS MONEY.

When the Truth is Known the Father Goes Crazy—A Story from London That Sounds Familiar.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, Eng., March 22.—The Daily News prints a story from Wina, regarding a shocking tragedy enacted in that city a few days ago. A man, who as a youth, had emigrated to the United States many years ago, and there amassed a considerable fortune, returned about a fortnight ago.

His appearance was so much changed that his old neighbors, with one exception, failed to recognize their youthful acquaintance. The exception was an old friend of the family, who was leaving Wina on a short absence by a departing train just as the young man alighted.

THE SON UNRECOGNIZED.

Finding himself unrecognized the young man spent a few days loitering about his old haunts and picking up information of his father and sister, the latter a pretty girl whom her brother had left as a mere child. One evening he went to his father's house during the latter's absence. His sister was greatly attracted by the strange guest, who had so many interesting experiences to relate, and they supped together.

The brother, feigning fatigue, begged to be allowed to remain over night, as he had something of importance to say to the girl's father in the morning. The sister, though somewhat surprised at the request, consented, and she prepared his sleeping apartment. On her father's late return the girl informed him of their unexpected guest and dilated unfortunately on the stranger's wealth.

KILLED HIM WITH AN AXE.

The old man's cupidity was aroused, and during the night he stole into the guest's bedroom and murdered him in his sleep with an axe. During the next day the old neighbor, now returned who had recognized the young man at the railway station, came with a number of friends to hear news of their emigrant relatives in the States.

"Where is your son?" he enquired to the murderer.

"Whose son?" said the latter with blanched face.

"Your own boy," said the neighbor, "who returned some days ago and has made a fortune. Did he not sleep here last night?"

Suddenly the horrible truth flashed upon the unhappy father, who rushes to the scullery, where his son's body was hidden. He is now in prison, but it is said his reason is shaken.

FACED TWO HUSBANDS.

Millie Whitemore's Unique Excuse for Breaking the Law.

Special to the Times.

ORANGEVILLE, March 21.—The bigamy case against Mildred Whitemore, which has been so much talked of here, has at length been brought to a close. Today she was found guilty and sentenced to six months' imprisonment. A unique feature of the case is that both husbands were in court, and apparently Millie is undecided which one she would choose were she at liberty to make a choice. Her defence was that when she married Harkles she was under the impression that her first husband, Whitemore, was dead, and also that she was forced to marry Harkles. She is now an inmate of Orangeville goal,

A Child Falls 20 Feet.

TIGERTOWN, Tex., March 22.—An eighteen-months'-old child of William Gee, a farmer, fell feet first into a ten inch bored well, which had been completed to a depth of 20 feet, and lodged upon the boring machinery. It remained there 23 hours while the neighbors were digging and tunnelling to get it out. It will recover.

THE LAW ABOUT TIPPING.

What a Visit to an English House Will Cost a Guest.

Let me attempt to throw a ray of light into this cavern of darkness and try to suggest what are the sums generally given by knowing people in England under various circumstances. To begin with, let us take the simplest case—that of an unmarried man who stops from Sunday till Monday in the house of a friend who keeps only a parlor maid or single manservant. Here half a crown should be quite enough for the servant. In the case of a married couple, the lady, if without a maid, adds half a crown for the housemaid. The coachman, if there is one, must have his shilling after driving you to the station. If the visitor stops for a week, he should make his donation 4 shillings. He should allow, that is, about sixpence a night and sixpence over as a sort of ground tax.

We come next to the case of Saturday to Monday in a more elaborate establishment —i. e., where a butler and a footman are kept. Here the Saturday to Monday guest must distinguish. If the footman looks after him, the footman should have half a crown, and the butler also half a crown, in consideration of the fact that the butler will probably order your fly for you and look out for your trains. If, however, the footman is kept in the background altogether and the butler valets you, the butler takes the whole 5 shillings. If you stop for a longer time—say a week—these sums should be raised to 4 or 5 shillings in each case.

If the visitor brings a man of his own, the tip to the footman, of course, disappears, but that to the butler usually remains. When the really great establishments are reached, different rules prevail. The ordinary bachelor guest need perhaps only trouble himself about the special footman told off to wait on him. Unless the butler is an old friend or has to be asked to do something out of the way there is no cause to tip him.—National Review.

Grateful.

In Mrs. Olive Thorne Miller's volume, "Our Home Pets," is told a story of a dear collie dog and his gratitude. The dog, it appears, was a great pet in the family of a colonial soldier and was particularly noted for his antipathy to Indians, whom he delighted to track.

On one campaign against the French the dog insisted on accompanying his master, although his feet were in a terrible condition from having been frozen the previous winter. During the fight, which ended in the famous Braddock defeat, the dog was ever beside his master, but when it was over they became separated, and the soldier, concluding that his pet had been killed, went home without him.

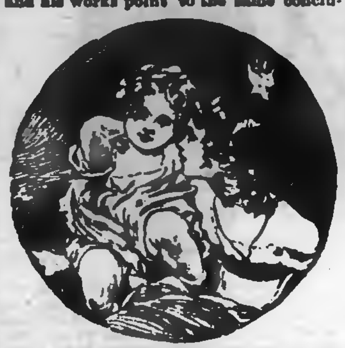
Some weeks later, however, the dog appeared in his old home, separated from the battlefield by many miles of thick forest. He was tired and worn, but over his sore feet were fastened neat moccasins, showing that he had been among Indians, who had been kind to him. Moreover, he soon proved that he had changed his mind about his former foe, for neither bribes nor threats could ever again induce him to track an Indian.

CHILDREN'S COLUMN.

"THE LOVELY CHILDREN."

Story of the Painting of One of Sir John Lawrence's Famous Pictures.

The delightful study of children which has been christened "Nature" and engraved under various other titles must be considered Sir Thomas Lawrence's masterpiece in this direction. The painter himself held that his fame must be justified by this and three or four works of similar quality. The pronouncements of those who have written upon the artist and his works point to the same conclusion, and beyond the testimony of literary and artistic criticisms there stands the evidence of the engraver's art to prove that the reproduction of no picture of childhood has probably ever reached the popularity attained by "The Lovely Children," "Nature," "The Daughters of Mr. Charles B. Calmady," "The Calmady Children," or whatever title this work has reappeared under.



F. C. Lewis, who was evidently a friend of the family, had often assured Mrs. Calmady, the wife of Captain Calmady of Woodcote, near Alresford, Hants, that her children, "ere their loveliness as babes should fleet into beauty of a more advanced childhood," would be admirable subjects, and that if Lawrence were to see them he would be glad to paint them on any terms. The eventuality—a lucky one for all concerned—occurred. Sir Thomas saw the children in July, 1823. This must have been at his painting room in Russell square. Captivated by the loveliness of the children, he asked a price lower than his current fee, which would have been 250 guineas. "I suppose," said Mrs. Calmady, "I must still have looked despairingly, for he immediately added, without my saying a word, 'Well, we must say £150 for merely the two little heads in a circle, and some sky—and finish at once.'" The next morning the sittings commenced with zest and pleasure. During the progress of the painting we find the artist deeply interested and showing himself the sympathetic friend of childhood. He was already so enthusiastic over his work that he continually assured the happy parents "it would be the best piece of the kind he ever painted." He retained the children the entire day, kept them entertained with stories, fed them himself, and when, by food and sport refreshed, they were again placed in the "sitter's chair," and the portraits proceeded with, Lawrence seemed to be rivaling Reynolds, as far as concerns his aptitude for making friends with youth. The children caught his humor, played with him as la bonne nourrice, and at one long sitting the little cherub, with her fat, rosy cheeks, relieved her own ennui and supplied him with a fund of laughter by her nursery tales of "Dame Wiggens" and "Field Mice and Raspberry Cream." At another sitting, after Lawrence had had little Emily Calmady's shoe often taken off and had attempted to catch her playful attitudes and expressions, he could not help exclaiming, "How disheartening it is, when we have nature before us, to see how far—with our best efforts and all our study—how very far short we fall of her!"

The little anecdotes concerning the progress of the Calmady picture, including how Sir Thomas was, with his servant, found, instead of painting, washing the face of one of the fair infants, who had got at the artist's palette and paints and bedaubed her countenance grotesquely, represent Lawrence in a familiar light.

A Spider at Home.

The invitations sent out to a child's party had each in the corner a golden web, in the center of which was entangled a brown spider. They were invitations to "a spider at home," an English substitute for a Jack Horner pie, or, it might be, for a Christmas tree. On their arrival at the house of their hostess the little guests were shown into a good sized room, where an immense glittering spider seemed to have spun a web that stretched across the room. The web was composed of many webs, each started from a spider in the center and extended to many nails and projections, where each one terminated in a little wooden winder. After choosing a winder each child followed its wanderings to the spider in which it terminated. Inside these spiders were concealed small gifts. Instead of spiders, beetles or other insects might be used. A variety of insects for such a party could be found at the large Japanese stores or could be fashioned at no very great expense at home. While white cotton threads can be used, a much prettier effect would be gained by using tinsel cord like that used by confectioners for tying boxes of bonbons.—Kansas City Times.

Practising.

Touch the keys lightly,
Nellie, my dear!
The noise makes brother
Impatient, I fear.

He looks very cross,
I am sorry to see,
Not looking at all
As a brother should be.

He'd think it quite hard,
I must certainly say,
If you stepped up your ears
At his noisy play.

Now, come, little brother,
Just bear this in mind—
In all little things
It is best to be kind.

The Election Caused by Dr. Montague's Acceptance of a Portfolio—Hon. J. C. Patterson to Remain in Office Until June, When he Takes the Lieutenant-Governorship of Manitoba.

Special to the Times.

OTTAWA, March 23.—The historic electoral division of Haldimand is to be the fighting ground where the Government will ask for an endorsation of its policy. By the acceptance by Dr. Montague of the portfolio of Secretary of State, the seat for Haldimand becomes vacant, and the writ for a new election will probably be issued next week. It will be a red-hot fight from start to finish, but with such a doughty champion as Dr. Montague the Government have no fear of the result.

It appears that Hon. J. C. Patterson will remain in the Ministry without portfolio until June, when he will be appointed Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba. This arrangement was made at the time he took office under Sir Mackenzie Bowell. Mr. Patterson has not been in good health lately and is anxious to be relieved from the strain of departmental work. As previously stated, Mr. Dickey becomes the Minister of Militia.

A LOAN TO THE HUDSON BAY RY.

The aid to the Hudson Bay Railway Co. is in the nature of a loan $2,500,000, to be recouped by first preference bonds of the company when floated on the London market. The Government will retain the cash and land subsidies as a guarantee for the due execution of the undertaking.

POLITICAL NOTES.

According to Le Monde, the Hon. Mr. Cameron, Secretary of State for Manitoba, says that his Government will ignore the order-in-council. The other ministers laugh at the Cabinet and will abide by the actual law.

Le Monde says it would be foolishness to expect anything but a refusal to legislate from the Manitoba Legislature in reply to the order-in-council, and considers that the Government should, upon the assembly of the Federal House, be prepared to enact remedial legislation. To dissolve the Chamber and appeal to the people on this burning question in face of the appeals that are being made to fanaticism and ignorance would be more than an error, more than a fault. It would be cowardice and treason.

BANKER CONN ACQUITTED.

After Three Trials the Alvinston Forgery Case Falls to the Ground.

Special to The Times.

SARNIA, March 23.—Yesterday's sitting of the Lambton Spring Assizes saw the end of the celebrated case of the Queen vs. Conn for forgery and the uttering of forged paper in the name of Anthony Gilroy through the Merchants' Bank of Canada in St. Thomas during the time of Conn's transacting a banking business in Alvinston, Ont.

Many notes turned up after the failure which were not signed by Gilroy and which were very poor imitations of the paper signature. Proceedings were taken against Conn in Detroit and the Ontario Government effected his extradiction.

At the Spring Assizes the jury disagreed and the case came up again at the Fall Assizes of 1894, and the jury disagreed. The indictment this time being somewhat changed, he appeared for trial and for three days the trial has been on. The end was an acquittal.

Found Dead Near His Sleigh.

LUCKNOW, March 22.—On Wednesday evening Joseph Kilpatrick, an old resident of Ashfield township, was found dead, lying near his sleigh, in Blake's Woods, from where he was drawing logs to Lucknow. Apoplexy is supposed to have been the cause of his death.

No Use for Pennies.

CINCINNATI, March 22.—Fifty thousand copper cents have been taken to the United States Sub-Treasury by various people and exchanged for currency, as a result of the stopping of slot gambling machines.

Art is Not Immorality.

NEW YORK, March 22.—The bronze statues at the Casino have shocked Superintendent Byrnes, and as a result Manager Rudolph Aaronson and his assistant A. Curtis Bond were practically arrested last night. "Its an outrage," said Mr. Aaronson of Mr. Brynes action. "This exhibition is art, not immorality."

Twenty Thousand Roses.

There are nearly 20,000 rose trees in bloom now at Dunlop's conservatories Bloor-st. west, Toronto. Visitors are always welcome. Mr. Dunlop is proud of his establishment and takes pleasure in speaking of his beauties. He ships them by mail and express to all parts of Canada, and as these orders are filled direct from the trees, he guarantees them to arrive in good condition. Sale rooms, 5 Yonge-st., and 445 King street west.

Sad Accident.

VINITIA, I. T., March 23.—Mrs. James Vaughan was sewing on her machine this afternoon, when a needle snapped and a part of it stuck to the table. She put in a new needle and continued her work. About ten minutes later she noticed that her two-year old daughter sat rather quietly on the floor and she called to her, but received no answer. She picked the child up and found that she was dead. A physician found that the cause of death was a small part of a needle which had struck the child's eye and penetrated the brain.

Can Catarrh Be Cured?

MOST POSITIVELY SO BY THE USE OF

Oxygenator

The record of our remedy is remarkable, it having shown itself equally efficacious in every form of the disease, from the simplest first symptoms to the most aggravated type. We confidently believe that any person suffering from Catarrh who has vitality sufficient to keep him alive until Oxygenator is given time to impart its properties can be completely cured by its use. That all other remedies have failed is no evidence that it will not cure.

ALL MEANS OF ESCAPE FROM THE BURNING BUILDING CUT OFF.

Three Children Cremated in Their Home—The Overturning of a Lamp Was the Cause, but Whether from Carelessness or Accident It is Not Stated—Parental Heroism.

Special to the Times.

CHAPLEAU, Ont., March 23.—The house occupied by P. Dollard and A. Baker has been burned by the upsetting of the lamp on the stairway.

Mr. and Mrs. Dollard were downstairs and they made every endeavor to extinguish the flames, but they got beyond control before they realized the danger. Their five children were in the upper part of the house, and Mr. Dollard made a rush through the flames. He seized the baby, one year old, kicked out a window and shouted to the other four children to jump out. He dashed downstairs with the child in his arms, and when he reached the bottom found that all attempts to again return would be fatal. The house burned rapidly, cutting off all escape. Three children were burned. They were:

GERTIE DOLLARD, aged 13.
MICHAEL, aged 7.
ALEXANDER, aged 3.

JOHNNY, aged 11, jumped out of the window, but is so badly burned that recovery is doubtful.

Mr. Baker got his family out in safety, also some effects. Dollard lost everything. Mrs. Dollard is prostrated with grief. Mr. Dollard is badly burned about the face and hands. The remains of the three children were taken from the ruins about 11 p.m., burned to crisp. The building, which was owned by Murray & Cowan, was all wood and valued at $1,200. Murray & Mulligan's bakehouse, storehouse and barn were on fire several times, but were extinguished.

Fire at Hastings.

The barn of Mr. Andrew Pickens, jr., on lot 18, concession 12 Percy, was burned yesterday morning. The fire is supposed to have been caused by a spark from a pipe, as Mr. Pickens was smoking while in the barn a short time previously. No insurance.

To Protest Against Interference.

It is understood that a requisition is being circulated in town for signatures, to the mayor requesting that a public meeting be called for the purpose of passing a resolution protesting against the Dominion government's interference in the Manitoba school question and provincial rights.

Accident to an M. P.

Mr. Geo. Guillet, M. P., who had been at Gore's Landing on Wednesday night, met with an accident when returning to town. When he got to the bridge this side of Coldsprings, the ground being bare and the horse having to pull hard is supposed to have choked and fell up against the guard rail, which gave way, letting him fall to the ground below and killing him instantly. Fortunately Mr. Guillet got out of the cutter before it went over and thereby escaped harm.—Cobourg World.

Laws Affecting Children.

A compilation of laws affecting children, as passed by the Dominion Parliament and Ontario Legislature, has been issued by the authority of the Provincial Secretary of Ontario. It is the work of J. J. Kelso, Ontario Superintendent of Neglected and Dependent Children, and will be found highly useful by those who are interested in the care of little ones who are objects of public charity. Copies can be had by application to Mr. Kelso at the Parliament buildings, Toronto.

The C.W.A. Meet.

At their regular annual meeting, held on Wednesday night, the members of the Owen Sound Bicycle Club decided to push their claim to the C.W.A. meet for 1895. This makes three towns in the race for the "meet." Peterborough is still in the lead in the preference of a great many, and no doubt the efforts that are now being put forth by the local members of the club will succeed in securing this great gathering of cyclists here. The place of the next meet will be decided at a meeting to be held on April 22.

To Tax Bachelors.

A despatch from Springfield, Ill., says:—A bill to tax bachelors and establish an old maid's home when the tax fund shall have reached $20,000 was introduced in the House today by Rev. Wallrock. The bill defines bachelors as single men of 28 or over who have never been married, and exempts men who have reached 65, who are physically unfit or who can prove to a board of unmarried women over 60 years old that they have proposed marriage at least three times to marriageable females and been refused each time.

Sudden Death.

On Friday morning Mr. Anderson Graham, who resided near Keene, while at his usual morning duties, was suddenly seized with a stroke of apoplexy and he expired in a few minutes. The event gave a terrible shock to the wife of the deceased, who is left with three children, and sad to relate one of them was only born about two hours before the father ceased to live, and whilst he was hitching up the doctor's horse he fell dead. The deceased was about 60 years of age, and he had enjoyed the respect of an extensive circle of friends. The bereaved wife and family have the sympathy of the entire neighborhood.

A New Sporting Journal.

The Canadian Sporting News is the name of a new sporting journal which has recently made its appearance in the world of sports. It is published in Toronto by Mr. John F. [illegible], formerly of the Empire, but more recently editor of the Saturday Illustrated New, and we unhesitatingly pronounce it the best, most complete and most ably edited sporting journal in Canada. Mr. H. J. P. Good, known as the "papa" of sporting editors in Toronto is the editor of the new paper, and there is no man in Canada more able to fill the editor's chair of a first-class sporting journal, nor better versed in everything pertaining to sports. There is no doubt the new journal will soon out class all competitors, if it continues to furnish the public the same quota of general sporting news as its first three numbers contained.

HOCKEY AND CURLING.

Printers Defeat the Greenies—News of the Local Sports.

On the rink Saturday night the "Greenies" and a combination team of the Review and Examiner played a game of hockey. It was a good game all the way through affording plenty of amusement and excitement for the spectators. The printers were in excellent trim and succeeded in defeating their opponents by a score of 5 goals to 4.

Dobbin and Glover and the two McWilliams were the stars of the combination and scored the goals. Bradburn, C. Dumble and Ackerman did good work for the Greenies. Heap and Goldsmith were ruled off for "scrapping" and went and sat down and "made it up." Terrill upset two of the Greenies and fell over them. A scrimmage occurred in the Greenies' goal in which E. Rutherford was sat on by two players. He called an offside. The teams lined up as follows:

GREENIES.		COMBINATION.
E. Rutherford	Goal	Fred Dobbin
R. Bradburn	Point	C. Hubbs
W. Dumble	Cover Point	Geo. Heap
E. Goldsmith	Forwards	Alf Terrill
Geo. Frost		R. Glover
C. Dumble		McWilliams
W. Ackerman		McWilliams
W. Stocker	Umpires	W. Buchanan

Referee, Bert Bellegham.

CURLING NOTES.

The Collegiate curlers met a Lindsay rink on the ice here on Saturday morning, and after a close match came off victorious. The rinks were:

PORT HOPE MAD.

The Port Hope correspondent to the Canadian Sporting News says: "The Whitby team after having a very large gate absolutely refused to pay the guarantee promised the Port Hope club. This is written that teams that play hockey may know the treatment accorded visitors in Whitby and can govern themselves accordingly. If the seven from the western town pay Port Hope a visit the home team will endeavor to play legitimate hockey and show them what is gentlemanly treatment." The Whitby correspondent of the same journal says: "Tonight Port Hope played a rough and tumble game with the Collegiate team here. The play was all on one side and barring the scraps there was no excitement whatever. Score, Whitby 9; Port Hope, 0.

SAYS OUR COLLEGIATES FLUNKED.

The Whitby correspondent of the Canadian Sporting News says: "The Collegiate Institute are trying to get the Peterborough Collegiates to play them a return match here but up to time of writing the Peterborough school has completely flunked."

LOCAL SPORTING NOTES.

The Peterborough lacrosse club will meet tomorrow night for the purpose of organizing for the coming season.

Tonight on the rink the clothiers and grocers will play hockey. There is considerable rivalry between these teams and a hot game may be expected.

A committee has added 200 names to the membership list of the Peterborough bicycle club.

Goodman, the popular representative of the company, made THE TIMES a pleasant call on Saturday. The different brands of this well known firm are famous in Canada and in assuming the business Mr. Taylor did so with the determination of retaining the prestige it has enjoyed for years. Since this gentleman's proprietorship an even superior article of malt liquor has been placed on the market and in consequence business is increasing at a gratifying pace. Mr. Goodman is meeting with great success in booking orders.

THE FRUIT BILL IS NO GOOD.

Such is the Opinion of Local Wholesalers Whom it is to Protect.

The wholesale fruit men of Ontario are up in arms against the proposed bill of the Local Assembly to regulate the fruit trade. A meeting will be held soon to discuss the matter. The bill, if passed, is said to be impracticable; of no benefit to the fruit-grower; that it will not protect the retailer, while the consumer is not protected from fraud any better than before.

A fine of not less than $1 or more than $5 is all that is to be imposed on shippers of peaches and pears who place good fruit on the top and inferior below. Wholesalers say this is totally inadequate, as outsiders could still practice this fraud and make twenty times the fine on a single consignment.

This has always been a popular species of fraud. In the haste of handling fruit wholesale it is impossible to examine it fully. The fraud is always found out by the irate retailer after he has bought from the wholesaler.

TO REGULATE BICYCLISTS.

Mr. Stratton Proposes to Allow Municipalities to License Them.

Mr. Stratton has introduced a bill into the Legislature declaring bicycles to be carriages and permitting municipalities to impose licenses on them.

All sums derived from such licenses, however, will have to be expended in improving bicycle roadways and paths.

Municipal councils also compel bicyclists to carry bells or gongs and sound them when approaching any vehicle or crossing.

Business World.

There is some talk of a special meeting of the Council tonight to deal with the sewer matter.

The market square is in a filthy condition and it is time the sanitary officers should attend it, if they desire to avert serious results.

The coming event of the season in Port Hope will be a fancy dress and calico ball to be given in the opera house on Easter Monday. Visitors are expected from all the neighboring towns.

Judge Robertson, says the Ottawa Citizen, decided in a case that came before him on Friday that the word "damn" was merely an adjective expressing emphasis and not an oath. This opinion is no doubt comfortable to common sense but it is to be hoped that other methods of strengthing our affirmation will not go entirely out of use.

The lot of the man who has a scolding wife has since the days of Solomon been considered peculiarly undesirable, but the decision of a Minnesota judge surrounds the case of such with added terrors. It appears that the husband of a scold was made codefendant in a case of slander uttered by his wife, and although he pleaded that he could not control his wife's tongue, and was the greatest sufferer from the unruly member, yet it did not avail him, and he had to pay heavy damages. There seems to be an unusual degree of hardship in such a case.

Battalion Orders.

HEADQUARTERS,
PETERBOROUGH, March 23rd, 1895.

Orders by Lieut. Col. J. Z. Rogers, Commanding the 57th Battalion of Infantry, Peterborough Rangers.

No. 1. All non-com. officers and men must return tunics in their possession to the captains of respective companies before 29th March. All old tunics are to be sent to District Headquarters at once in order to obtain a new issue.

No. 2. Any member of the battalion having a rifle in his possession must return same to regimental stores.

By order,

Forming a Trotting Circuit.

A meeting of delegates from several neighboring towns, met Wednesday night, 20th inst., at the Queen's hotel to consider the advisability of forming a trotting circuit for this section. Those present were: L. G. Bennett, Port Hope; G. A. Booth, Trenton; J. M. Hurley, Jas. Katcheson, J. McLaren, Jas. Crown, S. Curry, W. J. Clark, C. Lavis, Belleville; Wm. Moffat, Picton; H. G. Milling, J. L. Boyes, Napanee. Mr. Hurley was appointed chairman and Mr. Boyes secretary. After the question of forming a circuit had been discussed, the secretary was instructed to write to the horsemen in all the towns between Port Hope and Brockville to ascertain their views and obtain all possible information as to dates and purses. A meeting will be held between June 1st and 15th at some central point to be decided on later.—Belleville Sun.

Fishing Grounds.

The Fishery Inspector, Mr. George W. Fitzgerald, of Smith, after a "round trip" inspection of the fishing grounds in his district, returned on Saturday morning. Mr. Fitzgerald had been a week absent on trip, going by way of Bobcaygeon to about eight miles beyond Minden and returning through the Victorias. He found everything all right on the fishing grounds. There were many fishermen at their avocation, but nothing of an illegal nature in it was observed. At Kinmount Mr. Fitzgerald found Mr. Austin, a mill owner, allowing sawdust to enter the Burnt river, and he, as Inspector, levied a fine of $20 for the offence. This was the only breach of the law that the Inspector had to deal with on the whole trip.

A Railway Smash Up.

The Irondale, Bancroft and Ottawa railway had a smash up last Friday evening. One of the wheels of the passenger coach broke and threw the car off the track. Supt. Hutchinson, who was on board, received severe injuries and was unconscious for some hours, we are pleased to learn, however, that he is recovering. Conductor James Storer also received a severe shaking up. A rumor was current for a time around town, that Mr. Thomas Walters, of Lindsay, had been in the wreck and was badly hurt. Fortunately this was not the case as he had left the train before reaching the point where the accident occurred.—Lindsay Watchman.

TO THE ELECTORS

—OF—

East Peterborough

GENTLEMEN,—Having some time ago been nominated by the Patrons of Industry, and lately by the Liberal party, as a candidate for the representation of East Peterborough in the House of Commons at the approaching Dominion Elections, I have decided to accept the candidature as an Independent Liberal, and if elected I shall support, to the best of my ability, the following policy:—

1. Maintenance of British Connection.
2. Public lands for the actual settler and none for the speculator.
3. Independence of Parliament and economy in the public expenditure.
4. The abolition of the Canadian Senate.
5. Tariff for revenue only and to be levied principally on the luxuries and not the necessaries of life.
6. Reciprocal trade between Canada and any other country in the world if it can be obtained on fair terms.
7. Repeal of the Dominion Franchise Act and a return of the voters' lists made out by our municipal officers.
8. That electoral districts conform as nearly as possible to county boundaries.
9. Responsible government in practice as well as theory.

As it will be impossible for me to call on you all personally during the short time at my disposal, I take this means of placing my views before you an soliciting your support. I shall also endeavor to hold as many public meetings as possible in the several municipalities, at which I hope to have an opportunity of presenting my views more fully before you. I beg to remain, gentlemen,

Your humble servant,
JOHN LANG.

A Metal Breadboard
THE WOMAN WHO HAS BEEN USED to kneading dough on the old fashioned wooden breadboard knows what a bother it is to get them clean and how cumbersome and heavy they are. When they begin to crack or check it is almost impossible to thoroughly cleanse them, and they may easily become dangerous conveyances of disease. It was left for a woman, of course, to remedy this state of affairs, and Mrs. M. M. Everhard, of St. Joseph, Mich., has patented a metal bread-board, which is one of the greatest labor-savers imaginable. It is light, does not absorb grease, dough does not adhere to it, and while it possesses all the advantages of the marble bread-board it is much cheaper and, of course, far lighter and easier to handle. If readers want to confer a favor upon their wives that will be forever appreciated, let them send $1 to the manufacturers, 101 Bay street, Toronto, for one of these boards.

A PEACE ENVOY'S FATE.

POOR LI HUNG COMES INTO CONTACT WITH A MURDEROUS JAP.

The Assassin's Bullet May or May Not Cause the Death of China's Peace Representative—The Would-Be Murderer is Under Arrest—What Japan Wants China Will Not Give.

Special to the Times.

SOMONOSEKI, March 25.

THE Chinese Peace Envoy, Li Hung, was returning to his lodgings yesterday afternoon, after having attended a conference with Count Ito and Viscount Mutsu, the Japanese Peace Plenipotentiaries, when he was fired upon by a young Japanese. At the time of sending this despatch it is impossible to learn whether or not the wound is serious. The attempt to assassinate the representative of the Emperor of China caused the most intense excitement. The would-be murderer was arrested.

LONDON, March 25.—A despatch to the Westminster Gazette says the Japanese Parliament has passed a resolution deploring the attempt to assassinate Li Hung Chang.

A despatch from Shimonoseki to the Pall Mall Gazette says Li Hung Chang will refuse to cede any territory to Japan but will offer a greatly increased sum of money as indemnity instead. It is believed, the despatch says, that the peace negotiations will not be successful, there evidently being some secret force behind China.

LONDON, March 25.—A Central News despatch from Tokio says that immediately on hearing of the attack upon Li Hung Chang the Emperor sent two of his principal surgeons to attend the Chinese envoy and also sent his personal aide-de-camp with messages from the Empress and himself.

SHANGHAI, March 25.—Twelve Japanese warships made a concerted attack on Saturday upon the forts north of Makong, Pescadores. The firing began at 12 o'clock and lasted until 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The warships then withdrew, but renewed the attack on Sunday, both by land and sea. Communication by telegraph with Formosa had not been restored this morning, and the land lines communicating with the Pescadores are still interrupted.

LONDON, March 25.—A Central News despatch from Tokio says that the wound received by Li Hung Chang is much more serious than the first reports indicated. The bullet entered the cheek, below the eye, and the physicians have not yet been able to extract it.

A TRAGEDY IN TORONTO.

JONH BELL COMMITS MURDER, THEN COMMITS SUICIDE.

Cut His Paramour's Throat and then Draws the Steel Across His Own—Both Found Dead in a Jarvis Street Tenement.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, March 25. — A most brutal murder and suicide were perpetrated at 65½ Jarvis street yesterday morning. The ground floor of the building is occupied as a fruit store by Mr. James Breen, but the upper flats are used for tenement purposes. At an early hour yesterday morning Mrs. Harry Hewett, who occupies a suite of rooms with her husband on the upper floor, knocked at the door of the landlady, Mrs. Sarah Swallow's, apartments, to obtain some milk. Mrs. Swallow occupied two rooms at the back of the second floor. Mrs. Hewitt knocked several times, but received no reply, and she called a young man named Legatt, who also occupies a room in the building. They came to the conclusion that there was something wrong with Mrs. Swallow, and forced the door. A horrible sight met their gaze. On the bed lay Mrs. Swallow, with a great steam of blood oosing from her pillow to the floor, and alongside of her lay John Bell, a man who had been living with her. His head was thrown back, and a great gash in his throat also told of a deadly tale of murder or suicide. The two children were lying in a cot, playing, as if nothing had happened. The horrible intruders at once gave the alarm, and Legatt ran to police headquarters, Constables Snell and Tripp drove to Jarvis street in the patrol waggon, and took possession of the premises. Sergeant Seymour and Police Constables Snell made an examination of the place, but it was evident that Bell had cut the unfortunate woman's throat first, and then his own. He had made sure work of it in both cases.

A TERRIBLE SIGHT.

Mrs. Swallow occupied two dingy rooms at the back of the building on the second floor. A stairway leads up to a landing at the back, and then a hall runs at right angles north and south across the building. This hallway cuts off the two rooms occupied by the unfortunates at the back. Near the landing a door leads into these two rooms from the hall. The front room was used as a cooking and sitting-room, and a door leads out to the roof of the lower storey, which projects further back to a lane. Another door opens into the bedroom where the tragedy had been enacted. The room had the appearance of a slaughter-house. Two great pools of blood almost covered the floor, and the wall and furniture were spattered all over. At first it was thought that both had been murdered, but when P. C. Snell examined the body of the man, a razor covered with blood fell out of his nerveless fingers.

The bed stood in the southeast corner of the room. Against the south wall stood an old fashioned bureau and next to it in the southwest corner stood a cot with the two children, aged about 4 and 6 years. The children were playing with alphabet blocks when the police entered and they were at once removed to the Children's Shelter. The last words the little girl said when she was taken from the room were: "When do you think mamma will be better?"

THE MURDER AND SUICIDE.

The body of the man Bell lay on the side of the bed next the wall. The lamp, still burning, stood on the bureau. An empty beer pail and whiskey bottle stood on the table. One of the small drawers of the bureau was pulled out and the empty case of the razor was found in it. There was every evidence to show that the man had waited until his paramour had fallen asleep. He then reached over her and quietly pulled the drawer open and secured the razor. Then he cut a deep gash in her throat close above the collar bone, severing the jugular and arteries. She never stirred for there was not the slightest trace of a struggle, as far as she was concerned. After he had satisfied himself that she was beyond earthly aid he sat up and cut his own throat from the left ear across to the windpipe, severing the jugular vein and main arteries. His blood was spattered over the clothing, and his hand, which held the razor, was also red. Having committed the devilish deed he threw himself back on the pillow, and was found in this position, his mouth and eyes wide open.

JEALOUSY THE MOTIVE.

Jealously was without a doubt the motive that actuated the crime. Mrs. Swallow was a widow with two children. Her husband was the first victim to a trolley accident in this city. He was engaged in looking after horses by the proprietor of the Clyde hotel. On the 29th of August, 1892, Swallow took out a wild young horse for exercise. He was riding the animal at the corner of Church and Richmond streets when a trolley came along, and the horse shied, throwing its rider. Swallow's skull was fractured in the fall, and he died a few hours later at the General hospital. He left two children and a widow, the murdered woman. Bell at this time was an expressman, and an attachment sprung up between him and the widow. They concluded to live together as man and wife, and Mrs. Swallow moved to the place where she was murdered. She owned a horse and express waggon, which Bell drove, but he was given to drink, and a couple of months ago they began to quarrel. Bell had a companion named William Gorrie, who lives at 63 Duke street. Gorrie and Bell used to meet and drink together at 63 1 2 Jarvis street, and a certain amount of intimacy sprang up between Gorrie and Mrs. Swallow. Gorrie and Mrs. Swallow decided to marry, as the story goes, and the woman tried her best to get rid of Bell. It would have been better for her had she never seen him. Last Tuesday night Mrs. Swallow and Gorrie were sitting in the little kitchen talking about their affairs. The woman was complaining that Bell was listening outside and he burst into the room in a terrible rage. He called into Gorrie and a free fight ensued, in which several chairs and the window were smashed. Gorrie was the stronger man of the two, and gave Bell a first class thrashing. The marks of the beating are still to be seen on his body. Since then Bell, no doubt nursed his jealous passions and decided to have revenge. On Saturday night Mrs. Swallow was out with Gorrie till about 10 o'clock. She then went to work scrubbing at the Clyde hotel and worked there till near midnight. This was the last seen of her alive.

The bodies were removed to the morgue. Coroner Johnson, who was called, decided to hold an inquest on the remains at the morgue this afternoon.

So far none of the relatives of the two victims have turned up. Bell was an Englishman, about 45 years of age, slim, with a fair moustache. The woman was also fair, and about 35 years of age.

DEAD BESIDE HER.

How Mrs. S. G. Reynolds, of Brockville, Found Her Husband.

Special to the Times.

BROCKVILLE, March 25. — Yesterday morning Mrs. S. G. Reynolds awoke to find her husband cold in death beside her, having slept with his corpse for at least three hours.

Deceased had been ailing for some days with quinsy but a post mortem showed heart disease to be the untimely cause of death.

He was 30 years old and only a year married. He was foreman in one of the largest manufacturing establishments and a prominent member of the fire brigade. Oddfellows and the Canadian Order of Foresters. He will be given a public funeral.

A SUCCESSFUL EXPERIMENT.

Mr. T. Hazlehurst, of Brantford, use as Specific Remedy with Great Effect.

BRANTFORD, March 25—Interest has been revived here, through the published despatches about the Kent case in Ottawa in the extraordinary recovery from diabetes of Mr. Thomas Hazlehurst, and esteemed resident of the town. This gentleman suffered very severely from the complaint, losing a great deal of weight, and trying a number of remedies without success. At last when completely run down, he determined to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, and in an incredibly short time recovered his health and strength. He attributes his recovery entirely to the use of this valuable remedy, and has recommended it in several cases with marked success.

WEPT AND RAVED FOR DE RESZKE.

Women had Hysterics in Chicago Because the Great Singer did not Appear.

Special to the Times.

CHICAGO, March 25.—Fully one thousand women went on an emotional spree Saturday afternoon at the Auditorium, when it was announced that Jean de Reszke would not appear in "Les Huguenots." Some wept, others had hysterics, and all lost control of themselves.

One widow read the announcement, and taking out her handkerchief cried as if her heart was breaking. She called a cab and was driven away.

When the ushers inspected the scene of the tumilt they found fifty-eight veils, twenty combs, two purses, four bags of cosmetics, one pair of garters and a lot of ribbons.

The Reina Regente Stories Declared to be Without Foundation.

Special to the Times

MADRID, March 25.—The Government is officially informed that all reports that the warship Reina Regente has been found submerged in the straits are wholly without foundation and also that neither wreckage nor bodies from the ship have been washed ashore.

Nailed in His House to Die.

OMAHA, Neb., March 25.—Cornelius McGuire, a well known Omaha metalsmith, slept late and was awakened by flames. Rushing to the door he found it barred on the outside. When his sufferings made him delirious he rushed through the flames into the street and died. The doors and windows had been nailed up by an enemy.

Heir to a Big Fortune.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 25.—E. F. Coffin, telegraph operator at Gliden Station, east of here on the Southern Pacific, Saturday received a letter from an attorney of Rio Janeiro, Brazil, stating that his uncle, who lived in that country, had just died, leaving an estate of $10,000,000. There are four heirs to the wealth, Mr. Coffin is one of them, and he will receive one fourth of the fortune.

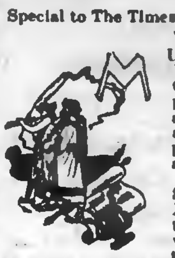
FROM THE QUEEN CITY.

A MUSIC TEACHER AND A DOCTOR THUMP EACH OTHER.

The Diamond Swindler in the Police Court—A Man of Many Aliases—He Will Have to Go to the States.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, March 25.



MUSIC teacher Signor Vegara and Dr. McCully are the principals in a police court action. A few days ago they were the principals in a fight of a peculiar origin.

Miss Vegara, the Signor's daughter, is Miss McCully's music teacher. A month ago while giving the doctor's daughter a lesson she was taken ill. The indisposition developed the symptoms of scarlet fever. Miss McCully was also taken ill and showed the same symptoms so it was decided that Miss Vegara should remain at the doctor's house. The doctor attended the young lady and conquered the disease.

When Miss Vegara returned home she told her father that Dr. McCully had taken improper liberties with her while attending her. Signor Vegara laid an information against the doctor and Coroner Dr. Johnston was instructed to find out the truth of Miss Vegara's accusation. He declared that it was unfounded and the charge was dropped.

This did not satisfy the Professor. He called upon Dr. McCully and in a few minutes an international embroglio was in full swing and the representatives of the arts and of the sciences went for each other.

Music had no charms to sooth their savage breasts and lack of wind alone stopped the combat. Now Dr. McCully has laid a charge of assault and battery against the Signor.

THE DIAMOND SWINDLE.

"What name do you want to go under?" asked Col. Denison in the Police Court of a stout, clean-shaven man with a gimlet eye. He was dressed in a pair of black trousers, a dark grey waistcoat, a blue serge coat, a white shirt and black necktie. His names were as numerous as his costume was variegated. They are Henry Smith, H. T. Jackson, R. S. Miller, J. C. Coleman, and H. T. Hutton, and he is accused of stealing a package of diamonds from P. W. Ellis & Company.

MONEY RETURNED TO THE PRISONER.

The prisoner choose the name of Hutton from among his stock and asked for time to consult, E. F. B. Johnston, Q.C. The latter asked that the money taken from Hutton amounting to $175 be returned as his wife was penniless. Crown Attorney Curry opposed the application on the ground that it was the proceeds of crime, but there was no proof of this and Col. Denison made an order for a return of half the money.

WANTED IN THE STATES.

In addition to this charge Hutton will have to stand his trial for similar charges which come from the States. Letters were received from the chiefs of police of Savannah, Augusta, Macon and other places, asking that Hutton be detained as he is wanted on charges of stealing diamonds, watches, chains, rings, earrings, in fact every kind of jewellry that combines value and small bulk. He was remanded till Thursday when he will plead and elect.

A MULTITUDE GREETS HIM

THE TRIUMPHAL RETURN OF THE GRAND OLD MAN.

Monetary Conference—Grant Allan's Theories on Free Love—General Booth on "Darkest America"—His Opinion of Americans.

Special to the Times.

LONDON, March 25.—England also is greatly disturbed by the turn that events have taken. She knew that in all circumstances she could reckon upon the triple alliance, but if the alliance comes to an end and Russia stands in with France the situation is entirely changed. Everything was done by England to influence Austria's decision but her efforts failed, for Austria has at present no need of English assistance either naval or financial. Gen. Von Werder knew nothing of all these negotiations and when the Emperor learned of what had actually been accomplished he became terribly angry and recalled the General. These events show that Nicholas II is continuing to follow his father's policy and that the Franco-Russian understanding still exists. If the present plan succeeds Germany will in a little while be isolated in Continental Europe.

CHEERED BY THE PEOPLE.

LONDON, March 25.—Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone arrived at Charring Cross station at 7.50 o'clock yesterday evening. An enormous crowd had gathered in and about the station, and when the ex-premier and his wife appeared upon the platform they were greeted with loud cheers. Both Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone looked to be in good health.

FREE LOVE.

LONDON, March 25.—Mr. Grant Allen's frank advocacy of free love in his novel "The Woman Who Did," Pinero's new play, and other works of similar tendency, have brought these questions to the front more prominently than ever before in England. Mr. Allen, in an interview on the theories he has developed, said yesterday: "My desire is especially to influence young women, and to tell them: Your purity, of which you make so much, is an artificial product, and only kept up at the expense of unspeakable misery to the thousands of other women who are sacrificed on your account. Are you ready to let these poor wretches suffer and die, in order that you may be kept as good marketable commodities for men wanting to buy? Every adult man and woman should form a union of affection, as is normally possible. If this were the rule, neither celibacy nor the social evil would exist. No young man would prefer vulgar vice if he could openly form a union with the woman he loved."

In a similar line, the dramatist, Alfred Carmour, said: "If I were called upon to select one of two actresses equally fitted to fill a part, I would select one who had broken the bonds of conventional restraint and suffered the consequences. The wider the sympathies the more conventional she would be."

A discussion of sexual literature is proceeding in the newspapers, and morbid novels, portraying women's vagaries, are obtaining a phenomenal sale.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 26 1895.

Good morning!

The time has at last come when Mr. Laurier must speak. And all sincere admirers of the Opposition leader will hope that his deliverance will be in support of the doctrine of Provincial rights.

Major Sam Hughes has come out strongly in favor of letting Manitaba alone, which means that he intends to vote against the Government on this question when it comes up in parliament. The public would like to hear from Messers Stevenson and Burnham on the same subject.

It is proposed to hold a public meeting in the Opera House at an early date to protest against Federal intervention in Manitoba School affairs. The necessary requisition to Mayor Kendry to call such meeting is now in circulation. It will be interesting to note how certain public men will declare themselves. Our two local contemporaries are also "on the fence" on this question, as they are on nearly every other, where frank, outspoken and manly utterances are expected.

Judge Muir, of Hamilton, recently decided, in a liquor case, that the bars must be opened and closed by solar time. Attorney General Mowat has introduced a bill into the legislature to make eastern standard time the legal time in all legal documents and acts of the legislature in that part of the province lying east of the 87th degree of western latitude—central standard time to be the time west of that line. Peterborough saloon keepers will thus daily use 20 minutes of precious time.

Uncle Sam's warlike nephews are looking forward with much satisfaction to the probable seizure and annexation of Cuba to the United States in the event of a war with Spain over the Allianca affair. The Cubans are now engaged in an earnest attempt to throw off the Spanish yoke. Whether they desire to achieve their national independence or merely to change masters is a question which dosen't seem to trouble the patroitic republicans to the south of us.

The manufacture of razors by machinery has now become a fixed fact in Germany, and the quality of the article is said to compare favorably with the best Sheffield product, the process being also applicable to scissors making. A die bearing the impress of a razor blade and tongue, or of a scissors blade and bow, as the case may be, is screwed into the bottom of a drop hammer, which is worked by hand over a pulley, a corresponding die being placed on the anvil upon which the hammer falls; the end of the steel bar or ramrod having been heated to a red heat is laid across the anvil die, and the hammer, falling with the weight of about thirty hundred weight or less, according to the size of the article to be produced, forces the metal into the mould, this, when withdrawn, appearing in the shape of a perfect razor or scissors blank, but surrounded with a fray or fringe, which is afterward pared with the striping tools as waste. This operation is repeated indefinitely according to the extent of the order in hand, the tools being then changed on to another size of blade or scissors.

UNITED STATES FINANCES.

Last December U. S. Secretary Carlisle estimated that the deficit for the current fiscal year, ending June 30th, would be $20,000,000. Thus far revenue receipts have fallen below Government expenditures over $43,000,000. In order to make Secretary Carlisle's estimate good, the income of the Government must be $93,000,000 greater than its outgo for the next four months. But there is no indication which justifies the hope of this surplus or of any surplus.

Senator Gorman predicts, notwithstanding the amount expected to be realized from the income tax, that the deficit for the year ending June 30 will be $60,000,000. To make this prediction correct, the Government must spend about $17,000,000 more than it receives between now and that date, and there is no reason to doubt that such will be the case.

The new U. S. tariff has been in operation about six months. It has, up to date, acted as a debt increaser. It was given to the country as a "revenue" measure, but as such it is regarded as a failure and a proof of the stupidity of its authors. Its effect on business and industry is another and even blacker story.

THE NEWFOUNDLAND DELEGATION.

The Maratime province papers are taking a deep interest in the movement among the Newfoundlanders in favor of entering the Canadian Confederation. The St. John, N. B., Sun attempts to calm the fears of some of the islanders that the Whiteway delegation will not be well received because it does not represent both parties and because there will be men in it who have been unseated for bribery. It assures the objectors that "it is not likely that the Canadian Government will hold an enquiry into the history of the visitors;" and that the "Premier of the colony will be recognized as having authority to speak for the country, unless there is some reason to believe that the people repudiate him." The Halifax Herald thinks, however, that it would be well to have both political parties in Newfoundland represented in the delegation. It points out that the matter is not a party question here, and urges that it should not be a party question there. "Newfoundland greatly needs peace—party peace," it says; "and the Dominion Government might well request, in the best and highest interest of Newfoundland itself, that the delegation should be so representative that party peace in that island should be secured, so far as the question of Confederation is concerned.

Here are two views of the controversy that has arisen in Newfoundland; and, while they differ decidedly in some respects, they perfectly agree in being obviously friendly. The Herald only proffers its advice because it thinks that it would be a sad pity for Newfoundland to get into a party wrangle over this question at a time so loaded with distress. We in Canada will certainly be anxious that the whole people of Newfoundland shall be content with the conditions upon which the island is to enter Confederation. Such a feeling will be only sure guarantee of political peace within the Dominion when the "province" of Newfoundland shall have become one of us; and it will, moreover, be a requisite to the fullest enjoyment of the advantages of union by the Newfoundlanders themselves. It is likewise true that a very good way to prepare for peace is to let both parties on the island have a voice in framing the basis of union; for otherwise an Opposition may feel it a duty to oppose, whether or no. We know what political parties are; and it is not to be presumed that those in Newfoundland are very widely different from their kindred organizations in other parts of the world. Hence if a bi-partizan delegation could be got together, we should feel surer of a smooth journey to the desired goal; but any delegation that Newfoundland chooses to send will be welcome.

The St. John Sun makes another point which is so clearly true that it must bring assurance to any timorous souls on the island who fears absorption in the big Dominion. "The fearful and unbelieving" it suggests "will perhaps find comfort by the study of the experience of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick." Continuing, it says:

> Nova Scotia has given Canada a premier, and for more than half the time since confederation New Brunswick has furnished the Dominion with its minister of finance. The lamented death of the Nova Scotia leader of the House of Commons passes the leadership to a New Brunswicker. It is everywhere admitted that the Maratime Province representatives in the ministry are a stronger influence than any other contingent in the Cabinet, and that this has been the case for a dozen years or more. Whatever else may be said about the position of the eastern provinces in the union, it will not be said that her public men, either in the government or parliament have been effaced by their westerm competitors."

The preponderance of the eastern men in our Parliament has long been so great that it has passed into a proverb. The Sun naturally speaks only of the Government side of the House; but Mr Laurier reckons Mr. Davies, of Prince Edward Island, among his very best fighters. If Newfoundland sends the same strain of men to the Dominion Parliament that her sister provinces of the Atlantic coast have done, she need not fear for her influence.

Every mother should know something about the composition of the food that her baby is fed on from day to day. Many prepared foods now sold are vile preparation and soon bring on serious digestive derangements.

Lactated Food is not a secret preparation. It is prepared in a most careful manner from the nourishing elements of wheat and barley, properly combined with pure sugar of milk. It is nourishing, strengthening and life-giving and by its use thousands of children have grown from weak and puny babes to healthy, happy and hearty boys and girls.

Thousands of physicians and happy mothers say that Lactated Food "Saves Babies' lives.

SUICIDE AT YORK MILLS.

Duncan McLean Found Hanging to a Limb Tree in a Bush.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, March 22.—Duncan McLean, aged 21, was found hanged to a tree in the bush on Robert Anderson's farm near York Mills yesterday morning.

McLean, who worked for Anderson, went out to work on Thursday afternoon and as he did not return in the evening it was thought he had skipped out.

Anderson's boys went to the bush yesterday to see if McLean had done any work and found him hanging to a tree with his feet touching the ground.

Reeve Sylvester and Coroner Armstrong were notified, and having learned the circumstances decided an inquest unnecessary.

Hints About Gloves and Shoes.

It is a science to put on gloves for the first time. The hands must be perfectly fresh and dry and cool. After putting in fingers and thumb fasten the second button from the bottom, coming to the first one last. Remove the gloves from the wrist, and not by the fingers, and leave them turned thus inside out, so that all moisture may be dissipated. When putting away gloves, do not roll, but lay them lengthways in a sachet. Place white flannel between pairs of light gloves. A little new butter rubbed on perfectly new chevrette gloves tends to keep them in good condition. Light gloves can be cleaned with flour, and rubbed places in black suede or kid covered with a mixture of olive oil and ink and left to dry. With boots, if damp, it is a good plan to fill them with paper and leave them to dry far away from the fire. Paraffin is useful to soften leather hardened by mud and rain. To make the soles of boots rain tight and durable paint with copal varnish and dry. Repeat the process twice or thrice. The secret of keeping veils fresh is to smooth and fold them immediately on coming indoors.

The People Victoria Likes.

Although it has frequently been stated that newspapers are carefully kept from her majesty, it is well known among those acquainted with the queen's private life that no current events or topics escape her attention. Indeed so curious is she about the principal personages of the day that she never rests until she has obtained their photographs. Among her majesty's most curious photographs is one of Louise Michel.

The queen likes two classes of people—those of rank who keep within the limits of court etiquette, for which the queen is as great a stickler as the emperor of Germany, and those who are no "respecter of persons," who can neither flatter nor cringe, who will reprove or gossip or repeat an amusing anecdote, such as the Scotch peasants or the most confidential servants of the royal household.

The queen has a great personal influence over children and is very much interested in getting the opinions of nurses and governesses connected with the royal household as to their training.—Woman at Home.

In Cases of Croup.

A standard medical authority says that the first thing to do for the child is to put his feet into as hot mustard water as he can bear and be sure that the room is very warm. If possible, put him into a hot bath, and then quickly drying him put him in bed between blankets. Even before putting him in bed give him sirup of ipecac in teaspoonful doses until he vomits. For external applications take 2 tablespoonfuls of turpentine and 4 tablespoonfuls of goose oil, or sweet oil, or lard oil, mix well and rub thoroughly on the outside of the throat. Saturate a flannel and lay it over the chest and throat. Hot bricks or bottles filled with hot water should be placed at the child's feet and at the sides of his body to induce perspiration. Keep him carefully covered. After the vomiting the bowels must be kept open with sirup of squills. The best drink for the child is slippery elm water. Give plenty of nourishment to keep up the strength.

Narrowness.

It is strange, very strange, to me that many men should devote themselves so exclusively to the study of their own particular callings. It seems as if they thought a mind must grow narrow before it can come to a focus. We send our young men abroad to enlarge and modify their notions, but those who stay at home shut themselves up with the primers and catechisms of their professions until they are stiffened into machines for specific purposes. The knowledge of a man who confines himself to one object bears the same relation to that of the liberal scholar that the red or violet ray of a prism does to the blended light of a sunbeam.—O. W. Holmes' "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table."

Misunderstood the Text.

"Now, tell me what the trouble is," said a mother to her little girl, whom she had just been obliged to take out of church because of a violent fit of weeping.

"He called me," said the child between her sobs, "a simple, little cross eyed thing!"

The child was cross eyed, and the minister had just given out the hymn, "Simply to thy cross I cling."—New York Herald.

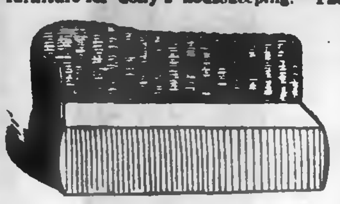
The stentor or trumpet animalcule is shaped exactly like a trumpet, save that at the small end there is a globe which seems to answer the purpose of heart, stomach, liver, lungs and all other organs.

CHILDREN'S COLUMN.

DOLL FURNITURE.

How to Make Little Beds, Chairs and Sofas Out of Old Corks.

A child is happiest when he is busy, and the mother who can invent little pastimes and everyday amusements will greatly add to the happiness of the nursery. One of the most ingenious and at the same time one of the simplest and easiest amusements is the manufacture of cork furniture for dolly's housekeeping. The first thing to do is to collect a number of old corks. These may be of various styles and sizes, from the tiny stopper of the diminutive medicine vial to the large and ungainly cork of each two gallon vinegar jug or the large flat mushroomlike cork of the marmalade jar.



A SOFA.

These will all come into request for the different styles and sizes of furniture, and the cook and housemaid should have instructions to lay them aside in a little box that they may afford material for the children's playhouse.

Perhaps the simplest article, and therefore the one on which the children should first try their skill, is the doll's chair. The cork can either be taken in its natural shape, in imitation of one of the old fashioned, round parlor chairs, or the sides can be trimmed into an almost cubical form. In either case the side of the cork and the top should be covered with small pieces of bright colored cloth, cut to the proper shape and size, and fastened down with a little mucilage or paste.

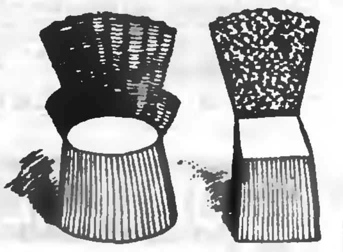
It is advisable to put on the circular or square piece of cloth for the seat first and then fasten the longer piece around the sides. Great care should be taken to have it fastened neatly with the gum. If the child possesses a box of paints, he can vary the style of his furniture by substituting a coat of paint for the cloth. And now to construct the chair back. This is done with pins, sticking them carefully into the back of the seat, arranging them to have the heads all even and as close together as possible.

Naturally, if your chair was left like this, the pins would come out more easily than if they were tied together. At this stage you will also need a good supply of some crochet cotton, which should be the same color as your cloth. Take the crochet cotton and wind it in and out of the pins, first securing the end to one of them.

Have your rows of cotton close together, and of course begin at the bottom and work upward, fastening the thread securely at the top.

This gives you an ordinary sitting room chair. To make an armchair it is better to leave the cork in its natural round shape. The bottoms of the chairs must be quite flat, or else they will not stand properly. For the armchairs the pins must be put in a half circle. The thread is wound on the same way as on the other chairs. To make a sofa requires more time, and more difficult winding must be done. A long fresh cork must be used for the foundation.

Cut two slices, one larger than the other, off the two sides lengthways, and you will have a flat side for it to stand on, while the broader flat piece will form the seat of the sofa. Cut off a piece of cloth large enough to cover both the seat and side of the sofa and stick it on with gum, tucking in the corners neatly. Now get some small pins and stick them into one side of the seat and get some larger pins and put them at one end for the "head" of the lounge and wind the cotton in and out, as in the chairs.



AN ARMCHAIR—A SITTING ROOM CHAIR.

A little bed is made in much the same way as the sofa, covering it with cloth, but the pins must be put in at each end and not at the side.

To make a washstand the cork must be cut in half and the sides cut off, as in the bed and sofa. Cover it with cloth and stick a pin in each corner to serve as the legs.

By this time you will think of other things you can make out of cardboard and colored paper which will be quite pretty, and your dollhouse will be handsome enough for the most fastidious doll in dolldom.—Kindergarten in New York Mail and Express.

Little Milton and the Clock.

Little Milton, aged 4, inquired what time his grandma would get there. His mamma told him at 6 o'clock.

"Well, where will the hands of the clock be, then?" he asked.

His mamma pointed out the respective positions of the hands to indicate the sixth hour. Some time after the mother chanced to look at the clock and was surprised to find it all wrong. Remembering her conversation with Milton the Wise, she called him and inquired what had happened to the clock.

"Why, mamma," explained the boy, clapping his hands, and his eyes dancing with expectation, "I just run the hands around, so grandma would come right straight off!"

The same bright boy tells time in an entirely original way. He looks carefully at the clock and stretches out his little arms in the exact position of the hands. He will go to his mamma and say, "The little hand is here and the big hand is there." And so accurate is he in imitating that one can tell the time to a very few minutes.—Newark Call.

On His Hobby Horse.

From morning till evening a stout little man
Keeps riding to Nowhere as fast as he can.
He rides on a horse that he never can tire,
On a road that's kept warm by the nursery
fire,
And when he arrives with the fairies he'll talk,
And in gardens of candies and gingerbread walk.
And that's why so briskly this stout little man
Keeps riding to Nowhere as fast as he can.

because O'Brian was quick and true at the trigger.

Nobody knew that he had any notches on his gun barrel, and certainly he had never evinced any bloodthirsty designs in his few months' residence in the obscure frontier cow town, but on the few occasions when he was matched with the crack shots his steady hand and unerring aim had displayed skill beyond the best of them. He was a saloon keeper, but so far as correctness of habits was concerned he might have been a Sunday school superintendent. He was strictly temperate and never played any of the games of chance that were on night and day in the Round Up. He never had been known to touch tobacco in any form, and his language was absolutely free of profane or slang embellishments. He was a big, handsome fellow, with the face of a man not yet in middle age, and his mouth, expressive as a woman's, was shaded by a heavy black mustache, in striking contrast with the masses of waving snow white hair above dark eyes, in which a sorrow seemed ever present. Children adored him, and theirs was the only companionship he ever sought. With men and women he was generally reserved, though always genial and companionable to a certain limit.

It was in the barroom of the saloon owned by O'Brian, which was always full of loafers, that the doctor made his way. He was overwhelmed with questions.

"Has the kid shore enough gone over the range, doc?" asked Vacquero Jack.

"Yes; the child is out of its misery."

"D'ye reckon it were a maverick?" called Poker Dave as he put down his empty glass and ordered "more of the same."

"I don't know, Dave, and I know you don't care," replied the doctor. "The mother loved the child, whether born in or out of wedlock. It is dead, its mother penniless. Who will help her in her hour of trouble?"

Poker Dave lowered his half emptied glass, and dashing the remainder of the beer on the floor dropped a gold dollar in the dripping receptacle.

"I ain't very flush, pards. This here's a 'relict of other days,' as poets stacks it up, but the perceedin's been somewhat sudden. I ain't no chance to draw on my bank account. Here, you sots, chip in!" And he passed the beer mug around the room. They "chipped in" right royally. Gold, silver and greenbacks, not one in the crowd failed to add his mite. The last piece laid on the heaped up pile was a silver dollar, old, dented and black, and had a big hole in it.

"It's shore all I got, pards," said B'Jo, flushing strangely as Poker Dave held it up gingerly between his fingers and the boys set up the laugh.

"I reckon it ain't much good, but it he'ps all the same. I—I've had it a mighty long spell's what makes it so black. I don't s'pose you all'll believe me, but I had a wife once, back on earth, a—a real good woman, an a kid got big nuff to call me daddy. It's a fact, pards," he said earnestly as he saw the incredulous looks about him, "an thet kid cut his teeth on this here cart wheel. Him an his ma is planted in the same grave long of the fever. I kinder keep the tin long of the kid. I wouldn't never stake it ner change it for likker, 'cause ever' time I'd tech it I'd see the little kid's purty face, an it seems like a part of him. But—oh, well, 'tain't no use to go on keepin it." An B'Jo dashed outdoors, where nobody would see his tears.

Nobody said anything, but Cactus Bill took the bent, blackened coin from Dave's fingers, and a shining yellow half eagle took its place in the glass. A day or two later the doctor stumbled over B'Jo in a drunken stupor in the shade of the saloon, and hanging over his heart from a leather string was a silver dollar full of dents, as though made by a child's first teeth.

When the glass would hold no more, Dave poured the princely collection into the doctor's hat, and a cabinet worker, who was deep in the mysteries of a game of "draw," flung his cards aside and offered to make a coffin. O'Brian stood in his billiard room door, looking up at the parlor windows of the Long Horn, and mechanically added a gold double eagle to the pile in the doctor's hat. He could see the little form stretched out on the piano, and he could see, too, the bowed head of the mother as she sat motionless beside her dead. The utter desolation of the mourner touched him.

"Come, boys, vamoose," he said peremptorily, turning on the crowd.

"Bein as this air onreg'lar an permiscus sudden, I app'ints myse'f a investigatin committee to enquire why for you evicts this here crowd, which air quiet an still able to pay fer the drinks, and don't give 'em no show for to talk back?" asked Big Mike sorlily.

"Faith, and who's boss of this shebin, I'd like to know?" demanded O'Brian sternly. "I said vamoose, and I meant it. Why should we add to the heartbreak of that poor creature up there by clacking billiard balls and your senseless mouthering and singing? Now, line out!"

When O'Brian adopted that tone, it meant as much as a fusillade from any other man's gun, so the saloon emptied, double quick.

"Here, doc, take these with you," said Dennis when the last loafer had gone. "Maybe they will comfort that poor mother a bit." And into the doctor's arms he piled a load of flowers, which he hastily cut from the handsomely blooming plants in the big south window of the barroom. They had been his special pride, but he sacrificed every blossom.

"If there should be anything else I can do, be sure to let me know," and the key clicked in the latch as the doctor left with his burden of blossoms and money.

Just as the sun was slipping down behind the western sand hills the people gathered in the cramped little parlor, half curious, but altogether sympathetic, and listened to the itinerant preacher read the burial service. True Christian that he was, he had not asked for marriage certificate nor baptismal register. The women, with an eye to the conventionalities, had arrayed the mother in black, and covered with her veil she sat beside the coffin, her head bowed upon her hand, a picture of desolation.

"For I am a stranger with thee and a sojourner," read the burial service. "Oh, spare me a little, that I may recover my strength before I go hence!" droned the preacher.

"Good Lord, spare her," said a voice softly, and there was comfort in the motherly hand laid upon the tight clinched ones under the veil.

Just as the doctor was about to enter the parlor Mrs. White beckoned him into the hall. "I got her to talk a little," she whispered. "Not that I cared, but I reckoned maybe she might have some folks somewhere that ought to know about her. The poor thing was married fast enough. Both families were opposed to the match, so they jist naturally got married anyhow and was throwed overboard by all their folks. They went to boardin. When they had been married about six months, her husband was called suddenly east on busi-

GIVEN UP TO DIE.

Doctors Thought There Was No Hope.

A Bradford, Ont., Lady says "I Owe My Life to Paine's Celery Compound."

THE GREAT SPRING MEDICINE ALWAYS SAVES AND CURES.

Concise and brief is the letter that comes from Mrs. Currier, of Bradford, Ont. It comes from one who was near the gates of death, and whose gratitude and thankfulness are strong and sincere for rescue and deliverance.

Sickness for over a year, attended with pleurisy and inflammation, placed Mrs. Currier's life in jeopardy; indeed, the doctors pronounced her case hopeless, and said she would die.

Friends urged the use of Paine's Celery Compound. Mrs. Currier used the medicine, and to-day enjoys the blessings of sound health.

This remarkable cure proves conclusively that Paine's Celery Compound is as much superior to the ordinary physicians' remedies as the diamond is to cheap glass.

At no season of the year does Paine's Celery Compound show its healing virtues to better advantage than in the spring time. It banishes disease, purifies the blood, enriches and strengthens the system, and adds years to one's life. Mrs. Currier says:

"I take great pleasure in sending you a testimonial for Paine's Celery Compound; I certainly owe my life to it. I may state that I was sick over a year with pleurisy and inflammation, and given up to die by three doctors and all my friends, when I was recommended to try Paine's Celery Compound. After using seven bottles of the wonderful medicine, I am all right again."

THE QUEEN IS ILL.

Her Majesty Stooped a Great Deal, Was Weary and Seemed Unable to Raise Her Head—Rosebery Will Soon Resign—Gladstone May Again Be Premier

Special to the Times.

LONDON, March 23.—Mrs. Emily Crawford, the well known Paris correspondent, in Truth this week has drawn a painful picture of Queen Victoria as she looked upon her arrival at Nice.

It appears that the Queen stooped a great deal, was weary and seemed unable to raise her head. She looked up and around under her eyelids as if lacking the strength to look otherwise. Her clothes were all loose and bundly, and in keeping with her facial expression.

The condition of the health of Lord Rosebery is not changed but there is no question that he is seriously ill and that the complications of the political situation are such as to deprive the Premier of the energy necessary to fight difficult and delicate questions.

Under these circumstances it is not astonishing that the wildest rumors are circulated, and that many people are turning their thoughts toward Mr. Gladstone as likely to be the man who will guide the Liberals once more out of political darkness and into the sunshine of harmony. Mr. Gladstone is now on his way to London.

DO NOT OWN THE STREET.

Brokers on the London Stock Exchange Called Down by a Magistrate.

Special to the Times

LONDON, March 23.—Mr. Paxton, the prominent member of the Stock Exchange who was arrested yesterday in Throgmorton street as a result of the disturbances between the brokers who do business in the street after the close of the Exchange and the police, was discharged this morning.

The magistrate, however, said that the brokers must understand that Throgmorton street was not for their use alone but for general traffic, and any interference with the police in clearing the street would be severely dealt with.

HE TOOK $3,300

Dry Goods Store Cashier Gets Away with Some of the Firm's Money.

Special to the Times.

BROOKLYN, March 23.—A general alarm was sent out from Brooklyn police headquarters tonight for the apprehension of Wm. Brunbusch, aged 21, of No. 93 Herbert street, who for some time past has been employed as cashier by Harry Batterman, a dry goods dealer at Broadway and Graham avenue.

Brunbusch was sent today to deposit $5,000 in the Broadway bank. His failure to return after a reasonable length of time caused the firm to make an investigation, which resulted in the discovery that the cashier had visited the bank, where he had deposited $1,700 of the money and had disappeared with the remaining $3,300. The police, on visiting his home, found that all his household effects had been packed up with the evident intention of a speedy removal. Brunbusch has a wife but no children.

Mrs. Brunsbusch professed to know nothing of her husband's whereabouts.

BANKER CONN ACQUITTED.

After Three Trials the Alvinston Forgery Case Falls to the Ground.

SARNIA, March 23.—Yesterday's sitting of the Lambton Spring Assizes saw the end of the celebrated case of the Queen vs. Conn for forgery and the uttering of forged paper in the name of Anthony Gilroy through the Merchants' Bank of Canada in St. Thomas during the time of Conn's transacting a banking business in Alvinston, Ont.

Many notes turned up after the failure which were not signed by Gilroy and which were very poor imitations of the paper signature. Proceedings were taken against Conn in Detroit and the Ontario Government effected his extradiction.

At the Spring Assizes the jury disagreed and the case came up again at the Fall Assizes of 1894, and the jury disagreed. The indictment this time being somewhat changed, he appeared for trial and for three days the trial has been on. The end was an acquittal.

Bullets Flew in the Air.

MARTIN'S FERRY, O., March 23.—The non-union men employed at the Buckeye glass works were stoned and shot at last night on Fourth street under the terminal railroad viaduct. One was struck on the arm and the other on the leg by stones. They took refuge in the barricaded works. Tonight while Peter Dunn, a workman, was walking on Carlisle, three shots were fired at him. He returned the shooting, but nobody was hurt. Two of the non-union glass workers arrived at the Buckeye factory tonight from Fostoria.

Cleaning Pots and Pans.

A woman naturally hates to clean up a bread or cake bowl after the dough has got hard. They should be cleaned as soon as used, but if necessary to leave them for a time run the tray or bowl full of cold water and let it stand so. When you get ready to clean it, the dough will be in the bottom of the utensil as a general thing, and you will only have to rinse and dry it. The same is true of kettles and skillets. I do not approve of setting any utensils aside when the dishes are washed, for if you keep an oyster shell with a thick, smooth edge at hand you can clean the roughness out of anything in half a moment, but if you don't want to do it just then you will find that an iron pot in which potatoes have burned to the bottom, or a skillet in which meat or gravy has simmered to a crust, will be easy enough to clean after standing an hour or two filled with cold water.

Worry and Cooking.

More than half of a homekeeping woman's time is spent in worrying and a good share of the other half in preparing food, as though the stomach were the immortal part of us. Take one-quarter of the time a woman devotes to making pies, preparing puddings, putting up preserves, baking cakes and frying, etc., and let her devote it to rest and recreation, and she would not look like a shred of parchment paper at 40. It is the nonessentials that kill us. We must learn to simplify before we can escape the doom of premature age. Nature never intended us to live as we do. If she meant us to eat puff pastry, she would have grown it on some of her trees. She has provided simple food in the shape of cereals, fruits and vegetables, and if we conformed ourselves more closely to her established order of diet we should be a happier and hardier race.—New York Telegram.

Filling Up a Window.

An excellent way of filling up an unnecessary window, or one that looks out on an ugly view, is to have the lower part built out into a small alcove, lined with plush, with a small shelf running round it and brackets for china. At the back a little window is covered with gilded fretwork, and in the front a space is left which can be filled up as the owner desires. One of the advantages is that light is not excluded from the top of the window or from the top of the alcove, so that it would be especially suitable for the small libraries where the back window looks out on a mews, and yet where light is distinctly needed.

Keeping Young.

American women might learn an advantageous lesson of their French sisters in the art of keeping young. But it is no recipe for cosmetics that they would acquire. First of all, French dames do not worry, or, if they do, they conceal the fact admirably. They are apparently on the crest of the wave of good fortune perpetually. Next, and almost equally important, they decline to hurry. They take life moderately, perform their duties without haste and linger over their pleasures. And in these two simple rules lies a mine of wealth for her who is wise enough to appropriate it.—Cincinnati Gazette.

Black Rope Designs.

Black rope is often used to embroider the designs stamped on pillows and tablespreads of colored linen or denims. It is particularly effective on old pink or shades of olive, and if the articles are to be used in a sitting room is often preferred to white embroidery silk or linen floss. Outlining the design thus worked in black, a fine gold cord or thread is sometimes added to brighten the work.

"PARSON" DAVIES POISONED.

The Stock Backer of Pugilists Comes Nearly Crossing the Great Divide.

Special to The Times.

CHICAGO, March 25.—"Parson" Davies, backer of many well-known pugilists, came near dying last night. He was suffering from the grip and in having a prescription filled at the drug store the drug clerk used strychnine instead of phenacetine.

Mr. Davies, shortly after taking the medicine, became very ill. His nephew became alarmed and physicians were summoned. The patient was in a comatose condition for nearly an hour, but is now out of danger.

Blaze at Orillia.

GENERAL BOOTH.

LONDON, March 25.—General Booth, in a written interview on "Darkest America," expresses the opinion that native Americans are superior, as a class, to native English in religious work. This work, he says, they conduct on a broader basis in America than they do here. There is no such wall between the churches, either in a special or religious way, in America as there is in England. The difficulty in the United States is in their new and mixed population. The enrollment of a million tramps in a great and distinct army and a host of criminals, all working in colonies under Salvation Army plans is one of the remedies with which Gen. Booth proposes to eradicate vice.

MONETARY CONFERENCE.

LONDON, March 25.—In the communications which have passed between the British and German governments in regard to a monetary conference. Sir Wm. Harcourt is reported as defining the position of England as ready to take part in a conference if a basis of feasible discussion shall be obtained. It is the opinion of officials high in authority that prolonged negotiations upon this subject must precede the conference.

In the High Court of Justice

QUEEN'S BENCH DIVISION

CONDON ET AL vs. CAREY

Pursuant to a Judgment of the High Court of Justice, Queen's Bench Division, made in this action, the creditors of William Condon, late of the Township of Otonabee in the County of Peterborough, who died in or about the month of September, A.D., 1892, are on or before the 22nd day of April, A.D., 1895, to send by post prepaid to Messrs. Hatton & Wood, of the Town of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough, solicitors for the plaintiffs, their Christian and Surnames, addresses and descriptions, the full particulars of their claims, a statement of their accounts, and the nature of their security (if any) held by them; or in default thereof they will be peremptorily excluded from the benefit of the said Judgment. Every creditor holding any security is to produce the same before me at my chambers at the Court House, in the said Town of Peterborough, on the 23rd day of April A.D., 1895, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, being the time appointed for adjucation on their claims.

Dated this 23rd March, A.D., 1895.

Can Catarrh Be Cured?

MOST POSITIVELY SO BY THE USE OF

Oxygenator

The record of our remedy is remarkable, it having shown itself equally efficacious in every form of the disease, from the simplest first symptoms to the most aggravated type. We confidently believe that any person suffering from Catarrh who has vitality sufficient to keep him alive until Oxygenator is given time to impart its properties can be completely cured by its use. That all other remedies have failed is no evidence that it will not cure.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

The Weather.

Probs: Southwest to northwest winds, fair and mild today, cooler tomorrow.

The Oakville Gold Cure.

Information regarding the above will be given with pleasure to all parties desiring such information. A. H. MELVILLE.

English Hop Ale.

Just received at the C.P.R. hotel another brewery, sold at 5 cents a schooner. Call and try it.—W. Overend.

Took No Action.

A meeting of the Committee on Appointments of the Board of Education was held last night. In regard to the appointment of a new school inspector, it is understood that nothing was done that will go before the Board.

Waiting for Ice.

The hockey match between the clothiers and grocers which was announced to come off last night was postponed on account of the slippery condition of the rink. The soft weather has rendered the ice soft and unfit for either skating or curling.

Funeral of Howard Oke.

The funeral of the late Howard Silas Oke took place yesterday at Welcome, and it was one of the largest gatherings of the kind ever seen in the township, showing conclusively that the afflicted mother and brothers and sister have the universal sympathy of all the neighbors and friends in their sad bereavement. Rev. James Thom, assisted by Rev. W. C. Beer, of Peterborough, a former pastor, conducted service at both the residence and the cemetery.—Guide.

Patrons Take Salt.

There was a lively scene at the Grand Trunk Railway freight yards yesterday afternoon, large detachments of the Patrons of Industry having come from Douro and North Monaghan with their teams and sleighs to load up with salt, the season's supply of it having just come to hand from the Kincardine Company's Salt Works. Mr. John Moloney checked the delivery of 30 000 pounds of sack and barrel salt for the Patrons of Douro and Mr. E. Barnard was similarly engaged on behalf of the Patrons of North Monaghan, for whom a carload of 40,000 pounds was on hand. There were two grades of salt—coarse and fine.

The Stratton Bill.

A committee representing the Rights and Privileges Committee of the C. W. A. and the City Inter-Club Association will wait upon Mr. Stratton, M. P. P., today, in reference to his bill respecting bicycles, which will be introduced into the House tomorrow. There is a very general feeling on the part of wheelmen that it would be grossly unfair to discriminate against them in the matter of licensing their machines, and Mr. Stratton will be so advised by the committees. However, as that gentleman says he brings up the bill more to have the points dealt upon therein discussed than with the desire to have it passed without amendment. It is quite possible that the wishes of the C. W. A. representatives will be complied with in this particular.—Mail-Empire.

Highway Robbery.

Soon after dark on Friday last, Mr. J. J. Alldred, a farmer, who does his buying and selling at Kinmount, left that village for for home, but had driven only a short distance when two men jumped upon his sleigh. Mr. Alldred's whip, a very heavy one, was under his arm, and one of the men snatched it away and shook the butt end of it over his head and threatened to brain him if he did not give up his money. Mr. Alldred told them that he was without it; but, upon his assailant declaring that he had seen him with some, he handed him a quarter dollar, whereupon both highwaymen jumped from the sleigh and hastily decamped. Mr. Alldred did not know was the "silent partner" was, but on Saturday he went to Police Magistrate Deacon, of Lindsay, and had a warrant issued for the arrest of Joseph Scott, he having been the man who had robbed him. Scott had seen Mr. Alldred handling some money in Mr. Graham's store at Kinmount. Constable Nevison, of Fenelon Falls, served the warrant for Scott's arrest and returned with him to Kinmount. The constable found Scott at a farm in Somerville. Bail was taken. The accused says he can prove an alibi.

A "TIFF" IN COUNCIL.

COUNCILLORS DAWSON AND STONE SAY UNPLEASANT THINGS TO EACH OTHER.

"There Have Been Lawyers on this Board Who Forgot More than You Know" Said Mr. Dawson—Then He Retracts It—The Sewer and the Contractor.

At a special meeting of the Town Council held last night, there were present: Mayor Kendry in the chair and Councillors Cahill Sproule, Best, Deane, Mills, Phelan, Dawson, Clinkscale, Sawers, Stone and Mason.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Mr. G. W. Hatton wrote on behalf of the Peterborough Driving Park Association asking for a grant of $500 for the purpose of erecting a grand stand, dressing rooms and making a track, in the event of securing the C.W.A. "meet," which the association was trying to get. The communication stated that the association was composed of citizens who have organized themselves for the purpose of promoting sports and otherwise working in the interests of the town. If the "meet" was secured for Peterborough it would mean the bringing of at least 3,000 people to the town who would require hotel accommodation for two or three days. This would be a great advantage to the town and merchants. Other towns that were in the race for the "meet" and the inducements they were offering to secure it were set forth. The communication was referred to the Finance Committee.

From Chief of Police Rossel asking for the usual summer police uniforms. Referred to Committee on Police Supervision.

From J. W. Van Norman, applying for position of overseer of streets and bridges. Referred to Committee on Appointments.

From Contractor Grant, claiming the right to proceed in the construction of the outfall sewer and finish his contract. He would give the Council the alternative of cancelling the contract on the conditions that he be paid for the work already done at the proportionate rate of the whole contract and for loss and damage occasioned by delay.

The clerk announced that a communication from Mr. W. H. Moore, the contractor, and also a communication from Mr. Edwards had been received.

Councillor Cahill stated that a committee of the whole council had been called to consider the contractor's letter and at this meeting the Town Solicitor had been instructed to advise the Council on the best course to pursue and Mr. Moore had been asked to find out from his client the terms upon which a settlement could be made, either on a basis of cancelling the contract or going on with its completion. No doubt these communications were on these points and as it was not expedient for the town to make known its offer to the contractor before discussing it, he thought the Council should go into committee of the whole to take up the communications.

The contractor's solicitor, Mr. Moore, at this point, remarked that such a plan looked like deferring the matter until the high water arose, when it would be impossible to go on with the work. His client wanted the order to go on at once. The benefit from such an order could only be had at once—not in 10 day's time.

Councillor Best said that wasn't the way Mr. Grant had talked to him in Toronto a few days ago. He thought Mr. Moore was presenting the case in a stronger form than Mr. Grant intended. This plea of hurry-up on account of high water was a pretex. In two weeks there would be high water which would block the work Mr. Grant couldn't get ready to go on with the work before high water. The town was justified in appealing from the award. Mr Moore seemed to think that because the township's were satisfied with the award the town should be.

Councillor Stone objected to Mr. Best's tones and words. He didn't think any of the legal fraternity would misrepresent the wishes of a client, nor would state a position if not so instructed. He was sure Mr. Moore would not. The award was there. Now, is there anything to prevent Contractor Grant from going on! "I don't think he need come to this Council for instructions."

Councillor Best replied that when talking with the Contractor he understood the latter to be quite satified to wait until the high water subsided, which would be some time in July. He didn't wish to accuse Mr. Moore of misrepresenting his client, but he could not reconcile the position Mr. Moore was taking with Mr. Grant's remarks to him.

Councillor Dawson didn't think Mr. Grant had anything to complain of. He had got everything from the town he had asked for. In the first place the Council had allowed him to change the invert bottom to brick, and then he had been paid 85 per cent. of the contract money, although he had told the Council he didn't want a cent until the contract was completed. He thought Councillor Stone always pictured everything darkly for the town and made out that everything was detrimental to the town's interest.

Councillor Stone immediately repudiated these remarks. He said they were false. "If Councillor Dawson would remember, he (Stone) had said in reference to the sewer award that the Council was treading on dangerous ground. There had been blunders made in the past, and in speaking as he did and in taking the stand he did, he was trying to avert the making of further blunders, at least, as far as he himself was concerned.

Councillor Dawson was quick to retort. He said he had seen lawyers in the Council who had never talked against the town's interest and who had forgotten more than Councillor Stone knew——

Councillor Stone (rising to his feet)—"name them; I demand that you name them!"

Councillor Dawson (continuing) "well there were such men" as Dennistoun, Moore and Rogers——

Councillor Stone—Mr. Mayor, I won't stand the bulldozing on the part of that man (shaking his finger at Councillor Dawson). A man who knows his business as a councillor and gentleman wouldn't speak as he has done." He characterized Councillor Dawson's remarks as an exposure of "miserable ignorance."

Councillor Sproule poured oil on the troubled waters, or at least interrupted the heated discussion with a few remarks. He thought the point of the discussion had been lost sight of and he endorsed Councillor Cahill's suggestion to go into Committee of the Whole.

Councillor Dawson then retracted his words about the lawyers he had mentioned forgetting more that Councillor Stone knew. His reference to that gentleman were based on Councillor Stone's remarks at the last meeting when he had said the town was in a bad fix over the sewer matter. This remark was made in the presence of Mr. Edmison, the township's counsel.

Later on Councillor Stone said that he had been grossly attacked and he felt deeply hurt. "If it is the opinion of this Council," he said, "that I have worked against the interests of this town I'll resign my seat. If there is a man who can lay one finger on any one act I have done against the town, I'll resign." He said he had been in favor of extending the time to the arbitrator because he thought the award would be in the town's interest and he did not want to see the arbitrator's jurisdiction ousted, which was imminent at that time. As it was, he only wished such jurisdiction had been "ousted." He appealed to the Mayor if any of his acts in Council had been against the town's interests.

The Mayor replied that he thought all the councillors had been working together for the best interests of the town.

At this juncture Mr. Moore arose and stated that he was sorry it had been sugsuggested that he was taking a stronger view of the case than his client did. He appealed to the Mayor if Mr. Grant had not expressed himself just as strongly, both verbally and by letter, as he (Mr. Moore) had done. The Mayor replied that Mr. Grant had done so.

Councillor Best thought that Mr. Grant simply wanted his contract time extended. He had no doubt the Council would extend the time.

The Mayor—Certainly. Mr. Grant has treated the town fairly, and we have treated him fairly. We shall continue to do so.

Councillor Cahill then moved that the Council go into Committee of the Whole to discuss the letters mentioned. Councillor Sawers seconded the motion, which was carried.

The press, as is the rule, was excluded from the meeting, the result of which will be made public at the proper time.

ZERA SEMON.

A Rare and Interesting Program at the Opera House To-night.

Zera Semon will commence a 4 nights' engagement at the Opera House tonight. Those who attend may feel sure of a good night of pleasure and fun. The Halifax Herald gives the following notice of the show:—

"Zera Semon's opening performance at the Lyceum last evening was witnessed by a crowded house. Standing room was at a premium. The entertainment was of a high character and intensely interesting. The many and exceedingly clever feats of magic by the professor were wonderful and well merited the prolonged and enthusiastic applause. Zera excelled in ventriloquism. He undoubtedly thoroughly pleased the audience with his marvelous command of his voice. The shadowgraph part of the programme was in charge of Reed Bros., who only recently performed to large audiences in Boston. This part of the programme evidently pleased the audience immensely, as every scene was attended by loud applause. 250 presents were given away, including a gold watch won by T. Forgerty, and $10 in gold, which was captured by J. King. Other valuable prizes were given away, including French tea sets, barrels of flour, hams, turkeys, chickens, coal, etc. Another large audience will doubtless be present this evening."

Twenty Thousand Roses.

There are nearly 20,000 rose trees in bloom now at Dunlop's conservatories Bloor-st. west, Toronto. Visitors are always welcome. Mr. Dunlop is proud of his establishment and takes pleasure in speaking oc his beauties. He ships them by mail and express to all parts of Canada, and as these orders are filled direct from the trees, he guarantees them to arrive in good condition. Sale room, 45 Yonge-st., and 45 King street west.

A Metal Breadboard
THE WOMAN WHO HAS BEEN USED to kneading dough on the old fashioned wooden breadboard knows what a bother it is to get them clean and how cumbersome and heavy they are. When they begin to crack or check its almost impossible to thoroughly cleanse them, and they may easily become dangerous conveyances of disease. It was left for a woman, of course, to remedy this state of affairs, and Mrs. M. M. Everhard, of St. Joseph, Mich., has patented a metal bread-board, which is one of the greatest labor-savers imaginable. It is light, does not absorb grease, dough does not adhere to it, and while it possesses all the advantages of the marble bread-board it is much cheaper and, of course, far lighter and easier to handle. If readers want to confer a favor upon their wives that will be forever appreciated, let them send $1 to the manufacturers, 101 Bay street, Toronto, for one of these boards.

A GRAND TRUNK YARDMAN MEETS WITH A VIOLENT DEATH.

A Cold Bath—To Escape from Arrest, Robert Ward Jumps into the Don and Tries to Swim Across—A Farmer Chases an Alleged Burglar—Stolen Goods Recovered.

Special to the Times.

TORONTO, March 26.

FOR once again there was a shocking accident at an early hour this morning in the Grand Trunk yards at the foot of John street. John Howarth, a yardman, who had been in the employ of the Grand Trunk for a number of years, was standing on the rear end of a string of cars which were being shunted from one track to another. It was very dark, and Howarth, missing his footing, fell head foremost to the track below. His neck was broken, and it was apparent that the unfortunate man had been instantly killed.

The remains were removed in a patrol wagon to his late residence, 72 Mitchell avenue. The wife and two small children of the dead man were still asleep when the patrol wagon arrived with the body, and the scene at the humble dwelling when the sad story was told to its occupants was sad in the extreme.

It was not considered necessary to hold an inquest.

CHASED A BURGLAR.

Chase was given by Francis Miller, a farmer who lives out in Scarboro' township after a burglar this morning.

The farmer, who usually leaves the doors of his house unlocked at night, arose early and discovered that his place had been burglarised of $22 and some other articles. Miller noticed footprints in the snow and followed them up in his buggy. He lost track of the foot prints but proceeded on toward the city.

Just before reaching the Don Miller overtook a man named Robert Ward, who had worked for him last summer. The farmer got out of his buggy and a tussle ensued between him and Ward. The latter, it is said, threw the $22 that had been stolen into the buggy and then attempted to get away.

JUMPED INTO THE ICY DON.

Miller held his man until assistance came and then started for a constable but while he was gone Ward broke away and jumping into the Don tried to swim across to the other side. He was about drowning when Miller and a policeman appeared on the scene and fished him out of the water. Ward was glad enough to be taken to No. 4 police station, where his clothes were dried.

The prisoner was brought before the Magistrate at 11 o'clock and handed over to the county authorities.

STOLEN GOODS RECOVERED.

The money and other articles were recovered.

This is the same man who was convicted under the name of Woods three months ago for the stealing of an overcoat from Dr. Snellgrove and sentenced to 50 days in jail.

DIED IN THE CENTRAL.

End of the Career of Henry Clark Who Came From Guelph.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, March 26.—Death liberated a prisoner at the Central Prison this morning who was serving a term of 23 months for larceny. His name was Henry Clark and he was sentenced some time ago by the authorities at Guelph.

For several weeks past he had been suffering from lung disease and died just before daybreak this morning.

The usual inquest was held at the prison by Coroner Lynd, and the verdict declared that he had died from tuberculosis.

"ZIM" PICKS UP THE GLOVE.

Houben's Challenge for a Three-Race Contest Accepted.

Special to the Times.

NEW YORK, March 26.—The cycling world will be glad to learn that the world's champion, "the only Zimmerman," has decided to accept the challenge issued by Hubert Houben, the Belgian wonder, to a series of three races for 25,000 francs a side. The details are not complete, but "Zim" says he will race him, and that he is only awaiting a cablegram from Paris before making arrangements for the trip. Houben stands as the undisputed champion of all Europe today.

Through a Plateglass Window.

FOREST, Ont., March 26.—A most remarkable accident took place in this town yesterday morning. A horse, owned by the Rev. Dr. Hindley, Congregationalist minister, was being led through the yard when a piece of barbed wire caught in the blanket which covered the horse. The frightened animal broke away and dashed through the streets, goaded to actual madness by the cling wire. Coming down James street at full gallop, the frenzied animal headed straight for the G. N. W. Telegraph Company's office and went through the large plateglass window of the office at a single bound, shivering the windowpane and sash. The two young ladies employed in the office narrowly escaped being killed by the infuriated animal, and were taken, terror-stricken, from the office. The horse was then captured, but not before he had partially demolished the interior of the office, among other things smashing the stove and setting fire to the floor. The office is a small one, and the escape of the young ladies is the most miraculous part of the whole affair.

Spain's New Minister to the U.S.

MADRID, March 26.—The Spanish Minister to the United States, Senor Muruaga, cabled his resignation to the Spanish Government immediately on the formation of a new Cabinet. This appointment of Senor Dupuy de Lome as Senor Muruaga's successors will be gazetted as soon as it receives the approval of the United States Government.

The Cuban Revolution.

MADRID, March 26.—An official despatch received here from Havana, Cuba, says that the rising is confined to the Province of Santiago, that most of the insurgents are without arms and that they do not hold any places of importance.

Carries One Million.

LIVERPOOL, March 26.—The steamship Teutonic, which sails from this port tomorrow for New York, carries $1,000,000 of American gold coin.

THE OSCAR WILDE LIBEL.

A True Bill Against the Marquis of Queensberry—Reception at Monte Carlo.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, March 26.—In the Old Bailey today, the Recorder, Sir Charles Hall, in charging the grand jury, referred to the libel proceedings instituted by Mr. Oscar Wilde against the Marquis of Queensbury. He said that if the Marquis wrote the words which it is claimed he did upon the card produced, whether he was justified or not in so doing, it constituted a libel. Moreover, the Recorder added, the defendant intended to plead justification as his defence. The grand jury eventually returned a true bill against the Marquis.

A despatch from Monte Carlo to the Observer says that after Mr. Oscar Wilde and Lord Alfred Douglas, the second son of the Marquis of Queensbury, arrived at that place recently, they went to a hotel, but after staying there a day the proprietor, at the request of other English visitors, informed them that their rooms were engaged. Both Mr. Wilde and Lord Alfred are now in London.

WHAT THE CENTRAL WILL DO.

An Electric Trolley with Palatial Cars to Run Between Buffalo and the Falls.

Special to the Times.

BUFFALO, N.Y., March 26.—The Courier says the New York Central railway has decided to equip its line between here and Niagara Falls with a monster trolley system and motor cars of such power that trains of the latest and best in passenger coaches may be drawn over the line with no decrease from the present rate of speed, though comfort in travel will be enhanced and fares will be reduced. Orders have been issued to begin the work at once, and it is expected that the line will be ready to care for a large part of the heavy summer traffic.

BISMARCK'S BIRTHDAY.

HE IS CONGRATULATED BY EMPEROR WILLIAM.

The Iron Chancellor is Presented With a Sword of Honor in the Army—Parade of Crack Troops.

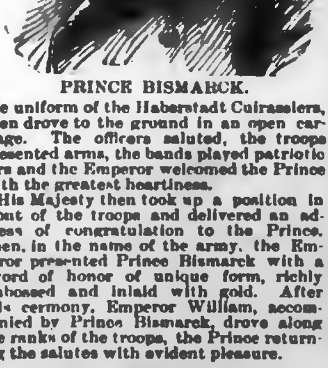
Special to The Times.

BERLIN, March 26.—Emperor William, accompanied by the Crown Prince Frederick William, left this city at 8.20 a.m. for Friedrichsruhe in order to congratulate Prince Bismarck upon the 80th anniversary of his birth. He left the train near the village of Aumuehle, where he mounted a horse and attended by a brilliantly uniformed staff, rode quickly to the spot selected for the assembling of the troops which had been detailed to do honor to Prince Bismarck.

The troops consisted of a squadron of the Haeberstadt Cuirassiers, of which regiment Prince Bismarck, as honorary colonel, wore the uniform yesterday; the 76th Infantry regiment, a squadron of the 15th Hussars, all colors flying and their regimental bands in attendance, and a battery of the Holstein Artillery regiment.

A ROYAL WELCOME.

With Emperor William at its head, this force was marched to an open space in Prince Bismarck's park and upon arriving there the troops were deployed in parade order. Prince Bismarck, wearing the uniform of the Haberstadt Cuirassiers, then drove to the ground in an open carriage. The officers saluted, the troops presented arms, the bands played patriotic airs and the Emperor welcomed the Prince with the greatest heartiness.



PRINCE BISMARCK.

His Majesty then took up a position in front of the troops and delivered an address of congratulation to the Prince. Then, in the name of the army, the Emperor presented Prince Bismarck with a sword of honor of unique form, richly embossed and inlaid with gold. After this cermony, Emperor William, accompanied by Prince Bismarck, drove along the ranks of the troops, the Prince returning the salutes with evident pleasure.

LUNCHEON WITH THE PRINCE.

When the inspection was over Prince Bismarck went to his house, stood on the terrace from which he addressed the Reichstag and Landtag delegations yesterday, and the Emperor led the Cuirassiers past the front of the house and back again.

His Majesty afterwards entered the Schloss and luncheoned with Prince Bismarck, the Cuirassiers mounting guard outside the building and the artillery remaining as a guard of honor on the parade ground. From that spot the artillery fired salutes when the signal was given that the Emperor had proposed the health of Prince Bismarck.

The railroad station, postoffice and all the houses of Friedrichrue and its neighborhood were decorated with flags in honor of the Emperor's visit and the occasion of it.

A Frightful Death.

OMAHA, Neb., March 26.—Cornelius McGuire, a well known Omaha metal smith, was locked in his shop and burned to death. He slept late, and was awakened by the flames. Rushing to the door he found it barred on the outside. When his suffering made him delirious he rushed through the flames into the street and died. The doors and windows had been nailed up by an enemy.

Markham Sinners Being Saved.

MARKHAM, March 26.—The Rev. A. Browning is here assisting Rev. W. Buchanan in revival services in the Methodist church. The three services last Sunday were largely attended, and at the evening service many men and women gave themselves to Christ. Among them were some of the finest young men in Markham.

DARK MICHIGAN TRAGEDY

THE BODY OF A YOUNG MAN FOUND IN A STOUT BARREL.

The Sad End of Young Guenette—The Assassin of a Brother Suspected of the Second Crime—No Clue as to the Murderer.

Special to the Times.

LUDINGTON, Mich., March 26.

THE body of a human being stuffed in a barrel hid a frightful mystery. Three weeks ago a young man named S. D. Guenette, who was working in Sherman Bros.' store in this city, failed to come back to the store on Saturday night. He had not drawn his wages for that week, and as he had no money it was not thought possible that he could have left the city. Inquiry was made everywhere and his family sent to the neighboring towns, but could get no tidings of him. For three weeks his parents and brothers gave him up as dead. Yesterday two boys going through the Epworth League Park, north of the city about a mile, found Guenette's body stuffed into a barrel. A horrible gash extended clear across his throat. Only the head and shoulders protruded. The spot where the barrel was found was in the woods a short distance from the main road which has been barred from travel by snow drifts. There were two sets of tracks leading off toward the road in two directions, showing that two persons must have brought the barrel there. There were no other marks on the body, nor did the clothes show any

SIGNS OF STRUGGLE.

A brother, Philip, some time ago was drowned by falling through the ice, and this young man has always insisted that his brother was pushed into the hole in the ice by some one who started over the lake with him. He said that he had a suspicion in his mind as to who drowned his brother. Some, therefore, think that his brother's murderer, if there was one, was also his murderer. The deceased was quiet and peaceable, and never was known to have any enemies nor any bad habits. The jury rendered a decision that he came to his death by being murdered by unknown persons.

PRINCE BISMARCK.

Arrival at Friedrichsruhe of Members of the Reichstag to Congratulate the Ex Chancellor.

Special to The Times.

FRIEDRICHSRUHE, March 26.—Three special trains, having on board nearly 400 members of the Reichtag and of the Prussian Diet, arrived here today, and were received at the railroad station by Count Herbert Bismarck. Count William Bismarck, Count von Rantzau, the husband of Prince Bismarck's daughter, and by Count von Waldersee. The deputation proceeded to the castle front, where they were received in a body by Prince Bismarck. Herr von Koeller, President of the Lower House of the Prussian Diet, made a speech congratulating Prince Bismarck on the approaching eightieth anniversary of his birth. The Prince, in reply, made a speech, thanking the deputations for their kind wishes.

Investigating a Suspicious Death.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., March 26.—Coroner Allan Cameron was summoned today to Shallow Lake, a small village on the Grand Trunk railway, eight miles from this town, to hold an inquest on the body of John Flynn, a resident of that place, who was found dead on the roadway near Cruickshank post office yesterday. Full particulars cannot be obtained until he returns. Sensational rumours are afloat, however, and it is surmised by many that Flynn was the victim of foul play. He was missing from Friday night. What makes the case more prominent is the fact that Flynn was nightwatchman at the works of the Owen Sound Cement Works when the buildings were destroyed by fire one night last June. On investigation by Detective Rogers it was found that the nightwatchman was drunk on that night. Some time after a discharged employe of the company named Thompson was arrested on the charge of arson, charged with having set fire to the buildings. Flynn's evidence alone was of any value in the case, and on his evidence Thompson was sent up for trial. Bail was accepted, however, and the case was to have come up at the June sessions. As the whole case depended on Flynn's veracity, the death of so important a witness will be a serious loss to the Crown. County Crown Attorney MacKay cannot give any further particulars until the coroner returns.

Li Hung Chang's Misfortune.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—State Department officials say that nothing has been received by the department concerning the attempted assassination of Li Hung Chang. The regret over his misfortune is practically unanimous.

Sagasta's Resignation.

MADRID, March 26.—The Government has accepted the resignations of the Ministers in London and Washington. Count Casa Valencia and Depuy De Lorme will probably be their successors. General Gamier will probably replace Captain-General Calleja in Cuba.

Incendiaries Confess.

BURLINGTON, Vt., March 26.—T. P. Donnelly and Wallace Brookes, arrested Saturday night, are said to have confessed to setting the fire which destroyed the large lumber mills of J. R. Booth, of Ottawa Ont., the Baldwin refrigerator works, and the Vermont Shade Roller Company's shop, in which one life was lost. They implicate a third party, for whom the police are searching.

Brussels' Town School Burned.

BRUSSELS, March 26.—The town school was destroyed by fire last evening. It was built when Brussels was called Ainleyville. The fire was evidently the work of an incendiary. The insurance of $1,600 will cover all losses.

No Trace of the Reina Regente.

MADRID, March 26.—The Government is officially informed that all reports that the warship Reina Regente has been found submerged in the straits are wholly without foundation and also that neither wreckage nor bodies from the ship have been washed ashore.

Sir William Harcourt has had to declare that the Island of Cyprus since its acquisition has been a source of profit to the extent of $1,000,000, by way of correction of a previous statement that it was costing $1,800,000 a year.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 28 1895.

Good morning!

The adoption of a resolution by the Imperial Parliament declaring for the payment of members marks another step in the onward march of the democracy of Great Britain.

B. B. Osler, Q.C., has denied that the Ontario Government has retained his services permanently as prosecutor in all murder trials in this province. It is to be hoped that the publication of this denial will not act as a stimulus to the murder industry.

It is announced that the Toronto Globe of April 18 will be in all its departments the product of Toronto women. Perhaps the ladies are impelled to attempt this feat by the hope that if they are successful in running the Globe, their ability to run the earth will be generally conceded.

It is well that a session has been called before dissolution for the purpose of deciding upon what action Parliament is to take relative to this Manitaba School question. Members, just after an election, with five years of office before them, might take a course that they will not dare to follow on the eve of an appeal to the people.

If bicycles are taxed why should other pleasure vehicles go untaxed? Is there any good reason for making the owner of two-wheeled pleasure vehicle, which he propels himself, pay for the privilege of owning it, while the owner of a four-wheeled pleasure vehicle, which is drawn by a horse, is allowed to go free? If bicycles are taxed so should carriages be.

The fact that a young Japanese crank has attempted to assassinate Li Hung Chang is no proof of the spurious character of Japanese civilization. So far from discouraging the growth of cranks, modern civilization tends to stimulate it. Now that Japan has taken her place among the civilized and progressive nations of the world, she must expect to have successive crops of Guiteaus and Cesarios.

If Mr. Patterson really does retire from the Cabinet Sir Mackenzie Bowell will suffer a serious loss. The Minister of Militia is not only an efficient departmental head but he is also exceedingly popular as a man. However, if the retirement takes place we trust the other rumour in this connection will be verified also by the appointment of Mr. Patterson to the Lieutenant-Governorship of Ontario. No other man can fill the latter office with greater acceptance.

The Fees Commission recommends that no member of Parliament shall be eligible for a fee paid office until a certain time after his term as legislator expires; that all the revenues of such offices, over a certain specified sum, shall be payable to the public treasury; and that all vacancies shall be filled within a given period. If members of Parliament are barred for five years after retirement, if provision is made for filling all offices within two months after vacancy, and if the emoluments payable are made to correspond with the earning ability of the office holders, the worst evils in the present system will be done away with.

MANITOBA SCHOOL QUESTION.

It is useless for the Government to attempt to minimize the importance of the Manitoba School question. That question is the greatest now before the people of this country and no amount of special pleading will reduce its proportions.

The issue is a great one, because there is involved in it an effort to limit the rights of self-government in one province—an effort which, if successful, will be used as a precedent for an attack on other provinces later on.

But even this is a matter of little moment in comparison with other considerations affecting the whole future of the Dominion. If Manitoba is not, says the News, crushed by the Federal power in this fight the foundation will be laid for a Greater Canada beyond the great lakes in which there will be but one language and one school system. The immediate effect of such a developement, if it takes place, will be to draw Ontario into line, and ultimately Quebec, rather than suffer the consequences of continued isolation, will abandon her peculiar institutions and cast in her lot with the other Provinces in building up a really united Dominion.

If, on the other hand, Manitoba is crushed; if that Province is coerced into re-creating a dual system, dualism both in language and education will be extended to the Territories as well and thus there will be perpetuated in the West—which is now the hope of our new nationality—the evils which have caused disunion and stagnation in the East.

The destiny of Canada depends upon whether the Government of Manitoba or that of the Dominion wins in the fight now on.

AN UNLAMENTED CONGRESS.

The death of the Congress which expired on March 4th was signalized in some American cities by the firing of cannon, the ringing of bells and other demonstrations of joy.

Two short years was the span of its life. The late Congress came in as a deliverer, with Cleveland as a hero, the choice of an overwhelming majority of the nation, that now by a still more overwhelming majority wishes the Republic could lose both Cleveland and his Congress.

And the Republicans are not unlikely to repeat in their own experience the misfortunes of the Democrats. It will be many a long day before the United States revels in fatness like that of the years that are gone, and it will be crushed by the impossibility of fulfilling that contract.

KEENE.

In glancing over the colums of the Millbrook Reporter my attention was directed to an item concerning a hockey match, played here a few weeks ago, between the Millbrook and Keene clubs. It is not my intention or desire to convey any offence to the writer of this erroneous article but under the circumstances I cannot refrain from contradicting his statements as they are intermingled with untruthfulness from beginning to end. I was an eye witness of the game and consider that the Millbrook club were treated and entertained well by the Keene boys. They accuse the Keene club of roughness and shinneys while playing, but I hold that the Millbrookers were as guilty of the above charge as the Keenites. They also compare the spectators as being a howling, half-civilized mob. Well, through modesty we will not argue on that subject, but, thank God, a Keene crowd has honesty and civilization enough about them to give a truthful report of a game of Hookey.

They complain of the referee, umpire, light, etc. I feel convinced that they are kickers but unfortunately could not kick high enough on the night of the game to knock out the Keene boys. The Keene boys are hustlers to play hockey, and don't you forget it. The correct result of the game was 6 to 4 in favor of Keene, not a tie as the Millbrookers try to claim.

It is no unusual occurrence for men to become intoxicated from the use of strong drink, but it is seldom that we witness a case of intoxication from love. In the skating rink last Saturday night, one poor fellow was so demented and overpowered by love that he prostrated himself beside his beloved duckey and took the liberty of implanting his precious head in her lap, an action which she appeared to very much appreciate judging from the fond caresses which she bestowed on his beardless cheeks. The transaction added much to the amusement of the evening.

We are sorry to chronicle the demise of Anderson Graham, which sad event took place on Friday morning last. The deceased was engaged doing his chores when he was seized with apoplexy and suddenly expired in his barn. He leaves a wife and three small children, the youngest being born on the morning of his death. We sympathize for the bereaved wife and family.

JUST THE MAN.

Hopes Expressed that Mr. Arthur Coley may Run for Parliament.

SOMERSET, Man., March 28.—Much interest has been taken in the paragraph referring to the possible candidature of Mr. Arthur Coley, and it is hoped that something may come of it. There is a generally expressed opinion in the neighborhood that the man who is so quick to select a sure remedy like Dodd's Kidney Pills for the complaint by which he was prostrated, will probably be able to select equally efficacious remedies to cure the evils which are affecting the body politic. If the reasoning be correct and Mr. Coley be returned, it is to be hoped that the political precepts he may advocate in the House of Parliament will be as speedy in their effects as Dodd's Kidney Pills were on the severe attack of Bright's disease from which he suffered ness, or rather on his father's business, for they was in together, and she never heard from him after. When her money finally give out and she was most crazy with worry, she swallowed her pride and went to his father. He told her that her husband was tired of her and had gone to Europe to get rid of her. She didn't believe it, but what could she do? Most crazy, she went out to service, for her folks wouldn't recognize her when they learned her condition. Finally she had to go to the hospital, and her baby was born there seven months after her husband left her. She appealed to both her father and his after the baby came. His father said they'd take the boy and pay her a lot of money if she'd never claim it, and her folks said that, if she'd get rid of the baby, she might come home. She kept the kid, of course. She got money enough together to go to a ranch in Colorado, where she was to be a housekeeper, when the baby took sick on the cars. It was 18 months old."

"And what is her name?"

Mrs. White looked at the doctor blankly. "Well, I'm blessed if I ever thought of askin her name!"

When they entered the parlor at last, the services were over, and the people were indulging in the barbarous custom of filing by the dead to take a last look. No sculptured cherub was ever more beautiful to look upon than the little waif as it lay in dreamless sleep. Some mother had arranged the tiny form in an embroidered robe, and in the dimpled hands were some pansies. Indeed the coffin was almost buried under the flowers that Dennis had furnished. As the last weeping woman left the room Mrs. White entered with Dennis, who had volunteered to take the coffin in his buggy to the cemetery, his being the only light vehicle in the country. Touching the mother, the preacher asked her if she would like to take a farewell look at her child. Without a word she lifted her veil slightly, and, leaning over, pressed a long kiss on the marble face, and when she stepped back a single tear was shining on the little one's cheek.

"Ask her what name shall be put on the head board," whispered Dennis to the doctor as he picked up a narrow pine slab and took out his pencil. Great drops of sweat stood on his brow, and his eyes were full of tears. The doctor asked the woman the child's name.

"Louis O'Brian!" she answered in a sweet, tremulous tone. With an inarticulate cry Dennis dropped the slab, and, leaning toward her across the dead child, said unsteadily:

"And your name"—

As Dennis spoke she threw back her veil, and over her face there swept an expression of joy and bewilderment, not unmixed with terror. Just an instant she hesitated, then, laying her trembling hands in his, held out to her over the coffin and the flowers, asked gently:

"Need I tell you?"

"But—the child—Louis, he"—

"Was our son."

"My poor persecuted darling! They have lied to me criminally. They wrote to me in London, where I was called on urgent business for the firm, that you were dead; that you died suddenly of malignant fever two weeks after my departure. When I came back after a year of restless wandering, they showed me a grave with your name on the stone I had ordered in Rome. And—the—boy—Holy Mother, forgive them, for I had not even heard of his existence!"

"And now you come too late! Oh, my baby, my baby!"

The fountains were opened at last, and clasped in her husband's arms she sobbed out her story of sorrow and bitterness, deception and privation, and Dennis learned how his father had duped them both and kept from his wife the letters and money which he had sent in his father's care until informed of her death. As an incentive to get him out of the country O'Brian senior had promised to look after his son's wife. Dennis had thus no reason to doubt the crushing tidings that followed him so quickly. Half crazed with grief, he followed the advice of his parents to remain abroad for a year. When he returned, his wife's people had left the city, so there was no one to undeceive him. The rest of the deception was easy to accomplish. To get away from all reminder of his sorrow he drifted west.

As the sunset gun boomed forth its sonorous good night from the fort near by Dennis O'Brian and his wife turned away from the mound of flowers which hid from sight their child's grave and walked arm in arm past the groups of gossiping men and women back to the Long Horn, which Mrs. White and some of the other women had hastily arranged in gala attire for them.

"There's the baby's death between them and real hearty happiness just now," said Mrs. White as she ripped up her best sheet to make curtains for the parlor window, "but it stands to reason that it's drawed 'em closer together. I'm bound they shall have one real home comin. Mercy sakes! Talk about angels unawares! Here, Mrs. Williams, you put this up. I've got to round up that greaser cook, or he'll have red pepper in the white cake and forgit to put the sody in the corn bread. Good land! There they come!" And with her mouth full of pins, her heart boiling over with rough tenderness, Mrs. White bustled below to take the young stranger in her motherly arms before introducing her right and left to the denizens of the town, who were there in force to welcome her, so closely are joy and grief akin.

Poker Dave, lounging against the closed door of the Round Up, observed reflectively to B'Jo:

"It wer'n't a maverick, after all."

"That it wer'n't," echoed B'Jo as he fingered a battered silver dollar and gazed furtively at the crowd around the doors of the Long Horn. "It were shore enough branded."

Pinto Dan, coming round the corner just then, caught the drift of their observations, and as he looked across at O'Brian's silver hair and the sad, sweet face of the woman at his side he added earnestly:

"Aye, pards, and the brand were burned deep."—Washington Star.

American High Schools.

Mr. Charles J. Smart, ex-superintendent of public schools of Ohio and an educator of experience, says in The Arena that public high schools are for the privileged few. He holds that the primary schools as at present managed are merely preparatory for the high school and are therefore not calculated to give the best practical instruction to those who cannot take the advanced course. Only 3 per cent of the pupils ever take the high school course. The offer of a liberal education to the poor as well as to the rich sounds well, but of what worth is a thing offered to those who cannot accept it, though they have to aid in paying for it? The average high school does not give a liberal education to the poor. To them it is as the water of Tantalus, mocking their thirst. Indeed, as the high schools are organized and provided, they do not give a liberal education to any one.

A MULTITUDE GREETS HIM

THE TRIUMPHAL RETURN OF THE GRAND OLD MAN.

Monetary Conference—Grant Allan's Theories on Free Love—General Booth on "Darkest America"—His Opinion of Americans.

Special to the Times.

LONDON, March 25.—England also is greatly disturbed by the turn that events have taken. She knew that in all circumstances she could reckon upon the triple alliance, but if the alliance comes to an end and Russia stands in with France the situation is entirely changed. Everything was done by England to influence Austria's decision but her efforts failed, for Austria has at present no need of English assistance either naval or financial. Gen. Von Werder knew nothing of all these negotiations and when the Emperor learned of what had actually been accomplished he became terribly angry and recalled the General. These events show that Nicholas II is continuing to follow his father's policy and that the Franco-Russian understanding still exists. If the present plan succeeds Germany will in a little while be isolated in Continental Europe.

CHEERED BY THE PEOPLE.

LONDON, March 25.—Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone arrived at Charring Cross station at 7.50 o'clock yesterday evening. An enormous crowd had gathered in and about the station, and when the ex-premier and his wife appeared upon the platform they were greeted with loud cheers. Both Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone looked to be in good health.

FREE LOVE.

LONDON, March 25.—Mr. Grant Allen's frank advocacy of free love in his novel "The Woman Who Did," Pinero's new play, and other works of similar tendency, have brought these questions to the front more prominently than ever before in England. Mr. Allen, in an interview on the theories he has developed, said yesterday: "My desire is especially to influence young women, and to tell them: Your purity, of which you make so much, is an artificial product, and only kept up at the expense of unspeakable misery to the thousands of other women who are sacrificed on your account. Are you ready to let these poor wretches suffer and die, in order that you may be kept as good marketable commodities for men wanting to buy? Every adult man and woman should form a union of affection, as is normally possible. If this were the rule, neither celibacy nor the social evil would exist. No young man would prefer vulgar vice if he could openly form a union with the woman he loved."

In a similar line, the dramatist, Alfred Carmour, said: "If I were called upon to select one of two actresses equally fitted to fill a part, I would select one who had broken the bonds of conventional restraint and suffered the consequences. The wider the sympathies the more conventional she would be."

A discussion of sexual literature is proceeding in the newspapers, and morbid novels, portraying women's vagaries, ar obtaining a phenomenal sale.

BIG MEN IN SPAIN.

They Are Scarce Among the Natives and Are Much Admired.

"There is no place where a man's size will increase his importance in the eyes of the people more than in Spain," said William H. Graham. "The Spaniards, as a race, being an undersized people, a large man, well developed physically, is looked upon as being some important, extraordinary being. So, while I was traveling in Europe with Colonel Stone, we passed through England, with but little notice being taken of us. When we got to Spain, however, our party, thanks to [illegible] stalwart physique of the colonel, was the cynosure of all eyes. When we walked down the street, a crowd would follow us, pointing at the colonel in wonderment and admiration until the gallant congressman thought his proper place was on the boards of a Spanish dime museum. One day, while on a fatiguing journey, we stopped at a way station. Like travelers will do, we left our compartment to stretch our legs in a little walk up and down the platform of the station. There was quite a crowd gathered, evidently to see the departure of a bride and a groom, who were in the center of an admiring circle of friends. As we walked up and down we noticed that the attention of the crowd was gradually diverted from the loving couple in the center, and the people began to whisper one to the other and point at the colonel taking his constitutional. I could see and hear that they were astonished at his immense stature and were wondering who this notable must be, for to the Spaniard a man could not be of such a stature and not be great.

"Just before the train was ready to pull out I thought I would play a little joke on the people, taking the cue from the remarks I heard on all sides. So leaving my friend I went to the door of the railway carriage and called in as loud a tone as possible: 'James G. Blaine, come on. The train is about to move away.' It was just about the time of the excitement over Blaine and Harrison, so I thought that the supposed presence of a celebrity such as the 'plumed knight' would arouse their enthusiasm, but they took no notice of my cry. Thinking they could not have heard, I called the same thing out again, but still no response came from the crowd. Then I remembered an incident which occurred to the colonel in Pittsburg when he interfered in a street fight there. He pulled a burly ruffian off an undersized fellow, who was being beaten terribly, and when the bully asked him who he was that dared to interfere with him the colonel remembered having seen some billboards stating John L. Sullivan was in town, so he replied boldly, 'I'm John L. Sullivan.' Immediately the crowd cheered, and the bully sneaked away.

"Remembering this incident and the success of impersonating the prizefighter in a city where he was well known, I thought I would try it in Spain, doubting, however, that a community who did not know Blaine would be able to recognise a celebrity at the other end of the line. But I yelled out, 'John L. Sullivan, you had better hurry.' I had scarcely uttered the name when the whole crowd began to put up their fists and made a rush for the innocent colonel. They would have torn his clothes off in their enthusiasm and admiration of what they evidently thought a master man had the ringing of the bell not given us warning that the train was ready, and with difficulty we pushed our way through the yelling, boisterous crowd to our carriage.

"The bridal party and the purpose of the crowd's visit were lost in the excitement, and as our train drew out we could hear the cheering of the excited people far behind us. So it can in truth be said that Colonel Stone has appeared with great success as John L. Sullivan on both continents."—Boston Transcript.

What Would You Call It?

I had a good look at something very unique on Fifth avenue, writes a New York correspondent of the Pittsburg Dispatch. It was a most exaggerated type of Willie boy, chappie or Johnnie, perhaps all three rolled into one. As it approached it attracted marked attention. The face is unfit for publication, but the expression thereon conjured up visions of an insane asylum. Clad in the latest cut of long tailed, double breasted attire, a bell crowned hat, loud trousers rolled up at the bottom high above tan shoes, fashionable gloves and carrying the regulation cane, it came along. The gait was peculiar, a sort of cross between a single footer and a spavined hurdle jumper. There was a sort of to and fro movement that made pedestrians swerve to one side, fearful lest a collision would wreck the outfit. The left arm was raised above the hips and crooked outwardly, the wrist limber and the fingers dangling, very like the pose cultivated by the chimpanzee when at ease. This arm carrying act apparently occupied all the creature's attention. The eyes were fastened on the left shoulder appendage, and its swing and carriage were constantly shifted, much to the amusement of the multitude. Many stood and gazed and smiled sort of disgustedlike. It was watched and studied until it got out of sight. A policeman who saw the attention had been diverted from the shop windows to it also grasped the humor of the thing and said: "It's perfectly harmless. Lots of money. Just sense enough to know it's on the earth. Frequently forgets where it lives, though, and has to be piloted home." Such a sight almost makes one lose faith and doubt the statement about man being made in the image of the Maker.

His Torn Letters.

"I'd like to speak to Miss Edith private," said a woman who had been a servant in Miss Edith's family, but who now took lodgers.

"Miss Edith," she began, after some preliminary remarks, "I'm told that Mr. Ripley comes here consid'able, and, Miss Edith, you know what I've always thought of your family, and that any one of you young ladies is fit for the best in the land, and I'm not sayin but what Mr. Ripley is a worthy young man, but I think I owe it to you, Miss Edith, to tell you that he gets terrible affectionate letters from a young lady named 'Belle.'"

"I've no right to interfere with his letters," said Edith, but her voice trembled. "And how do you know anything about it, Ann? You wouldn't read his letters."

"No, indeed, Miss Edith. Far be it from me to read anybody's letters when they're in the whole sheet and done up proper in envelopes, but when a man tears up his letters and scatters them round his room I have the right, as nobody can deny, to piece them together and make what may be out of them, and I hold that it's my duty for your family's sake, and for your sake, Miss Edith."

A few days later Ann paid another visit, and this time she announced: "Miss Edith, my mind's at rest, and I hope yours will be too. I pieced together a letter from his mother last night, and I found out that Belle is his sister."—New York Tribune.

THE JOKE ON THE VENTRILOQUIST.

He Stirred Up the Passengers on an "L" Train, but Had to Leave the Car.

A ventriloquist had great fun the other night on a Sixth avenue elevated train and at the same time put a train guard in danger of being attacked by a score of indignant passengers. Then he was warned that he had better leave the car.

It was a rainy night, and the train was crowded with passengers going down town. In the rear car every seat was taken when the train left Ninety-third street station in Columbus avenue. In one of the rear seats was a person who appeared to be enjoying a calm sleep.

Just as the train was approaching the Seventy-second street station a voice at the forward door cried out:

"Fifty ninth street. Change cars for Ninth avenue."

The voice was clear and resonant. Every one in the car heard it, an unusual thing on elevated trains, as every one knows. A dozens passengers who thought they had been carried beyond their stations at Seventy-second and Sixty-sixth streets hurried toward the door, and as many more who wanted to change cars at Fifty-ninth street joined in the forward movement. Passengers for Seventy-second and Sixty-sixth streets were angry because they believed they would have to go back in the rain.

As the head of the procession reached the door the train guard poked in his head and called:

"Seventy-second street."

The train halted with a jerk which threw a half dozen passengers off their feet. There was a struggle at the door between those who wanted to get off the train and those who didn't, and by the time the train moved forward there were a dozen passengers angry enough to assault the conductor.

"What in thunder do you mean by this performance?" demanded one of them as he approached the conductor. "Why did you call out Fifty-ninth street when the train was at Seventy-second?"

"But I didn't," said the train guard.

"Yes, you did!" shouted the angry passengers in a chorus, and one big man put himself in a position to attack the guard.

"But I know he didn't," piped a shrill voice just under the roof of the car.

Every one looked up in astonishment, and the amazement was increased when a voice which seemed to come from beneath the car floor said soothingly: "Calm yourselves, calm yourselves, gentlemen. I called out the station."

The passengers, recognizing the situation, retreated to their seats and began looking around. Then suspicion began to fall upon the sleepy man in the rear corner. A big man, the one who wanted to fight the train guard, went over to him and said:

"That was a fine joke, but don't you think you had better get off at the next station?"

The sleepy man left the car at Fifty-ninth street and took another train down town.—New York Herald.

Did Hannibal Use Dynamite?

Every one knows the story of how Hannibal crossed the Alps. It is usually asserted that he demolished the rocks which opposed his passage with the aid of fire and vinegar. The word used by the Latin historians, and which is ordinarily called in English translation "vinegar," is acetum.

The question has been raised by Lieutenant Colonel Hennebert in France whether this is the true meaning of the original. He thinks that by acetum the historians intended to describe a substance resembling dynamite in its properties, and he invites chemists to consider the question whether the ancients may not have possessed a formula for making a powerful explosive of this kind.

He calls attention to the fact that two ancient historians, Marcus Graecus and Albert of Aix, speak of the existence of two kinds of acetum, one of which possessed greater energy than the other. A clew to the composition of this explosive may be found, he believes, in the fact that to acetum was ascribed the property of extinguishing the dreaded "Greek fire." He thinks the substance may have been strongly oxygenated.

Although to discover how Hannibal's "dynamite" was made would be to add nothing perhaps to our sense of the greatness of his achievements, yet such a discovery would certainly throw new light on some interesting events in the wars of antiquity.—Youth's Companion.

"Brought Up" In College.

One of the most original characters of the Welsh pulpit was the late Rev. Lewis Powell, Cardiff. While on a visit to Carmarthentown on one occasion he called at the college, and the students were all for the first time to pay him homage.

"Can I have the help of two of you, my boys, for a minute?" asked Mr. Powell.

"Yes, dear Mr. Powell," answered half a dozen of them at the same time.

"Well, I want two lusty boys, if you please," he remarked, and two of the strongest students were chosen. "Now, my boys," said the old preacher, "let me lay a hand on the shoulder of each of you, and you put your arms around me."

This was done.

"Lift me, boys," said Mr. Powell, and the students lifted him until he was head and shoulders above all present in the room. "Thank you, my boys," he remarked. "Let me down now."

This was done. Then one of the boys asked:

"What is the meaning of this, Mr. Powell?"

The answer was: "Well, some people look down on the church in Cardiff because Mr. Powell, the minister, was not brought up in college. I can go back to Cardiff now and tell them that I was raised in Carmarthen college, and that I stood higher than all the other students."—London Tit-Bits.

Robbed of Her Horns.

One thing which has changed the appearance of the country greatly in the dairying region is the practice, now very prevalent, of dehorning cattle. The farmers of New England seem to have made the sudden discovery that horns on cows were a gigantic mistake of the Creator, to be remedied radically and at once. They say that the cows, if horned, hook each other dreadfully when they are watering, and rattle their horns together in the stanchions and otherwise misconduct themselves. So they get a "dehorning machine" and fasten the poor cow's neck to it, and with one sweep deprive her of her chief ornaments and her natural protection and leave her a wretched, shorn creature that no artist would think of painting. The loss of her horns seems to turn the cow into a kind of sheepish and furtive being. She has not the confident and self satisfied air that usually marks her kind. One has no idea of the difference which horns make in the expression of cattle until he sees a herd of these dehorned and deformed animals.—Boston Transcript.

How Mrs. S. G. Reynolds, of Brockville, Found Her Husband.

Special to the Times.

BROCKVILLE, March 25.—Yesterday morning Mrs. S. G. Reynolds awoke to find her husband cold in death beside her, having slept with his corpse for at least three hours.

Deceased had been ailing for some days with quinsy but a post mortem showed heart disease to be the untimely cause of death.

He was 30 years old and only a year married. He was foreman in one of the largest manufacturing establishments and a prominent member of the fire brigade, Oddfellows and the Canadian Order of Foresters. He will be given a public funeral.

Women had Hysterics in Chicago Because the Great Singer did not Appear.

Special to the Times.

CHICAGO, March 25.—Fully one thousand women went on an emotional spree Saturday afternoon at the Auditorium, when it was announced that Jean de Reszke would not appear in "Les Huguenots." Some wept, others had hysterics, and all lost control of themselves.

One widow read the announcement, and taking out her handkerchief cried as if her heart was breaking. She called a cab and was driven away.

When the ushers inspected the scene of the tumult they found fifty-eight veils, twenty combs, two purses, four bags of cosmetics, one pair of garters and a lot of ribbons.

BAD FOR THE MAJORITY.

If They Refuse to Redress the Grievance of the Minority.

Special to the Times.

MONTREAL, March 25.—In the course of his sermon yesterday in St. Andrew's church, the Rev. J. Edgar Hill said with reference to the condition of affairs in Manitoba: "If the minority have a grievance, and the majority refuse to redress that grievance, ultimately it will be worse for the present majority than for the minority, who ask to be relieved."

Nailed in His House to Die.

OMAHA, Neb., March 25.—Cornelius McGuire, a well known Omaha metalsmith, slept late and was awakened by flames. Rushing to the door he found it barred on the outside. When his sufferings made him delirious he rushed through the flames into the street and died. The doors and windows had been nailed up by an enemy.

Heir to a Big Fortune.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 25.—E. F. Coffin, telegraph operator at Gliden Station, east of here on the Southern Pacific, Saturday received a letter from an attorney of Rio Janeiro, Brazil, stating that his uncle, who lived in that country, had just died, leaving an estate of $10,000,000. There are four heirs to the wealth. Mr. Coffin is one of them, and he will receive one fourth of the fortune.

The Presidency of the Reichstag.

LONDON, March 25.—A despatch to the Post from Berlin says it is thought that Dr. Peter Osan, a member of the Center Party, will be elected President of the Reichstag to succeed Herr Von Levetzow.

The Smilax.

Do not imagine that this beautiful vine can be owned and enjoyed only by those who have an experienced gardener and expensive greenhouse. Almost any flower lover can add it to her window collection and thereby possess a vine that is universally admired and holds a higher place in public favor for decorative purposes than almost any other plant or vine known. The flowers, although fragrant, are small and rather insignificant. But the luxuriant masses of glossy foliage are as beautiful as showy blossoms and are unexcelled for bouquets, wreaths and other cut flower work, since sprays remain fresh and bright for hours after being cut from the main vine. The smilax is propagated by dividing the roots, which consist of numerous tubers united by a top, or crown, from which the vine grows; also from seed, but as those are slow to germinate much tiresome waiting will be avoided if good healthy plants are purchased from a reliable florist. It requires rich, sandy soil and plenty of light, but seems particularly adapted to those locations where direct sunshine is unobtainable at all times, as it will grow and thrive best when partially shaded.—Philadelphia Times.

The Modern Pulpit.

Farmer Oatcake, who with his good wife Mandy, is on a brief visit to a daughter in law in Buffalo, looked over the newspapers on Saturday in an endeavor to find a church service on the following day which he might attend with hope of securing spiritual satisfaction. He soon gleaned that the following Scriptural subjects would be discussed from various city pulpits:

"Is the Trilby Craze Dying Out?"
"Fitzsimmons vs Corbett."
"How the Pastor Spends His Vacation."
"Should Our Daughters Marry Foreign Noblemen?"
"High Sleeves and Theatre Hats."
"The Gold Brick Saloon."
"Canal Street on Saturday Night."
"Wordsworth and the Lake School of Poetry."
"The Lilid. Congress."
"Rights of Motormen."

Farmer Oatcake gave it up after a while, and laid down the paper, saying, with a sigh:—"Laws sakes, Mandy! I do believe that the Gospel and the scheme of Salvation have gone clear of fashion."

Can Catarrh Be Cured?

MOST POSITIVELY SO BY THE USE OF

Oxygenator

The record of our remedy is remarkable, it having shown itself equally efficacious in every form of the disease, from the simplest first symptoms to the most aggravated type. We confidently believe that any person suffering from Catarrh who has vitality sufficient to keep him alive until Oxygenator is given time to impart its properties can be completely cured by its use. That all other remedies have failed is no evidence that it will not cure.

Obtain precise but simple directions how to use it from head office, and we will guarantee you splendid results with the first jar you start with. Chronic cases desired.

PERMANENT RESULTS GUARANTEED

HEMMED IN FLOATING ICE.

The Perilous Experience of a Fleet in Lake Erie.

Special to The Times.

SANDUSKY, O., March 26.—For thirty-five hours, from Friday morning until yesterday afternoon, a fishing fleet of steamers consisting of fifty men, were ice-bound in Lake Erie. The weather was cold, and for a time their position was extremely perilous. During the last several weeks fishing steamers have been putting into Huron, where they would dispose of their catch. On Friday morning the northeast wind piled the floating ice up along the piers several feet in height and for miles along the shore. The steamers, after several hours' work, managed to force their way through the ice in the lake. The wind increased in velocity and piled the ice up along the pier. About 5 o'clock the steamers wanted to come into Huron, and for four hours attempted to make a passage, but failed, with nothing to eat and unable to get into another port on account of the drifting ice, they were compelled to remain out on the lake. Men from the steamers walked to shore over the floating ice for provisions, and though several fell into the lake they succeeded. The next the wind shifted and the boats landed their men, who were weak from cold and exposure.

The only scientific and practical Electric Belt made, for general use, having batteries that generate a strong current of Electricity that is under perfect control and can be applied to any part of the body, for the cure of

Nervous Diseases

Thousands of people suffer from a variety of Nervous Diseases, such as Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Lost Manhood, etc., that the old modes of treatment fail to cure. There is a loss of nerve force or power that cannot be restored by any medical treatment, and any doctor who would try to accomplish this by any kind of drugs is pursuing a dangerous practice. Properly treated, these diseases can be

Positively Cured

Electricity, as applied by the Owen Electric Belt and Suspensory, will most assuredly do so. It is the only known power that will supply what is lacking, namely nerve force or power, impart tone and vigor to the organs and arouse to healthy action the whole nervous system. It will most assuredly cure,

Garside & White have commenced in Toronto as a wholesale boot and shoe house.

McLean & McKay, general storekeepers, Underwood, have assigned to C. B. Armstrong.

Ratepayers' Association.

A meeting of the Ratepayers' Association was held last night. Mr. D. W. Dumble read a few quotations of the cost of paving from the City Engineers of Woodstock, London, Ottawa and Belleville. About the only business was the acceptance of the resignation of Secretary W. J. Morrow, who was unable, owing to a press of business, to give the time necessary.

The Wild Flowers of Canada.

Apropos of the craze now raging in Europe and America over the world's wild flowers, it is delightful to hear that botanists, artists and all the best judges—both European and American—speak in glowing terms of the wild flowers of Canada, referring to them as amongst the most beautiful the earth has produced. How many Canadians know the names, colors and blooming time of their own wild flowers?

A Charge on Egg Cases.

At a recent meeting of the produce and commission merchants of Toronto, the following resolution was adopted:—"That the commission and produce merchants of Toronto hereby agree that they will charge from this date forward, either to city or country customers, 25c. for thirty dozen, 30c. for thirty-six dozen, and 40c. for forty nine dozen egg cases. All cases, when returned in good order, will be credited at prices charged."

Dominion Tanners.

A well represented meeting of the tanners and leather merchants of the Dominion was held in the council chamber of the Toronto Board of Trade yesterday afternoon. Mr. L. J. Breithaupt, of Berlin, chairman of the tanners' section of the board, presided. The principal object of the meeting was to discuss and arrange a uniform system of "terms of credits or discounts." After some discussion, it was decided to adopt the system as arranged by the tanners' section of the Board of Trade, which is as follows:—Four months' credit from date of shipment, or cash in ten days, less 5 per cent., cash in 30 days, less 4 per cent., cash in 60, less 3 per cent. This agreement will go into effect on the 1st of May. A standard measurement and classification of hemlock bark was approved of. The Executive Committee was instructed to take into consideration and report on the advisability of asking the Dominion Government to enforce the Inspection Act, so as to make the inspection of Canadian hides and calf skins uniform. The meeting then adjourned.

Home Secretary Asquith intends introducing in the near future a bill making options and future speculation in grain a penal offence.

The latest in a barber shop is a musical box which the boss of the establishment regulates to suit the times. On Monday, for instance, he keeps the machine up to light opera airs just fast enough to keep his assistants shaving customers at a nice, steady gait. Tuesday being a quiet day in the barber business, "Home, Sweet Home" and "You'll Remember Me" are good enough. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday the barber confines the musical box to popular selections of a rather lively nature. On Saturdays he puts the reels and jigs on top and every barber in the shop is on the run.

Managing Committee—Wm. Rudkins, George J. Horkins, and W. E. Lech.

C. L. A. ANNUAL CONVENTION.

The officers of the Canadian Lacrosse Association announce that in accordance with the resolution carried at its convention of 1894, the annual convention for this year will be held at the Young Liberal rooms, Oddfellows' block, Stratford, on Good Friday, April 12th, commencing at 2 o'clock p. m. A meeting of the council of the association will be held at 10 o'clock a. m., at the same place. Mr. W. A. Sanderson is a candidate for the vice-presidency.

Written notice of desired amendments or alterations to the rules and constitution must be sent in to the secretary at least one week prior to the date of convention.

Clubs intending to affiliate with the association are requested to send in their applications for membership as early as possible.

WESTERN FOOTBALL ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Western Football Association will be held at the Walper house, Berlin, on Good Friday, April 12th, at 11 o'clock a m. Each club in affiliation is entitled to send one representative. All entries for cup competitions must be in the hands of the secretary before noon of April 12th.

NEWSPAPER A.A.A.

There is splendid athletic material in the staffs of the three newspapers offices of the town, and a movement is on foot to organize a newspaper amateur athletic association. Out of this material a good baseball nine and a first class lacrosse team can be selected. Costello, Knapp, Begley, Terrill and Glover, of the Examiner; Heap, Dobbie, McWilliams, Goldie, of the Review, and the LaBelle Bros. and Paxman of THE TIMES, would make a lacrosse team which would be hard to beat. It is likely that a meeting for organization will be held on Saturday night.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. A. Milne, Montreal, is in town.

Mr. R. B. Caverly, of Belleville, is at the Snowden.

Mr. Robt. Neill, of Waterloo, Quebec, is in town.

Mr. E. Bailey, Kingston, is a guest at the Grand Central.

Mr. H. Ferguson, Lindsay, is spending a few days in town.

Mr. L. H. Greer, of Lindsay, registered at the Central yesterday.

Reeve H. B. Hungerford and C. Grewes, Toronto, are at the Snowden.

Mr. D. Anderson, of Apsley, spent yesterday at the Snowden House.

Mr. Geo. Holmes, Port Hope, is in town, registered at the Grand Central.

Mr. D. Donohue and Mrs. M. Donohue, of Buffalo, N.Y., are at the Snowden.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. H. Rowland, of Port Hope, were at the Snowden yesterday.

The C. N. & P. Railway.

Mr. Robert Buck, the agent of the C. N. & P. Railway, Cobourg, has been notified by General Superintendent Stephenson, of the G. T. Railway, that the Company is desirous of having the Harwood portion of the road opened up this coming summer. Two trips per day will be made each way, running in connection with the P. S. & N. Company's steamer on Rice Lake. Trains will begin running about the 1st of June. It is intimated that the American Canoe Association meet will be held at "Lee's" Point, Rice Lake, sometime in the coming summer. Large numbers of visitors who may be desirous of spending a week or more at Canada's picturesque inland lakes and waters will find the reopening of the line to be a great convenience.

GIVE THEM THE GRANT.

Editor Morning Times.

DEAR SIR—I was much pleased in reading that part of THE TIMES' report of the recent proceedings of the Council relating to a letter which had been received from the Peterborough Driving Park Association asking that a grant of money be passed by the Council to it to build a grand stand. The application is not an unreasonable one. I heartily hope, as one of the many citizens who desire to see Peterborough as well equipped as other towns of her size, that our good Councilmen will come to a conclusion that the grant asked for would immeasurably benefit the town and pass a grant. I trust that the Councilmen may be unanimous in the matter, should they be, it will show that they have the interests of Peterborough deeply at heart.

The matter should really be attended to at once, in view of the thousands of visitors that may attend the C. W. A. meet.

TEMPUS FUGIT.

BICYCLISTS ORGANIZE.

Officers Elected and Delegates Appointed to go to Toronto.

PETERBOROUGH bicyclists met last night in the Oriental hotel and organized. The new organization will number nearly 300 members. The meeting was enthusiastic and augurs well for a boom in the popular pastime during the approaching season. It is expected that the membership will be doubled before the season is well over. Peterborough will then have the largest club of any town in Ontario. A determined effort will be made to secure the C.W.A. meet. The chances are bright, Peterborough having the preference on account of geographical centrality and railway accessibility. Other towns are making a big bid for the "meet" and a great many have secured grants from their corporations. The officers elected last night were:

Honorary President—Mayor Kendry.
President—A Gibson.
1st. Vice President—R. M. Dennistoun.
2nd Vice-President—Wm. Lech.
Secretary-Treasurer—G. L. Hay.
Captain—G. J. Horkins.
1st Lieutenant—W. L. Allen.
2nd Lieutenant—H. R. H. Keaner.
Bugler—T. Lech.
Executive Committee—Messrs. F. Dixon, O. Shortly and Alf. Terrill.

A deputation was appointed to attend the C.W.A. annual meeting in Toronto on Good Friday to lay before the body the claims of Peterborough for the "meet." The delegates appointed were: Messrs. T. E. Bradburn, A. Gibson, R. Fife, O. Shortly, G. J. Horkins, G. L. Hay, A. H. Stratton, G. W. Hatton and Mayor Kendry.

The following are probable candidates for members of the next C.W.A. racing board:—Geo. J. Horkins, Peterborough; J. H. Roos, Waterloo; G. A. Kingston, Toronto B.C.; G. C. Brown, Athenaeum C.C.; A. Hurst, Wanderers' B.C.; A. E. Walton, R.C.B.C.; Dr. Balfour, London. It looks as if G. H. Orr would have no opposition for the chairmanship.

ZERA SEMON.

The Magician at the Opera House—A Shower of Gifts.

Zera Semon, the worker of magic, and his boy Laurence, made their appearance before a very good audience in the opera house last night, and for two hours created amusement and wonderment, especially for the little folks, who were largely represented. The entertainment consisted of an exhibition of sleight of hand, very cleverly done, in the performance of which Zera Semon has won the name of magician, and which his mystifying "palming" and "producing" entitles him to. This was followed by a laughable exhibition of ventriloquism. In this strange power Zera Semon has no equal. His manipulating of the ventroloquial figures was certainly clever and also the source of much amusement.

The shadograph scenes were excellent and very interesting. A better exhibition in this line has never been seen in Peterborough. Then came the mysterious "black art" festival, conducted by Master Laurance who had the sacred "Mahgi" perform incomprehensible feats. Master Laurance, although a very little man is a large part of the entertainment, and his songs last night were invariably encored.

A great many who purchased tickets received prizes at the conclusion of the performance. Some very substantial gifts were made in the shape of glassware, china sets, toilet articles, dozen handkerchiefs, etc. Any present given was worth more than the price of admission. In addition to this everybody had a chance for the three principal prizes, which were won as follows:—French china tea set, 40 pieces — Charlie Cavanagh. Complete chamber set—M. J. Doris. Cruet castor—Miss K. B. Mahoney. At the performance tonight a gold watch will be given away.

Twenty Thousand Roses.

There are nearly 20,000 rose trees in bloom now at Dunlop's conservatories Bloor-st. west, Toronto. Visitors are always welcome. Mr. Dunlop is proud of his establishment and takes pleasure in speaking of his beauties. He ships them by mail and express to all parts of Canada, and as these orders are filled direct from the trees, he guarantees them to arrive in good condition. Sale room, 45 Yonge-st., and 45 King street west.

A Metal Breadboard

THE WOMAN WHO HAS BEEN USED to kneading dough on the old fashioned wooden breadboard knows what a bother it is to get them clean and how cumbersome and heavy they are. When they begin to crack or check it is almost impossible to thoroughly cleanse them, and they may easily become dangerous conveyances of disease. It was left for a woman, of course, to remedy this state of affairs, and Mrs. M. M. Everhard, of St. Joseph, Mich., has patented a metal bread-board, which is one of the greatest labor-savers imaginable. It is light, does not absorb grease, dough does not adhere to it, and while it possesses all the advantages of the marble bread-board it is much cheaper and, of course, far lighter and easier to handle. If readers want to confer a favor upon their wives that will be forever appreciated, let them send $1 to the manufacturers, 161 Bay street, Toronto, for one of these boards.

WILL THIS BE MURDER?

A. T. ZIMMERMAN NEARLY KILLS HIS WIFE AND THEN HIMSELF.

Toronto Stirred up Over a Case of Shocking Brutality—Zimmerman Crushed His Wife's Head—Will Crime Ever Cease?

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, March 27.

AT the General Hospital, with a dangerous knife wound in his left breast, lies Arthur T. Zimmerman, of 16 Brant place. Zimmerman's wife lies in bed at home with her head swathed in bandages, the result of a savage attack, with evident intent to murder, made upon her by her husband.

Three weeks ago the Zimmermans came to Toronto from Cincinnati, O. The husband obtained employment in the Toronto Silver Plate Company, and the couple took up their residence at 16 Brant place with their three children, two boys and a girl.

ROWS WERE FREQUENT.

Life did not go smoothly with the two and rows were frequent. Zimmerman, according to the story told by the neighbors and the children, was possessed of a hasty and violent temper, which prompted him to deeds that were those of a homicidal maniac rather than those of a sane man. The least thing appeared to excite him and the first member of his family within reach became the object of his wrath. Blows and curses and threats of murder were frequent, and his unfortunate wife was in continual fear of her life or those of her children. Often in the night Zimmerman would wake her up, seize her by the throat and shake her, threatening to kill herself and the children.

BEAT AND KICKED HIS WIFE.

On Monday last he was unusually violent, beating and kicking her in a manner which savored of a desire to kill her. Mrs. Zimmerman carries the mark of his fingers upon her throat today. Fearful of further violence she obtained a summons against him for assault yesterday. She determined to serve it on him herself, fearing that if a policeman gave it he would take the first opportunity to wreak his vengeance and anger on the children or herself.

"I kept it till this morning," she said. "I was afraid that if I gave it to him last night he would kill me or the children." The events show how well founded her fear was.

SERVED THE SUMMONS HERSELF.

Zimmerman knew nothing about it until this morning but just before he was going to work his wife delivered him the blue paper. She then left the room and went upstairs. She waited for some time, thinking that he had gone, but such was not the case. Zimmerman had possessed himself of a hammer and was waiting by the kitchen door, hidden by the angle of the wall.

Presently the ill-fated woman came downstairs and as she entered the room Zimmerman stepped from his place of concealment and dealt her a murderous blow on the right side of the head. The blood flowed from the wound and the sight of it roused a demon in Zimmerman.

STRUCK HER THREE TIMES WITH A HAMMER.

Three times in succession he struck the woman on the head, inflicting horrible injuries. She fell on the floor and her husband turned and went upstairs. Evidently thinking that he had killed his wife he determined to put an end to himself and after locking the door stabbed himself in the left breast the knife penetrating the lung.

Meanwhile Mrs. Zimmerman got up and rushed into a neighbor's house where she begged the people to interfere before he killed the children. Several of them went immediately, and proceeding upstairs burst in the door. There they found Zimmerman lying on the floor with the knife thrust in his chest.

Drs. Eadie and Fisher were sent for, and the injuries of the intended murderer and his victim were attended to.

EXTENT OF THE INJURIES.

Mrs. Zimmerman's head was badly cut and gashed on top, and it was found necessary to put several stitches in the scalp. Her husband was taken to the General Hospital, where he at present lies. The wound he inflicted on himself is not necessarily fatal, the knife having missed the heart.

When a reporter called at the house Mrs. Zimmerman was resting in bed, her wants being attended to by kind hearted neighbors. Although quite conscious and rational, she was not in a fit condition to be excited by recalling the events of the morning, but Arthur Zimmerman, a bright looking boy of 12, told the following story:

THE SON'S STORY.

"Father was driving a nail into the door with a hammer when mother came along from the front room. As she passed him he turned and struck her on the side of the head with the hammer. He then struck her on the top of the head. He hit her four times altogether. Mother fell on the floor and father went upstairs and I heard the door shut. Then mother got up and ran out to the neighbors."

Of the man's continued violence and brutality there can be no doubt. In fact Zimmerman, if the boy's story be true is a fiend, and when angry behaves more like a wild beast than a human being. Mrs. Zimmerman's life must have been made a hell for her. He not only thrashed and brutally ill-treated her, but he also abused the children.

"KILLED MY LITTLE SISTER."

If Mrs. Zimmerman dies she will be the second victim of his violence, according to young Arthur, who made the following startling statement in answer to the query whether he ever struck the children.

"He was always hitting mother and me. He killed my little sister. She was only a year old and he knocked her out of her mother's arms with his fist. When she was on the ground he stamped on her with his feet and she died. That was in Sheldon, Ohio."

"Was he arrested then?" asked the reporter.

"I don't know," replied the lad, who, continuing, said: "Last Saturday he knocked my mother down and kicked her. He also kicked my sister out of the rocking chair. Last Sunday he took me upstairs and hung me out of the window holding me by the head. He said he would drop me on the ground and kill me. He was always saying he would kill us children."

IT WAS OLD TO THE BOY.

The boy told this horrible story without a tremor in his voice and in a hard matter of fact tone which showed that brutality and violence were the rule in the house. Such things had lost all horror for him and he looked upon them as the natural course events should take.

CHATTELLE'S TRIAL.

A True Bill Has Been Returned by the Grand Jury—The Hearing of the Case Has Been Fixed for Tomorrow.

Special to the Times.

STRATFORD, March 27.—The spring sitting of the Perth Assizes opened here yesterday, Chief Justice Armour presiding. The grand jury concluded its duties at noon today, returning true bills in the three cases referred to, viz., the Queen vs. Hardman, for shooting with intent to kill; the Queen vs. James Shaen, for sheepstealing, and the Queen vs. Almeda Chattelle, for the murder of Jessie Keith.

Chattelle will be defended by H. M. East, of Toronto, who asked the court to defer the hearing of the case until all the other business has been disposed of, in order to give him as much time as possible to get witnesses and prepare his defence. The case will therefore not be likely to come up until Thursday or possibly Friday. There are a great many people in the city from all parts of the country. The witnesses summoned in connection with the murder case alone number over 100.

So far as known here there are no new developments in the case except the plea of insanity to be set up by the defence. Chattelle has not yet been arraigned to answer to the charge.

After the return of the bill by the grand jury Crown Attorney Idington held a brief consultation with Chief Justice Armour and the hundreds of people who are in waiting to get a glimpse of the prisoner have not yet been gratified.

THE BARREL MYSTERY.

A Slight Clue as to the Perpetrators of the Deed.

Special to The Times.

LUDINGTON, Mich., March 27.—Tracks around the barrel in which were found the remains of S. D. Grennette were of different lengths and were evidently made by two different persons. Ten feet away was a place where the snow was packed down hard and near by there were traces of blood and vomit. It has developed that there has been for some months a fierce rivalry between the deceased and another young man in the city over the possession of the affection of a young lady and that it ended shortly before the mysterious disappearance of Grennette, by Grennette getting the advantage of his adversary and taking entire possession of the lady's attentions. The friends of the deceased are sending for every atom of evidence.

TROLLEY SUPERSEDES STEAM.

The New York Central Will Adopt Electric Power.

Special to The Times.

BUFFALO, N.Y., March 27.—The Courier says the New York Central Railway has decided to equip its line between here and Niagara Falls, with a monster trolley system and motor cars of such power that trains of the latest and best in passenger coaches may be drawn over the line with no decrease from the present rate of speed, though comfort in travel will be enhanced and fares will be reduced. Orders have been issued to begin work at once, and it is expected that the line will be ready to care for a large part of the heavy summer traffic.

BIG FIRE IN CHICAGO.

The Bell Clothing House Destroyed—A Stampede for Life.

Special to The Times.

CHICAGO, March 27.—The stock of the Bell Clothing Company, which occupied a building at State and Quincy streets, in the centre of the retail district, was destroyed by fire this evening. The blaze started when the streets were crowded with shoppers, and the building was filled with people. So rapidly did the flames spread that frightened occupants of the building scarcely knew what was the matter before they were tumbling over each other in their haste to get down stairs. Some tried the windows and a half dozen were hanging to the big sign when the firemen arrived and rescued them with ladders amid the cheers of a tremendous crowd. Among those who narrowly escaped was Samuel Cohen, one of the proprietors. C. H. Smith did not wait for the firemen, but jumped and suffered a sprained leg.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

Foul Play Surrounding the Demise of John Flynn.

Special to the Times.

OWEN SOUND, March 27.—There is intense excitement at Shallow Lake over the mysterious death of a man named John Flynn, aged about 64. It appears that the deceased left Owen Sound on Friday night for his home in Shallow Lake, and was seen later in the vicinity of Cruikshank's Postoffice. On Sunday evening a youth found the deceased lying in an unconscious state at Cruikshank's school house, in a woodshed. He was immediately removed to his home, and upon an examination it was found that he had a bruise on the right side of the forehead and another upon the right breast. He died half an hour after being conveyed to his home. A post mortem is being held, as it is mysterious how the man met his death, and it is rumored that foul play was the cause.

Egan Committed for Trial.

GUELPH, March 27.—This morning Edward Egan was committed by the Police Magistrate for trial, he being concerned in the late burglaries. Mr. Pringle, Miss Pringle and Miss Ellis identified their jewelry and trinkets, and Mr. Ohlman identified his overcoat that was stolen from the Dublin street Methodist church during the winter. Edward Webb and Edwin McIntosh, who were arrested as accomplices, after giving their evidence as to Egan asking them to bury a box for him which, on being unearthed last Friday, was found to contain the two overcoats and a quantity of Mr. Pringle's property, were dismissed and bound over in $200 recognizances to appear as witnesses at the trial.

Chase's Suicide.

NEW YORK, March 27.—Arthur Chase, a retired theatrical manager, 44 years old, committed suicide tonight by shooting himself. Ill health is given as the cause. Mr. Chase acted as Edwin Booth's manager for six years.

William S. Kimball Dead.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 27.—William S. Kimball, President of The Post-Express Printing Company, vice-president of the American Tobacco Company, president of the Union Bank, president of the City School, vice president of the Security Trust Company, director in Rochester Railway Company, Lyceum Theatre Company and the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway Company, died at Virginia Beach this morning.

THE CABINET CHANGES.

SIR CHARLES TUPPER'S RESIGNATION THE LATEST MOVE.

Hon. Dr. Montague Sworn in as Secretary of State—Dickey in Nova Scotia but will be Sworn in as Minister of Justice upon His Return.

Special to The Times.

OTTAWA, March 27.

THE political complication thickens. Sir Mackenzie Bowell states that Hon. J. C. Patterson has been since last autumn desirous of resigning, on the ground of ill-health, and that he expressed that desire to Sir John Thompson before the latter went to England. Mr. Patterson renewed his request upon the occasion of the formation of the Bowell Cabinet, but the Premier insisted on his remaining. Now the physician had ordered him to relieve himself from the strain of departmental work, and there was no friction between Mr. Patterson and the Premier.

Hon. A. R. Dickey is in Nova Scotia, on account of the illness of his mother, but he will be sworn in as Minister of Militia as soon as he returns. In the meantime Mr. Patterson will remain Acting Minister of Militia, and probably will continue in the Cabinet without a portfolio until June, when he will go to Manitoba.

Hon. Dr. Montague was sworn in as Secretary of State yesterday afternoon, and went to Haldimand last night to arrange for the bye-election, which becomes necessary on account of his accepting a portfolio. The writ for the election will likely be issued today or tomorrow.

PATTERSON AND MONTAGUE.

Mr. Patterson entered Parliament in 1878, and has been a Minister since 1891. He has been, and is, President of the Liberal-Conservative Union of Ontario, and was a confidential friend of Sir John Macdonald. He is personally popular, and his work upon the platform has been a strong prop to his party in the province.

Dr. Montague was born in 1858, and took his degree in medicine in 1882. In 1883 he gave Hon. Richard Harcourt a close run for Monck, and 1887 he began his battle with Mr. Coulter, fighting five contests in about six years, and making Haldimand a bye-word for fierce political warfare.

SIR CHARLES STEPS OUT.

The following is a special despatch from the World's Ottawa correspondent this morning:

The Cabinet changes which I announced last week took place today but they are completely overshadowed by the announcement that Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper has resigned his portfolio. The Minister of Justice has not attended the meetings of the Cabinet for the past two or three days. Yesterday this fact began to be commented upon and today culminated in a report that he had tendered his resignation. Your correspondent set to work to verify the rumors current and there seems not the slightest doubt of their accuracy. Sir Charles, it appears, has no difference of opinion with his colleagues on questions of policy.

WANTED AN ELECTION.

He shaped the decision of the Government on the Manitoba school question, and it was his report in favor of a remedial order that was adopted by the Cabinet. Where the Minister of Justice differs from his colleagues is with reference to the subsequent action reached viz.:—To meet Parliament before dissolving. A gentleman thoroughly well posted in political affairs told me tonight that he understood Sir Charles took the ground that the action the Government should have taken was to immediately appeal to the country on the great issue now before the people, that this was the correct constitutional course to follow. On the other hand, it is urged that one of the prerogatives of the Premier is that he shall decide when dissolution shall take place. In political circles the hope is expressed that Sir Charles may be induced to withdraw his resignation.

MORE TROOPS FOR CUBA.

Spain will Send 6,000 Men—Resignations of Chief Officials.

Special to The Times.

MADRID, March 27.—Further resignations of the chief officials of the late Government, including that of the President of the Cuba Tariff Committee, are announced. The bill increasing the army contingents raised the peace effective from 71,000 to 82,000 men.

The Treasury, semi officially, denies that any Spanish loan is proposed. It is added that the condition of the Treasury is very satisfactory. The Government will immediately send additional reinforcements of 6,000 men to Cuba.

Military Changes.

OTTAWA, March 27.—Important changes are announced in military circles, and the following will shortly be gazetted: Major Lawrence Buchan, Toronto, receives the rank of brevet lieut.-colonel; Capt. James Sutherland, M. P., 22nd Battalion, is promoted to the honourary rank of major; Capt. John Williams, London Field Battery, is to have the rank of major on retired list; Surgeons G. S. Ryerson, M. P. P., Toronto, and William Tobin, of Halifax, are appointed Assistant Surgeons-General of Militia; Major Vidal, of London, receives the brevet rank of lieut.-colonel; Major W. A. Gordon, of Fredericton, becomes a brevet lieut.-colonel; Surgeon W. R. Bell, of Ottawa Field Battery, is promoted to be surgeon-major; Major John Hood, 1st Prince of Wales' Rifles, Montreal, is to be brevet lieut.-colonel.

Chicago's First Murderess Condemned.

CHICAGO, March 27.—Maggie Tiller, a mulatto woman, who in a fit of jealousy shot and killed Charles Miller on December 14, 1894, was found guilty of murder in the first degree and sentenced to death by a jury in Judge Clifford's court yesterday. She is the first of her sex in Cook county against whom the penalty of death has been imposed by a jury.

Mr. Gladstone's Portrait.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 27.—The Sultan has ordered that the sale or exhibition of portraits of Mr. Gladstone and Prof. Bryce, president of the British Board of Trade, be prohibited in Constantinople. Copies of the portraits of Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Bryce, which had been sent to the Armenian clergy, have been seized, as coming under the classification of "seditious literature."

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 28 1895.

Good morning!

It is proposed to establish a telephone line between England and Holland. The London Chamber of Commerce and the Netherland Chamber of Commerce are trying to ascertain if the time is yet ripe for this undertaking.

The efforts that are being made to secure the bicycle meet here, should have all possible encouragement from the citizens. There will probably not be less than 5000 strangers in town for two or three days, which means about $25,000 in money to be left with us. The Council are asked for the modest sum of $500 to assist in preparing accommodation for the visitors. The money should be granted without hesitation.

An eccentric feat is shortly to be attempted by a Frenchman for a wager. M. Wiasemsky, a gentleman well known in Parisian fashionable circles, has made a considerable wager that he will ride all the way from Paris to America on horseback. The thing sounds impossible, but he declares it is not so. He proposes to ride right across Siberia to the point where Behring Straits, which separate the country from Alaska; in North America, are the narrowest, and then to ride across upon the ice. He will be glad, he says, of a companion.

There is something startling in the report that the New York Central railway company intends to change its line between Buffalo and Niagara Falls into an electric railway this year. This is perhaps the first instance of the substitution of electricity for steam as a motive power on an important line of railway; but it may be that before the end of the century most of the freight and passenger traffic of this continent will be moved by electric power The age of steam is passing away. The age of electricity overlaps it.

Whether Newfoundland comes into Confederation or not, no one would wish to call her "out of her name." The following may therefore be helpful:—

"Regarding the pronunciation of the word Newfoundland, Rev. Moses Harvey, LL. D., author of 'Newfoundland, the Oldest British Colony,' says:—'The natives usually accent the words on the last syllable, the English on the second, the Americans on the first. The first pronunciation is preferable, the second allowable, and the third execrable.' This statement may be considered as authoritative, and at the present juncture is worth remembering."

The Jewish Messenger thinks that times are ripening for a radical revolution in the Jewish sanctuary, about which it says: "We have to-day burnt offerings under other names, a sacerdotal atmosphere, and as luxurious surroundings as in Temple days, elaborate music, magnificent shrines, voices singing and voices preaching in the wilderness, which refuses to blossom like the rose. The incense of devotion is lacking, and worship has become such a mechanism that a reaction must soon set in which shall restore sincerity and spirituality to the sanctuary. Why must we storm the Almighty every week by the same printed phrases and call it worship?"

SOWING THE WIND.

Late dispatches contained two lynching stories which are peculiarly illustrative of the injustice of the lynching system in the South. A number of buildings recently have been burned in the neighborhood of Tyler, Ala. The people suspected that incendiaries caused the fires. In an ordinary law-abiding community, where such a suspicion was entertained, the authorities would be appealed to, detectives would be set to work on the cases, the miscreants would be hunted out, proof of their guilt found and they would be punished according to law. But that is not the Southern way. Instead of appealing to the authorities, the citizens took the law into their own hands. Negroes, of course, were suspected. Negroes are suspected of all deviltry in the South, except lynching. Suspicion with a mob is conviction. On a Saturday night a gang of regulators surrounded a church where their unsuspecting victims were attending worship. Three negroes were captured and marched away into the woods. Their fate is not known definitely, but easily can be guessed. Next the mob sought another negro who was at home in bed Shots were fired into the house, two of them passing through the bed, but the negro was not hit and escaped by a back door.

Mob justice had been done, but such justice! Who can wonder now if friends of the murdered negroes, moved by a spirit of revenge, do set fire to the property of their persecutors?

On the same night a negro woman was hanged by a mob near Petersburg, Tenn. She, too, was suspected of being a fire-bug. The crime of which she was accused was committed several months ago, so the act of the mob cannot be excused as the work of momentary passion. The white bullies of the South are teaching the ignorant negro population terrible lessons in lawlessness. What will follow when the lessons have been learned?

CHIEF ROSZEL AND "THE TIMES."

This paper has at different times published items of news and editoral notes referring to the Chief of Police who complains that this journal has not treated him fairly, and that many of the statements which have appeared in the columns are, in fact, untrue. We can only say that we have acted in good faith throughout, but all newspapers are liable to be imposed upon, and in view of the Chief's denial we have no doubt we have been misled. Without going into particulars we have pleasure in stating that further enquiry has satisfied us that anything we have published impugning the Chief's ability to discharge his various duties has in some cases been without foundation, and in others considerably exaggerated. We regret that this paper should have done the Chief any injustice. We can assure him that we have no ill-feeling towards him and so far as we are concerned the controversy is at an end.

A POSSIBLE CANDIDATE.

A Patron Nomination may Possibly be Offered to Mr. Coley, of Somerset, Man.

SOMERSET, Man., March 27.—The item which appeared in several Eastern papers to the effect that Mr. Arthur Coley, a well-known farmer of this place, was asked to accept the Patron nomination for the coming elections but was forced to decline through ill health, is without foundation. It is true that early in 1894, Mr. Coley was severely afflicted with Bright's disease, but was enabled to restore himself to health by a course of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and is equal to any amount of hard work, even to the extent of fighting the constituency should the nomination be offered him. He speaks in the highest terms of the remedy which cured him.

TRIPPING INTO TOWN.

A little lass with golden hair,
  A little lass with brown,
A little lass with raven locks,
  Went tripping into town.
"I like the golden hair the best,"
  "And I prefer the brown,"
"And I the black," three sparrows said,
  Three sparrows of the town.

"Tu-whit, tu-whoo!" an old owl cried
  From the belfrey in the town.
"Glad-hearted lassies need not mind
  If locks be gold, black or brown.
Tu-whit, tu-whoo, so fast, so fast
  The sands of life run down!

"And soon—so soon—three white-haired dames
  Will totter through the town,
Gone for aye the raven locks,
  The golden hair the brown
And she will fairest be whose face
  Has never worn a frown."

A SWORN STATEMENT.

MR. G. H. KENT SWEARS TO THE DETAILS OF HIS RECOVERY.

An Interesting Document—A Complete and Concise Description of his Trouble—Rumors Discrediting His Story Thoroughly Confuted—A Remarkable Cure by a Valuable Agency.

(From the Ottawa Free Press.)

Owing to the fact that a certain amount of discredit has been thrown on the statements recently published in the FREE PRESS with regard to the recovery of Mr. G. H. Kent from death's door through the agency of Dodd's Kidney Pills, a representative of the paper has obtained from Mr. Kent a sworn statement with regard to the particulars of his disease and recovery. The facts are sufficiently startling to warrant this additional substantiation.

Following is the document:

114 Cambridge Street,
Ottawa, Ont., March 2, 1895.

I, George Henry Kent, resident at 114 Cambridge street, Ottawa, and employed as printer in the British American Bank Note Printing company, in the said city of Ottawa, do solemnly declare that I consider it a duty to myself and to my fellow men generally to make a declaration as to the efficiency of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

1. That I found them in my terrible case of Bright's Disease, from which I suffered for almost one year, of the greatest medical value. I can say confidentially, and assure any one interested or a sufferer, that I positively owe my life and present excellent health to the results brought about by their use. I was taken sick and confined to my bed on December 28th, 1893, and was successively treated for La Grippe, then Pleurisey, followed by Kidney trouble and latterly Bright's Disease. I lost the use of all my limbs, my entire body became swollen to a terrible size, and my skin became as hard and similar to leather, the pores having all closed up, and I suffered the most agonizing pain. I was subject to periodical spells of utter prostration and insensibility to a state of absolute coma. I was also a victim of dangerous convulsions, in which my facial expression and other muscles would become severely contorted and tense.

2. My regular physician attended to me, and though medical consultations were held over my case by two city doctors, nothing could be done. My case grew gradually worse, and latterly was given up as hopeless. My wife, friends and neighbors were certain from what they saw and were told by the visiting doctors, that I should die in a very short time.

3. My wife was casually reading a newspaper about this time, and saw a description of an exact similar case in which a patient gave testimony of the relief and cure that had been effected on him by Dodd's Kidney Pills. I started to take them right away, and from the first pill I discovered a change for the better. After the first box I was wonderfully improved, and at the end of the fourth I was sure I was to get well again. I continued taking them until the seventeenth box, and I can now positively declare that I am perfectly cured and able to do a day's work with any of my comrades in the shop, and Dodd's Kidney Pills undoubtedly cured me, because from starting to take them I took no other medicine whatever.

And I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing the same to be true and by virtue of the ACT RESPECTING EXTRA JUDICIAL OATHS.

DECLARED before me at the city of Ottawa, in the County of Carleton, this sixteenth day of February, 1895.

Investigating a Suspicious Death.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., March 26.—Coroner Allan Cameron was summoned today to Shallow Lake, a small village on the Grand Trunk railway, eight miles from this town, to hold an inquest on the body of John Flynn, a resident of that place, who was found dead on the roadway near Cruickshank post office yesterday. Full particulars cannot be obtained until he returns. Sensational rumours are afloat, however, and it is surmised by many that Flynn was the victim of foul play. He was missing from Friday night. What makes the case more prominent is the fact that Flynn was nightwatchman at the works of the Owen Sound Cement Works when the buildings were destroyed by fire one night last June. On investigation by Detective Rogers it was found that the nightwatchman was drunk on that night. Some time after a discharged employe of the company named Thompson was arrested on the charge of arson, charged with having set fire to the buildings. Flynn's evidence alone was of any value in the case, and on his evidence Thompson was sent up for trial. Bail was accepted, however, and the case was to have come up at the June sessions. As the whole case depended on Flynn's veracity, the death of so important a witness will be a serious loss to the Crown. County Crown Attorney MacKay cannot give any further particulars until the coroner returns.

Li Hung Chang's Misfortune.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—State Department officials say that nothing has been received by the department concerning the attempted assassination of Li Hung Chang. The regret over his misfortune is practically unanimous.

Sagasta's Resignation.

MADRID, March 26.—The Government has accepted the resignations of the Ministers in London and Washington. Count Casa Valencia and Depuy De Lorme will probably be their successors. General Gamier will probably replace Captain-General Calleja in Cuba.

Incendiaries Confess.

BURLINGTON, Vt., March 26.—T. P. Donnelly and Wallace Brooken, arrested Saturday night, are said to have confessed to setting the fire which destroyed the large lumber mills of J. R. Booth, of Ottawa Ont., the Baldwin refrigerator works, and the Vermont Shade Roller Company's shop, in which one life was lost. They implicate a third party, for whom the police are searching.

Brussels' Town School Burned.

BRUSSELS, March 26.—The town school was destroyed by fire last evening. It was built when Brussels was called Ainleyville. The fire was evidently the work of an incendiary. The insurance of $1,600 will cover all losses.

No Trace of the Reina Regente.

MADRID, March 26.—The Government is officially informed that all reports that the warship Reina Regente has been found submerged in the straits are wholly without foundation and also that neither wreckage nor bodies from the ship have been washed ashore.

The Cuban Revolution.

MADRID, March 26.—An official despatch received here from Havana, Cuba, says that the rising is confined to the Province of Santiago, that most of the insurgents are without arms and that they do not hold any places of importance.

Carries One Million.

LIVERPOOL, March 26.—The steamship Teutonic, which sails from this port tomorrow for New York, carries $1,000,000 of American gold coin.

BIRTH OF NAPOLEON.

Charges That His Father Falsified the Record of the Date.

The trials of poverty made the Buonapartes most clever and adroit. Suspicions of shiftiness in small matters were developed later on and led to an overclose scrutiny of their acts. The opinion has not yet disappeared among reputable authorities that Nabulione and Napoleon were one and the same, born on Jan. 7, 1768, while Joseph was really the younger, born on the date assigned to his distinguished brother. The earliest documentary evidence consists of two papers, one in the archives of the French war department, one in those of Ajaccio. The former is dated 1782 and testifies to the birth of Nabulione on Jan. 7, 1768, and his baptism on Jan. 8. The latter is the copy of an original which declares the birth on Jan. 7 of Joseph Nabulion. Neither is decisive, but the addition of Joseph, with the use of the two French forms for the name in the second, destroys much of its value and leaves the weight of authority with the former. The reasonableness of the suspicions is further heightened by the fact that Napoleon's certificate of marriage gives the date of his birth as Feb. 8, 1768. Moreover, in the marriage contract of Joseph witnesses speak of him as born at Ajaccio, not at Corte.

But there are facts of greater weight on the other side. In the first place, the documentary evidence is itself of equal weight, for the archives of the French war department also contain an extract dated July 21, 1771, from the one original baptismal certificate, and this extract gives the dates of Napoleon's birth as Aug. 15, 1769. Charles' application for the appointment of his two eldest boys to Brienne has also been found, and it contains, according to regulation, still another copy from the original certificate. It is dated June 22, 1776, and also gives what is now generally accepted as the correct date. This quite explodes the old story that Napoleon's age was falsified by his father in order to obtain admittance for him to the military school. The application was made in 1776 for both boys in order to secure admission for each before the end of his tenth year. It was the delay of the authorities in granting the request which, after the lapse of three years or more, made Joseph ineligible. The father could have had no motive in 1776 to perpetrate a fraud, and after that date it was impossible, for the papers were not in his hands. The charge was made during Napoleon's lifetime. His brother positively asserted the fact, as it is now substantially proved to be, and Bourrienne, who had known his emperor as a child of 9, was of the same opinion. In the walk of life to which the Buonapartes belonged the fixity of names was not as rigid as it later became. There were three Marie Annes in the family first and last, one of whom was later called Elise.

As to the given name, Napoleon, there is a curious though unimportant confusion. We have already seen the forms Nabullione, Nabulion, Napoleone, Napoleon. Contemporary documents give also the form Napolocone, and his marriage certificates use Napolione. On the Vendome column stands Napolio. Imp., as if to recall Neopolus, a sainted martyr. The irreverent schoolboys of Autun and Brienne gave the nickname "straw nose"—pailleaunes—to the brothers. The pronunciation, therefore, was probably as uncertain as the form Na-paille-au-nes, being probably a distortion of Napouillone. The chameleonlike character of the name corresponds exactly to the chameleonlike character of the times, the man and the lands of his birth and his adoption. The Corsican noble and French royalist was Napoleone di Buonaparte; the Corsican republican and patriot, who was always present under the mask, was Napoleone Buonaparte; the French republican, Napoleon Buonaparte; the victorious general, Bonaparte; the emperor, Napoleon. There was likewise a change in his handwriting analogous to the change in his nationality and opinions. It was probably to conceal a most defective knowledge of French that the adoptive Frenchman, republican, consul and emperor abandoned the fairly legible hand of his youth and recurred to the atrocious one of his childhood, continuing always to use it after his definite choice of a country.

Stormy indeed were his nation and his birthtime. He himself said: "I was born while my country was dying. Thirty thousand French, vomited on our shores, drowning the throne of liberty in waves of blood—such was the horrid sight which first met my view. The cries of the dying, the groans of the oppressed, tears of despair, surrounded my cradle at my birth."

Spain's New Minister to the U.S.

MADRID, March 26.—The Spanish Minister to the United States, Senor Muruaga, cabled his resignation to the Spanish Government immediately on the formation of a new Cabinet. This appointment of Senor Dupuy de Lome as Senor Muruaga's successors will be gazetted as soon as it receives the approval of the United States Government.

An official telegram from Cuba says the revolt in that island is confined to the province of Santiago.

BUILDING NOVELS.

Mrs. Southworth Describes Her Methods, Which Are Partly Realistic.

"My stories always have a foundation in fact," Mrs. Southworth says. "To show you how they are evolved from small beginnings I will give you a history of the manner in which the 'Hidden Hand' was produced. I was in wretched health at the time, my sister was dying of consumption, and yet in the midst of these depressing circumstances the brightest and gayest of my novels came to me. One day, in the year 1857, my eye chanced to fall upon a paragraph in a New York paper, which stated that a little 9-year old girl, dressed in boy's clothing and selling newspapers, had been arrested in that city. This item fell like a seed into my mind and germinated there. The little seller of newspapers was Capitola, but I must find an origin for her.

"Suddenly an incident which occurred in my childhood just across Benning's bridge came back to me. An old nurse was met and blindfolded one night by two masked men and carried into a house, where, a few hours later, a child was born. Bribes were offered the woman to destroy this child, but she refused them. The young mother was also bent upon the preservation of her infant, the result being that, braving the displeasure of her family and being discarded by them, she brought up her child. It lived and thrived and was afterward well known in Washington. This was the fact upon which Capitola's birth was founded, and almost every adventure of her life was similarly obtained. Her sparkling speeches to Old Hurricane were taken from conversations which occurred between my sister and a Mississippi uncle. Her duel was suggested by a like adventure of a Mississippi girl, who was misunderstood and offended by a British officer. The girl appealed to her brothers to avenge the insult which she had received. They treated the matter lightly, and she challenged the officer to a duel. Her challenge was received with contempt, and meeting him later and being armed she fired at him—not with dried peas, as Capitola did, but with bullets. He was severely wounded, and the girl gave herself up to the authorities, but when her case was investigated she was released.

"As to Old Hurricane—liberal, kind hearted, but blustering and overbearing in manner—you might meet him any time among Maryland and Virginia planters. It was when at work upon the 'Hidden Hand' that I contracted the habit of writing at night. My invalid sister lived in the extreme east end of Washington, I in the western part of Georgetown. My visits to her were made in the morning, so that I never got to my desk until noon, and I generally remained at it until midnight. Anxious as I was about my sister, when I took up my pen I became possessed of the spirit of Capitola, and care and sorrow left me. Although I have been such an indefatigable worker, writing every day for many years from 12 o'clock in the morning until the same hour at night and scarcely taking any time for my meals, I have never had a threat of pen paralysis. I have avoided it by increasing the size of my holder every year.

"I have used a typewriter to a limited extent, and it has relieved me as a tired child on a long walk is relieved by getting astride of his father's cane for a ride. I have taken my seat at this instrument sometimes to make a few notes, and the change from my pen has been so grateful that I have frequently roughly jotted down as much of a story as would ordinarily have occupied me for several days. For 30 years I wrote exclusively for the New York Ledger, producing a novel for every one of those years. During that time I adapted my style to the tastes of its readers, but when my connection with it was severed—which occurred when the paper passed into the hands of Mr. Bonner's sons—I wrote with less embarrassment. I have never written a play, but many of my works have been dramatized, and the 'Hidden Hand' was played in three London theaters at once, with profitable results."—Philadelphia Times.

The Ideal Nursery.

The ideal nursery should be on the top floor if more quiet, air and sunshine can be had there. It should, to be artistic, be done in light colors, but first be clean. Matting on the floor, with a carpet rug tacked over it, should cover the floor. The windows should have white curtains, and the walls should be papered with sanitary paper, which can be wiped off with a damp cloth. The beds—single iron ones if possible—should be placed away from the walls and have flat mattresses and very low hair pillows. Light, warm blankets are better than heavy comforters or quilts, healthier and more comfortable. As little gas as possible should be used in the children's sleeping rooms, and that little should be carefully shaded. Nothing is worse for a young child than a light shining in its face while sleeping. Cretonne is the prettiest material for nursery furniture, and cleanliness, sunshine and air the best medicines for the nursery's occupants. In winter a grate fire is a boon. It keeps the room warm and gives perfect ventilation.

Characteristics of European Cities.

An observer, says a correspondent of the Leeds Mercury, has drawn up a little table in which he arranges the principal cities and towns of the world according to a classification which has at least the merit of novelty. Each town is considered from the point of view of the trades which are carried on in it. According to these statistics, in Paris there reside the most tailors, upholsterers, bonnet makers, barbers, advocates and men of letters, men or women. In London we find the most cab and carriage proprietors, engineers, printers, booksellers and—though most people would scarcely credit it—cooks. In Amsterdam we find the most are dealers and money lenders. Brussels is celebrated as the place where the largest number of boys smoke. It is in Naples that we find the most street porters. We see the largest number of beer drinkers in Berlin. Florence possesses the most flower sellers, and Lisbon is celebrated as containing the most bailiffs.

How He Read It.

The other day Mr. Toole entered a dairy, and in his most solemn manner addressed himself to the man as follows:

"I will take a boy," looking round at the shelves.

"A boy, sir?" asked the dairyman, fairly puzzled.

"Yes, or a girl," answered the actor.

The man, thinking him some lunatic, said, "Pardon me; this is a milk shop."

"Come outside," said Mr. Toole, and taking the man by the arm he led him to the door and pointed to the sign.

"I'll take a boy and a girl," repeated the humorist, with not a ghost of a smile. "Read what your notice states, 'Families Supplied In Any Quantity.'"—London Tit-Bits.

A Common Affliction

Women the Greatest Sufferers.

GRAVE RESULTS OFTEN OCCUR.

In All Cases Paine's Celery Compound Cures and Restores Perfect Health.

Headaches are varied in character of frequent occurrence, and are produced by a variety of causes. The common headache is often produced by some indiscretion in diet or deviation from ordinary habits of life. We have also congestive headaches, rhuematic headaches, and billious and nervous headaches. Women are oftener the victims of these troubles than men. When neglected from day to day grave and fatal consequences often occur.

Some of the ablest and best physicians freely admit that Paine's Celery Compound is the safest, surest and best medicine for every character of headache. Indeed this opinion is strengthened by the thousands who have given testimony in favor of Paine's Celery Compound.

Headaches being more prevalent in the spring season, it is of the utmost importance that every sufferer should know how to act. One bottle of Paine's Celery Compound will often permanently cure. Nature's marvellous Spring medicine will, at the same time, build up the entire system.

THE OSCAR WILDE LIBEL.

A True Bill Against the Marquis of Queensberry—Reception at Monte Carlo.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, March 25.—In the Old Bailey today, the Recorder, Sir Charles Hall, in charging the grand jury, referred to the libel proceedings instituted by Mr. Oscar Wilde against the Marquis of Queensbery. He said that if the Marquis wrote the words which it is claimed he did upon the card produced, whether he was justified or not in so doing, it constituted a libel. Moreover, the Recorder added, the defendant intended to plead justification as his defence. The grand jury eventually returned a true bill against the Marquis.

A despatch from Monte Carlo to the Observer says that after Mr. Oscar Wilde and Lord Alfred Douglas, the second son of the Marquis of Queensbury, arrived at that place recently, they went to a hotel, but after saying there a day the proprietor, at the request of other English visitors, informed them that their rooms were engaged. Both Mr. Wilde and Lord Alfred are now in London.

Buried Under Tons of Earth.

ROME, March 23.—The village of Bollara was overwhelmed today by a landslide extending over two thirds of a mile. It is believed that many were killed. Troops were summoned to help search the ruins for bodies.

Labor Trouble in Belgium.

BRUSSELS, March 23.—The miners at Liege went out on strike today, in accordance with the resolution passed at their meeting yesterday. They defied the police to enter the road leading to the Esperance Colliery, and when the police tried to advance attached them with stones and revolvers. The police fired back and wounded several miners.

A ROSETTED COMMUNITY.

An English Parliamentary Election as It Was In the Olden Times.

At the time of which I write borough elections were carried on with those characteristics which have been graphically described by Dickens in his familiar account of the election in the little "borough of Eatanswill" as well as by Mr. Samuel Warren in the return of Sir Tittlebat Titmouse by the worthy and independent electors of Yatton.

In the Ludlow election there were three candidates, one Henry Clive, or "Warming Pan Clive," as he was called, being put forward by the Clive family to keep the place "warm" for a younger member not yet of age. "Warming Pan Clive" was a perfectly unknown individual, but he came before the people of Ludlow with all the best qualities and characteristics of a country gentleman, and with—what was of more consequence to the free and independent electors of this ancient borough—a purse full of money supplied for election contingencies by Earl Powis of Powis castle and the Hon. Mr. Clive of Oakly park. The second Tory candidate was Lord William Paulet, a younger son of the Earl of Winchester. Lord Paulet was unknown to the electors of Ludlow. He was deaf in the left ear and had the unenviable reputation of being a kleptomaniac. His only claim to the "vote and interest" of the Ludlow people was the fact that he was a friend of the Clives and had been sent to secure their vote by the Tory committee of the Carlton club. Their opponent was a strong Whig, Colonel Salway, whose family were highly respected townspeople, and who was himself a colonel in the British army.

In those days electioneering candidates adopted certain colors—for Clive scarlet and purple, crimson for Paulet, sky blue and yellow for Salway. Every draper and mercer in the town, according to his party, was commissioned to supply, free of charge, any number of rosettes at the expense of the candidate, and during the contest there was not a man, woman, child or baby of the 5,000 individuals who constituted the town and borough of Ludlow who did not display the colors of their respective party.

A portiere which is swished back and forth, pushed here, pulled there, by children or elders either, soon becomes a blemish rather than a decoration in a room unless it has been firmly hung and is frequently arranged.

If your husband shows a godless masculine fondness for sleeping over the breakfast hour on Sunday, you can probably break him of it by sending the children, one by one, to him for money for the contribution box.

In buying a new purse look well to the clasp, for if it is rough or sharp at the edges it will prove destructive to gloves. A purse with a rubber about it or that fastens inside is preferable on this account.

PRINCE BISMARCK.

Arrival at Friedrichsruhe of Members of the Reichstag to Congratulate the Ex Chancellor.

Special to The Times.

FRIEDRICHSRUHE, March 26.—Three special trains, having on board nearly 400 members of the Reichtag and of the Prussian Diet, arrived here today, and were received at the railroad station by Count Herbert Bismarck, Count William Bismarck, Count von Rantzan, the husband of Prince Bismarck's daughter, and by Count von Walderce. The deputation proceeded to the castle front, where they were received in a body by Prince Bismarck. Herr von Koeller, President of the Lower House of the Prussian Diet, made a speech congratulating Prince Bismarck on the approaching eightieth anniversary of his birth. The Prince, in reply, made a speech, thanking the deputations for their kind wishes.

DIED IN THE CENTRAL.

End of the Career of Henry Clark Who Came From Guelph.

TORONTO, March 26.—Death liberated a prisoner at the Central Prison this morning who was serving a term of 23 months for larceny. His name was Henry Clark and he was sentenced some time ago by the authorities at Guelph.

For several weeks past he had been suffering from lung disease and died just before daybreak this morning.

The usual inquest was held at the prison by Coroner Lynd, and the verdict declared that he had died from tuberculosis.

"ZIM" PICKS UP THE GLOVE.

Houben's Challenge for a Three-Race Contest Accepted.

NEW YORK, March 26.—The cycling world will be glad to learn that the world's champion, "the only Zimmerman," has decided to accept the challenge issued by Hubert Houben, the Belgian wonder, to a series of three races for 25,000 francs a side. The details are not complete, but "Zim" says he will race him, and that he is only awaiting a cablegram from Paris before making arrangements for the trip. Houben stands as the undisputed champion of all Europe today.

Through a Plateglass Window.

FOREST, Ont., March 26.—A most remarkable accident took place in this town yesterday morning. A horse, owned by the Rev. Dr. Hindley, Congregationalist minister, was being led through the yard when a piece of barbed wire caught in the blanket which covered the horse. The frightened animal broke away and dashed through the streets, goaded to actual madness by the cling wire. Coming down James street at full gallop, the frenzied animal headed straight for the G. N. W. Telegraph Company's office and went through the large plateglass window of the office at a single bound, shivering the windowpane and sash. The two young ladies employed in the office narrowly escaped being killed by the infuriated animal, and were taken, terror-stricken, from the office. The horse was then captured, but not before he had partially demolished the interior of the office, among other things smashing the stove and setting fire to the floor. The office is a small one, and the escape of the young ladies is the most miraculous part of the whole affair.

MURDEROUS SUPERSTITION.

An Unfortunate Woman Tortured in Ireland as a Witch.

Special to the Times.

WATERFORD, March 27.— A most extraordinary case of murder, arising from superstition, was inquired into today by the special court of Clonmel, 25 miles from here. Ten persons were arraigned before the court, charged with murdering a woman named Cleary, because they supposed her to be a witch. The prisoners included the murdered woman's husband and father. The evidence showed that Mrs. Cleary was suffering from nervousness and bronchitis, and her husband, believing her to be bewitched, and in order to exorcise the evil spirit, obtained a concoction from a herbalist of the neighborhood. Then, while the other prisoners held the unfortunate woman in bed, her husband forced the obnoxious concoction of herbs down her throat. After this the suffering woman was held over a fire and dreadfully seared, until she declared in the name of God that she was not Cleary's wife. This torture was repeated on the following day but the woman refused to conform to her husband's requests, whereupon he knocked her down, poured paraffine over her body then lighted it and the woman burned to death in the presence of six males and two female relatives. Cleary declared he was not burning his wife, but he was burning a witch, and she would disappear up the chimney. When the woman was dead her husband collected her charred remains in a sheet and buried them in a dyke beneath the mud, where they were found a week later. The prisoners, who were remanded, narrowly escaped lynching at the hands of the excited crowd in and about the court room, and had to be removed to gaol under the escort of a strong force of constabulary.

DOMINION POLITICS.

Liberals Choose a Candidate for Richmond, Nova Scotia.

Special to the Times.

GUELPH, March 27. — The adjourned annual meeting of the South Wellington Liberal-Conservative Association will be held in this city on April 3rd.

SOUTH LEEDS LIBERALS.

DELTA, Ont. March 27.—The Liberals of South Leeds in convention here today unanimously nominated Mr. W. H. Fredenburgh as their candidate at the next general election for the Dominion House.

IN NOVA SCOTIA.

HALIFAX, N. S., March 27.—At a convention of the Richmond, N. S., Liberals today, Mr. E. P. Flynn was the unanimous choice as their candidate at the next Federal election.

BOUND FOR TORONTO.

A Boy Tied on the Truck of a Coach of a Passenger Train.

Special to the Times.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., March 27.—A car inspector discovered a boy on the trucks of a passenger coach as it whirled in from New York.

He ordered him off, but the boy was tied on the truck, and so stiff and numb with cold that he had to be lifted off. He had ridden in that way from New York, and was bound for Toronto.

Mr. Slatter's Successor.

MONTREAL, March 27.—In reference to the effect that the city and district passenger agency of the Grand Trunk Railway at Toronto, made vacant by the death of Mr. Phillip J. Slatter, had been offered to Mr. W. R. Calloway, city passenger agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway in that city, Mr. N. J. Power, general passenger agent of the Grand Trunk Railway, states most emphatically that no such offer had been made to Mr. Calloway, and that the Grand Trunk authorities had no intention of making the appointment outside of their own employers, although as yet the man had not been selected.

A Criminal's Curse.

BUFFALO, N.Y., March 27.—Seven years ago this spring a woman, Hattie Pensayers, was convicted of murder in the second degree on the charge of killing her husband. When the verdict was delivered Mrs. Pensayers rose in the court room and cursed the jury, predicting that they would all come to some bad end. Since then, two of the jury which convicted the woman have gone insane, and today a third is added to the list. The latest is John Koehler, a sewing machine agent, who went violently insane today. He accosted a policeman on the street with the remark that he was the Buffalo agent of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, and invited the officer to have a drink with him. Koehler was removed to the Franklin street station, where he became quite violent.

The Italian-Abyssinian War.

ROME, March 27.—A despatch, received here from Massowah, Egypt, says that General Baratieri, the commander of the Italian forces, occupied Adigrat on Monday last. He is now fortifying that place and [illegible] a flying column against Ras Mangascha, the Abyssinian chief, who has been causing so much trouble.

HARWOOD.

$5.00 REWARD—The above reward will be paid to any person or persons who will give such information as will lead to the conviction of the person who stole Mr. Frank Johnston's tobacco, while playing checkers on Tuesday last.

OYSTER SUPPER—The Sons of Temperance of our village gave an oyster supper on last Friday night. Of course there was nothing to drink only on the side.

WOOD—Mr. R. Croft of Cobourg is in our village hiring men to cut wood. Mr. Croft is a little late starting, but better late than never.

FISHING—Fishing is very good here at present, from three to four hundred bass are being caught daily. Mr. C. Harbor caught three bass weighing upwards 20 lbs., and Coats would not lie about a few bass.

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR—A few days ago there was seen in our village what the boys call a trampt but to our astonishment it was Sir Richard McBride, President of the Lime Juice Club, Peterborough.

CHANGE—Mr. A. Watson has purchased the general store lately occupied by Mr. F. Harstone.

Mr. W. J. Edminson has succeeded in securing sufficient names of our ratepayers to secure a license for the Phoenix Hotel. This house is one of the finest summer resorts in Ontario, and will be furnished from top to bottom in first class style. Any one coming to Rice Lake will find first-class accommadation at this hotel after the 1st of May

ILL—Mrs. George Cook is dangerously ill.

PERSONAL—Miss Ida E. Kearney, of Young's Point, is visiting her sister, Mrs W. C. Brooks.

Zera Semon.

Zera Semon and his boy Laurance drew another good house last night. The program was varied, and different in some respects, and if anything more interesting than on the first night. Zera Semon performs many clever feats in magic, and the boy Laurance is a refreshing novelty. The presents last night were numerous and in all instances worth more than the price of admission. Four premier gifts were given away as follows:—Gold watch, won by Mrs. Paton; china tea set, won by Mrs. Lefore; cruet castor, won by George Cairns; complete chamber set, won by H. J. Smith.

After Dr. Barnardo.

Inspector de Barry, of Buffalo, is after Dr. Barnado. The Buffalo Times prints an interesting interview with the inspector. The Times says:—It has long been known to Immigration Inspector de Barry that a certain Englishman has for some time past made a business of visiting the orphan asylums and like institutions in England for the purpose of taking the children inmates to Canada and placing them on farms and introducing them in families there, but until today he had not been able to ascertain this man's name. This morning he learned that the agent's name is Dr. Barnado, of Stepney, Eng. The reason why the Federal authorities have interested themselves in this matter is because the foundlings and orphan children taken to Canada by Dr. Barnardo find their way to the United States and become public charges. "It is a difficult matter to reach this man, as he acts under the Canadian laws," said Inspector de Barry. "We have been aware of his business for some time. It is known that these parentless and destitute children are sent over here by Canada every time an opportunity presents itself. For this reason I keep track of Dr. Barnardo, to prevent violations of our immigration laws."

LOST FIFTY DOLLARS.

Gave it to a Friend to Keep and the Friend Disappeared.

William Lundy has had his faith in mankind rudely shaken. He no longer believes in the existence of friendship such as Damon felt for Pythias. Several days ago he did. His belief cost him exactly $50.

Lundy has been logging it all winter up in the lumbering regions and returned to town a few days ago. He brought with him quite a roll of money, the result of his winter's work. He lost $50 of it in one clip, and this is how it happened.

On Tuesday night Lundy went out with a boon friend. The two made the rounds and in the course of the evening Lundy handed his friend $50 to keep for him until next day.

Yesterday Lundy was looking for his friend and his money, but the latter couldn't be found. At different points Lundy learned that he had been flourishing $10 bills and had been spending money freely. This filled him with alarm. When it was afterwards learned that his friend had been seen to purchase a ticket and board a train for Port Hope, he came to conclusion that he was out just exactly $50.

It is not known whether or not the police will take a hand in helping Lundy get his money back. They are acquainted with the facts, but Lundy is loathe to have his friend prosecuted. If he doesn't prefer a charge the police can do nothing.

CIVIC MATTERS

That the Council Will Take Up Next Monday Night.

Monday night, April 1st, is the regular meeting night of the Town Council. There are several important matters that require prompt action on behalf of the Council. They are summarized as follows:

1. The $500 grant asked by the Peterborough Driving Park Association to assist in preparing for the C.W.A. meet, which it is likely Peterborough will secure.

2. The matter of offering inducement to the Howry Lumbering Company and other industries that can be brought to Peterborough if proper inducements are offered.

3. Some agreement or understanding with Contractor Grant, who has applied for an order to enable him to go on and complete his contract, and who offers the town the alternative of cancelling the contract on certain conditions.

4. The matter of a foot or highway bridge across the Otonabee at Auburn, which was shelved for one month at a previous meeting. A largely signed petition, asking for the bridge, has been presented.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES.

Bell Telephone Company the Defendants in a Lindsay Suit.

The jury sittings of the High Court of Justice opened at Lindsay on Tuesday before Hon. Mr. Justice MacMahon, with a docket of two civil and four criminal cases.

Hudson vs. Bell Telephone Company was an action to recover damages and came up first. The plaintiff is a laborer living in Lindsay. On the evening of Saturday, Dec. 15th last, he was walking into town, when he was caught in the face by a slack telephone wire and thrown down, striking his thighbone, as some of the doctors say, or sustaining only a very severe contusion, as others think. It is charged that the company was negligent in two ways: first, a defective fastening of the wire; second, in that the company ought to have known it had become loose and to have repaired it. The jury gave a verdict for the plaintiff for $690 damages. This is the second case of injury from a telephone wire that has been tried within a week. The other was at Peterborough.

WILL SOON BE PLOWING.

Farmers Getting Ready for Their Spring Work—Sap Running Lively.

"Early spring this year," remarked a weather beaten old farmer on the market square yesterday. "Don't be alarmed at this little scurry of snow. It's only a bluff and will be clean gone before sunset tomorrow. We're going to have an early spring, or I've lost my grip on signs. There is a good deal of frost in the ground but its near the surface. This is because we had snow almost as soon as cold weather set in.

"This fall of snow is a good thing, too. Crops are always better when the snow remains on the ground almost up to spring plowing time.

"Farmers down my way are getting ready to break up the ground. They will soon be at it. Yes, the sap is running well this year and maple syrup will be plentiful."

Ferries to Port Hope and Cobourg.

A Buffalo despatch to the Globe says: "As a result of a favorable report by the Board of Railway Commissioners, engineers today began staking out the line for a new railroad between Batavia and Oak Orchard Harbor on Lake Ontario. Coincident with the beginning of work on this railroad, the American & Canadian Navigation Company has been incorporated at Trenton, N.J., for the purpose of operating two freight and passenger ferries between Oak Orchard Harbor and Port Hope and Cobourg, Canada. The Navigation Company will at once begin the construction of two steam ferries, each 255 feet in length, with 45 feet beam, and 10½ feet draught. Each will carry 26 loaded cars, and will be equipped with icebreakers, so that they can run all the year round. It is said that the Company has made large contracts for carrying coal to Canada. The cars will be put aboard the ferries right from the track of the new railroad. The Canadian Pacific Railroad has built from Peterborough to Cobourg, where connections will be made."

It is believed that they were stuck up by a Mr. Caleb Helson, of Orangeville, who has a grievance against a postmaster, accusing him of having appropriated his letters, and also of having sent them to Warden Massey, of the Central prison. He farther states that he was kidnapped and sentenced to one month's incarceration. The old gentleman has made known his intention of going to Ottawa to present his charges before the Postmaster General.

The Bicycle Bill—New Clauses.

Mr. Stratton has introduced his bill empowering municipalities to license bicycles and devote the money to construct wheelpaths. Many of the members showed their disapprobation, but the bill passed the first reading. The measure is strongly opposed by bicycle clubs all over the province, and it is their intention to send deputations to protest against its third reading.

The following additional provisions have been added to the bill: No license to exceed an average of one cent per day; licenses issued in one municipality to a bona fide resident shall be good in any other municipality for the year in which it was issued.

A Metal Breadboard

THE WOMAN WHO HAS BEEN USED to kneading dough on the old fashioned wooden breadboard knows what a bother it is to get them clean and how cumbersome and heavy they are. When they begin to crack or check it is almost impossible to thoroughly cleanse them, and they may easily become dangerous conveyances of disease. It was left for a woman, of course, to remedy this state of affairs, and Mrs. M. M. Everhard, of St. Joseph, Mich., has patented a metal bread-board, which is one of the greatest labor-savers imaginable. It is light, does not absorb grease, dough does not adhere to it, and while it possesses all the advantages of the marble bread-board it is much cheaper and, of course, far lighter and easier to handle. If readers want to confer a favor upon their wives that will be forever appreciated, let them send $1 to the manufacturers, 101 Bay street, Toronto, for one of these boards.

GRAND TRUNK AFFAIRS.

THE THUNDERER URGES A CHANGE OF MANAGEMENT.

Li Hung Chang's Wound—Shooting Affray in Paris—Spain Decides on Wiping Out the Rebellion—Duel at Constantine.

Special to the Times.

MADRID, March 28.

FROM Havana come reports that indicate that the number of insurgents now in the field is about 7,000. The government believes that the filibusters who left Macao on an English vessel for Jamaica were transferred to an American ship. In the Senate Premier Conovas Del Castello said today that the 5,000,000 pesotas had been spent already in fighting the Cuban insurgents and the government was prepared to make any further sacrifice that might be made. The minister, whose name is withheld, said this afternoon that 10,000,000 pesotas would be placed at Campos' disposal at once.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

LONDON, March 28.—The Times will urge tomorrow, the necessity of a change in the management of the Grand Trunk board in London. A strong chairman is especially needed, the writer says, and he recommends that the shareholders endeavor to obtain Sir Charles Rivers Wilson.

FATALLY SHOT.

PARIS, March 28.—A shooting affray occurred in the Northern Railway station in this city yesterday, resulting in the fatal injury of one of the principals. An American named Wendel Read, who was residing at the Hotel Scribe, was standing in the Gare du Nord when he was approached by an Englishman named O'Brien. The latter drew a revolver and fired three shots at Read, all of them taking effect. Read fell to the floor bleeding from his wounds, and O'Brien was seized and taken to the police station. The wounded man was taken to the hospital. Read and O'Brien are bookmakers, and it is understood the shooting grew out of a quarrel about money. Read is in a critical condition.

IDENTITY OF THE MURDERER.

Later.—The House Surgeon at the Hospital Lariboisiere to which the wounded man was taken, said to a representative of the United Press that six shots had been fired and that half had taken effect. He also said that no attempt would be made to extract two of the bullets, one of which entered the chest and the other the side, until tomorrow. The report of the commissary of police, in whose district the shooting took place, gives the name of the wounded American as Adam Read Waddie and his age as 34 years, and states that he was born in Minnesota. The man who did the shooting and who is now in custody is described in the report as Edward O'Brien, aged 42, a native of Cambridge.

SPAIN MEANS BUSINESS.

PARIS, March 28.—A despatch from Madrid to the Journal Des Debats says the Spanish government has decided to send additional reinforcements of 6,000 troops to Cuba.

NORWAY AND SWEDEN.

STOCKHOLM, March 28.—The Dagens Nghthe says that King Oscar will soon submit to the Riksdag and to the Storting proposals to settle the difficulties between Norway and Sweden.

PRESENTATION TO BISMARCK.

LONDON, March 28.—The Daily News correspondent in Berlin says: The sword presented by the Emperor to Bismarck is a masterpiece of art. The hilt is entirely of gold and is surrounded with a cameo portrait of the Emperor. The sheath is of nickel with gold rings. On one side of the blade is inscribed: "To Prince Bismarck, Duke of Lunenburg, on the completion of his 80th year." The Emperor's coat of arms are on the same side. On the other side are Bismarck's famous words, "We Germans fear God but nothing else in the world."

LI HUNG CHANG.

PARIS, March 28.—The Shanghai correspondent of the Herald European edition says: The latest report from Simoneseki is that Li Hung Chang is making satisfactory progress towards recovery. The perfect and chief of police have been deprived of their offices at the Mikado's order because they failed to protect Li.

FOUGHT A DUEL.

ALGIERS, March 28.—The civil engineers Masson and Soubeyre fought a duel with swords on the outskirts of Constantine yesterday. Scubeyre received a trust in the lungs and died before night.

The Fire Record.

BRUCEFIELD, March 28.—The two storey brick residence owned and occupied by Mr. Hugh McCartney was burned this morning, with nearly all the household goods. Loss unknown; partly insured. The fire started in the kitchen.

STRATHROY, March 28.—This morning at 1 o'clock the rear of the residence of Mr. John Newton was discovered on fire. The alarm was quickly given, and the firemen were soon on hand and had the flames extinguished; not, however, before considerable damage had been done to the building and contents. It was a double two storey frame structure, the other half being occupied by Mrs. Pearce. The building was owned by the Canadian Permanent Building Society of Toronto. The loss on it will be about $1,000. The contents of Mr. Newton's house were almost totally destroyed; insured for $200 in the British America. Mrs. Pearce's loss is covered by insurance.

HAMILTON, March 28.—Fire was discovered in a front bedroom of C. A. Whitwam's residence, 119 East avenue south, about 9 30 this evening. About $100 damage was done to the contents. The fire originated from the gas jet. No one was in the house at the time.

Hon. J. C. Patterson Nominated.

CHATHAM, March 28.—At a largely attended Conservative convention held in Northwood's Hall, today Hon. J. C. Patterson was made the unanimous choice as the candidate to contest the riding against Mr. Arch Campbell in the Government interest. There were five local aspirants for the place—Dr. Hall, Messrs. H. A. Patterson, T. A. Smith, W. P. Killackey and Henry Lindley. A doubt raised to Mr. Patterson's willingness to accept the nomination was dispelled by statements to the effect that he had a few days ago signalled his readiness to stand for Kent if the nomination was made unanimous, which was done after two ballots had been taken, the latter giving him a plurality of votes.

Chris Von Der Ahe Divorce.

ST. LOUIS, March 28.—Mrs. Chris Von Der Ahe, wife of the baseball manager, secured a decree of divorce from her husband today. He was ordered to pay Mrs. Von Der Ahe $2,150 as alimony. Von Der Ahe did not contest the suit.

KIDD IS DEAD.

He Was in His Hundredth Year—Was Married to Sixteen-Year-Old Gertie Robbins in Toronto Last Summer.

Special to The Times.

MONO MILLS, March 28.—There died at his residence here yesterday John Kidd, who married Gertie Robbins, a 16-year-old school girl, in Toronto last summer and who lived extremely unhappy ever after. He was in his hundredth year. He was reputed to be worth in the neighborhood of $100,000 and there has been considerable jangling among the relations of the old man ever since he wedded the youthful maiden as to who would get his property. Now that he is dead the fight will probably be carried on with a vengeance.

On several occasions Robbins, the father of Mrs. Kidd, who lived just across the road from the aged husband, was shot at by parties unknown, and one night last winter the building which sheltered Robbins and his family, including his daughter, Mrs. Harkies, who is serving six months for bigamy, was wrecked by a gang of toughs. No arrests were made, but the Robbins family have since lived in the village in a state of terror.

HIS COFFIN AND TOMB READY.

Gertie, the young wife, was not at home when the "poor man," as Kidd called himself, died. The body of Kidd will be placed in the imposing mausoleum which was erected by him two years ago, a short distance out of Mono Mills, at a cost of $2,700, and the elaborate coffin in which the remains are to be placed has been awaiting its occupant ever since the tomb was completed.

John Kidd was a most eccentric character and widely known. At the time of his marriage last summer he said that an angel from Heaven had directed Gertie Kidd to his home, but since that time he has come to the conclusion that the first impression is not always the best.

LEFT HIS WIDOW NOTHING.

John Kidd's remains will be placed in his vault on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Kidd has been staying at Constable Tom Smith's at Charleston for several weeks past. She was in town last night and left for Mono Mills.

Kidd made a will a couple of weeks ago cutting off his wife without a cent. There is sure to be litigation over the matter as there are interesting persons backing up the young widow.

VERY PLAIN SENTIMENTS.

THE GOVERNMENT OF MANITOBA OPPOSES REMEDIAL ORDER.

Rome Shall Not Rule—No Church is Better than Another and None Shall Control the State—"Equal Rights!" the Cry.

Special to the Times.

WINNIPEG, March 28.—The Greenway organ, the Tribune, semi-officially last night published the reply of the Manitoba Government to the powers at Ottawa. After reviewing the situation, the article concludes thus:

"Anyone who has the least sense of justice, anyone who is patriotic even in the slightest degree, anyone who believes that all citizens are equal in the sight of the law, and that what is good enough for one is good enough for all, must stand by the Act of 1890. And this is our answer to Quebec.

"We shall not allow the state to support religion; we shall not allow the church to control the state; we shall not return to the civilization of the dark ages. We shall hold to the principles of equal rights for all, and that principle shall be dearer to us than Confederation itself."

The Free Press also announces the Legislature's intention to refuse to comply with the order.

Premier Greenway has announced that on Friday the Manitoba Legislature will adjourn until May 9th without dealing with the Manitoba school question.

The Government says the adjournment is taken in order to gain time to consider the legal points involved. Prendergast, the leader of the French Catholics, pronounces it a scheme to force the Dominion Government to take immediate action. He thinks the House will adjourn from time to time without discussion until the Dominion Government makes some decided move.

THE CABINET MEET.

OTTAWA, March 28.—The Cabinet was called to meet early this morning. Tupper was not present.

It is said the Government is considering how the difficulty can be bridged over.

POLITICAL NOTES.

At Almonte last night D'Alton McCarthy called on the people to elect men who would oppose interference with Manitoba irrespective of party.

The Conservatives of Kent have tendered the nomination for that county to Hon. J. C. Patterson.

R. H. BETHUNE DEAD.

The General Manager of the Dominion Bank Succumbs.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, March 28.—This city lost a good citizen, the Dominion Bank an earnest servant and Holy Trinity church a valued member last night in the death of Robert Henry Bethune, at his residence 184 College street. About a month ago Mr. Bethune was attacked by paralysis but apparently got over it. Ten days ago he was attacked by pneumonia and when Dr. Grassett was called in he found him suffering from hemorrhage of the brain to which he succumbed.

A NATIVE OF COBOURG.

Mr. Bethune was the second son of Bishop A. N. Bethune, of Toronto, was born in Cobourg on May 5, 1836, and educated at Upper Canada College. At the age of eighteen he entered the Bank of Montreal at Brockville and made rapid advance being successively stationed in Cobourg, Brockville, New York, Guelph, Hamilton, and St. Catherines. In five years he had risen to the position of Assistant Accountant of the Toronto Branch. Then he entered the Quebec branch and rose to the position of manager of the Toronto branch.

In 1870 James Austin and others started the Dominion Bank and invited Mr. Bethune to assume control. With this institution he has been identified as the chief executive officer since, and the remarkable success of the bank has been greatly due to his superb management. A short time ago he was made general manager.

The derelict steamer Loch Maree, recently abandoned in a supposedly sinking condition, is knocking about somewhere in the Atlantic, off the coast of Ireland. Her cargo is worth $450,000.

A. CHATTELLE ON TRIAL!

REFUSED TO HAVE A LAWYER AND CONDUCTS THE DEFENSE HIMSELF.

Insanity is the Line of Defence—The Prisoner Changes His Plea of Guilty to Not Guilty—Will Be a Short Trial.

Special to the Times.

STRATFORD, March 28.

YOUNG and old persons were promptly on hand at 9 o'clock this morning to hear the opening of the case of the Queen vs. Almede Chattelle for the murder of little Jessie Keith, near Listowel, in October last. In fact, it was fully an hour before the doors of the Assize Court were opened that a motley crowd, numbering hundreds of people, congregated in the yard fronting the County building clamoring for admission. The jail adjoining, in which Chattelle has been confined during the past five months, was also the objective point of a throng of people anxiously awaiting a possible opportunity of getting a glimpse at the prisoner. As might have been expected, the majority of the crowd assembled at the Court House was doomed to disappointment, as very few outside of those directly interested secured admission to the trial.

Chattelle pleaded guilty to the crime at the preliminary examination before a magistrate, and also confessed the crime on his way from Listowel to Stratford after the preliminary examination. This morning

HE PLEADED NOT GUILTY.

H. M. East, of Toronto, who had been retained by Chattelle's half brother, Prosper, of St. Hyacinthe, appeared to defend the prisoner, but Chattelle refused to have him, and is defending himself. Crown Attorney Idington is prosecuting.

The evidence this morning included that of the murdered girl's father and other witnesses, tracing Chattelle's movements from Ailsa Craig to the scene of the crime. Chattelle paid very close attention to the proceedings and asked a number of questions, but failed to elicit anything that can materially assist him, while he admitted being at several points where the Crown attempted to establish his presence.

CHATTELLE PLEAS "NOT GUILTY."

Sheriff Hossie exercised such excellent discipline that no one dared to make the least demonstration. On being arraigned Chattelle pleaded "Not Guilty." A subdued murmur was audible as the sentence fell from his lips, followed by a death like silence that continued several seconds. The prisoner did not look so well as he did at the preliminary hearing in Listowel. He seems to have fared poorly during his enforced confinement, having lost flesh. Otherwise his general appearance is not materially changed. He looked about him a good deal and seemed to take a lively interest in the movements of Lawyer East.

ONE JUROR CHALLENGED.

The court lost very little time in empanelling a jury, only one challenge being made, and this by the prisoner. At 9.15 Crown Attorney Idington commenced his address, in which he gave a succint review of the case, following the movements of the prisoner, from the time he left Ailsa Craig until he was arrested near Erin village.

A great number of witnesses are in attendance, and it is scarcely possible that the case will be concluded today.

HE GETS TEN YEARS.

McTiernan Goes to Kingston—McConkey Two Years for Arson.

Special to the Times.

TORONTO, March 28.—Judge McDougall today imposed these sentences on persons convicted at the Sessions during the present sittings:

Ambrose McTiernan, counterfeiting, ten years in Kingston penitentiary.

"Dick" Lewis, five years for receiving stolen goods and three years for felonious wounding, sentences to run concurrently.

Geo. Canterman, theft, 30 days in jail.

Romeo Darcy, perjury, five months in the Central.

Minnie Lewis, receiving stolen goods, allowed to go on suspended sentence, providing she leaves the city.

Thomas McConkey, arson, two years in the penitentiary.

John McGroarity, theft, two years less a day in the Central.

For larceny Edward Roland got three years in the penitentiary, and Thomas Henry and Wilson Roland each two years less a day in the Central.

PERISHED IN FIRE.

Mrs. Frank Assis' Terrible Death in Michigan.

Special to The Times.

FENTON, Mich., March 28.—Mrs. Frank Assis perished in her burning room, four miles north of here at four this morning. She was ill and could not save herself, although two young children escaped uninjured. Mr. Assis left home at two o'clock and came to Fenton for a doctor, arriving here at 3 o'clock. It is said the couple lived unhappily and there are suspicions of crime in connection with the fire. The coroner is investigating the case.

ZIMMERMAN MAY DIE.

The Doctors at the Hospital Hold Out Little Hope of His Recovery.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, March 28.—Both Mr. and Mrs. Zimmerman are resting peacefully at the hospital this morning, but the surgeons cannot say whether the man will live or not. Mrs. Zimmerman's wounds are not dangerous, but she is suffering from the shock.

A despatch from Lyons, N.Y. says that Arthur F. Zimmerman, a silver plater, who assaulted his wife with a hammer, and afterwards attempted suicide, at Toronto, is well known in Lyons, having lived here a year ago. He is a German, and came here from Rochester. He secured employment at the Manhattan Silver Plate factory as a solderer. He drank heavily, abused his wife and family, and was arrested several times on the charge. He left Lyons early in February for parts unknown having been discharged for drunkenness.

Another Reverse for China.

VICTORIA, B. C., March 28.—Mail advices to the United Press from Tokio, up to the 12th instant, are to the effect that the Japanese have completely broken and dispersed the powerful armies in South-western Manchuria.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 29 1895.

A PROSPEROUS COMPANY.

Elsewhere appears a statement which was presented at the 69th annual general meeting of the Standard Life Assurance Company, held at Edinburgh, Scotland, on march 5th.

The result of the year's business is gratifying in the extreme. The investments in Canada amount to the very large sum of $11,165,500, which goes to shew that this old and substantial company has a firm place in the confidence of the Canadian people.

LEGISLATION BEFORE THE ONTARIO HOUSE.

The Government, by Sir Oliver Mowat has introduced a bill re-enacting here the, English act relating to leases and sales of settled estates, adding power to make mortgages for the purpose of improving such estates. Settled estates are those which are entailed and otherwise disposed of, by will or other document, to various persons in succession for different periods of time, often persons not yet in existence. In such cases life tenants and others find difficulty in dealing with them, and this will be welcome to many who have hitherto found it impossible to enjoy the full estates in which they had only a limited interest, and the successors will find their interest in these estates, when they come to possess them, of more value than hitherto.

Mr. Howland has introduced a bill to prevent the docking of horses, and it provides that whoever cuts the bones of the tail of any horse for the purpose of docking, or allowing or consenting or assisting in any way, or being present, shall be liable to a penalty of not less than $100 and not more than $300. But if a horse is found with his tail so cut and the wound resulting from such cut unhealed, upon the premises of any person, such fact shall be prima facie evidence that the person who occupies or has the use of premises on which such horse may be found has committed the offence. It may be stated that this bill is only in keeping with several acts passed by different States of the American Union with regard to docking horse's tails.

Mr. Haycock, the Patron leader, has brought in a bill respecting railway passes. The text of the bill is that no person, whomsoever, holding or enjoying the privilege of using a free pass or other documents entitling him to travel free of charge or at a reduced rate, or according to any special privilege which shall be a discrimination in passenger rates for the advantage of such person on account of his being a member of the Legislative Assembly in traveling over any line of railway in the Province of Ontario, or over any such line or branch thereof, shall be eligible as a member of the Legislative Assembly, nor shall sit or vote in the same

Mr. Richardson has already moved the second reading of a bill to amend the High School act, so as to relieve County Councils from the payment of a share at present required of them of the cost of the maintenance of High schools in town separated from the county.

Another of the Patrons' bills is aimed at excessive charges of arbitrators and provides for the payment by any party to the award of the arbitrator's fees into the office of the local registrar of the High Court for the county where the lands arbitrated about are situated. Taxation of the fees is to take place, and if the arbitrators' charge is sustained then he gets the cost of taxation ; if not, then he loses the costs of taxation and whatever is taxed off his bill. In most cases of arbitration, however, the fees and charges are fixed by statute, and in order to fully remedy the whole matter, the Patrons will have to first amend a number of the existing laws.

A suggested amendment to the Municipal Act is one that will be welcomed by insurance companies. The trustees of any police village may apply for the purchase of fire engines and other appliances for the purpose of fire protection, or for lighting the streets of its village, or supplying light and heat to the inhabitants. The council of the township shall then submit a by-law for the purpose of issuing debentures to raise the amount necessary for the purchase, and it the ratepayers vote the money then debentures are to issue, and the appliances to be purchased.

A difficulty which all municipal corporations have to contend with is the laying out on plans by persons owning lands of shallow lots and narrow streets. It is now proposed to prevent the registration of any plan in city, town or village, until the municipal corporation has first assented to the plan by by-law, so that an end may be put to the laying out of narrow streets and shallow lots.

Jurors have frequently to spend Sunday away from home. It is prosoed to give them pay for Sundays intervening between the Saturdays and Mondays on which they attend the Court. The alleged tampering with juries is the reason for the introduction of a bill designed to minimize this practice. The Sheriff is to keep the names of the jury drafted for any panel under lock and key until four days before the sitting of the Court for which the list is drafted. Anyone on filing affidavits that he desires to examine panel in order to discern whether a special jury should be struck in a special suit to which he is a party may be given the names, but not otherwise.

An important change is suggested with regard to the law respecting dower in mortgaged or other property. Where land is mortgaged and a wife is joined in the mortgage, in order to bar her dower, and the land is subsequently sold under the power of sale contained in the mortgage, or under any legal process, the wife is to be entitled to dower in any surplus of the purchase money arising from the sale over and above the mortgage to the same extent as she would have been entitled to dower, in the land, had the same not been sold, calculating the amount to which she shall be entitled in the basis of the amount realized from the sale of the land, and not on the amount realized on the sale over and above the amount of the mortgage only. This provision, however, is not to apply to a mortgage given back in part payment of purchase money.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Since Parliament opened only 7 out of 670 members, have made use of the new bath rooms.

Sermons against newspapers would amount to very little if there were not newspapers to print them.

Sir Agustus Harris has secured the exclusive right to perform Humperdinck's "Hansel and Gretel" in America in any language, and can give it in England in German.

The average salary paid male teachers in the Public schools of Ontario cities is $911 and of female teachers $409. In Toronto some male teachers are allowed $1,500 and one lady receives $1,150. The taxpayers of this town are doing their share towards keeping up the average for the Province.

Fluent and fiery United States statesmen frequently view with alarm the fortifications on the Canadian side of the boundary line, and point to them as the perpetual menace to Uncle Sam's territory. But what about the fortifications on Uncle Sam's side of the line? Are they not a perpetual menace to Canada? Yet nobody in this country objects to them or demands their removal. They don't scare anybody over here.

RESTORED TO POWER.

Mr. Buchanan, of Leamington, Restores His Health With Dodd's Kidney Pills

LEAMINGTON, Ont., March 28.—There has been quite a run on the druggists throughout this county for the specific remedy well known under the title of Dodd's Kidney Pills. The cause of this unparalled demand is the wonderful benefit Mr. Sherman Buchanan, of this place, has derived from the use of the medicine. Mr. Buchanan has suffered for over a year from a very severe form of kidney complaint and became utterly helpless, his digestive organs refusing to do their work. He tried the above mentioned remedy with entire success, and his encomiums on the means of his cure have been instrumental in inducing the enormous demand on the county druggists.

A MARYLAND HOME.

FAMOUS WYE MANSION, WITH ITS GRACIOUS MEMORIES.

A Sturdy Domicile and its Outbuildings and "Quarters"—A Land of Mint Juleps and Winsome Maidens—Fred Douglass Visits His Boyhood's Home.

If one might be frisked by the mere magic of a wish away from the vulgar scrambling and the din and all the heartless impertinence of this impatient time back to those ways of pleasantness and paths of peace which were the familiar conditions of old Maryland, he might choose to find himself trundling in an antiquated gig through the long, dim stretch of woods and the double colonnade of locusts and beeches which formed the approach to the "great house" and ended in the graveled drive that belted the noble lawn—from five to seven acres of close, clean sward, dotted with firs and cedars and terraced from end to end. Here stood the sturdy domicile, broad and square, built of bricks brought over from England in the ships that came for tobacco. It was flanked on each hand with offices and strung out to the very edge of the woods with outbuildings—kitchen, dairy, icehouse, overseer's lodge and the "quarter" for the dusky colony of slaves. This latter might be either a group of cabins or a single spacious tenement of logs or stone, affording one big sitting room below, floored with earth and rude dormitories, bunked and blanketed above. On the ground floor the negroes loved to lie around the great hearth, with their feet to the fire, and to sleep that sleep of insouciant beatitude which was broken only by the familiar cry of warning, "Some fool nigger's heel a-burning!"

In the distance was the clumsy windmill for the grinding of the maize which was presently to find itself transformed and famous in coquetries of johnny cake and pone, and flapjacks flattered with golden butter, and beyond, between the willows by the creek, glimpsed and glanced the rippling silver of the bay, with its sleepy coves and inlets dotted with canoes and barges, and with the slender spars of pungies in among the cuddling little isles, where Sambo tonged for "eyeshsters" in the sun and the larger fisher took his finny treasures from the weir.

Here was a land flowing with mint juleps and blooming with delectable damsels. Mistress Rebecca Lloyd, beautiful and gracious, greeted the newcomer with a winsome courtesy on the broad piazza, and the grizzled butler, who had "toted" his young missus around so long that there were still times when he forgot himself and called her "honey," brought you the beguiling beverage on a silver salver engraved with the family arms and was distressed if your straw refused to draw. That broad piazza was burned, with the rest of the noble house of Wye, on March 12, 1781, when a British marauding party looted the plantation and the mansion and carried off plate, jewelry and watches, swords, spurs, sashes and cocked beavers, muffs, turbans and tippets, wigs and embroidered waistcoats, plumed hats and cardinals, the whole splendid plunder of brave apparel and dainty bedeckings. The fair Rebecca has long since been choired among the angels, and the grizzled butler sleeps with his toes turned up to the mint, but when I crossed the lawn one kindly day in December I was greeted as graciously by Rebecca's later kinswoman and conducted into the great hall, which never yet, whether in the parent house or in this, was big enough for the hospitalities it has harbored. The grand old manor house gave its body to the flames, but its soul survives in the later mansion, where its traditions of courtesy and kindness are piously cherished.

Near the site of the historic domicile, a fragment of which still remains, stands the beautiful structure, impressive by its proud simplicity, which invites the wayfarer today in the name of eight generations of Maryland worthies who have kept house there since Edward Lloyd I, the Puritan, in 1668, set up his son Philemon to be lord of the manor of Wye and master of Wye House—incunabula majorum. The main building of two lofty stories, including the hall, drawing room, parlor, dining room and chambers, all of noble proportions, is connected by corridors with one storied wings, which are the library on one side and the domestic offices on the other, presenting a pleasing facade of 200 feet, looking out upon the lawn and the leafy avenue, and over the woods to Wye river and the bay.

In Governor Lloyd's time there was a certain steward, or bailiff, at Wye, one Captain Anthony of St. Michael's, at one time master of a bay craft in the service of the governor. This man was the owner of a likely negro boy who escaped from bondage, and by his remarkable powers, acquirements and address became known to the world as Frederick Douglass. In 1881 Mr. Douglass, being then marshal of the District of Columbia, was moved to revisit the scenes of his childhood and his thrall, and one day found himself on the porch of Wye House, where he was received by the sons of Colonel Lloyd, their father being absent, with that courtesy which is extended to every stranger who finds his way thither. When he had made known the motive of his visit, he was conducted over the estate, from spot to spot that he remembered and described with all their childish associations—here a spring, there a hedge, a lane, a field, a tree. He called them by their names or recalled them by some simple incident, and all the glowing heart of the man seemed to go out to the place as he passed from ghost to ghost as in a dream. And then a strange thing happened. Standing mute and musing for awhile, he said slowly and low, as one who talks in his sleep, "Over in them woods was whar me and Mars Dan useter trap rabbits." "Mars Dan" was the governor's son. Was it the man's half playful, half pathetic sense of the grotesque incongruity of the situation, or was it glamour—all the tremendous significance of a phenomenal life compacted into the homely reflection and phrase of a barefoot "darky?"

He plucked flowers from the graves of dead Lloyds he had known and at the table drank to the health of the master of the old house and of his children, "that they and their descendants may worthily maintain the character and the fame of their ancestors."—Dr. John W. Palmer in Century.

MURDEROUS SUPERSTITION.

An Unfortunate Woman Tortured in Ireland as a Witch.

Special to the Times.

WATERFORD, March 27.—A most extraordinary case of murder, arising from superstition, was inquired into today by the special court of Clonmel, 25 miles from here. Ten persons were arranged before the court, charged with murdering a woman named Cleary, because they supposed her to be a witch. The prisoners included the murdered woman's husband and father. The evidence showed that Mrs. Cleary was suffering from nervousness and bronchitis, and her husband, believing her to be bewitched, and in order to exorcise the evil spirit, obtained a concoction from a herbalist of the neighborhood. Then, while the other prisoners held the unfortunate woman in bed, her husband forced the obnoxious concoction of herbs down her throat. After this the suffering woman was held over a fire and dreadfully seared, until she declared in the name of God that she was not Cleary's wife. This torture was repeated on the following day but the woman refused to conform to her husband's requests, whereupon he knocked her down, poured paraffine over her body then lighted it and the woman burned to death in the presence of six males and two female relatives. Cleary declared he was not burning his wife, but he was burning a witch, and she would disappear up the chimney. When the woman was dead her husband collected her charred remains in a sheet and buried them in a dyke beneath the mud, where they were found a week later. The prisoners, who were remanded, narrowly escaped lynching at the hands of the excited crowd in and about the court room, and had to be removed to gaol under the escort of a strong force of constabulary.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

Foul Play Surrounding the Demise of John Flynn.

Special to the Times.

OWEN SOUND, March 27.—There is intense excitement at Shallow Lake over the mysterious death of a man named John Flynn, aged about 64. It appears that the deceased left Owen Sound on Friday night for his home in Shallow Lake, and was seen later in the vicinity of Cruikshank's Postoffice. On Sunday evening a youth found the deceased lying in an unconscious state at Cruikshank's school house, in a woodshed. He was immediately removed to his home, and upon an examination it was found that he had a bruise on the right side of the forehead and another upon the right breast. He died half an hour after being conveyed to his home. A post mortem is being held, as it is mysterious how the man met his death, and it is rumored that foul play was the cause.

Shootem to his friend—"Lend me your gun for a couple of hours?"

Friend—"Sorry, old man, but it's Lent."

Why She Never Married.

When a man tempts fate by reminding a spinster of her condition, his punishment is generally swift and sure. In a county of Ireland where the Quakers were numerous the entire body on one occasion gathered together for one of their quarterly meetings.

After the exercises of the morning a public luncheon was held, at which all the Friends attended. The conversation turned to matrimony.

"Bridget," said an unmannerly youthful member of the society, speaking across the crowded table to a prim, elderly maiden lady, "wilt thou tell me why thou hast never married?"

"Certainly, Friend William," responded the ready Bridget in a voice audible over the room. "'Tis because I am not so aisy pleased as thy wife was."—London Tit-Bits.

The Edible Birds' Nest.

In the Andaman islands the principal industry is that of collecting, cleaning and preparing edible birds' nests for shipment. The species of bird which builds this queer nest arrives in the islands about the 1st of December and immediately commences to build its nest, which is constructed almost wholly of a gelatinous substance, which is a secretion from the salivary glands of the bird's mouth. The finest quality of these edible nests resembles pure isinglass. They are worth their weight in silver in many countries of the orient, especially in China, Borneo, Korea and Siam. They are usually built in caves and clefts along the coast, but are frequently found in trees.—St. Louis Republic.

Difference.

"I hear," said the clam, "that you are going in for Christian socialism."

"You have been misinformed," averred the oyster. "It is church socialism that I expect to figure in."—Indianapolis Journal.

Concord, N. H., was originally called by an Indian name, Musketacook, "Dead "Stream. It was changed to Runeford in honor of a prominent settler, then to the present name in honor of the settlement of an old land dispute.

HOW TO CLEAN HOUSE

THE WAY ONE WOMAN MAKES HARD LABOR SEEM EASY.

She Learned to Economize In Strength and Has a System—Taking Up Carpets and Scrubbing Floors—Battling With Moths and Getting Rid of Rubbish.

I always begin to clean house at the top—in the attic, which is the storeroom for castoff things of the year in clothing and furniture. In the course of six months an awful lot of rubbish accumulates there, and at housecleaning is a good time to get rid of it. In a house where there are children there is always considerable castoff clothing to look over. Some of it will do very nicely to cut over for younger children, and that should be brushed and aired, then folded away in a box kept for that purpose. The garments that are outgrown and cannot be remodeled should be put in another box, ready to bestow on some worthy person less fortunate than yourself.

Do not board up old garments against possible need "next year." If you do not see a possible chance of making use of them in the next six months, put them in the poorbox. They will bring you a richer blessing there. Examine the broken furniture that has been stowed away. If it can be mended, have it done at once, before knocking about has destroyed the usefulness of a piece to which you are attached. If you find that it is too worn and shabby for your own house, perhaps you know some deserving person who is ingenious enough to fix it up and would be very glad to do so for the gift of it. Otherwise throw it into the kindling wood heap. There isn't a particle of sense in cluttering up a house with a lot of useless old rubbish. Unless you are sure that dilapidated furniture can be fixed up it is bad judgment to send it to the attic anyhow.

Look over the old papers and magazines and make a package of those you do not intend to have bound to send to the hospital or some institution, where a bit of reading material is a perfect boon. After sorting over and putting away all the trash in the attic you have a heap of litter that it is useless to try to put away. Dump it on the ash heap or bribe your scrubwoman to relieve you of it. Then sweep and dust and mop out the attic all ready to receive the stores that will come up from the lower part of the house. It will probably take you a whole day to go over the attic properly. If you discover any signs of that terror of the housewife—bedbugs—make war on them at once. A machine oil can of gasoline is a good companion in such an emergency. Use it freely on infected spots. It will kill eggs and insects instantly and evaporates almost as soon as applied. Do not have a lighted lamp or gas around when you use it, though, nor for some time after, unless you have raised the windows and aired the attic.

If you have found moths, take all the infected clothes out into the sunshine. Beat and shake them well, then brush and if practicable dampen and run a hot iron over them. Moths are the meanest pests that ever got into a house. They do more damage in a day than can be repaired in a year, and there is absolutely no way known yet, except vigilance, that will keep them out of woolen clothing and furs. After you have everything cleaned and sweet smelling in the attic, get a pint of sulphur and put in an old iron kettle and set it over an oil stove or charcoal fire in the attic. Close the windows and doors and let it burn itself out.

Then you may be reasonably sure that there are no microbes or bacilli lurking around to descend upon and destroy the family. Be sure to remove all clothing that sulphur will be apt to discolor. It will injure nothing else. After cleaning the attic I go through every closet in the house next and give each the same treatment. Then I begin on the house proper.

In cleaning the other rooms of the house I seldom attempt more than two at once. I select one room on the floor to be cleaned—that I want for a workroom—and have the carpets taken up and the furniture covered. Into this room I have all the pictures, bric-a-brac and furniture carried and piled up out of harm's way. The carpets from the two rooms are carried out to be shaken and dusted, and then I have the dusty floors sprinkled with bits of torn paper that have been dampened. When swept, no dust is raised to penetrate other portions of the house. The walls are swept down with a broom, over which a flannel cloth is pinned, and an application of elbow grease.

If there are grease spots, I take them out with an application of pipe clay made into a paste and applied damp. The grease is generally extracted by the time the clay is dry. Where there are smoke stains from gas or from the register I have the places rubbed with a rag and corn or oat meal. This will not remove the smoke stains always, but will as a general thing. I have taken such stains off with a rag saturated with gasoline, but that has to be done very carefully, or you will smear the paper. After the walls are cleaned the woodwork should be washed with ammonia water, or borax if you like. I use borax for everything because I like its action better. If you have soap used, see that it is not lye soap, because that will take the life out of the paint and make it look dead. It will soon wear off, too, after being washed with strong soap.

Then have the floor scoured with good strong lye water unless it is stained or oiled; then of course you will have it wiped up with hot water only, as anything else would extract both color and oil. If you have feared that there might be moths in the edges of the room, the hot water should be used freely and then a train of gasoline put around all the cracks. As soon as the floor is dry have the carpets put down.

While the carpets are being put down you can be cleaning the pictures. Remove the backs and wash the glass and dust the picture, then clean the frame carefully and hang as soon as the carpets are down. Dust and rub up the chairs, using some good furniture polish if necessary, or if there are no scars a rubbing with a kerosene rag and an after polish with a flannel cloth will benefit almost all kinds of wood. Clean the bedstead and other furniture the same way. Clean everything before you carry it back into the room, and for this purpose you will find the workroom quite handy. Put up your curtains and draperies the last thing. Some housekeepers do not take up their stair or hall carpets till the lower floor is finished in the process of cleaning, preferring to cover them with linen. I always take mine up the first thing and wipe up the halls and stairs, for the tramping and dragging of heavy furniture over the carpets wear them out.—Washington Star.

CHATTELLE'S TRIAL.

A True Bill Has Been Returned by the Grand Jury—The Hearing of the Case Has Been Fixed for Tomorrow.

Special to the Times.

STRATFORD, March 27.—The spring sitting of the Perth Assizes opened here yesterday, Chief Justice Armour presiding. The grand jury concluded its duties at noon today, returning true bills in the three cases referred to, viz., the Queen vs. Hardman, for shooting with intent to kill; the Queen vs. James Shaen, for sheepstealing, and the Queen vs. Almeda Chattelle, for the murder of Jessie Keith.

Chattelle will be defended by H. M. East, of Toronto, who asked the court to defer the hearing of the case until all the other business has been disposed of, in order to give him as much time as possible to get witnesses and prepare his defence. The case will therefore not be likely to come up until Thursday or possibly Friday. There are a great many people in the city from all parts of the country. The witnesses summoned in connection with the murder case alone number over 100.

So far as known here there are no new developments in the case except the plea of insanity to be set up by the defence. Chattelle has not yet been arraigned to answer to the charge.

After the return of the bill by the grand jury Crown Attorney Idington held a brief consultation with Chief Justice Armour and the hundreds of people who are in waiting to get a glimpse of the prisoner have not yet been gratified.

THE BARREL MYSTERY.

A Slight Clue as to the Perpetrators of the Deed.

Special to The Times.

LUDINGTON, Mich., March 27.—Tracks around the barrel in which were found the remains of S. D. Grennette were of different lengths and were evidently made by two different persons. Ten feet away was a place where the snow was packed down hard and near by there were traces of blood and vomit. It has developed that there has been for some months a fierce rivalry between the deceased and another young man in the city over the possession of the affection of a young lady and that it ended shortly before the mysterious disappearance of Grennette, by Grennette getting the advantage of his adversary and taking entire possession of the lady's attentions. The friends of the deceased are sending for every atom of evidence.

TROLLEY SUPERSEDES STEAM.

The New York Central Will Adopt Electric Power.

Special to The Times.

BUFFALO, N.Y., March 27.—The Courier says the New York Central Railway has decided to equip its line between here and Niagara Falls with a monster trolley system and motor cars of such power that trains of the latest and best in passenger coaches may be drawn over the line with no decrease from the present rate of speed, though comfort in travel will be enhanced and fares will be reduced. Orders have been issued to begin work at once, and it is expected that the line will be ready to care for a large part of the heavy summer traffic.

BIG FIRE IN CHICAGO.

The Bell Clothing House Destroyed—A Stampede for Life.

CHICAGO, March 27.—The stock of the Bell Clothing Company, which occupied a building at State and Quincy streets, in the centre of the retail district, was destroyed by fire this evening. The blaze started when the streets were crowded with shoppers, and the building was filled with people. So rapidly did the flames spread that frightened occupants of the building scarcely knew what was the matter before they were tumbling over each other in their haste to get down stairs. Some tried the windows and a half dozen were hanging to the big sign when the firemen arrived and rescued them with ladders amid the cheers of a tremendous crowd. Among these who narrowly escaped was Samuel Cohen, one of the proprietors. C. H. Smith did not wait for the firemen, but jumped and suffered a sprained leg.

Swore Himself In.

General Sir Evelyn Wood, in his reminiscences of the Crimean in 1854 and 1894, tells a story of a fighting general who, during the conflict was seen wherever bullets fell most thickly. When not visible, his voice was heard encouraging his men with "a vocabulary borrowed from 'the army in Flanders,'" which Sir Evelyn says will not bear repetition. "Years after he was appointed to the Aldershot command, and her majesty happened to ask, 'Has the new general yet taken up his command?' 'Yes, your majesty,' was the apt reply; 'he swore himself in yesterday.'"—Westminster Gazette.

A Card Mishap.

"I made the mistake of my lifetime the other day," complained a young woman to a friend in a street car as the two rode down town together.

"What did you do, dear?" asked her friend sympathetically.

"Oh, it's too stupid to think of. I feel crushed over it. You know I called on Mrs. Blank, who has met with a recent affliction. I had just one card, and as I did not expect she would see me I wrote 'condolence' in the corner and had it ready to leave."

"Why, that was correct, dear."

"Wait till I tell you all. Mrs. B. saw me and told me her troubles, and we talked and talked, and I didn't leave any card. But I went from there direct to return a call I owed in that neighborhood on a bride."

"You poor thing."

"Yes. You've guessed it. She was out, and I left that card and never once thought of the word I had written on it. I hardly know her at all, so she will not take it as a joke, and—well, there's only one hope I have left."

"What is that, dear?"

"That the writing was so bad that she can't read it and will think it's some kind of a new fad."

The two friends left the car at that point.—Detroit Free Press.

WANT $150,000 EACH:

The Deported Hawaiian Exiles Getting After the C. P. R.

VANCOUVER, B. C., March 27.—Lawyers from Honolulu are here threatening to bring suit against the Canadian Pacific Railway Company on behalf of Mueller, Cranston and Johnson, the deported Hawaiian exiles, who are now claiming $150,00 damages each for having been brought from Hawaii against their will on the railroad company's steamer.

The Canadian Pacific Company has a bond from the Hawaiian Government, however indemnifying them against loss through any action of the kind. Wm. A. Kinney, who presided as judge advocate at the recent court-martial in Honolulu, is here and has employed counsel to defend the threatened action.

He asserts that the Hawaiian Government acted within international law, and that at any rate the damages claimed by the exiles are preposterous, as they were only making a bare living in Honolulu.

The Owen Electric Belt

Trade Mark—Dr. Owen

The only scientific and practical Electric Belt made, for general use, having batteries that generate a strong current of Electricity that is under perfect control and can be applied to any part of the body, for the cure of

Nervous Diseases

Thousands of people suffer from a variety of Nervous Diseases, such as Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Lost Manhood, etc., that the old modes of treatment fail to cure. There is a loss of nerve force or power that cannot be restored by any medical treatment, and any doctor who would try to accomplish this by any kind of drugs is pursuing a dangerous practice. Properly treated, these diseases can be

Positively Cured

Electricity, as applied by the Owen Electric Belt and Suspensory, will most assuredly do so. It is the only known power that will supply what is lacking, namely nerve force or power, impart tone and vigor to the organs and arouse to healthy action the whole nervous system. It will most assuredly cure,

Without Medicine,

Varicocele, Nervous Prostration, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Kidney Disease, Lumbago, Lame Back and Dyspepsia.

The Prize Winners.

The prize winners at the Zera Semon performance last night were: Gold watch, W. Stott; tea set (44 pieces), W. Tanner; chamber set, A. Barlow. A good house greeted the worker in magic last night.

May Lose an Eye.

Frederick Bond, of Cobourg, was admitted to the General hospital on Wednesday as he was suffering from a severe wound in one of the eyes. He was scuffling with a companion in a livery stable in Cobourg, when he was accidentally struck with a chair. The surgeons fear he will lose the eye.

A Painful Accident.

Mrs. Crossley had the misfortune to slip on the sidewalk on the corner of Water and Hunter streets, falling heavily and fracturing her arm above the wrist. Dr. Clark attended Mrs. Crossley and reduced the fracture. Mrs. Crossley conducts a dressmaking establishment on Water street opposite the Mechanics' Institute.

Wedding Bells.

On Wednesday evening at the residence of Mr. John Fowler, Smith township, the marriage of his youngest daughter, Louisa Jane, to Mr. Geo. A. Edmison, youngest son of Mr. Alex. Edmison, was solemnized, the Rev. A. McWilliams, of Peterborough, officiating. A large number of friends were present at the pleasing ceremony and showered congratulations upon the happy bride and groom.

Hockey Club Entertainments.

The members of the Peterborough Hockey Club have decided to give two high class entertainments in April. The first one will be given on the evening of April 18 and for this occasion the services of Mr. Owen Smily, the well-known elocutionist, and Miss Pauline Johnson, the famed Indian poetress have been engaged. The second concert will be held on April 24, when the Webling sisters will render a program of unusual interest. An advertisement will appear later on.

Evidently a Robber.

One day last week, the children of Mr. P. Shapter on entering the hay loft in his stable on Centre street, found a telescope, three small pocket knives, and some money in five, ten and twenty-five cent pieces. All the articles were new, and it is supposed that they were the property of a tramp who took up his night's lodging in the loft, and forgot his treasure when he departed in the morning. The articles may have been stolen elsewhere, as nothing of this description has been reported missing from any store in Campbellford.—Herald.

What Will Be Done.

Capitalists in Cobourg are under the impression that the Bay of Quinte Navigation Company does not treat that town as fairly as it ought to, and an agitation for opposition on the route between Cobourg and Charlotte has been begun. The Company, it is held, favors Kingston and Port Hope in the matter of purchasing supplies and in improvements to their boats, because this city is its headquarters. The Company has the business solid, and it will make it interesting for any opposition boat. It can hold the business, and it will endeavor to do more for passengers patronizing its boats this year than it ever did. The steamer North King will be very attractive, extra accommodation has been provided, and a new electric light plant has been put on board. The steamer will be the best lighted boat on the lakes. An Italian orchestra will be in attendance on every trip.—Kingston Whig.

A children's mass meeting will be held this afternoon at 4.15 o'clock in the George street church, conducted by Rev. Mr. Moore.

St. John's church will have a special Easter offertory, the proceeds of which will be devoted to the beautifying of the interior of the church.

One hundred and twenty three head of live stock, comprising 101 hogs, 14 calves 6 sheep and 2 cattle, were sent from this station to the Montreal market on Tuesday of last week; and on Tuesday last, Mr D Black made another shipment of 75 hogs, 8 cattle and 10 calves.

In a pile of wood which Mr. Geo. Bailey was sawing on the gravel road in Campbellford a few days ago, he found a beech stick which was peculiar on account of its growth. From a knot in the stick a branch had sprouted and growing upwards to a height of two feet it entered another knot, and continued its growth until it became half an inch in thickness. The saw passed through both knots, giving the stick the appearance of a jack screw, the limb forming the handle. Those who have spent years in the woods say they never saw anything like it.

An enthusiastic meeting of Lindsay baseballists was held recently for the purpose of reorganizing for the season of 1895. The boys are determined that Lindsay will not be behind the pennant this year and only await fine weather to get down to active practice. The following were elected officers for the season:—Honorary president, J D Flavelle; president, Geo Lytle; vice president, H Middleton; captain, A Hamilton; treasurer, T Armstrong; secretary, N McWilliams. An energetic managing committee was formed to carry on the arrangements.

ALL OVER A CHILD.

Two Citizens of Campbellford Have Each Other Arrested.

The Campbellford Herald says: There was a little difficulty between Mr. Wm. Nealon, of Campbellford, and Mr. Patrick O'Connor, of Seymour township, on the 18th inst., which came to a finish with blows and a hearing in the police court.

The particulars of the affray, as they were told to us, are as follows. A short time ago, Mr. O'Connor went to Mr. Nealon's residence, and demanded his wife's child on the ground that he was the guardian of the same, and in making his demand, it is said, used some very unbecoming language. On learning of what had taken place Mr. Nealon became aroused, as he claimed O'Connor had no right to ask for the child, and on meeting Mr. O'Connor on the sidewalk in front of Mr. J. M. Nicol's store, a quarrel took place between them, and a scuffle ensued. Mr. D. Black who was present, interfered and stopped the fight.

The matter was ventilated before Police Magistrate Lynch, and Mr. Nealon was fined $1 and costs.

Mr. Nealon afterwards had O'Connor summoned before the same tribunal for trespass and using bad language. After Mr. Lynch had read the charge, the defendant agreed to pay the costs of the case, and also pay a portion of what Mr. Nealon had paid in the former trial. This settled the matter, and it is hoped the parties will now bury the hatchet.

Fires in Norwood.

Last Wednesday evening the Union Bank office and the Registry office, Norwood, had a narrow escape from being destroyed by fire. An ash box in the rear of the bank caught fire. The smoke aroused the suspicions of Miss McGuire, who lives over the bank, and an alarm was raised. The fire was extinguished without much damage being done, only a small part of the floor being burned. A second alarm was given Friday morning about 5.30 o'clock. This time it was Finlay & Son's factory. A spark from the smoke stack ignited the shingles. The blaze was seen by some early risers and soon after the alarm was given a large crowd collected. A few buckets of water extinguished the fire, no damage of any account being done.

A Hard Times Incident.

A minister wished to ascertain what influence the hard times had upon his congregation, and said at the close of his sermon: I would ask everyone who still is able to pay his debts to rise from his seat. The whole congregation arose with the exception of one man. The parson then asked that all those who were unable to pay their bills should arise. Thereupon the aforementioned solitary individual got up a hungry-looking poorly clad man, whose features revealed the terrible struggle of one fighting hopelessly against the vicissitudes of this world. The minister regarding him attentively yet kindly. How is it my friend, he said, that you are the only one among all those people who cannot pay his debts? "Sir," answered the man hesitatingly, "I publish a newspaper, and these my brothers who rose just now, are my subscribers and——" But the minister interupted him hastily. Let us pray he said.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Estimates for 1895 Passed—The Proposed Improvements Discussed.

At a special meeting of the Board of Education last night there were present Dr. Burnham, chairman and trustees McKee, Hayes, Boucher, Hamilton, Stevenson, Ferguson, Hartley, Law, and Edgecumbe. The following communication was read:—

From deputy minister John Millar stating that he had been directed by the Minister of Education to state that the Board of Education should hereafter charge the Collegiate Institute with only its proportion of the salary of the drill inspector.

The Standing Committees reported as follows:

SUPERVISION COMMITTEE.

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Supervision Committee beg leave to report and recommend: That the contract for the supplies of stationery, for the coming year be awarded to A. H. Stratton & Co., and that the contract for the supplies of chemicals be awarded to H. S. Macdonald, their tenders being the lowest.

Your Committee have considered that portion of the inspector's report referred to them, but they cannot recommend the Board to purchase the microscopes and lantern at present.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
JOHN MCKEE:
Chairman.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Finance Committee beg leave to recommend the payment of the following accounts:

A H Stratton & Co	$57 34
Times Printing Co	25 00
Peterborough Examiner	2 95
The Canadian Office and School Furniture Co	64 05
Peterborough Water Co	13 84
Bell Telephone Co	10 00
Kingan & Allen	1 55
J W Crosby	12 00
A H Stratton & Co	71 49

In reference to Miss Hall's application for salary, your Committee would recommend that in all cases when a second assistant gives one year's services to the Board that they will be entitled to a salary for the second year if they continue, at the rate of $5 per month even should they not be promoted to the position of first assistant at the end of the first year.

All of which is respectfully submitted,
W. G. FERGUSON,
Chairman.

An organizer wanted for every county.

A Metal Breadboard

THE WOMAN WHO HAS BEEN USED to kneading dough on the old fashioned wooden breadboard knows what a bother it is to get them clean and how cumbersome and heavy they are. When they begin to crack or check it is almost impossible to thoroughly cleanse them, and they may easily become dangerous conveyances of disease. It was left for a woman, of course, to remedy this state of affairs, and Mrs. M. M. Everhard, of St. Joseph, Mich., has patented a metal bread board, which is one of the greatest labor-savers imaginable. It is light, does not absorb grease, dough does not adhere to it, and while it possesses all the advantages of the marble bread-board it is much cheaper and, of course, far lighter and easier to handle. If readers want to confer a favor upon their wives that will be forever appreciated, let them send $1 to the manufacturers, 101 Bay street, Toronto, for one of these boards.

BRITAIN STANDS FIRM.

THE SITUATION BETWEEN BRITAIN AND FRANCE IS GRAVE.

France Must Be Careful—British Rights in Africa Will be Upheld—French Encroachments in the Niger Territory,

Special to The Times.

LONDON, March 29.

THE situation over the French encroachments is considered grave. In the House of Commons last evening Sir Edward Grey, Under Foreign Secretary, stated that the Government had received notification from the Niger company that two French expeditions had entered their territory. Sir Edward added that the communications in regard to the matter had been sent to the French Government.

In moving a reduction of the estimates, Sir E. Ashmead-Bartlett directed the attention of the House to the encroachments which the Government permitted France to make upon Siam. In Africa, France was still more active than in Asia, he said. She had sent out an expedition which was menacing the Upper Nile, and was seizing African territories, recognized as being within the British sphere of influence.

Sir Edward Grey replied that the advance of a French expedition under secret orders from the west side of Africa into territory subject to British claims, whose rightfulness had been so long known, would be not only an inconsistent and unexpected act, but also an unfriendly one, and would be regarded as such by the Government. England had striven to the utmost to reconcile the occasional conflict of interests. The Government would continue to pursue this line of policy, omitting nothing calculated to maintain good relations with France, and at the same time to uphold the undoubted claims of Great Britain.

Mr. Joseph Chamberlain characterized Sir Edward Grey's statement as the clearest and most satisfactory declaration yet heard on the subject from a responsible representative of the Government. He now saw, he said, that unless a clear understanding with France as to African affairs could be reached, the most serious consequences might easily ensue.

Henry Labouchere regarded Sir Edward Grey's speech as a menace to France. This speech was a menace on the lines of the familiar warning, "Hands off." Certain members seem to imagine the Nile to be as much British property as the Thames. He, for one, could not feel surprised that in view of such statements France was not friendly.

Sir Edward Grey denied that his statement had implied in any way a menace to France and Sir E. Ashmead-Bartlett withdrew his motion, in view of the satisfactory reply made by the Government.

THEIR EFFECT ON THE MARKET.

LONDON, March 29.—Sir Edward Grey's remarks in the House of Commons last night produced a disquieting effect on the Stock Exchange this morning. French rentes fell 1 2 and Consols and Egyptians unified 1 8.

BEFRIENDED THE WIDOW.

When She Died She Left Her Bachelor Friend Her Money.

Special to The Times.

BARRIE, March 29.—Three years ago a widow named Janet Miller, living in Oro township, died and left her property, $2200, to Donald McLean, a bachelor who was not a relative but who had been good to her when others neglected her in her widowhood.

A brother in law, Andrew Miller sought to break the will, claiming that it had been made under the influence of McLean. The case was heard by Justice Ferguson, who ruled in favor of McLean.

Miss Maggie Corbiere, of Toronto, daughter of Jos. Corbiere, Barrie, who is visiting here, fell while skating on the rink and sprained her wrist.

W. H. SIBLEY'S CASE.

The Outcome of a Plot by Convicts to Blow up the Bank of Montreal.

Special to the Times,

MONTREAL, March 29.—The forgery case in which W. H. Sibley, late editor of the Toronto Earth, is implicated turned out this morning to have been the outcome of a plot concocted by three inmates of St. Vincent De Paul Penitentiary to blow up the Bank of Montreal, when they were liberated.

Sibley has J. N. Greenshields, the well-known criminal lawyer, defending him.

"BILLY" KNOX INJURED.

Three Ribs Broken in a Runaway Accident at London.

Special to the Times.

LONDON, March 29.—William Knox, a telegraph operator, formerly of Toronto, now in the employ of Turner's stock exchange, was the victim of a runaway accident last night by which he sustained the fracture of three ribs.

Murdered in a Barn.

NORWALK, Ohio., March 29.—Miss Jerusha Hartwell, a half-breed Indian, was murdered last night. Her body was found under the barn floor in a kneeling position with dirt thrown over it. She had been shot through the head. The evidence points to Dallas Washburn aged 29, as the murderer. He was a quiet and inoffensive man, and no one knows what prompted him to commit the crime. Washburn's trunk was opened and a pair of pants and a vest were found therein covered with blood. Miss Hartwell and George Washington, a colored man, who is also under arrest were to have been married next week.

Her Throat Cut From Ear to Ear.

PRINCETON, Ky., March 29.—The dead body of Mollie Eastrey was found in the house of W. F. Darragh this morning with her throat cut from ear to ear. The young lady was visiting her uncle, Mr. Darragh, and was alone in the house for a short time. When Mrs. Darragh returned she was horrified at the sight which met her as she entered the house. Lee Darragh, a son of W. F. Darragh, is missing. He is suspected of the crime and officers are searching for him.

Sassoun Massacres.

LONDON, March 29.—The News will print another four column account of the Sassoun massacres, as narrated to its special correspondent by a Turkish soldier who shared in it. The soldier glorified in his deeds, and laughed over the worst acts of brutality. He was utterly untroubled by remorse, and said he would be delighted to join another similar expedition.

TO HANG MAY 31.

Sentence of Death Passed Upon Jessie Keith's Murderer — Rambling Remarks of the Prisoner When Sentenced to Death.

Special to The Times.

STRATFORD, March 29.—When the evidence in Chattelle's case had been put in and he was asked if he had anything to say he delivered himself of the following meaningless jumble:

"I have a secret, which I will give if the court wishes to hear it. The subject is to go according to the Gospel. Any more information is to your own knowledge. Can give better developments later than at the present time. Such was the Kingdom of Heaven in the first place, and in the second place a corruptible church. That is as far as I will go. I am pleased with the court as far as it has gone but would rather not open the case unless insisted upon. My complaints are that there will be objects either added or diminished, further than that there will be nothing in it."

After the jury had returned the verdict of "guilty" he was asked if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed upon him. Chattelle arose and throwing up both hands and shaking his head, announced in a full, clear voice, and without a tremor, "Thanks, I have nothing to say."

While Chief Justice Armour was speaking of the enormity of the crime Chattelle said, "I done it for a good porpose," and when he was sentenced to death on the 31st of May, he simply said, "Correct, sir."

John Idington, Q.C., the Crown prosecutor, had an easy task. H. M. East, of Toronto, retired from the defence because Chattelle would not agree with him on the course to be pursued.

"At the opening of the trial he said H. M. East insisted that the prisoner should admit the crime, relying on the medical evidence as to his insanity. He positively refused and wanted to fight the case on the evidence which would, of course, be entirely inconsistent with the plea of insanity.

"Thereupon, I informed the court that the prisoner's view of the defence was opposed to my instructions and I threw up my brief."

A HEROINE'S DEATH.

Lost Her Life While Trying to Rescue Her Daughter from a Fire.

Special to the Times.

NORTHPORT, L.I., March 29.—Mrs. William Reeves and Hattie, her 14-year-old daughter, were burned to death here today. Mrs. Reeves, who was awakened by the smell of smoke, first went to the bedroom, where her mother and father were asleep and succeeded in getting them safely out.

Then she dashed madly back into the burning building to save her daughter. Their charred remains were found clasped together in death,

FROM THE QUEEN CITY.

ARTHUR DICKS COMMITTED TO TRIAL FOR WIFE MURDER.

The "Drys" and "Wets" of the Toronto Association at Daggers Point—A Freight Wreck West of Toronto.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, March 29.—In the case of Arthur A. Dicks, charged with murdering his wife at a fire which occurred on St. Helen's avenue, on March 2, Mr. E. F. R. Johnston appeared with Mr. Allan Cassels for the defence.

Mr. Johnston stated that, owing to the coroner's inquest having returned a verdict implicating the prisoner Dicks to a certain extent, and the probability that his Worship would feel bound to committ the prisoner for trial on this finding, no matter what the evidence at a preliminary investigation would be, he would suggest that it would be a waste of time to spend three or four days going over all the evidence in this court. He would consent, on behalf of the prisoner, that the latter was duly committed to stand his trial at the higher court. The defence believed they had a good defence to the charge, and would present their side of the case when it came up for trial.

Mr. Curry thought it would be an advantage to the Crown if the evidence was taken at an investigation now, as the Crown did not have an opportunity to examine the witness at a coroner's inquest as fully as they might wish. His Worship quite agreed with Mr. Johnston as to it being a waste of time and money to go over the whole case now. He would committ the prisoner, Arthur A. Dicks to stand his trial on the charge of murder at the next cour. of competent jurisdiction.

"WETS" AND "DRYS" AT WAR.

The annual general meeting of the Toronto Lacrosse and Athletic Association at the Forum Hall tonight promises to be rather interesting. A number of the members will bring up the question of selling liquor at the club house up before the meeting and there promises to be a lively discussion over this proposition.

An effort will be made to have the bylaws changed. This will require a two-thirds vote and it is doubtful if the other members will allow this to pass. Those who favor the new move say that the provincial license authorities have given it as their opinion that liquor might lawfully be sold in the club, while the others state that there is no truth in this allegation.

If the liquor men succeed in getting the bylaw changed and spirits are sold, it is understood that several playing members of the club will withdraw from the association.

RUNAWAY FREIGHT.

The Elmira train, due here at 10.55, was marked late on the board at the Union station this morning. Upon enquiry it was learned that the delay was caused by the breaking in two of a freight train and the derailing of two of the cars a few miles west of Guelph. So far as could be learned, no serious damage was done, other than the breaking of the pilot of the passenger engine that was following. The auxiliary was despatched from Stratford with a gang of workmen to the scene of the accident to clear the track.

Troops for Madagascar.

PARIS, March 29.—The new troops which are to be sent to Madagascar were presented with their colors by President Faure at Sathonay today. Addressing the troops the president said: We shall follow your progress with feelings of pride confidently awaiting the moment when you will inscribe upon your virgin standards the first glorious victory in Madagascar. At luncheon President Faure offered a toast to the army, the nation's safeguard and hope. The guests remained standing while the toast was drank.

HAS TUPPER RESIGNED?

A DESPATCH SAYS HE HAS THOUGHT BETTER OF IT.

It is Reported That he Attended a Council Yesterday Afternoon—All Sorts of Rumors Rife—Martin's Comment.

Special to the Times.

OTTAWA, March 29.

A REPORT says that the trouble between Sir Charles H. Tupper and his colleagues has been patched up, and he was at his office in the Justice Department this morning, and was seen in conversation with several Cabinet Ministers, with whom he appeared on the best of terms. There will be a council at 4 o'clock and the Minister of Justice will positively be in his accustomed position. All sorts of rumors are in circulation over Sir Charles' right about face, but it is generally understood that his latest move was brought about by the action of the Manitoba Government's adjournment and refused to consider the remedial order.

Mr. Foster's health is much improved, and he, too, will probably attend today's meeting, at which a sessional program will be discussed.

MARTIN SPEAKS HIS MIND.

OTTAWA, March 29.—Hon. Joseph Martin, M. P., when asked what the hought of the resignation of Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, said: "I think the Minister of Justice's resignation at the present moment is the most contemptible trick that any politician was every guilty of. I am sure no public man in Canada except a Tupper would do such a thing. The resignation of Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper in ordinary times would not have affected the Government at all; in fact, I should imagine that to most of the supporters of the Government in the House it would be a great relief, but at this particular crisis this move is calculated to inflict great injury upon the Government, and, while no one will suspect me of wishing Sir Mackenzie Bowell's Government well, still I cannot help expressing my detestation of such treacherous conduct. The excuse put forward is most frivolous. The question as to whether there should be a session or an election is one entirely of party expediency, in which no principle is involved. The real reason for the step taken was the selection of Mr Foster instead of himself as leader in the Commons. There can be no question that Mr. Foster is entitled to the position, and is by long odds the best man qualified since Sir John Thompson's death. The selection for such a post of Sir Hibbert Tupper was an impossibility. His action in the House is that of a forward and impertinent boy."

THE STORY VERIFIED.

Mr. W. J. Smith Bears out Mr. Buchanans Story.

LEAMINGTON, Ont., March 29.—Enquiries made at the well known drug store in this town kept by Mr. W. J. Smith, have elicited the fact that it was through Mr. Smith that Mr. Sherman Buchanan obtained the remedy widely known as Dodd's Kidney Pills, and was enabled to make the wonderful recovery from a serious kidney complaint, particulars of which were forwarded to you yesterday. Mr. Smith states that there is no question about the truth of Mr. Buchanan's recovery through this agency, and also asserts that many other people in the neighborhood have derived equal benefit from its use. He believes it to be invaluable.

GIRLS ON THE RAMPAGE.

Illustration of How the Weaker Sex Can Employ the Stronger.

Special to the Times.

CHICAGO, March 29.—The insubordination which has reigned among the inmates of the State Home for Juvenile Offenders for several weeks past broke out afresh last night. The members of the Board of Trustees of the house were spending the afternoon at the institution, and took supper with the inmates. The latter took this occasion to give a practical illustration of their unruliness, and they smashed all the crockery in the house, dismantled the dining room of its furniture, broke the windows, threw the contents of the pantry about the premises, filled the air with shouts, and then refused to go to their rooms at the command of the police. It required three waggon loads of police to quell the riot, and it was found necessary to carry the majority of the girls to their rooms by main force, and to leave a policeman on guard through the night at the door of each room occupied by the girls,

THE ALIEN LAW.

An Attempt Made at Niagara Falls to Prevent Canadians Seeking Employment.

Special to the Times.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., March 29.—C. H. Turver and four others constituted which called upon the collector of the port today to see if he could not do something to prevent Canadians from coming over here, doing a day's work and then returning to their homes in Canada at night.

It was stated that these people in many instances worked for less than resident workmen were in the habit of receiving, and that if they did not, coming here was an injustice to people who lived and have property interests here.

Immigration Inspector O'Brien was present at the conference. This official, unlike De Barry, of Buffalo, is not willing to exercise authority or powers in defiance of the law and wanted authority. Collector Richmond said he was powerless, as the United States Court in a case against the Michigan Central decided that the law was not applicable in such cases.

A Toronto Chinaman at the Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., March 29.—Immigrant Inspector Mruelce O'Brien stopped a Chinaman here this morning named Ah Lian who came from Toronto and was on his way to New York. He claimed that he had been in business in New York for three years, but had paid a visit to China during the war. His papers were irregular and Collector Richmond decided that he could not enter.

The Difficulty in Venezuela.

LONDON, March 29.—No communications have been exchanged recently between Great Britain and Venezuela on the frontier question and Great Britain has given no assurances that there will be no further trespassing on Venezuelan territory.

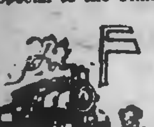
GRAND TRUNK AFFAIRS.

THE THUNDERER URGES A CHANGE OF MANAGEMENT.

Li Hung Chang's Wound—Shooting Affray in Paris—Spain Decides on Wiping Out the Rebellion—Duel at Constantine.

Special to the Times.

MADRID, March 28.



FROM Havana come reports that indicate that the number of insurgents now in the field is about 7,000. The government believes that the filibusters who left Macao on an English vessel for Jamaica were transferred to an American ship. In the Senate Premier Conovas Del Castello said today that the 5,000,000 pesotas had been spent already in fighting the Cuban insurgents and the government was prepared to make any further sacrifice that might be made. The minister, whose name is withheld, said this afternoon that 10,000,000 pesotas would be placed at Campos' disposal at once.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

LONDON, March 28.—The Times will urge tomorrow, the necessity of a change in the management of the Grand Trunk board in London. A strong chairman is especially needed, the writer says, and he recommends that the shareholders endeavor to obtain Sir Charles Rivers Wilson.

FATALLY SHOT.

PARIS, March 28.—A shooting affray occurred in the Northern Railway station in this city yesterday, resulting in the fatal injury of one of the principals. An American named Wendel Read, who was residing at the Hotel Scribe, was standing in the Gare du Nord when he was approached by an Englishman named O'Brien. The latter drew a revolver and fired three shots at Read, all of them taking effect. Read fell to the floor bleeding from his wounds, and O'Brien was seized and taken to the police station. The wounded man was taken to the hospital. Read and O'Brien are bookmakers, and it is understood the shooting grew out of a quarrel about money. Read is in a critical condition.

IDENTITY OF THE MURDERER.

Later.—The House Surgeon at the Hospital Lariboisiere to which the wounded man was taken, said to a representative of the United Press that six shots had been fired and that half had taken effect. He also said that no attempt would be made to extract two of the bullets, one of which entered the chest and the other the side, until tomorrow. The report of the commissary of police, in whose district the shooting took place, gives the name of the wounded American as Adam Read Waddie and his age as 34 years, and states that he was born in Minnesota. The man who did the shooting and who is now in custody is described in the report as Edward O'Brien, aged 42, a native of Cambridge.

SPAIN MEANS BUSINESS.

PARIS, March 28.—A despatch from Madrid to the Journal Des Debats says the Spanish government has decided to send additional reinforcements of 6,000 troops to Cuba.

NORWAY AND SWEDEN.

STOCKHOLM, March 28.—The Dagens Nghtbe says that King Oscar will soon submit to the Riksdag and to the Storting proposals to settle the difficulties between Norway and Sweden.

PRESENTATION TO BISMARCK.

LONDON, March 28.—The Daily News correspondent in Berlin says: The sword presented by the Emperor to Bismarck is a masterpiece of art. The hilt is entirely of gold and is surrounded with a cameo portrait of the Emperor. The sheath is of nickel with gold rings. On one side of the blade is inscribed: "To Prince Bismarck, Duke of Lunenburg, on the completion of his 80th year." The Emperor's coat of arms are on the same side. On the other side are Bismarck's famous words, "We Germans fear God but nothing else in the world."

LI HUNG CHANG.

PARIS, March 28.—The Shanghai correspondent of the Herald European edition says: The latest report from Simonseeki is that Li Hung Chang is making satisfactory progress towards recovery. The perfect and chief of police have been deprived of their offices at the Mikado's order because they failed to protect Li.

FOUGHT A DUEL.

ALGIERS, March 28.—The civil engineers Masson and Soubeyre fought a duel with swords on the outskirts of Constantine yesterday. Soubeyre received a trust in the lungs and died before night.

The Fire Record.

BRUCEFIELD, March 28.—The two storey brick residence owned and occupied by Mr. Hugh McCartney was burned this morning, with nearly all the household goods. Loss unknown: partly insured. The fire started in the kitchen.

STRATHROY, March 28.—This morning at 1 o'clock the rear of the residence of Mr. John Newton was discovered on fire. The alarm was quickly given, and the firemen were soon on hand and had the flames extinguished; not, however, before considerable damage had been done to the building and contents. It was a double two storey frame structure, the other half being occupied by Mrs. Pearce. The building was owned by the Canadian Permanent Building Society of Toronto. The loss on it will be about $1,000. The contents of Mr. Newton's house were almost totally destroyed; insured for $800 in the British America. Mrs. Pearce's loss is covered by insurance.

HAMILTON, March 28.—Fire was discovered in a front bedroom of C. A. Whitwam's residence, 119 East avenue south, about 9 30 this evening. About $100 damage was done to the contents. The fire originated from the gas jet. No one was in the house at the time.

Hon. J. C. Patterson Nominated.

CHATHAM, March 28.—At a largely attended Conservative convention held in Northwood's Hall, today Hon. J. C. Patterson was made the unanimous choice as the candidate to contest the riding against Mr. Arch Campbell in the Government interest. There were five local aspirants for the place—Dr. Hall, Messrs. H. A. Patterson, T. A. Smith, W. P. Killackey and Henry Lindley. A doubt raised to Mr. Patterson's willingness to accept the nomination was dispelled by statements to the effect that he had a few days ago signalled his readiness to stand for Kent if the nomination was made unanimous, which was done after two ballots had been taken, the latter giving him a plurality of votes.

Chris Von Der Ahe Divorce.

ST. LOUIS, March 27.—Mrs. Chris Von Der Ahe, wife of the baseball manager, secured a decree of divorce from her husband today. He was ordered to pay Mrs. Von Der Ahe $3,150 as alimony. Von Der Ahe did not contest the suit.

Li Hung Chang's Condition Favorable.

HIROSHIMA, March 28.—The condition of Viceroy Li Hung Chang's pronounced to be favorable and no serious consequences need be feared.

The Corean loan of 3,000,000 yen has been finally arranged upon the terms demanded by Japan. It is repayable in five years.

ANOTHER TEST CASE

A Lady Concerned

Paine's Celery Compound Brings Her Health and Strength.

EARTH'S BEST SPRING MEDICINE.

Nervousness and nervous debility are almost invariably the results of some drain upon the vital forces. The results that follow, when nervous troubles are allowed to run unchecked and uncared for, are terrible and appalling. Sleeplessness, mental depression, loss of spirits and energy, dulness of brain and eye, shrinking from society, defective memory and insanity, make life a continued agony.

Medical science has bestowed upon nervous sufferers a great blessing and a perfect cure. It is known to the world as Paine's Celery Compound, Professor Phelps' great discovery for nervous diseases.

The record of this wonderful medicine is truly a grand one, and thousands now live who owe their lives to its marvellous curing virtues. Each passing day brings fresh and grateful letters from men and women who have found a new life through the use of Paine's Celery Compound.

Mrs. W. Allen, jr., of Almonte, Ont., writes thus:—

'Through the pleadings of a friend I tried Paine's Celery Compound for nervousness and loss of sleep, and I find it has done more for me than any other medicine I ever used; it is certainly the best of all medicines. After using but two bottles of Paine's Celery Compound, I find myself as well and as strong as ever before. It is needless to say that I recommend the Compound at every opportunity"

VERY PLAIN SENTIMENTS.

THE GOVERNMENT OF MANITOBA OPPOSES REMEDIAL ORDER.

Rome Shall Not Rule—No Church Is Better than Another and None Shall Control the State—"Equal Rights!" the Cry.

Special to the Times.

WINNIPEG, March 28.—The Greenway organ, the Tribune, semi-officially last night published the reply of the Manitoba Government to the powers at Ottawa. After reviewing the situation, the article concludes thus:

"Anyone who has the least sense of justice, anyone who is patriotic even in the slightest degree, anyone who believes that all citizens are equal in the sight of the law, and that what is good enough for one is good enough for all, must stand by the Act of 1890. And this is our answer to Quebec.

"We shall not allow the state to support religion; we shall not allow the church to control the state; we shall not return to the civilization of the dark ages. We shall hold to the principles of equal rights for all, and that principle shall be dearer to us than Confederation itself."

The Free Press also announces the Legislature's intention to refuse to comply with the order.

Premier Greenway has announced that on Friday the Manitoba Legislature will adjourn until May 9th without dealing with the Manitoba school question.

The Government says the adjournment is taken in order to gain time to consider the legal points involved. Prendergast, the leader of the French Catholics, pronounces it a scheme to force the Dominion Government to take immediate action. He thinks the House will adjourn from time to time without discussion until the Dominion Government makes some decided move.

THE CABINET MEET.

OTTAWA, March 28.—The Cabinet was called to meet early this morning. Tupper was not present.

It is said the Government is considering how the difficulty can be bridged over.

POLITICAL NOTES.

At Almonte last night D'Alton McCarthy called on the people to elect men who would oppose interference with Manitoba irrespective of party.

The Conservatives of Kent have tendered the nomination for that county to Hon. J. C, Patterson.

Two Train Robbers Killed.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 27,—At tunnel No. 9, near Somerset, Ky., about 2.35 this morning, five train robbers boarded an express car on the Cincinnati Southern road and attempted to hold up the train. A fight ensued and two of the robbers were killed and one captured.

Another Reverse for China.

VICTORIA, B. C., March 28.—Mail advices to the United Press from Tokio, up to the 15th instant, are to the effect that the Japanese have completely broken and dispersed the powerful armies in Southwestern Manchuria.

HE GETS TEN YEARS.

McTiernan Goes to Kingston—McConkey Two Years for Arson.

Special to the Times.

TORONTO, March 28.—Judge McDougall today imposed these sentences on persons convicted at the Sessions during the present sittings:

Ambrose McTiernan, counterfeiting, ten years in Kingston penitentiary.

"Dick" Lewis, five years for receiving stolen goods and three years for feloneous wounding, sentences to run concurrently.

Geo. Canterman, theft, 30 days in jail.

Romeo Darcy, perjury, five months in the Central.

Minnie Lewis, receiving stolen goods, allowed to go on suspended sentence, providing she leaves the city.

Thomas McConkey, arson, two years in the penitentiary.

John McGroarity, theft, two years less a day in the Central.

For larceny Edward Roland got three years in the penitentiary, and Thomas Henry and Wilson Roland each two years less a day in the Central.

R. H. BETHUNE DEAD.

The General Manager of the Dominion Bank Succumbs.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, March 28.—This city lost a good citizen, the Dominion Bank an earnest servant and Holy Trinity church a valued member last night in the death of Robert Henry Bethune, at his residence 184 College street. About a month ago Mr. Bethune was attacked by paralysis but apparently got over it. Ten days ago he was attacked by pneumonia and when Dr. Grassett was called in he found him suffering from hemorrhage of the brain to which he succumbed.

A NATIVE OF COBOURG.

Mr. Bethune was the second son of Bishop A. N. Bethune, of Toronto, was born in Cobourg on May 5, 1836, and educated at Upper Canada College. At the age of eighteen he entered the Bank of Montreal at Brockville and made rapid advance being successively stationed in Cobourg, Brockville, New York, Guelph, Hamilton, and St. Catherines. In five years he had risen to the position of Assistant Accountant of the Toronto Branch. Then he entered the Quebec branch and rose to the position of manager of the Toronto branch.

In 1870 James Austin and others started the Dominion Bank and invited Mr. Bethune to assume control. With this institution he has been identified as the chief executive officer since, and the remarkable success of the bank has been greatly due to his superb management. A short time ago he was made general manager.

ZIMMERMAN MAY DIE.

The Doctors at the Hospital Hold Out Little Hope of His Recovery.

Special to The Times.

TORONTO, March 28.—Both Mr. and Mrs. Zimmerman are resting peacefully at the hospital this morning, but the surgeons cannot say whether the man will live or not Mrs. Zimmerman's wounds are not dangerous, but she is suffering from the shock.

A despatch from Lyons, N.Y. says that Arthur F. Zimmerman, a silver plater, who assaulted his wife with a hammer, and afterwards attempted suicide, at Toronto, is well known in Lyons, having lived here a year ago. He is a German, and came here from Rochester. He secured employment at the Manhattan Silver Plate factory as a solderer. He drank heavily, abused his wife and family, and was arrested several times on the charge. He left Lyons early in February for parts unknown having been discharged for drunkenness.

PERISHED IN FIRE.

Mrs. Frank Assis' Terrible Death in Michigan.

FENTON, Mich., March 28.—Mrs. Frank Assis perished in her burning room, four miles north of here at four this morning. She was ill and could not save herself, although two young children escaped uninjured. Mr. Annis left home at two o'clock and came to Fenton for a doctor, arriving here at 3 o'clock. It is said the couple lived unhappily and there are suspicions of crime in connection with the fire. The coroner is investigating the case.

A PROSPEROUS COMPANY.

Annual Meeting of the Standard Life Assurance Company.

At the 69th Annual General Meeting of the Standard Life Assurance Company, held at Edinburgh, on Tuesday, the 5th March, 1895, the following results for the year ended 15th November 1894, was reported:—

4089 policies of Life Assurance were issued, assuring	$8,723,836
The total existing assurances in force at 15th November, 1894, amounted to	$113,274,380

The Poet Arrives From Honolulu.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28.—Joaquin Miller has arrived from Hawaii. The poet left Honolulu suddenly without baggage. His intended departure was kept secret as he was afraid the officials of the Government would put him in prison. Miller denounces the treatment accorded the political prisoners as barbarous in the extreme.

Tried to Pass a Worthless Cheque.

MONTREAL, March 28.—A rather clever attempt to extract money from the Bank of Montreal was frustrated today. A cheque signed by J. A. Doran for $368, was presented to the bank for payment, with the initials of the discount clerk, Mr. Park. The bank officials were suspicious, and called in Detective Carpenter, who arrested a Toronto man named Labby and a companion named Anderson.

Probing for the Bullet.

LONDON, March 28.—The Times' correspondent in Simonseeki says: I visited Li Hung Chang yesterday and found him calm and collected. The bullet pierced his upper jaw, making a direct wound. The antiseptic treatment is perfect. The surgeons have ceased to probe for the bullet, and they will not make an incision at present.

The derelict steamer Loch Maree, recently abandoned in a supposedly sinking condition, is knocking about somewhere in the Atlantic, off the coast of Ireland. Her cargo is worth $450,000.

A. CHATTELLE ON TRIAL!

REFUSED TO HAVE A LAWYER AND CONDUCTS THE DEFENSE HIMSELF.

Insanity Is the Line of Defense—The Prisoner Changes His Plea of Guilty to Not Guilty—Will Be a Short Trial.

Special to the Times.

STRATFORD, March 28.

YOUNG and old persons were promptly on hand at 9 o'clock this morning to hear the opening of the case of the Queen vs. Almede Chattelle for the murder of little Jessie Keith, near Listowel, in October last. In fact, it was fully an hour before the doors of the Assize Court were opened that a motley crowd, numbering hundreds of people, congregated in the yard fronting the County building clamoring for admission. The jail adjoining, in which Chattelle has been confined during the past five months, was also the objective point of a throng of people anxiously awaiting a possible opportunity of getting a glimpse at the prisoner. As might have been expected, the majority of the crowd assembled at the Court House was doomed to disappointment, as very few outside of those directly interested secured admission to the trial.

Chattelle pleaded guilty to the crime at the preliminary examination before a magistrate, and also confessed the crime on his way from Listowel to Stratford after the preliminary examination. This morning

HE PLEADED NOT GUILTY.

H. M. East, of Toronto, who had been retained by Chattelle's half brother, Prosper, of St. Hyacinthe, appeared to defend the prisoner, but Chattelle refused to have him, and is defending himself. Crown Attorney Idington is prosecuting.

The evidence this morning included that of the murdered girl's father and other witnesses, tracing Chattelle's movements from Ailsa Craig to the scene of the crime. Chattelle paid very close attention to the proceedings and asked a number of questions, but failed to elicit anything that can materially assist him, while he admitted being at several points where the Crown attempted to establish his presence.

CHATTELLE PLEAS "NOT GUILTY."

Sheriff Hossie exercised such excellent discipline that no one dared to make the least demonstration. On being arraigned Chattelle pleaded "Not Guilty." A subdued murmur was audible as the sentence fell from his lips, followed by a death like silence that continued several seconds. The prisoner did not look so well as he did at the preliminary hearing in Listowel. He seems to have fared poorly during his enforced confinement, having lost flesh. Otherwise his general appearance is not materially changed. He looked about him a good deal and seemed to take a lively interest in the movements of Lawyer East.

ONE JUROR CHALLENGED.

The court lost very little time in empannelling a jury, only one challenge being made, and this by the prisoner. At 9.15 Crown Attorney Idington commenced his address, in which he gave a succint review of the case, following the movements of the prisoner, from the time he left Ailsa Craig until he was arrested near Erin village.

A great number of witnesses are in attendance, and it is scarcely possible that the case will be concluded today.

KIDD IS DEAD.

He Was in His Hundredth Year—Was Married to Sixteen-Year-Old Gertie Robbins in Toronto Last Summer.

Special to The Times.

MONO MILLS, March 28.—There died at his residence here yesterday John Kidd, who married Gertie Robbins, a 16-year-old school girl, in Toronto last summer and who lived extremely unhappy ever after. He was in his hundredth year. He was reputed to be worth in the neighborhood of $100,000 and there has been considerable jangling among the relations of the old man ever since he wedded the youthful maiden as to who would get his property. Now that he is dead the fight will probably be carried on with a vengeance.

On several occasions Robbins, the father of Mrs. Kidd, who lived just across the road from the aged husband, was shot at by parties unknown, and one night last winter the building which sheltered Robbins and his family, including his daughter, Mrs. Harkies, who is serving six months for bigamy, was wrecked by a gang of toughs. No arrests were made, but the Robbins family have since lived in the village in a state of terror.

HIS COFFIN AND TOMB READY.

Gertie, the young wife, was not at home when the "poor man," as Kidd called himself, died. The body of Kidd will be placed in the imposing mausoleum which was erected by him two years ago, a short distance out of Mono Mills, at a cost of $2,700, and the elaborate coffin in which the remains are to be placed has been awaiting its occupant ever since the tomb was completed.

John Kidd was a most eccentric character and widely known. At the time of his marriage last summer he said that an angel from Heaven had directed Gertie Kidd to his home, but since that time he has come to the conclusion that the first impression is not always the best.

LEFT HIS WIDOW NOTHING.

John Kidd's remains will be placed in his vault on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Kidd has been staying at Constable Tom Smith's at Charleston for several weeks past. She was in town last night and left for Mono Mills.

Kidd made a will a couple of weeks ago cutting off his wife without a cent. There is sure to be litigation over the matter as there are interesting persons backing up the young widow.

The proposed loan of 3,000,000 yen by Japan to Corea has finally been arranged, the latter agreeing to Japan's terms.

In the High Court of Justice.

QUEEN'S BENCH DIVISION

CONDON ET AL vs. CAREY

Pursuant to a Judgment of the High Court of Justice, Queen's Bench Division, made in this action, the creditors of William Condon, late of the Township of Otonabee in the County of Peterborough, who died in or about the month of September, A.D., 1892, are on or before the 22nd day of April, A.D., 1895, to send by post prepaid to Messrs. Hatton & Wood, of the Town of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough, solicitors for the plaintiffs, their Christian and Surnames, addresses and descriptions, the full particulars of their claims, a statement of their accounts, and the nature of their security (if any) held by them; or in default thereof they will be peremptorily excluded from the benefit of the said Judgment. Every creditor holding any security is to produce the same before me at my chambers at the Court House, in the said Town of Peterborough, on the 23rd day of April A.D., 1895, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, being the time appointed for adjudication on their claims.

Dated this 23rd March, A.D., 1895.

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

LOCAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

Convention Postponed.

The Liberal Conservative convention of East Northumberland, which was announced to take place on Monday next, April 1st at Warkworth, has been indefinitely postponed.

May Lose an Eye.

Frederick Bond, of Cobourg, was admitted to the General hospital on Wednesday as he was suffering from a severe wound in one of the eyes. He was scuffling with a companion in a livery stable in Cobourg, when he was accidentally struck with a chair. The surgeons fear he will lose the eye.

A Painful Accident.

Mrs. Crossley had the misfortune to slip on the sidewalk on the corner of Water and Hunter streets, falling heavily and fracturing her arm above the wrist. Dr. Clark attended Mrs. Crossley and reduced the fracture. Mrs. Crossley conducts a dressmaking establishment on Water street opposite the Mechanics' Institute.

The Bill Withdrawn.

In the Local House yesterday Mr. J. R. Stratton's bill to abolish the ward system in towns of more than 4,000 was withdrawn. This will be a disappointment to many citizens who were in favor of the system and hoped to see it come into vogue.

Evidently a Robber.

One day last week, the children of Mr. P. Shapter on entering the hay loft in his stable on Centre street, found a telescope, three small pocket knives, and some money in five, ten and twenty-five cent pieces. All the articles were new, and it is supposed that they were the property of a tramp who took up his night's lodging in the loft, and forgot his treasure when he departed in the morning. The articles may have been stolen elsewhere, as nothing of this description has been reported missing from any store in Campbellford.—Herald.

The Wild Flowers of Canada.

Apropos of the craze now raging in Europe and America over the world's wild flowers, it is delightful to hear that botanists, artists and all the best judges—both European and American—speak in glowing terms of the wild flowers of Canada, referring to them as amongst the most beautiful the earth has produced. How many Canadians know the names, colors and blooming time of their own wild flowers?

A Charge on Egg Cases.

At a recent meeting of the produce and commission merchants of Toronto, the following resolution was adopted :—"That the commission and produce merchants of Toronto hereby agree that they will charge from this date forward, either to city or country customers, 25c. for thirty dozen, 30c. for thirty-six dozen, and 40c. for forty nine dozen egg cases. All cases, when returned in good order, will be credited at prices charged."

Wedding Bells.

On Wednesday evening at the residence of Mr. John Fowler, Smith township, the marriage of his youngest daughter, Louisa Jane, to Mr. Geo. A. Edmison, youngest son of Mr. Alex. Edmison, was solemnized, the Rev. A. McWilliams, of Peterborough, officiating. A large number of friends were present at the pleasing ceremony and showered congratulations upon the happy bride and groom.

Hockey Club Entertainments.

The members of the Peterborough Hockey Club have decided to give two high class entertainments in April. The first one will be given on the evening of April 18 and for this occasion the services of Mr. Owen Smily, the well-known elocutionist, and Miss Pauline Johnson, the famed Indian poetress have been engaged. The second concert will be held on April 24, when the Webling sisters will render a program of unusual interest. An advertisement will appear later on.

What Will Be Done.

Capitalists in Cobourg are under the impression that the Bay of Quinte Navigation Company does not treat that town as fairly as it ought to, and an agitation for opposition on the route between Cobourg and Charlotte has been begun. The Company, it is held, favors Kingston and Port Hope in the matter of purchasing supplies and in improvements to their boats, because this city is its headquarters. The Company has the business solid, and it will make it interesting for any opposition boat. It can hold the business, and it will endeavor to do more for passengers patronizing its boats this year than it ever did. The steamer North King will be very attractive, extra accommodation has been provided, and a new electric light plant has been put on board. The steamer will be the best lighted boat on the lakes. An Italian orchestra will be in attendance on every trip.—Kingston Whig.

Dominion Tanners.

A well represented meeting of the tanners and leather merchants of the Dominion was held in the council chamber of the Toronto Board of Trade yesterday afternoon. Mr. L. J. Breithaupt, of Berlin, chairman of the tanners' section of the board, presided. The principal object of the meeting was to discuss and arrange a uniform system of "terms of credits or discounts." After some discussion, it was decided to adopt the system as arranged by the tanners' section of the Board of Trade, which is as follows :—Four months' credit from date of shipment, or cash in ten days, less 5 per cent., cash in 30 days, less 4 per cent., cash in 60, less 3 per cent. This agreement will go into effect on the 1st of May. A standard measurement and classification of hemlock bark was approved of. The Executive Committee was instructed to take into consideration and report on the advisability of asking the Dominion Government to enforce the Inspection Act, so as to make the inspection of Canadian hides and calf skins uniform. The meeting then adjourned.

After Dr. Barnardo.

Inspector de Barry, of Buffalo, is after Dr. Barnada. The Buffalo Times prints' an interesting interview with the inspector. The Times says:—It has long been known to Immigration Inspector de Barry that a certain Englishman has for some time past made a business of visiting the orphan asylums and like institutions in England for the purpose of taking the children inmates to Canada and placing them on farms and introducing them in families there, but until today he had not been able to ascertain this man's name. This morning he learned that the agent's name is Dr. Barnado, of Stepney, Eng. The reason why the Federal authorities have interested themselves in this matter is because the foundlings and orphan children taken to Canada by Dr. Barnardo find their way to the United States and become public charges. "It is a difficult matter to reach this man, as he acts under the Canadian laws," said Inspector de Barry. "We have been aware of his business for some time. It is known that these parentless and destitute children are sent over here by Canada every time an opportunity presents itself. For this reason I keep track of Dr. Barnardo, to prevent violations of our immigration laws."

BICYCLISTS ORGANIZE.

Officers Elected and Delegates Appointed to go to Toronto.

PETERBOROUGH bicyclists met last night in the Oriental hotel and organized. The new organization will number nearly 200 members. The meeting was enthusiastic and augurs well for a boom in the popular pastime during the approaching season. It is expected that the membership will be doubled before the season is well over. Peterborough will then have the largest club of any town in Ontario. A determined effort will be made to secure the C.W.A. meet. The chances are bright, Peterborough having the preference on account of geographical centrality and railway accessibility. Other towns are making a big bid for the "meet" and a great many have secured grants from their corporations. The officers elected last night were:

Honorary President—Mayor Kendry.
President—A Gibson.
1st. Vice President—R. M. Dennistoun.
2nd Vice-President—Wm. Lech.
Secretary-Treasurer—G. L. Hay.
Captain—G. J. Horkins.
1st Lieutenant—W. L. Allen.
2nd Lieutenant—H. R. H. Kenner.
Bugler—T. Lush.
Executive Committee—Messrs. F. Dixon. O. Shortly and Alf. Terrill.

A deputation was appointed to attend the C.W.A. annual meeting in Toronto on Good Friday to lay before the body the claims of Peterborough for the "meet." The delegates appointed were: Messrs. T. F. Bradburn, A. Gibson, R. Fife, O. Shortly, G. J. Horkins, G. L. Hay, A. H. Stratton, G. W. Hatton and Mayor Kendry.

The following are probable candidates for members of the next C.W.A. racing board:—Geo. J. Horkins, Peterborough; J. H. Roos, Waterloo; G. A. Kingston, Toronto B.C.; G. C. Brown, Athenaeum C.C.; A. Hurst, Wanderers' B.C.; A. E. Walton, R.C.B.C.; Dr. Balfour, London. It looks as if G. H. Orr would have no opposition for the chairmanship.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES.

Bell Telephone Company the Defendants in a Lindsay Suit.

The jury sittings of the High Court of Justice opened at Lindsay on Tuesday before Hon. Mr. Justice MacMahon, with a docket of two civil and four criminal cases.

Hudson vs. Bell Telephone Company was an action to recover damages and came up first. The plaintiff is a laborer living in Lindsay. On the evening of Saturday, Dec. 15th last, he was walking into town, when he was caught in the face by a slack telephone wire and thrown down, striking his thighbone, as some of the doctors say, or sustaining only a very severe contusion, as others think. It is charged that the company was negligent in two ways: first, a defective fastening of the wire; second, in that the company ought to have known it had become loose and to have repaired it. The jury gave a verdict for the plaintiff for $800 damages. This is the second case of injury from a telephone wire that has been tried within a week. The other was at Peterborough.

CIVIC MATTERS

That the Council Will Take Up Next Monday Night.

Monday night, April 1st, is the regular meeting night of the Town Council. There are several important matters that require prompt action on behalf of the Council. They are summarized as follows:

1. The $500 grant asked by the Peterborough Driving Park Association to assist in preparing for the C.W.A. meet, which it is likely Prterborough will secure.

2. The matter of offering inducement to the Howry Lumbering Company and other industries that can be brought to Peterborough if proper inducements are offered.

3. Some agreement or understanding with Contractor Grant, who has applied for an order to enable him to go on and complete his contract, and who offers the town the alternative of cancelling the contract on certain conditions.

4. The matter of a foot or highway bridge across the Otonabee at Auburn, which was shelved for one month at a previous meeting. A largely signed petition, asking for the bridge, has been presented.

THE FRUIT BILL IS NO GOOD.

Such is the Opinion of Local Wholesalers Whom it is to Protect.

The wholesale fruit men of Ontario are up in arms against the proposed bill of the Local Assembly to regulate the fruit trade. A meeting will be held soon to discuss the matter. The bill, if passed, is said to be impracticable; of no benefit to the fruit-grower; that it will not protect the retailer, while the consumer is not protected from fraud any better than before.

A fine of not less than $1 or more than $5 is all that is to be imposed on shippers of peaches and pears who place good fruit on the top and inferior below. Wholesalers say this is totally inadequate, as outsiders could still practice this fraud and make twenty times the fine on a single consignment.

This has always been a popular species of fraud. In the haste of handling fruit wholesale it is impossible to examine it fully. The fraud is always found out by the irate retailer after he has bought from the wholesaler.

GIVE THEM THE GRANT.

Editor Morning Times.

DEAR SIR—I was much pleased in reading that part of THE TIMES' report of the recent proceedings of the Council relating to a letter which had been received from the Peterborough Driving Park Association asking that a grant of money be passed by the Council to it to build a grand stand. The supplication is not an unreasonable one. I heartily hope, as one of the many citizens who desire to see Peterborough as well equipped as other towns of her size, that our good Councilmen will come to a conclusion that the grant asked for would immeasurably benefit the town and pass a grant. I trust that the Councilmen may be unanimous in the matter, should they be, it will show that they have the interests of Peterborough deeply at heart.

The matter should really be attended to at once, in view of the thousands of visitors that may attend the C. W. A. meet.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Estimates for 1895 Passed—The Proposed Improvements Discussed.

At a special meeting of the Board of Education last night there were present Dr. Burnham, chairman and trustees McKee, Hayes, Boucher, Hamilton, Stevenson, Ferguson, Hartley, Law, and Edgecumbe. The following communication was read:—

From deputy minister John Millar stating that he had been directed by the Minister of Education to state that the Board of Education should hereafter charge the Collegiate Institute with only its proporrion of the salary of the drill inspector.

The Standing Committees reported as follows:

SUPERVISION COMMITTEE.

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Supervision Committee beg leave to report and recommend: That the contract for the supplies of stationery, for the coming year be awarded to A. H. Stratton & Co., and that the contract for the supplies of chemicals be awarded to H. S. Macdonald, their tenders being the lowest.

Your Committee have considered that portion of the inspector's report referred to them, but they cannot recommend the Board to purchase the microscopes and lantern at present.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN MCKEE:
Chairman.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Finance Committee beg leave to recommend the payment of the following accounts:

A H Stratton & Co	$57 34
Times Printing Co	25 00
Peterborough Examiner	2 95
The Canadian Office and School Furniture Co.	64 05
Peterborough Water Co.	13 84
Bell Telephone Co.	10 00
Kingan & Allen	1 55
J W Crosby	12 00
A H Stratton & Co.	71 49

In reference to Miss Hall's application for salary, your Committee would recommend that in all cases when a second assistant gives one year's services to the Board that they will be entitled to a salary for the second year if they continue, at the rate of $5 per month even should they not be promoted to the position of first assistant at the end of the first year.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

W. G. FERGUSON,
Chairman.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES.

Items of Interest Intelligently Presented for Busy Readers.

The organization of a cricket club is being mooted. A meeting will be held on Monday night in Mr. R. B. Roger's office.

St. John's church will have a special Easter offertory, the proceeds of which will be devoted to the beautifying of the interior of the church.

Lieutenant Colonel J. Z. Rogers nas announced his resignation, after 16 years' command of the 57th Battalion. A number of changes will be occasioned by the acceptance of his resignation.

Michael Dunn, a local vagrant, is to be discharged from the Central prison sometime in April. He is 60 years old, and has served five terms in the institution. Dunn was committed in January last.

The 34th annual meeting of the Ontario Educational Association and the second meeting of the Dominion Educational Association will be held in Toronto on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, April 16, 17 and 18.

One hundred and twenty three head of live stock, comprising 101 hogs, 14 calves 6 sheep and 2 cattle, were sent from this station to the Montreal market on Tuesday of last week; and on Tuesday last, Mr D Black made another shipment of 75 hogs, 8 cattle and 10 calves.

The Ottawa correspondent of the News says: The engineering staff of the Canals Department was at work today examining tenders for the Peterborough and Lakefield division of the Trent Valley Canal. Eleven tenders in all were received. The result will be known in a day or two.

The new McCarthy paper made its appearance in Collingwood yesterday morning, and it was dated Saturday, the 30st inst. It is called the North Simcoe Free Lance, and is true to its name. It has some rather pointed and cutting remarks regarding the politics and politicians of North Simcoe.

Written posters on telephone poles were eagerly scanned by very many citizens yesterday. It is believed that they were stuck up by a Mr. Caleb Helson, of Orangeville, who has a grievance against a postmaster, accusing him of having appropriated his letters, and also of having sent them to Warden Massey, of the Central prison. He further states that he was kidnapped and sentenced to one month's incarceration. The old gentleman has made known his intention of going to Ottawa to present his charges before the Postmaster General.

In a pile of wood which Mr. Geo. Bailey was sawing on the gravel road in Campbellford a few days ago, he found a beech stick which was peculiar on account of its growth. From a knot in the stick a branch had sprouted and growing upwards to a height of two feet it entered another knot, and continued its growth until it became half an inch in thickness. The saw passed through both knots, giving the stick the appearance of a jack screw, the limb forming the handle. Those who have spent years in the woods say they never saw anything like it.

An enthusiastic meeting of Lindsay baseballists was held recently for the purpose of reorganizing for the season of 1895. The boys are determined that Lindsay will not be behind the pennant this year and only await fine weather to get down to active practice. The following were elected officers for the season :—Honorary president, J D Flavelle; president, Geo Lytle; vice president, H Middleton; captain, A Hamilton; treasurer, T Armstrong; secretary, N McWilliams. An energetic managing committee was formed to carry on the arrangements.

ALL OVER A CHILD.

Two Citizens of Campbellford Have Each Other Arrested.

The Campbellford Herald says: There was a little difficulty between Mr. Wm. Nealon, of Campbellford, and Mr. Patrick O'Connor, of Seymour township, on the 18th inst., which came to a finish with blows and a hearing in the police court.

The particulars of the affray, as they were told to us, are as follows. A short time ago, Mr. O'Connor went to Mr. Nealon's residence, and demanded his wife's child on the ground that he was the guardian of the same, and in making his demand, it is said, used some very unbecoming language. On learning of what had taken place Mr. Nealon became aroused, as he claimed O'Connor had no right to ask for the child, and on meeting Mr. O'Connor on the sidewalk in front of Mr. J. M. Nicol's store, a quarrel took place between them, and a scuffle ensued. Mr. D. Black who was present, interfered and stopped the fight.

The matter was ventilated before Police Magistrate Lynch, and Mr. Nealon was fined $1 and costs.

Mr. Nealon afterwards had O'Connor summoned before the same tribunal for trespass and using bad language. After Mr. Lynch had read the charge, the defendant agreed to pay the costs of the case, and also pay a portion of what Mr. Nealon had paid in the former trial. This settled the matter, and it is hoped the parties will now bury the hatchet.

Building a Bridge.

The Central Bridge Company, of Peterborough, is constructing the superstructure of an iron bridge to span Lond Pond at Island Park, Toronto. The bridge will be 150 feet in length. The cost of the superstructure will be $3,660 and the bridge when completed ,$6,610.

A Hard Times Incident.

A minister wished to ascertain what influence the hard times had upon his congregation, and said at the close of his sermon: I would ask everyone who still is able to pay his debts to rise from his seat. The whole congregation arose with the exception of one man. The parson then asked that all those who were unable to pay their bills should arise. Thereupon the aforementioned solitary individual got up a hungry looking poorly clad man, whose features revealed the terrible struggle of one fighting hopelessly against the vicissitudes of this world. The minister regarding him attentively yet kindly. How is it my friend, he said, that you are the only one among all those people who cannot pay his debts? "Sir," answered the man hesitatingly, "I publish a newspaper, and these my brothers who rose just now, are my subscribers and——" But the minister interupted him hastily. Let us pray he said.

Ferries to Port Hope and Cobourg.

A Buffalo despatch to the Globe says: "As a result of a favorable report by the Board of Railway Commissioners, engineers today began staking out the line for a new railroad between Batavia and Oak Orchard Harbor on Lake Ontario. Coincident with the beginning of work on this railroad, the American & Canadian Navigation Company has been incorporated at Trenton, N. J., for the purpose of operating two freight and passenger ferries between Oak Orchard Harbor and Port Hope and Cobourg, Canada. The Navigation Company will at once begin the construction of two steam ferries, each 235 feet in length, with 45 feet beam, and 10½ feet draught. Each will carry 26 loaded cars, and will be equipped with icebreakers, so that they can run all the year round. It is said that the Company has made large contracts for carrying coal to Canada. The cars will be put aboard the ferries right from the track of the new railroad. The Canadian Pacific Railroad has built from Peterborough to Cobourg, where connections will be made."

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 30 1895.

Good morning!

Since Parliament opened only 7 out of 670 members, have made use of the new bath rooms.

Sermons against newspapers would amount to very little if there were not newspapers to print them.

Sir Agustus Harris has secured the exclusive right to perform Humperdinck's "Hansel and Gretel" in America in any language, and can give it in England in German.

The adoption of a resolution by the Imperial Parliament declaring for the payment of members marks another step in the onward march of the democracy of Great Britain.

B. B. Osler, Q.C., has denied that the Ontario Government has retained his services permanently as prosecutor in all murder trials in this province. It is to be hoped that the publication of this denial will not act as a stimulus to the murder industry.

It is announced that the Toronto Globe of April 18 will be in all its departments the product of Toronto women. Perhaps the ladies are impelled to attempt this feat by the hope that if they are successful in running the Globe, their ability to run the earth will be generally conceded.

It is proposed to establish a telephone line between England and Holland. The London Chamber of Commerce and the Netherland Chamber of Commerce are trying to ascertain if the time is yet ripe for the undertaking.

The average salary paid male teachers in the Public schools of Ontario cities is $911 and of female teachers $409. In Toronto some male teachers are allowed $1-500 and one lady receives $1,150. The taxpayers of this town are doing their share towards keeping up the average for the Province.

It is well that a session has been called before dissolution for the purpose of deciding upon what action Parliament is to take relative to this Manitaba School question. Members, just after an election, with five years of office before them, might take a course that they will not dare to follow on the eve of an appeal to the people.

If bicycles are taxed why should other pleasure vehicles go untaxed? Is there any good reason for making the owner of two-wheeled pleasure vehicle, which he propels himself, pay for the privilege of owning it, while the owner of a four-wheeled pleasure vehicle, which is drawn by a horse, is allowed to go free? If bicycles are taxed so should carriages be.

Fluent and fiery United States statesmen frequently view with alarm the fortifications on the Canadian side of the boundary line, and point to them as the perpetual menace to Uncle Sam's territory. But what about the fortifications on Uncle Sam's side of the line? Are they not a perpetual menace to Canada? Yet nobody in this country objects to them or demands their removal. They don't scare anybody over here.

The fact that a young Japanese crank has attempted to assassinate Li Hung Chang is no proof of the spurious character of Japanese civilization. So far from discouraging the growth of cranks, modern civilization tends to stimulate it. Now that Japan has taken her place among the civilized and progressive nations of the world, she must expect to have successive crops of Guiteaus and Cesarios.

The efforts that are being made to secure the bicycle meet here, should have all possible encouragement from the citizens. There will probably not be less than 5000 strangers in town for two or three days, which means about $25,000 in money to be left with us. The Council are asked for the modest sum of $500 to assist in preparing accommodation for the visitors. The money should be granted without hesitation.

If Mr. Patterson really does retire from the Cabinet Sir Mackenzie Bowell will suffer a serious loss. The Minister of Militia is not only an efficient departmental head but he is also exceedingly popular as a man. However, if the retirement takes place we trust the other rumour in this connection will be verified also by the appointment of Mr. Patterson to the Lieutenant-Governorship of Ontario. No other man can fill the latter office with greater acceptance.

This paper has at different times published items of news and editoral notes referring to the Chief of Police who complains that this journal has not treated him fairly, and that many of the statements which have appeared in the columns are, in fact, untrue. We can only say that we have acted in good faith throughout, but all newspapers are liable to be imposed upon, and in view of the Chief's denial we have no doubt we have been misled. Without going into particulars we have pleasure in stating that further enquiry has satisfied us that anything we have published impugning the Chief's ability to discharge his various duties has in some cases been without foundation, and in others considerably exaggerated. We regret that this paper should have done the Chief any injustice. We can assure him that we have no ill-feeling towards him and so far as we are concerned the controversy is at an end.

A PROSPEROUS COMPANY.

Elsewhere appears a statement which was presented at the 69th annual general meeting of the Standard Life Assurance Company, held at Edinburgh, Scotland, on march 5th.

The result of the year's business is gratifying in the extreme. The investments in Canada amount to the very large sum of $11,165,500, which goes to shew that this old and substantial company has a firm place in the confidence of the Canadian people.

LEGISLATION BEFORE THE ONTARIO HOUSE.

The Government, by Sir Oliver Mowat has introduced a bill re-enacting here the, English act relating to leases and sales of settled estates, adding power to make mortgages for the purpose of improving such estates. Settled estates are those which are entailed and otherwise disposed of, by will or other document, to various persons in succession for different periods of time, often persons not yet in existence. In such cases life tenants and others find difficulty in dealing with them, and this will be welcome to many who have hitherto found it impossible to enjoy the full estates in which they had only a limited interest, and the successors will find their interest in these estates, when they come to possess them, of more value than hitherto.

Mr. Howland has introduced a bill to prevent the docking of horses, and it provides that whoever cuts the bones of the tail of any horse for the purpose of docking, or allowing or consenting or assisting in any way, or being present, shall be liable to a penalty of not less than $100 and not more than $300. But if a horse is found with his tail so cut and the wound resulting from such cut unhealed, upon the premises of any person, such fact shall be prima facie evidence that the person who occupies or has the use of premises on which such horse may be found has committed the offence. It may be stated that this bill is only in keeping with several acts passed by different States of the American Union with regard to docking horse's tails.

Mr. Haycock, the Patron leader, has brought in a bill respecting railway passes. The text of the bill is that no person, whomsoever, holding or enjoying the privilege of using a free pass or other documents entitling him to travel free of charge or at a reduced rate, or according to any special privilege which shall be a discrimination in passenger rates for the advantage of such person on account of his being a member of the Legislative Assembly in traveling over any line of railway in the Province of Ontario, or over any such line or branch thereof, shall be eligible as a member of the Legislative Assembly, nor shall sit or vote in the same

Mr. Richardson has already moved the second reading of a bill to amend the High School act, so as to relieve County Councils from the payment of a share at present required of them of the cost of the maintenance of High schools in town separated from the county.

Another of the Patrons' bills is aimed at excessive charges of arbitrators and provides for the payment by any party to the award of the arbitrator's fees into the office of the local registrar of the High Court for the county where the lands arbitrated about are situated. Taxation of the fees is to take place, and if the arbitrators' charge is sustained then he gets the cost of taxation; if not, then he loses the costs of taxation and whatever is taxed off his bill. In most cases of arbitration, however, the fees and charges are fixed by statute, and in order to fully remedy the whole matter, the Patrons will have to first amend a number of the existing laws.

A suggested amendment to the Municipal Act is one that will be welcomed by insurance companies. The trustees of any police village may apply for the purchase of fire engines and other appliances for the purpose of fire protection, or for lighting the streets of its village, or supplying light and heat to the inhabitants. The council of the township shall then submit a by-law for the purpose of issuing debentures to raise the amount necessary for the purchase, and if the ratepayers vote the money then debentures are to issue, and the appliances to be purchased.

A difficulty which all municipal corporations have to contend with is the laying out on plans by persons owning lands of shallow lots and narrow streets. It is now proposed to prevent the registration of any plan in city, town or village, until the municipal corporation has first assented to the plan by by-law, so that an end may be put to the laying out of narrow streets and shallow lots.

Jurors have frequently to spend Sunday away from home. It is prososed to give them pay for Sundays intervening between the Saturdays and Mondays on which they attend the Court. The alleged tampering with juries is the reason for the introduction of a bill designed to minimize this practice. The Sheriff is to keep the names of the jury drafted for any panel under lock and key until four days before the sitting of the Court for which the list is drafted. Anyone on filing affidavits that he desires to examine panel in order to discern whether a special jury should be struck in a special suit to which he is a party may be given the names, but not otherwise.

An important change is suggested with regard to the law respecting dower in mortgaged or other property. Where land is mortgaged and a wife is joined in the mortgage, in order to bar her dower, and the land is subsequently sold under the power of sale contained in the mortgage, or under any legal process, the wife is to be entitled to dower in any surplus of the purchase money arising from the sale over and above the mortgage to the same extent as she would have been entitled to dower, in the land, had the same not been sold, calculating the amount to which she shall be entitled in the basis of the amount realized from the sale of the land, and not on the amount realized on the sale over and above the amount of the mortgage only. This provision, however, is not to apply to a mortgage given back in part payment of purchase money.

SOWING THE WIND.

Late dispatches contained two lynching stories which are peculiarly illustrative of the injustice of the lynching system in the South. A number of buildings recently have been burned in the neighborhood of Tyler, Ala. The people suspected that incendiaries caused the fires. In an ordinary law-abiding community, where such a suspicion was entertained, the authorities would be appealed to, detectives would be set to work on the cases, the miscreants would be hunted out, proof of their guilt found and they would be punished according to law. But that is not the Southern way. Instead of appealing to the authorities, the citizens took the law into their own hands. Negroes, of course, were suspected. Negroes are suspected of all deviltry in the South, except lynching. Suspicion with a mob is conviction. On a Saturday night a gang of regulators surrounded a church where their unsuspecting victims were attending worship. Three negroes were captured and marched away into the woods. Their fate is not known definitely, but easily can be guessed. Next the mob sought another negro who was at home in bed. Shots were fired into the house, two of them passing through the bed, but the negro was not hit and escaped by a back door.

Mob justice had been done, but such justice! Who can wonder now if friends of the murdered negroes, moved by a spirit of revenge, do set fire to the property of their persecutors?

On the same night a negro woman was hanged by a mob near Petersburg, Tenn. She, too, was suspected of being a fire-bug. The crime of which she was accused was committed several months ago, so the act of the mob cannot be excused as the work of momentary passion. The white bullies of the South are teaching the ignorant negro population terrible lessons in lawlessness. What will follow when the lessons have been learned?

THE LIME JUICE CLUB.

REGULAR WEEKLY MEETING OF THIS CHASTE SOCIETY.

The Hall of Wisdom Once More the Attraction—A Very Eloquent Lecture—Important Matters Dealt With.

The President announced that Prof. Watertown, of Toronto, was in the waiting room intending to deliver his celebrated lecture before the club on "Are Rich men Happy; or Why Does Sweet Milk turn Sour During a Thunderstorm?" Before the person is brought in I want to say a few words," continued Sir Richard. "In the first place I want the members to keep awake during the lecture. (Hard looks at Brother Croft from all parts of the hall.)

"In the next place if Bro. Smith throws that banana which he has got in his pocket at Cripes Mulcahey, I shall be looking right at him, and before the meeting closes his future life will be made wretched. Bros. McKay and Yokome had better get as far from each other as possible, and I shall depend on Piledriver Riley to keep his eye on Councillors Stone and Dawson. The honorable gentleman will now be brought in."

The man from Toronto created a favorable impression at first glance. He was the beau ideal of an orator—three stories high, loose in the knee-joints and a wild expression in his eyes.

As he took his place on the platform it was noticed that he toed out and covered a great deal of space with his feet, and this was also taken as a further favorable sign of his intellectual greatness.

There was no sign of nervousness in his actions, and it was clearly evident that he was in the habit of addressing large and critcal audiences. He poured out a glass of water, carefully scraped a nutmeg into it, and, after removing his coat collar and necktie, he advanced to the front of the platform and started.

"My friends," he began, as he locked his fingers together and looked benignly down upon the shiny bald cranium of Pickles Johnson, "does riches make happiness or does she not? At first it would appear that she did. When we see a rich man riding by in his carriage, his arms folded, his head up high and his black horses prancing along as proud as peacocks, we are apt to envy him and to wish we were in his place.

"We only see outside appearances. If we could only follow that person to his home of luxury, we should take a different view of the case. The minute he gets into the house his wife wants fourteen thousand dollars for new dresses; the children cry for him to buy them an elephant the cook has broke twelve plates while washing the dishes, and the gas bill is seven dollars more than it was for the previous month.

"The proud smile on that rich man's face fades away and he goes out behind the barn and kicks himself and wishes he had never been born. (Cheers, shouts and wild applause.)

"You go into a rich man's house," continued the orator, "and you see lace curtains, covered chairs, fine carpets and heaps of bric-a-brac. Some of them have got as many as five beds upstairs, and if you go down cellar you find a whole barrel of pork and sixteen bushels of potatoes.

"Nothing seems wanting to complete that man's happiness, but that's all on the outside. He may be sitting round on them fine carpets or looking at himself in one of them looking glasses that never cost less than nine dollars, when he gets a telegram. He opens it to find that somebody has robbed the grave of his grandfather and demands one million dollars to restore the body." (Applause so vigorus that the clock stopped dead still.)

"I was in the private office of a millionaire the other day. He was cutting the coupons of his bloated bonds. There were 17 bags of gold in his right hand, and 16 barrels of silver on his left. (Suppressed excitement.) There was two bushels of diamonds piled up behind the stove, and about two barrels of pearls and opals over by the washstand." (Whispers of "Yum Yum!"

"That person owned the awfulest, biggest farm and government timber limit in the west. He has 6,000,000 horses and cattle. He owned four banks and five railroads. He owned all the judges and juries and lawyers in the Province. If you threw a potato at his dog he could have sent you to prison for life." (Sighs and groans.)

"And yet, with all this power and riches was that man happy? No! He had a sore heel; his stomach was out of order, he was getting bald on the top of his head; he woke up in the night and saw spooks waving their arms over him, and he said he would give all he had on earth to be like me." (Applause which put out three lamps and upset the waterpail.)

"No, my friends," calmly continued the orator, after sipping a little more nutmeg, "riches don't make happiness. They are just handy when you feel you would like to get measured for four new shirts, or you want fried chicken for dinner. All the rest is vanity, and is sure to bring you trouble.

"Take the case of Sudden Watkins, of this club, at whose house I am temporarily stopping, free of charge. He's got a rag carpet and three cane seat chairs in his parlor. He's got three dogs and an icechest and a chromeo of 'Napoleon crossing the Alps.' He's got a cuckoo clock that cost him eleven dollars, and he bought an old lounge for two dollars and covered it over with new stuff and made it worth ten dollars. His wife can earn a dollar a day while he sits on the front steps, and his children save their pennies to buy him tobacco and beer.

"From Sunday morning to Saturday night Bro. Watkins is perfectly happy and content, and he will live 30 years longer than any rich man. (Vociferous applause from all except Bro. Watkins, whose modesty is well-known.)

"And now, why does sweet milk turn sour?" asked the orator, after getting his breath. "You may think this has nothing to do with the case, but it has. It has a heap to do with it. The rich man has to use sweet milk, the same as the poor.

A panful of it setting down in the cellar on the shelf, and we are going to have pudding and sweet milk for supper. Along comes a thunder storm, and the old lady goes down to find the milk all sour. Why? Whence? For what reason? You do not stop to inquire, but you jump up and down and lick the children.

"If you would only sit down in the rocking chair and philosophize a little you would discover why it was thus. The electrified condition of the atmosphere has simply absorbed the energetic barometer of the liquid, and the result is prodigious situation of the magnetic illiberality. My friends, the hour is late, and I will not take up any more of your your valuable time."

When the speaker retired he was followed by round after round of applause, and he must have been highly pleased with the successful hit. When silence was restored Sir Richard said:

"Gentlemen, I have no doubt that we have all been made the better men for listening to that address, and that it will be wise for us to treasure up in our memories the various facts brought out by the orator, but at the same time I want to caution you that great men are only mortal after all.

"Should the Professor want to borrow any money of you it will be eminently safe to reply that you have just taken all your change to the bank, and that you don't expect to have any more before next week."

RESPECTFULLY DECLINED.

A communication was read from Demothesnes Walton, of Lindsay, better known as the Literary Giant of the turbulent Scugog, setting forth the fact that he would lecture before this club on the "Past, Present and Future of the Workingman," for 75 cents a lecture, there being six sets or series to complete his subject. He, of course, expected board and lodgings with this offer, and he intimated quite strongly that he was partial to frogs legs and preserves.

"We shall have to decline this offer," replied the President. "The Scugog Giant is no doubt a sparkling gem in the literary heavens, but we have heard too much on this subject. We are all aware of the fact that the working man is full of mighty lean bacon and mighty poor beefsteak; his present is crowded with back rent and unpaid taxes; his future may be the House of Parliament or it may be the House of Correction. I hope the Literary Giant will go ahead until he reaches the top ladder of fame, but he won't get there by climbing up the stairs of the Hall of Wisdom."

FINANCES.

The assistant Treasurer submitted the following statement of expenditures since last meeting:

One lamp glass............	0 05
Two lamp wicks............	0 04
¼ cord of stove wood.......	0 35
One cake stove polish........	0 08
Total........................	$3264 20

Backup Davis rose to enquire by what process of arithmetic this total was arrived at? If the Club weren't more careful in the way they expended their cash, they would find themselves in financial difficulties one of these days.

Tiedup Garley said that in the absence of the Treasurer he had made up the statement, and he could vouch for its correctness.

A brief investigation disclosed the fact that Tiedup was mistaken and he was accordingly fined $1,100 and costs.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

Some time ago a citizen of Port Hope applied for honorary membership, and the committee appointed to investigate his character learned that he had served two years in prison for stealing a hog. His application was of course rejected, but now the secretary announced a communication, signed by several leading citizens of the town, to the effect that a mistake had been made. There were two Jacksons in Port Hope, Rigid and Limber. While Limber had stolen hogs, dogs, calves, mules and anything else he could lay hands on, Rigid was honest and upright, and is the only man in the country who can make 'wagon' rhyme with 'toboggan' when writing poetry.

It was clearly a case of mistaken identity. The old committee of investigation were asked to look after the case and report at the next meeting.

MUSIC.

The Harmony Club secured the floor and tuned up as follows:

The spring time she is coming,
When the birds begin to trill,
The bees will soon be humming
And the mosquito show his bill.

The corn will soon be sprouting,
Dogwood blossoms come in sight,
And the folks will seek an outing,
Where fish and skeeters bite.

When the last sound of the soul-stirring melody had died away it was found that the clock was stopped dead still. It was fully a minute before the large audience recovered and the applause which followed put out all the lights, and the meeting went out into the cold chilly night.

TRIPPING INTO TOWN.

A little lass with golden hair,
A little lass with brown,
A little lass with raven locks,
Went tripping into town.
"I like the golden hair the best,"
"And I prefer the brown,"
"And I the black," three sparrows said,
Three sparrows of the town.

"Tu-whit, tu-whoo!" an old owl cried
From the belfrey in the town.
"Glad-hearted lassies need not mind
If locks be gold, black or brown.
Tu-whit, tu-whoo, so fast, so fast
The sands of life run down!

"And soon—so soon—three white-haired dames
Will totter through the town,
Gone for aye the raven locks,
The golden hair the brown
And she will fairest be whose face
Has never worn a frown."

Sir Richard Cartwright has been re-elected president of the Frontenac Loan and Investment.

TORONTO.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

March 29.—In Liverpool to-day lard was 3d cheaper. This market was steady.

Butter—The offerings are liberal, there is a fair demand for large rolls, which sell at 12c to 14c, the latter for baskets of choice but other descriptions are slow. Dairy tub is quoted at 12½c to 13c for the best and 7c to 8c for low grade Creamery is steady.

Eggs—Are scarce owing to small offerings in the country, and the market was firmer to-day at 15c, and some dealers wer asking more, with supplies pretty well cleaned up at the close, but the offerings are likely to be large in a day or two and that should bring the price down.

Potatoes—Are in fair demand and steady. Cars on the track here are quoted at 60c to 61c Potatoes out of store sell at 65c to 70c.

Poultry—The receipts are small there is a good demand and the market is firm at 12c for turkeys, 8c for geese and 60c to 70c for chickens.

Baled Hay—Is quiet. Cars on the track here are quoted at $8 75 to $9.

Baled Straw—The market is dull and the prices are steady. Cars on the track here are quoted at $5 50 for oat and $5 for wheat.

Dressed Hogs—The receipts on the local street market to-day were fair, there was an active demand and the market was firmer, with choice loads selling at $6 to $6 15. Cars of good weights delivered here are quoted at $5 90 to $6 bid.

FARMERS' MARKET.

The receipts of grain on the street market here to-day were small, being 200 bushels of oats, which sold at 41c to 42c. The receipts of hay and straw were small and the market was steady, 25 loads of hay selling at $10 to $12 for timothy and $9 to $10 for clover, and 5 loads of straw at $7 to $8 50. The offerings of hogs were fairly liberal, there was a good demand and the market was firmer, with sales at $5 75 to $6 15.

MONTREAL.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

March 29.—A dealer who has just arrived from the west states that the majority of the cattle have been bought up on the basis of 5c to 5¼c for best and 4¼c to 4½c for medium. The little remaining stock, he said, holders are not inclined to sell under 5¼c. The sheep trade is not very encouraging at present. A Montreal shipper is sending out 1,500 head of Chicago sheep weekly via Baltimore, and the last two consignments have been landed on low and overstocked markets. The latest quotation received was 6½d, live weight. Cattle in Liverpool and London are fairly steady on the basis of 11½c to 12½c, estimated live weight. At the East End Abattoir this morning the following stock was offered:—400 head of cattle, 600 calves, 20 sheep, 60 spring lambs, 25 hogs and 60 stable cows. The demand for cattle was scarcely up to the average but there is no particular change in prices. Sales were made at from 3c to 3¼c. Calves sold all the way from $1 to $7, and spring lambs from $2 50 to $4. Hogs were quoted from $3 to $7. The stable cows sold from $15 to $25.

YOUNG'S POINT.

After two weeks' illness, Mrs. Joseph Ayotte, of Smith, died at the family residence on Thursday, 21st inst., at the advanced age of 83 years. Deceased was born in Ireland and came to this country in 1832. In 1852 she was united in marriage to Mr. Joseph Ayotte. Six sons and two daughters blessed their union. The funeral took place on Saturday, 23rd inst., to the Roman Catholic cemetery, Youngs's Point, the six sons of the deceased being the pall-bearers. The family have the sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement.

It is with sincere sorrow we chronicle the end of a bright young life, which occurred on March 28th Lucey, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hockaday, died after a few weeks' illness, at the residence of her parents. Deceased was only 16 years of age, and was a general favorite among her companions. The funeral takes place today to the Lakefield cemetery. The greatest sympathy is felt by all for the family in their great sorrow.

CHEESE FACTORY.

The new cheese factory which is being built by Messrs. Wilson & Son, near the village, is rapidly nearing completion.

MILLS.

Mr. C. Young's saw and shingle mills opened last week. Mr. Young expects a busy season.

PERSONAL.

Miss Ida Kearney left last week on a visit to her sister, Mrs. W. E. Brooks, of Harwood.

Miss Louise Kearney has returned home after spending a few days with friends in Peterborough.

DOURO.

Winter has departed, while Spring is smiling on our doorsteps.

The roads are in a very poor condition, and the P. of I. are greatly annoyed to know how they can get their two carloads of salt from the station.

There is great talk of the completion of the long-talked of Trent Valley Canal, and the laboring classes have all joined in the chorus: "Oh! let it be soon."

Our friend, the assessor, has just finished his laborious task. He has given general satisfaction. He has captured all the dogs of the village with the exception of one, who is taking his Easter holidays in the country.

Grocery trade is booming. Our enterprising young merchant, Mr. P. G. Towns, or as he is more commonly known by the name of "P. G., the Wonderful Cheap Man, of Stopeville," is doing a very extensive trade in the grocery business. It is reported that he sold over $300 worth of fish during the past four weeks. Mr. Towns is a shrewd business man, and, outside of groceries, carries a complete stock of dry goods, crockery, hardware, tinware, patent medicines, etc. During the past week he has enlarged his store by a stock of plows, harrows and other farmers' machinery. We understand that in the course of a few weeks, to meet the demands of the public, Mr. Towns will increase his business by a stock of waggons, carriages and buggies. It is surprising why the village should be so long without a store, and that someone did not perceive the public want previous to the past year.

Mr. Barry, the senior grocer, is still doing a considerable business.

AILSA'S TURN TODAY.

In a 30-Mile Race She Wins a Close Finish with the Britannia.

Special to The Times.

NICE, March 29.—Today's yacht racing comprised two events of interest and importance. The first was the sailing race for yachts of over 20 tons for prizes given by James Gordon Bennett.

These prizes were a cup valued at £300 and a purse of 500 sovereigns.

The distance was 30 miles over a triangular course and the starters were the Ailsa and Britannia. The Ailsa won by nearly two minutes.

His Identity.

LONDON, March 29.—The Scotland yard authorities are strongly of the belief that the man O'Brien, who was arrested in Paris yesterday for shooting a companion in a railway station, is the O'Brien who has for some time been going back and forth between Belgium and Paris, engaged in various questionable transactions. The police are now tracing some of his proceedings in order to be able to absolutely identify him.

THE HOWLING GALE.

Shipping Paralyzed and Great Damage Reported.

Special to the Times

NEW YORK, March 29.—All wind records were broken today by the howling gale which swooped down upon the city early this morning. Shortly before one o'clock the wind had worked itself up to 75 miles an hour, three miles beyond the previous record of March 1876, which had stood untouched for 19 years. At sunrise the trouble began, every hour witnessing a jump of 10 miles and at 10 o'clock 65 miles an hour was reached. Shipping down the bay was paralyzed and much damage was done. Not a single vessel ventured outside of Sandy Hook. At 12 o'clock the wind registered 75 miles an hour. This rate was kept up for just two minutes. Later in the day the wind velocity began to fall and at 4.30 it was blowing at the rate of 62 miles an hour. There was trouble all day in the harbor. Small craft dragged their anchors and were saved by tugs from going ashore.

How we Can Negotiate.

LONDON, March 29.—The House of Lords today passed the Marquis of Ripon's bill repealing the restrictions upon the Australian colonies regarding the imposition of customs duties, and the measure received the royal assent this afternoon.

HOW TO DO IT: Drop us a postal card and our Mr. Cook will call with samples. You can sit in your own comfortable homes, offices or stores, and make your selections with ease and convenience. Mr. Cook will estimate for you the number of rolls you require and the cost, and your order is promptly filled.

Try our plan. We save you time, trouble and money. We carry no heavy stocks and give you the benefit of mill prices. No middle men. We keep down the expenses—the people do the rest.

Walls, Ceilings and Borders all match harmoniously. We paper everything from the smallest kitchen to the handsomest suites of Parlours Offices Stores etc. We have ideas that may help you. Talk with us.

Thrifty Mothers Can Dress Their Little Ones Handsomely and Cheaply.

Thrifty and economical mothers rarely buy new clothing for their children, yet the little ones are always well and handsomely dressed for school and church. This is the result of using Diamond Dyes, which make all the fashionable colors with but little work.

Suits for boys and little dresses and jackets for the girls that have faded and become discolored, are quickly transformed into new garments by the magical working of Diamond Dyes.

These wonderful package dyes cost but 10 cents per package; they are simple to use—indeed any child can use them and get a grand color. The colors produced by Diamond Dyes are fast and strong, and in many respects far superior to the colors used in large dyeing factories.

When buying dyes for home use see that your dealer gives you "Diamond Dyes"; imitation and worthless dyes will ruin your materials and garments.

Any person who procures any female to so appear shall upon just convcition be punished by imprisonment of not less than three months nor more than one year and upon each subsequent conviction shall be sentenced to State's prison for a term of not less than two years nor more than five years, or by a fine not less than $100 nor more than $1,000. The posting of theatrical or other bills with indecent pictures is prohibited, as is also the publication of so-called high art pictures in any magazine, newspaper or other publication.

IN MONTHS OF DARKNESS.

The Dreary Life of Explorers Who Visit the Arctic Regions.

A wild goose chase after the north pole surely seems, on the very face, to be a fool's errand. Perhaps it is, for I doubt if any very startling fact will be added to science, even if the north pole is indeed reached. Of course there is or would be a huge amount of satisfaction and glory to have been the discoverer of the pole, but whether science will be enriched thereby or simply satisfied with the fact of our having "got there all the same" is an open question.

The life led by explorers in those dreary regions, especially during the long winter's night, is so intensely monotonous as to scarcely warrant description, and yet no better idea of the hardships, sufferings and misery endured for the sake of science can be gained, than by a glimpse of the daily life of the arctic traveler.

I chanced to be one of the members of a recent expedition and was in charge of the winter quarters at the northernmost portion of Nova Zembla, or Novia Zemlia, as the islands are called by the natives.

Imagine a night that settles down like a pall and an interminable darkness that is only relieved by dull gray twilight for a few hours out of the 24; then, added to this, a thermometer so far down below zero that the mercury often freezes, miserable quarters, poor food, and the monotonous existence, and you will scarcely wonder why so many intrepid investigators have given up the unequal battle and laid down to perish in the darkness of hopeless despair. You will also scarcely wonder that the most ardent enthusiasm is likely to be considerably cooled, morally as well as physically, under the circumstances.

What matters it if the whole world is watching the outcome of your investigations with keenest interest when you are so far removed from earthly comforts and earthly aid?

And yet, in spite of all the bitter knowledge gained by the hardest kind of experience, the same explorers will attempt expedition after expedition.

Can Catarrh Be Cured?

MOST POSITIVELY SO BY THE USE OF

Oxygenator

The record of our remedy is remarkable, it having shown itself equally efficacious in every form of the disease, from the simplest first symptoms to the most aggravated type. We confidently believe that any person suffering from Catarrh who has vitality sufficient to keep him alive until Oxygenator is given time to impart its properties can be completely cured by its use. That all other remedies have failed is no evidence that it will not cure.

THE CABINET CHANGES.

SIR CHARLES TUPPER'S RESIGNATION THE LATEST MOVE.

Hon. Dr. Montague Sworn in as Secretary of State—Dickey in Nova Scotia but will be Sworn in as Minister of Justice upon His Return.

Special to The Times.

OTTAWA, March 27.

THE political complication thickens. Sir Mackenzie Bowell states that Hon. J. C. Patterson has been since last autumn desirous of resigning, on the ground of ill-health, and that he expressed that desire to Sir John Thompson before the latter went to England. Mr. Patterson renewed his request upon the occasion of the formation of the Bowell Cabinet, but the Premier insisted on his remaining. Now the physician had ordered him to relieve himself from the strain of departmental work, and there was no friction between Mr. Patterson and the Premier.

Hon. A. R. Dickey is in Nova Scotia, on account of the illness of his mother, but he will be sworn in as Minister of Militia as soon as he returns. In the meantime Mr. Patterson will remain Acting Minister of Militia, and probably will continue in the Cabinet without a portfolio until June, when he will go to Manitoba.

Hon. Dr. Montague was sworn in as Secretary of State yesterday afternoon, and went to Haldimand last night to arrange for the bye-election, which becomes necessary on account of his accepting a portfolio. The writ for the election will likely be issued today or tomorrow.

PATTERSON AND MONTAGUE.

Mr. Patterson entered Parliament in 1878, and has been a Minister since 1891. He has been, and is, President of the Liberal-Conservative Union of Ontario, and was a confidential friend of Sir John Macdonald. He is personally popular, and his work upon the platform has been a strong prop to his party in the province.

Dr. Montague was born in 1856, and took his degree in medicine in 1882. In 1883 he gave Hon. Richard Harcourt a close run for Monck, and 1887 he began his battle with Mr. Coulter, fighting five contests in about six years, and making Haldimand a bye-word for fierce political warfare.

SIR CHARLES STEPS OUT.

The following is a special despatch from the World's Ottawa correspondent this morning:

The Cabinet changes which I announced last week took place today but they are completely overshadowed by the announcement that Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper has resigned his portfolio. The Minister of Justice has not attended the meetings of the Cabinet for the past two or three days. Yesterday this fact began to be commented upon and today culminated in a report that he had tendered his resignation. Your correspondent set to work to verify the rumors current and there seems not the slightest doubt of their accuracy. Sir Charles, it appears, has no difference of opinion with his colleagues on questions of policy.

WANTED AN ELECTION.

He shaped the decision of the Government on the Manitoba school question, and it was his report in favor of a remedial order that was adopted by the Cabinet. Where the Minister of Justice differs from his colleagues is with reference to the subsequent action reached viz.:—To meet Parliament before dissolving. A gentleman thoroughly well posted in political affairs told me tonight that he understood Sir Charles took the ground that the action the Government should have taken was to immediately appeal to the country on the great issue now before the people, that this was the correct constitutional course to follow. On the other hand, it is urged that one of the prerogatives of the Premier is that he shall decide when dissolution shall take place. In political circles the hope is expressed that Sir Charles may be induced to withdraw his resignation.

TWO ABSENTMINDED INDIVIDUALS.

One Forgot His Invitation, and the Other Forgot His Wife.

An absentminded person can spread chaos all around, but when two absentminded people try to work together may heaven help the poor creatures upon whom the consequences fall. A prominent lawyer from an inland city met in London a distinguished British author, whom he invited to visit him during a tour of America, already planned. The lawyer came back home and shortly forgot all about his English friend and his own invitation, but was reminded of both, in good time, by a letter announcing the date of the celebrated Briton's arrival. This, too, he forgot in a few minutes, and when the appointed day came it found him living in a shut up house, getting his meals where he could, while his wife made an extended round of visits among her relatives.

When the distinguished visitor drove up to the house on the evening of the day set in his letter, he met a single servant, who explained that the master was at a club meeting, over two miles away, and would be back about midnight. Sending his wife, who was tired and ill, back to the railway station, the Englishman started in pursuit of his delinquent host. The latter was found with a company of pleasant people, to whom the great author was promptly introduced, and the two absentminded friends finished up the evening at the club meeting, forgetting all about their lack of suitable quarters for the night and poor Mrs. Distinguished Author sitting in the railway station.

When the meeting broke up in the small hours, they recalled these awkward circumstances and rescued the weary woman, whose comments upon the situation did not reach me. Then they drove to the house of one of the lawyer's relatives, who kindly got them all to bed before dawn.—Kate Field's Washington.

The Tongue.

The perfectly healthy tongue is clean, moist, lies loosely in the mouth, is round at the edge and has no prominent papillæ. The tongue may be furred from local causes or from sympathy with the stomach, intestines or liver.

The dry tongue occurs most frequently in fever and indicates a nervous prostration or depression. A white tongue is diagnostic simply of the feverish condition, with perhaps a disordered stomach. When it is moist and yellowish brown, it shows disordered digestion. Dry and brown indicates a low state of the system. When the tongue is dry and red and smooth, look out for inflammation, gastric or intestinal. When the papillæ on the end of the tongue are raised and very red, we call it a strawberry tongue, and that may mean scarlet fever. A sharp, pointed red tongue will point to brain irritation or inflammation, and a yellow coating indicates liver derangement.—Family Herald.

FOR RHEUMATISM.

A Remedy that has Sprung into Popularity Because it Never Fails to Cure.

DETROIT, Mich., March 25—People in this state are specially subject to rheumatism. The young and the old alike are attacked by it, and until the introduction of Dodd's Kidney Pills a few months ago, no reliable cure for the disease was obtainable. But these pills have eradicated the disease in every case where they were used, and nobody need suffer from it while this remedy can be had from every druggist on the continent. The reason they cure is that rheumatism is due to diseased kidneys or impaired action of these organs By making these organs whole, the cause is removed and the rheumatism speedily disappears.

WANT $150,000 EACH.

The Deported Hawaiian Exiles Getting After the C. P. R.

VANCOUVER, B. C., March 27.—Lawyers from Honolulu are here threatening to bring suit against the Canadian Pacific Railway Company on behalf of Mueller, Cranston and Johnson, the deported Hawaiian exiles, who are now claiming $150,00 damages each for having been brought from Hawaii against their will on the railroad company's steamer.

The Canadian Pacific Company has a bond from the Hawaiian Government, however indemnifying them against loss through any action of the kind. Wm. A. Kinney, who presided as judge advocate at the recent court-martial in Honolulu, is here and has employed counsel to defend the threatened action.

He asserts that the Hawaiian Government acted within international law, and that at any rate the damages claimed by the exiles are preposterous, as they were only making a bare living in Honolulu.

THE REMEDIAL ORDER.

It is Now Before the Manitoba Legislature—Both Parties Caucus.

Special to the Times

WINNIPEG, March 27.—The remedial order has been laid before the Manitoba Legislature. Both parties caucused on it last night. The Liberals were strongly against entertaining the order at all; the Conservatives, it is said, favored a moderate compromise.

The Orange Grand Lodge of Manitoba will meet today. Some strong resolutions regarding the school question are promised.

Fires in Norwood.

Last Wednesday evening the Union Bank office and the Registry office, Norwood, had a narrow escape from being destroyed by fire. An ash box in the rear of the bank caught fire. The smoke aroused the suspicions of Miss McGuire, who lives over the bank, and an alarm was raised. The fire was extinguished without much damage being done, only a small part of the floor being burned. A second alarm was given Friday morning about 5.30 o'clock. This time it was Finlay & Son's factory. A spark from the smoke stack ignited the shingles. The blaze was seen by some early risers and soon after the alarm was given a large crowd collected. A few buckets of water extinguished the fire, no damage of any account being done.

HARWOOD.

$5.00 REWARD—The above reward will be paid to any person or persons who will give such information as will lead to the conviction of the person who stole Mr. Frank Johnston's tobacco, while playing checkers on Tuesday last.

OYSTER SUPPER—The Sons of Temperance of our village gave an oyster supper on last Friday night. Of course there was nothing to drink only on the side.

WOOD—Mr. R. Croft of Cobourg is in our village hiring men to cut wood. Mr. Croft is a little late starting, but better late than never.

FISHING—Fishing is very good here at present, from three to four hundred bass are being caught daily. Mr. C. Harbor caught three bass weighing upwards 20 lbs., and Coats would not lie about a few bass.

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR—A few days ago there was seen in our village what the boys call a trampt but to our astonishment it was Sir Richard McBride, President of the Lime Juice Club, Peterborough.

CHANGE—Mr. A. Watson has purchased the general store lately occupied by Mr. F. Harstone.

Mr. W. J. Edminson has succeeded in securing sufficient names of our ratepayers to secure a license for the Phoenix Hotel. This house is one of the finest summer resorts in Ontario, and will be furnished from top to bottom in first class style. Any one coming to Rice Lake will find first-class accommadation at this hotel after the 1st of May

ILL—Mrs. George Cook is dangerously ill.

PERSONAL—Miss Ida E. Kearney, of Young's Point, is visiting her sister, Mrs' W. C. Brooks.

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

LOCAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

The Weather.

Probs: Fresh to strong winds, shifting to east and south showers of sleet or rain in some localities, rising temperature.

A Pleasing Affair.

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Meldrum were "At Home" to a select number of friends, at their beautiful home "Fairview." A most delightful evening was spent, the host and hostess entertaining in a charming manner.

Grants Recommended.

The Finance Committee has decided to recommend to the town council that $250 be granted to assist the local wheelmen in bringing the bicycle meet to Peterborough. The committee will also recommend that a grant of $400 be made the Horticultural Society for keeping the Court House Park in order, and the Salvation Army be granted the sum of $25.

Multiplied the Money.

A year ago the Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church, Oshawa, started a new scheme to raise funds for the building of a new church. Fifty-two were given $1 each and expected to put it to the best use possible. Last night the various monies were handed in and amounted to $700, made up of sums ranging from $10 to $143, the majority ranging from $10 to $20.

Settled the Case.

The action brought by the widow of the late John Free for herself and her children against the G.T.R. Co. for the death of her husband at the crossing at Melbourne street, Lindsay, last fall, was settled by the authorities of the company after the record was entered for trial at this week's assizes. The amount paid and distributed among the widow and children is $2,100, the company paying the costs.

A Narrow Escape.

While playing near the drain on the corner of Aylmer and London streets, a four-year-old daughter of Town Clerk Armstrong had a narrow escape from drowning. Going too close to the edge of the drain, the child slipped and plunged headlong into the water. The cries of her companions brought a neighbor to the spot and rescued the little girl. Beyond getting a good drenching, she received no injuries, except the shock from the fall.

Zera Semon.

A well filled house greeted Zera Semon last night at the opera house and all were thoroughly pleased with the performance given. Mr. Semon introduced a number of clever and new feats in magic, while the boy-wonder caught the audience as usual. A large number of handsome presents were given away. The gold watch was secured by Mr. C. Moffat, the tea set by Mr. M. J. Flaherty and the chamber set by Master Richard Simons. Today a matinee will be given, also another performance in the evening.

A Case of Cruelty.

Police Magistrate Edmison had a case of ill-treatment of a child brought before him yesterday in Havelock. The charge was preferred by the local Children's Aid Society. After going thoroughly into the evidence, the officers of the Society decided, on account of the conflicting testimony, not to ask for the custody of the child, a bright little orphan boy of 6 years of age, but, in view of the Magistrate's severe warning, to keep the defendant, a married woman, under strict supervision. She acknowledged that she had beaten the boy over the head with a strap, and he bore the bruises of the blows: but she denied intending to do more than discipline him.

An Enormous Wild Cat.

On Saturday morning last Mr. Joe Hickson, of Mt. Horeb, came to town with the carcass of the largest wildcat ever seen by the oldest inhabitant even in the days when dense forests surrounded Lindsay and wild animals prowled about within a hundred yards of Kent street. Mr. Hickson had already trapped four of the animals since last fall, and Mr. John McGee had made away with several, so it was thought the locality was about cleared of such undesirable visitors. However, when Mr. Hickson visited the trap he had set out on Thursday evening he was astonished to find the "daddy of them all" safely held by the stout steel jaws. It was Mr. Hickson's first intention to take the brute alive, but he looked so big and fierce, and made such a desperate resistance, that it was deemed wiser to tap him on the head with a fence rail. He measured 4 ft. 6 in. from tail-tip to muzzle.—Post.

Market day.

Snow this morning.

This looks like gentle spring.

Monday will be All Fools' Day.

Everything is quiet in police circles.

It is now high time for spring poets and hens to commence their "lays."

The newspaper A.A.A. will meet tonight at the Oriental for organization.

Meeting of Town Council and Ashburnham Council on Monday night.

The English Canoe Company shipped three canoes to Toronto yesterday.

The Troubadour minstrels have decided to go on with rehearsals and give a permanence next month.

Rev. George Warren, of Lakefield, delivered an address to a large congregation in St. Luke's last night.

American capitalists are said to be interesting themselves in the mica mines of Peterborough county and Madoc.

The young people of St. Johns' are rehearsing amateur theatricals. A farce-comedy entitled "The Manager will be given the first or second week after Easter.

The steamer Varuna, which plies between Trenton and Picton has been very much improved the past winter. She has had a complete new hull built, and is now as good as white oak and iron can make her. She will be open for charters as an excursion boat.

The Racing Board of the C.W.A. held a meeting at the Rossin House on Tuesday last. All last season's records were broken with the exception of Harley Davidson's flying mile on the Hamilton Jockey Club's track. The track was measured for horse races, and by riding close to the rail it is thought that Davidson did not cover a full mile.

Miss Wellbanks, daughter of Mr. W. Wellbanks, of Rednerville, requiring a small quantity of sawdust with which to stuff a pincushion, came across an old needle cushion that had been in the house for twenty five years. On taking off the cover she discovered in the sawdust 282 needles in an excellent state of preservation and as bright as new. This is a pointer for good housewives, and it is needless to add that they will do well to look sharp at old needle cushions before casting them off.

PLAYED ON THE QUIET.

A Curling Match Not in the Schedule—Our Curlers in Montreal.

It has just leaked out (as such things do sooner or later) that a swell curling rink, composed of four of Peterborough's "crack" curlers, went down to Montreal recently to match prowess with Montreal curlers.

The quartette expected to come home with flying colors, in which event the match was to be made known. But for fear of defeat not a word was said about it before the party started. En route to Quebec's chief city, Mr. H. LeBrun, who was to play "lead," urged his confreres to put forth their best efforts by promising to pay for the supper in case they won. It was not a regular club match that was played, and the match was not played in the regular way, for of the sixteen ends, eight were played with irons and eight with granites. First the irons were tackled, and Peterborough scored two shots to the Caledonia's fourteen. With the granites the Peterboroughs made a better showing, but they could not beat their hosts, and finished three down with a score of 7 to 10, thus giving the Caledonias a majority of 15 on the whole match, as will be seen from the following score:—

PETERBOROUGH.		CALEDONIA.
H. Lebrun		T. O. Lyall
T. E. Bradburn		R. Findlay
R. S. Davidson		A. Cowan
C. McGill—skip		W. Lyall—skip
Iron	2	Iron	14
Stone	7	Stone	10
Total	9	Total	24

Skip McGill tried hard to get Mr. Davidson to skip the rink, but that gentleman refused.

After the match the Caledonias entertained the Peterboroughs to a supper at which Mr. LeBrun sang the Marseillies in such true French style that the Caledonias voted him to be one of the finest basso profundos on the top of the earth.

The Peterboroughs returned home fully impressed with the hospitality of the Caledonias.

Mr. A. W. Woodward, accountant of the Carling Brewing & Malting Company, of London, and Mr. Joseph Huggard, the Company's popular representative for this district, are in town, and they made THE TIMES a pleasant call. They met with very gratifying success yesterday and took a number of orders for the celebrated brands brewed by their firm.

Stole Oranges.

On Saturday night last one of the large panes in Mr. W. Bates' shop window was broken by something falling against it. Not having time to repair the damage that night, Mr. Bates placed a board over the hole until Monday morning. Sometime Sunday evening, shortly after church time, some party or parties noticed the broken window and helped themselves to a quantity of oranges, raisins, etc., which were in the window, nearly cleaning it out. If the persons are found out it will go hard with them.—Lakefield News.

Dairymen's Association Inspector.

At a meeting of the directors of the Dairymen's Association of Eastern Ontario, held in Belleville Tuesday, the following resolutions were moved and adopted: That Geo. Bensley be appointed inspector for Napanee and Kingston districts and W. W. Grant be appointed for Belleville and Peterborough district. That each inspector send the chairman of the different districts a report of work done every two weeks—E. J. Madden, chairman of Napanee and Kingston and T. B. Carlton, chairman of district west of Napanee. That when the inspectors find any adulteration in the milk it shall be their duty to go and see the cows milked and report to the presidents of the factories.

THE A.C.A.

Rice Lake the Centre of Attraction Just Now—Interesting Notes.

Rice Lake is being considered as a good place for the holding of the next annual camp of the American Canoe Association for their outing season in 1896. It is inferred that the officers of the A.C.A. are seriously contemplating the holding of the next meeting at Lea's Point, Rice Lake, which is situated two and a half miles from Gore's Landing, twenty-two from Peterborough, ten from Port Hope, and eleven from Cobourg. The lake is easily reached via the P.S.& N. Company's line of steamers, also the G.T.R. & C.P. & M. Ry. which touch at various points along the lake. Rice Lake is one of the prettiest of the inland bodies of water, being dotted with islands, and especially reserved by government for fishing purposes, permits being granted to those applying to the inspector at Harwood at a nominal cost. Rice Lake is four miles wide and twenty-eight long, and connects with the beautiful Trent, Ouse, Otonabee and Keene rivers, which are navigable and may be conveniently reached from either Trenton or Campbellford by canoeists. The waters of these rivers teem with maskinonge, rock, yellow bass and other gamey fish.

NOTES.

The steamer North King will run excursions from Rochester to Cobourg in connection with the railways at the time of the meeting, lasting two weeks.

Mr. Thos. Wallace, boat builder, Gore's Landing, is building a large boarding house at that point for the accommodation of canoeists. He is also erecting a commodious boat livery, which will be thoroughly equipped with all classes of craft.

The Farmers' Institute annual picnic will be held at Jubilee Point June 13th.

The Foresters intend holding their annual picnic at Jubilee Point also. They will be joined by the various lodges along the G.T.R. and C.P.R. lines.

Mr. Hickey, boat building, of Port Hope, is busily engaged in the direction of floating store house for supply visitors to Rice Lake with groceries, etc., which will be towed daily from island to island.

The post office is situated one mile from the proposed camping ground.

LAKEFIELD.

THE RINK.

The rink has been finally closed for the season, and skates and "besoms and stanes" will go into summer quarters.

MAPLE SYRUP.

New maple syrup has appeared, and it is predicted that in consequence of the low price of sugar, it will be both plentiful and cheap this year.

THE GOLDEN CITY.

Capt. Reynolds is at work on the Golden City. She is receiving a thorough overhauling, and amongst other improvements will be fitted with Calcutt's patent water tube attachment.

LENTEN ADDRESS.

The Rev. H. Symonds, of St. Luke's, Ashburnham, gave a Lenten address in St. John's church at the evening service on Wednesday.

BUILDING OPERATIONS.

Mr. G. W. Strickland's residence has been rented by Mr. F. Tate, who will occupy it during extensive alterations at his own house this summer. There are several other operations contemplated in and near the village.

TRADE.

This week closes the dullest quarter in the year, from a business point of view, and while trade has undoubtedly suffered from the general "hard times," collections are reported to be very fair, and the new stocks of goods displayed by our merchants are an evidence of their confidence in the advent of a better state of things.

RAILWAY NOTES.

Mr. Gladstone presided over a meeting of Grand Trunk shareholders in London, which passed resolutions condemning Sir Henry Tyler's management.

It is said that the G.T.R. authorities intend having the Harwood portion of the line from Cobourg opened up early this summer in order to foster the Rice lake tourist trade.

The Canadian Pacific conductors, engineers, firemen and brakemen are having their eyes examined by an expert oculist to guard against accidents arising from color blindness.

On Thursday morning last a large iron bridge at the Peterborough Bridge Works was completed for the I. B. & O. R. R. It required three flat cars to carry it.

Probably the largest fire insurance policy in existence, or ever written, is that covering the property of the Santa Fe Railway Company. It was issued by the Phenix Fire, of London, Eng., is in amount $17,000,000, and takes a premium of $170,000 to carry.

Mr. Hutchinson, superintendent of the the Irondale R. R., who was injured in the wreck of the passenger car on that road on Friday, 15th inst., is recovering from his injuries. He had a very narrow escape, having to be pulled from the burning car through the upper portion of the broken door.

Horses Wanted.

Mr. W. J. Pearson, the noted horse buyer of Montreal, will visit this locality next week as follows: Cavanagh Hotel, Peterborough, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, April 3rd, 5th and 6th; Crocker's Hotel, Millbrook, Thursday April 4th. Mr. Pearson will give the highest prices for good sound horses of every description.

He Came Back.

On Saturday last, an amusing and not very pleasant incident happened to a prominent farmer who lives in Douro, about a mile from the village. It appears he came to the village to transact some business, and put his horse and rig in a hotel stable. His hired man also came into the village with a team. He happened to be in a store, and seeing his man pass with the team, and forgetting all about his own rig, he thought this would be a good chance to get a ride home. He accordingly stopped his man, got into the rig and drove home. When he got there he happened to think of where he left his horse, and great was his chagrin, as he had to walk back to the village through the mud and slush and secure his rig, which he found safe and sound. Next time he will keep his wits about him.—Lakefield News.

Thin ice on deep water may attract, but is deceptive and dangerous. Perhaps the innocent looking, but powerful "rising" powders you get such a lot of for so little money, may be something of this kind. But you may find out when to late it is not as much saving as you think to buy this class of inferior and hurtful goods even at a low price.

A Metal Breadboard

THE WOMAN WHO HAS BEEN USED to kneading dough on the old fashioned wooden breadboard knows what a bother it is to get them clean and how cumbersome and heavy they are. When they begin to crack or check it is almost impossible to thoroughly cleanse them, and they may easily become dangerous conveyances of disease. It was left for a woman, of course, to remedy this state of affairs, and Mrs. M. M. Everhard, of St. Joseph, Mich., has patented a metal bread board, which is one of the greatest labor-savers imaginable. It is light, does not absorb grease, dough does not adhere to it, and while it possesses all the advantages of the marble bread-board it is much cheaper and, of course, far lighter and easier to handle. If readers want to confer a favor upon their wives that will be forever appreciated, let them send $1 to the manufacturers, 101 Bay street, Toronto, for one of these boards.

FRANCE GETS WARNING.

CAN'T TWIST THE LION'S TAIL WITH IMPUNITY.

Overstepped the Limits of Patience—Ministerial Statement Discussed in the Press—Feeling in Egypt.

Special to the Times.

LONDON, March 30.

THE statement which Sir Edward Grey, Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, made in the House of Commons, saying that an advance of the French into the territory of the Upper Nile valley, belonging to the Royal Niger Company, and therefore under British protection, would be an unfriendly act, and that it was well known to France that Great Britain would so regard it, is causing a profound sensation here and on the continent. Sir Edward's announcement, which was read from notes believed to have been written by the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, the Earl of Kimberley, is looked upon as revealing the extremely critical relations now existing between France and Great Britain. The fact that the statement was prepared in writing beforehand emphasizes the

SERIOUSNESS OF THE SITUATION

and shows that every word embodies the views of the Cabinet. In brief, the statement is that it is becoming daily more difficult to live on good terms with France, that Great Britain has made concession after concession in the past two years in the interest of peace, but that the end has now come, and that it is found necessary to warn France from the Ministerial bench. The most important and significant portion of Sir Edward Grey's statement was the following: "But something besides our own efforts is necessary, and that is the cooperation of the French Government and the French people."

PRESS COMMENTS.

Commenting on the present aspect of the Anglo French situation, the Globe says: "England can safely call upon the world to judge whether she should face France's deliberate provocations in Africa and Siam, or whether it would become the dignity of a great nation to turn the other cheek to the smiter any longer."

The Pall Mall Gazette says:—"France is warned that she has not a shred of pretence that she does not know that her advance into the Nile Valley would be regarded by England as an act of open and avowed hostility."

The Star says:—"We deeply mistrust the statement of Sir Edward Grey, which was a latent menace to France, first, because it is the fruit of a new spirit, which has unhappily crept into the Liberal foreign policy, and, second, because we are aghast at the magnitude of the claims to which we are therefore committed."

THE FEELING IN EGYPT.

The Daily News learns from its Cairo correspondent:—Sir Edward Grey's statement has caused a profound sensation here. It is the absorbing topic. The Anglophobe section is especially struck by the clear, firm attitude of the Government. The declaration cannot fail to have a good effect here.

A Cabinet meeting will be held to-day to consider foreign affairs.

SAMPLES OF FRENCH OPINION.

PARIS, March 30.—The Debats says: "In regard to the Upper Nile, France can only recognize the rights of Turkey and Egypt, and no others. The proclamation of England's claims there does not constitute a title. It is needless," it says, "to notice the eccentricities of the British. The only sensible speech in the House of Commons on the subject of the differences between France and England was that of Mr. Labouchere, and the situation shows France the necessity of defending her territory."

The Figaro says: "Sir Edward Grey's statement was impudent. It was simply raving on his part to accuse France of bad faith, while his menace is tomfoolery."

The Figaro further says that it looks to M. Hanotaux to keep the British Foreign Office in its place.

The Gaulois says France will respect only the rights of the Porte in Egypt, and not notice those which England arrogates to herself.

Gil Glas says England has not forgiven France for her expedition to Madagascar.

The Rappel says England is playing a dangerous role, and making many enemies.

On Thursday next M. Hanotaux, Minister of Foreign Affairs, will reply to an interpellation in the Chamber of Deputies on the statement made yesterday in the British House of Commons by Sir Richard Grey concerning the relations between France and Great Britain.

CABINET COUNCIL MEETING.

LONDON, March 30.—The Cabinet met at 11 o'clock and was presided over by Lord Rosebery, who is much more vigorous than he was upon the occasion of the last meeting. The Council ends its session at 1.40 p.m.

LONDON, March 30.—Lord Rosebery started for Nice this morning and Lord Dunraven took his departure for Monte Carlo.

FROM THE QUEEN CITY.

The Widow of the Late J. S. Monahan Sues the G T R.

Special to the Times.

TORONTO, March 30.—Today Mrs. Elizabeth Monahan, widow of the late Court Stenographer. Monahan, killed in the Weston accident, entered suit against the Grand Trunk railway for $25,000. The writ was issued by W. J. Wallace, who anticipates a settlement of the action at a figure in the neighborhood of that sued for.

The committee of Queen street Methodist church, which has been appointed to secure a pastor to succeed Rev. Geo. J. Bishop, will meet on Monday night. Many members favor Rev. Mr. Brown, of Orangeville.

G. W. Brown, of the Windsor, Detroit and Soo line of steamers, today completed negotiations with Smith and Keighley for the purchase of the Carmona which will be taken to Windsor as soon as navigation opens.

Robert McCrae, an advertising agent, was taken to the General Hospital this morning in a bad condition. He took an overdose of chloral at 126 Peter street.

John Wilson is a disappointed man. He had no home, no money, no friends, but he held that the country owed him a living so he stole a hammer and asked Col. Denison to send him to prison for a year. The Colonel told him he didn't steal enough, and gave him only six months, the maximum penalty for his offence.

WHY IS THIS THUS?

The Prince and Princess of Wales Do Not Associate as Much as Formerly—Tattlers, to the Sorrow of Many, Are Still Alive.

Special to the Times.

LONDON, March 30.—With the Prince of Wales' return to London from the Riviera the announcement is made that the Princess of Wales is going to Copenhagen next week on a visit to her parents, the King and Queen of Denmark.

This has started gossip afresh, and it has brought into prominence the fact that the Prince and Princess of Wales seldom remain in the same country together. The Princess has spent very little time in England during the past two years.

Incidentally it is announced that the Prince of Wales will soon pay another visit to the Earl and Countess of Warwick, the latter being more generally known as the famous beauty, Lady Brooke.

During the stay of the Prince of Wales at the Rivlea his partiality for Americans, especially ladies, was again remarked with many ill natured comments from expectant Britishers hovering near. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Winslow and Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Goelet were seen to be on terms of intimacy with the Prince which are enjoyed by but few English people.

THE DUKE OF YORK ILL WITH INFLUENZA.

LONDON, March 30.—The Duke of York, heir presumptive to the throne, is suffering from a mild form of influenza.

SANDRINGHAM PALACE INJURED.

LONDON, March 30.—The gale of Saturday last did much damage in the grounds of Sandringham Palace, the residence of the Prince of Wales. It is said that the loss through the storm will foot up over $10,000. Among the trees blown down were some planted by the Prince of Wales himself, which had special historic interest.

A SHEEP STEALER'S FATE.

Sent to Kingston Penitentiary for Five Years From Stratford.

Special to the Times,

STRATFORD, March 30.—James Shaen, of the Township of Logan, has been convicted at the Assizes and sent to Kingston penitentiary for five years for stealing fifty sheep from the ranch of John Whyte & Sons, of Mitchell, opposite which place he lived. The trial lasted twelve hours without intermission and over 40 witnesses were examined. It aroused nearly as much excitement as the Chattelle trial.

This ends the Assizes, the case of The Queen vs John Hardman for shooting at S. A. Cameron, of the Albion hotel, this city, being traversed to next Assizes at the request of the prisoner and on condition that he remain in jail.

VALLEYFIELD BUTCHERY.

SHORTIS HAD PREMEDITATED THE MURDER.

Divulged His Plan of Operation to a Fellow Workman and Asked His Assistance in the Scheme to Kill Cashier Lowe to Secure the Wage Roll of the Mill.

Special to the Times.

MONTREAL, March 30.—A remarkable story comes from Cornwall in regard to Shortis, the Valleyfield murderer, which will come before the judge and jury that will try Shortis, and will tend to show that he premeditated the horrible butchery. Michael J. Gleason, who plays inside home for the junior Cornwalls, and during the summer was employed in the Valleyfield Cotton Company, was brought into constant contact with Shortis and became quite intimate with him.

He often lunched with Shortis, but he became so quarrelsome that Gleason made up his mind to drop him. One day Shortis accompanied Gleason to a deserted part of the mill.

WOULD YOU LIKE TO MAKE $1,000?

"While I was busying myself getting what I required," said Gleason, "he suddenly remarked: "Say, Mike, how would you like to make $1,000?" I replied laughingly that I should like it first rate, at the same time asking him what on earth he meant. He then entered into an elaborate explanation, telling me how he was perfectly conversant with the method of paying the men's wages which was in vogue at the mill, and explaining how the money was distributed and how easy it would be to secure the whole amount."

"I should want someone to help me," he said.

I DON'T WANT TO DO IT ALONE.

"I don't want to do it alone, but with the assistance of a friend who would act with me the matter could be very easily arranged.

"We could disguise ourselves by putting a mask or something over our faces, and then by taking the back and avoiding the bridge we could creep quietly along and with something on our feet to avoid making a noise we could make our way to the office and take them by surprise. Jack Lowe would be the only one we would have to deal with, and we could manage to fix him so that we could lock him in the vault. The other two are only inoffensive young fellows, anyway, and we should have no trouble with them. I guess they wouldn't do anything to us. We could then get the money and make away with it without anyone interfering with us. We would secrete it on the island down the river, and no one would be any wiser as to who had stolen it or where it was. We would remain around town and act just the same as usual, and no one would suspect us.

I NEVER THOUGHT YOU SUCH A FOOL.

"I waited until he had outlined the whole plan and then I said: 'Well, Shortis, I always thought you were a fool but I never thought you were quite such a fool as all that.' He tried to persuade that he was not joking but I refused to listen to him and we started to return to the mill. Before leaving the 'scrap room' he said to me, "You will not tell anyone what I said to you?" and I replied that it was so nonsensical that I certainly would not but even then he made me promise once more.

IN CORROBORATION.

"That evening I paid a visit to a young lady who was employed in the mill and who is still working for the Montreal Cotton Company and as we were talking. Shortis passed by on the other side of the street. The young lady remarked that she thought Shortis was half crazy, to which I replied, 'If you only knew what he proposed to me today you would think him more than half crazy,' and thereupon I told her what had passed between the young Irishman and myself that afternoon. This young lady will bear me out in what I say at the present time."

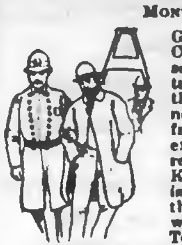
NIPPED IN THE BUD.

A PLOT TO FREE CONVICTS AT KINGSTON DISCOVERED.

The Capture of a Notorious Thief With the Plans of the Plot on His Person Frustrated a Wholesale Delivery of Prisoners.

Special to the Times

MONTREAL, March 29.—



A GREAT coup this! Congratulating themselves are two Montreal policemen over the capture of a notorious criminal from Toronto and the exposure of a plan to release the convicts in Kingston Penitentiary, the capture being that of Joseph Huddle, who is wanted in Toronto.

Last night at a little after eight o,clock Huddle, who is connected with a large gang of thieves having their headquarters in Toronto, was arrested by Constables Sampson and Shaugnessy as he came out of his aunt's house on Coursol street. On information received here from Toronto the house had been watched but Huddle had for several days succeeded in eluding arrest.

Several months ago Huddle and a partner named Rose were arrested in Toronto for burglary and sent to prison. Soon after Huddle's release he succeeded in smuggling in tools to Rose who nearly escaped by their use. Huddle then came to Montreal.

TO RELEASE KINGSTON CONVICTS.

On being searched at the police station here there was found on Huddle's person complete plans of the interior and exterior of Kingston penitentiary and letters containing the particulars of a plot to be worked by Rose, Huddle and others on the outside, and Huddle's brother on the inside to afford the wholesale escape of the convicts. These plans the police would not allow a newspaper correspondent to inspect, as the matter is being kept very quiet, but it is said that they are very complete. Huddle is now in the cells awaiting the arrival of a Toronto detective to take him to that city.

"Joey" Huddle has the reputation of being one of the most expert "moilbuzzers," as thieves who pick women spockets are designated by the detectives, in Canada. He is a good looking young fellow about 18 or 18 years of age, and has a very innocent face, which has secured his release from custody on more than one occasion. He was arrested here last Exhibition time and sent up for vagrancy.

He was accompanied by his 12-year-old half brother who was caught in the act three times at the fair grounds picking women's pockets. His size and tearful protestations secured his liberty on several occasions, but finally he was locked up and sent to the Reformatory at Penetang for three years. He is an accomplished liar.

STEAMBOATS AND RAILWAYS.

Vanderbilt System After Canadian Charters—A. M. Smith Estate.

Special to The Times.

OTTAWA, March 30.—The Vanderbilt system have long been said to want an entrance to Toronto, and it was said they were behind the New Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo Railway. This is conclusively proved by notice of application in today's Gazette for an act giving the Canada Southern Railway Company power to "acquire, lease or amalgamate" with the T., H. & B. Railway.

A charter has been granted to the executors of the late A. M. Smith, of Toronto, to purchase the steamer Persia and other vessels, and carry on a general transportation business, under the name of the Toronto and Montreal Steamboat Company.

THE COMMONS SPEAKERSHIP.

Wm. Court Gully, Q.C., M.P., Nominated by the Cabinet for the Position.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, March 30.—Lord Rosebery, the Premier, came specially from Epsom today in order to preside at a Cabinet Council, at which, according to the Daily News, foreign affairs and the speakership were the matters discussed.

Later.—It was learned that the Cabinet Council decide to nominate William Court Gully, Q.C., M.P., for Carlisle, for the speakership, to succeed Sir Arthur Wellesley Peel.

TUPPER WILL REMAIN.

Will Retain His Position—Reason for the Rightabout.

Special to the Times.

OTTAWA, March 29.—Sir C. H. Tupper is back attending to his departmental duties and will not press his resignation.

Sir Adolphe Caron will occupy the seat which Sir John Thompson had in the House but it is expected that Foster will lead.

The arrangement by which Sir Charles returns to his post is said to be the abandonment of the intention to pass remedial legislation this coming session.

Sir Charles insisted on an appeal to the people first and the rest of the Cabinet yielded.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Mayor A. D. Stewart of Hamilton has been asked to oppose Dr. Montague in the present bye election in Haldimand as a McCarthyite. He may accept.

J. E. Armstrong has been nominated by the "P.P.A." in East Lambton for the Commons. The order also has a candidate in West Lambton.

J. D. Edgar, M.P., addressed the electors at Vandorf the other day.

The Hamilton W.C.T.U. defeated a motion to endorse W. W. Buchanan, the Prohibition candidate.

After the adjournment of the Manitoba Legislature yesterday for six weeks the members presented Premier Greenway with a life-size portrait of himself.

Greenway's Statesmanship.

OTTAWA, March 31.—When asked today what he thought of Greenway's attitude Sir Mackenzie Bowell said that it showed some statesmanship. It was an evidence that he did not propose to act precipitantly and that was to his credit.

Americans are Generous.

LONDON, March 30.—The Tennyson Memorial Committee has issued a public acknowledgment of the generous subscriptions received from Americans. The committee adds that the memorial will be inscribed, "Erected by friends in England and in America."

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH. MARCH 30 1895.

Good morning !

The land offices of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company at Winnipeg are crowded daily with intending settlers in Manitoba and the Northwest. The pressure is so great that the Company will open a branch office at Calgary.

J. J. Grace, a wealthy native of Newfoundland, who has been in Boston for some tme, is the author of a stupendous scheme, which includes the construction of a dam across the Strait of Belleisle, as a means af preventing the annual Arctic ice flow and bettering the climate of the west coast of Newfoundland, the Maritime Provinces and other sections of Canada.

The Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk railways each lost in the neighborhood of ten million of dollars' worth of traffic in 1894, as compared with other years. But they can find no consolation by comparison with other American systems. The Pennsylvania system dropped over twelve millions, the Atchison nearly eight millions, the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy nearly seven millions, the Philadelphia & Reading six millions, Delaware & Lackawanna nearly the same ; likewise the Chicago & St. Paul. Fifteen other roads suffered a decline of two millions and over.

What is claimed to be a most remarkable weapon and one which is as great an improvement over the ordinary revolver for military purposes as was the revolver over the old-time horse pistol, has been brought out by a Berlin firm. The construction of this latest development in firearm manufacture is upon entirely new lines, so far as regards small arms. The cartridges, which are eight in number, are contained within the magazine in the grip. The action of the piece is so rapid that the eye cannot follow the movements and the whole eight shots can be fired before the first shell ejected has struck the ground.

Journalism in South Dakota was never in a more vigorous condition. And indication of its vigor is given in an article entitled "Vaporous Ranting of a Blatherskite," which recently appeared in the Spearfish Register; Having been scurrilously attacted by a loathsome contemporary and charged with being a juvenile, the editor of that journal points out with withering sarcasm that be will outgrow his childishness in time, while the old fossil who slings editorial ink on the other sheet will always need a nurse. "There are some hopes of our being redeemed in time," he exclaims, "but with the contemptible old scavenger that superintends the gathering of filth for the Mail, who wears on his neck and in his ears Iowa real estate that has been there for a decade, redemption is beyond the grace of God or the design of man." In the opinion of the effete east this utterance might be regarded as a bit of rudeness. The west is, however, essentially progressive, and is simply a result of journalistic progress.

THE OUTLOOK FOR PEACE.

The war in the East has relieved us pretty completely of the usual spring rumors of warlike movements in Europe. Naturally as the coming of spring makes the moving of armies an easier task, that season has been most prolific of rumors of war ; though Von Moltke has said that the operations of modern armies are little influenced by the seasons. But with an actual war in the far east and with the possibility that European powers might at any time become deeply interested in its progress, the shadow of war that occasionally flit across Europe have not been recorded with the accustomed care. The general outlook, however, is one of peace Li Hung Chang has gone to Japan ; and it may be hoped that this oriental duel will soon be over. The chance that Europe might become implicated in the dispute is now very remote. An American Senator seems to be on the warpath, but he is not dangerous. It is true that we had not much warning of the Franco-German war ; but it is equally true that the appearances at present promise peace.

NOT A SECTARIAN FIGHT.

The declaration, says the Toronto News, of the Grand Orange Lodge of Manitoba is wholly satisfactory save in one particular.

There is too much denunciation of Romanism and the appeal for support is addressed exclusively to Orangemen and Protestantism.

This should not be. The discussion ought to be conducted without declamation against Roman Catholics or appeals to Protestant bigotry. Questions of religion are, indeed, not at all involved. The issue under discussion is purely a secular and national one and any argument or appeal in reference to it should be addressed to our people as citizens and not as adherents of a particular church.

There is no reason whatever why Catholics should all be on one side in this contest. Many of the minority must be opposed on principle to any attempt to govern the provinces from Ottawa and thousands of the Catholic laity, we know, believe it would be better if we had but one school system in which secular instruction only would be imparted and no attempt made to advance the cause of any church or creed. This fact should be recognized and all reference to Romanism or Protestantism excluded from the discussion of the great question now before the Dominion.

TWO COMING STATE ELECTIONS.

Two State elections are booked for the month of April across the border—one in Rhode Island and the other in Louisiana. These two contests will be especially interesting in this period of political flux ; for they will indicate to some extent the state of political opinion in New England and the South at this stage of its post-Congressional development. Rhode Island votes on April 3rd for a full State ticket and Legislature. The present Legislature is overwhelmingly Republican, possessing but five Democrats in a total membership of 109. This is, of course, a big falling off from the happier Democratic days of '93, when there were 54 Democrats—exceedingly near one-half of the membership—in the House. Rhode Island will also vote upon a constitutional amendment providing for the biennial elections ; and in the event of its adoption, Massachusetts alone of the New England states will choose a Governor every year. In Louisiana, which votes on April 22, the conditions are more than reversed. The Legislature now consists of 132 Democrats and 2 Republicans ; but that was elected when Democratic stock was higher than it is now.

WELL KNOWN HERE.

The Many Friends of Mr. G. H. Kent in Montreal Make Enquiries.

MONTREAL, March 30.—Much interest is being taken in this city over the published reports of the recovery from a supposed fatal attack of Bright's disease of Mr. G. H. Kent, of Ottawa. Mr. Kent is well known here having been employed for many years at the works of the British North American Bank Note Printing Company, previous to their removal to Ottawa. The fact of his having been restored to health through the medium of Dodd's Kidney Pills has stimulated enquiry into the merits of the remedy and their inquiries are resulting in the daily bringing to light of similar cases of people who have made almost equally startling recoveries through the same means.

LOVE TELLS ME SO.

A life in baffled toil goes down ;
But God, who heeds not fortune's frown,
That life shall crown,
How do I know ?
Love tells me so !

A heart is broken like a reed ;
But God shall stoop unto its need
And heal indeed.
How do I know ?
Love tells me so !

For him who hath no pain or care
The night must pass, and, here or there
The morn rise fair.
How do I know ?
Love tells me so.

Who Are the Heroines?

The great heroines are not always found in books and verses. Many a little woman acting bravely her part, all unknown to the world, is unconsciously perhaps waging and winning a battle against adverse foes, just as though she were a Joan of Arc leading hosts on to victory. The girl who labors in the kitchen in order to support herself and stay the hand of poverty or infamy is acting the part of a heroine. The wife who, with an invalid husband or a trifling husband, sustains herself and little children acts the part of a heroine. The widow who relies on her industry for a livelihood, with orphaned ones to whom she must be both father and mother, acts the part of a heroine. The young girl who braves the fashions of life and attends school in her shabby clothes amid the sneers perhaps of her companions until she has filled her mind with useful knowledge has in her the elements of heroism. The young woman who qualifies herself for business that she may help an aged and afflicted mother, or who prefers to make some money that she can call her own, rather than depend upon a hard-working father for all that she receives, is worthy of being called a heroine. Hundreds of such heroines are to be found in shops and factories, in stores, in kitchens and schools, women who go forth to labor.—New Orleans Picayune.

Ella Wheeler's Double's Troubles.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox, the poetess of passion, is afflicted with doubles. Likewise some of the doubles are very much afflicted by their resemblance to the poetess. One of them is a young woman who for five years now, wherever she happens to go, no matter in what city and right here in New York, is called Ella Wheeler. Strangely enough, she herself had never met the poetess and finally concluded that a visit to her might relieve her wrath at having always to pose as a double. Before, however, she put her decision into operation she happened to meet Mrs. Wilcox, and in the pauses of the talk explained her tribulations over the resemblance, at the same time trying to find out where the yellow hair and pertliness of the poetess could possibly resemble her own brown hair and slight, youthful figure.

Evidently Mrs. Wilcox was as tired of doubles as this double was of being one, for a frown covered her face as she curtly said, "Yes, I am continually having people come to see me who say they have been told they resemble me," and turned away to talk theosophy.—New York Correspondent.

The College Woman.

In his sensible and unprejudiced book on "The College Woman" Professor Thwing really tells the whole story and answers all criticisms in his final paragraph:

"The excellence of the womanhood which the college trains is the ultimate and supreme test of the worth of the college. The type of character which it forms and the influence of this type are now becoming revealed. The early fears that mannishness would supplant womanliness in the graduate have been proved groundless. The early fears, too, that educated women would prefer to enter professional rather than domestic life have vanished. So long as the family is the unit of civilization so long will most women prefer to be at the head of a home to being at the head of any professional or commercial undertaking. And all the acquired knowledge, all the force of disciplined strength, all the enlarged nobility of character which the college may have contributed will find in the home fitting opportunities for use."

Mrs. Frederick Vanderbilt.

Mrs. Frederick Vanderbilt, or "Mrs. Fred," as she is endearingly termed by her intimates, is the prettiest of the Vanderbilt women. She is also the youngest. She is tall and slender, with pretty blond hair and blue eyes. She has beautiful hands, of which she takes very great care, wearing gloves upon all possible occasions. Although she entertains elegantly, it is not frequently that she gives dinners, teas or receptions. There is one entertainment which she instituted a few years ago at Newport which always takes place when August comes round. It is the reception to Mrs. Bottome and the King's Daughters. Most of Mrs. Vanderbilt's charities are done so quietly and unostentatiously that the outside world knows little about them.—New York Telegram.

Sewing a Womanly Art.

Sewing is a most womanly art. A woman is never more feminine than when she has a needle and thread in her hand. It is the right of every little girl to be taught to sew neatly, even if it costs the mother some self sacrifice. Very few women are wholly exempt from the needle. On the contrary, almost every woman must take more or less care of her own wardrobe, even if she has no family responsibility. Machines cannot sew up rips in gloves, replace buttons or mend. Some stitches must be taken, and how to sew neatly is an accomplishment quite as necessary to the happiness of a majority of women as any other. If a little girl be taught early how to use her needle, sewing will soon become a sort of second nature to her.—New York Recorder.

Shades.

In a north room yellow shades are indispensable. They impart an effect of glowing sunshine that is as cheerful if not as warming as the real article. For a vestibule door that faces the south china silk should not be used. The ardent sun not only fades the colors, but rots the fabric as well. A lace or lace and scrim curtain, shirred top and bottom, on a small brass rod is the best in the way of service and appearance for such doors. An inside linen shade of dark green or ecru, if preferred, tones the sunshine in the daytime and of an evening permits an unviewed flight up stairs, if the seclusion of a rainy night and an old gown is threatened by an announcing ring.

Good News For Brides.

The vicar of Cropedy, an Oxfordshire village, has had the following notice attached to the church door with regard to rice throwing at weddings: "It is particularly requested that no rice be thrown at the conclusion of weddings when the bride and bridegroom leave the church. The bride's house and not the church is the right place for observances which have no connection with the religious ceremony and are sometimes a cause of disorder and irreverence."—South Bucks (England) Free Press.

Children and Sleep.

Mrs. Phebe Hanaford, in a recent address, condemned the present system of educating children. Making them early risers, as she put it, in classes was productive of making them conceited all the forenoon of life and sleepy all the afternoon, the energy which should have been stored to meet the trials of later years being all dissipated in their youthful days.

BRITAIN STANDS FIRM.

THE SITUATION BETWEEN BRITAIN AND FRANCE IS GRAVE.

France Must Be Careful—British Rights in Africa Will be Upheld—French Encroachments in the Niger Territory.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, March 29.

THE situation over the French encroachments is considered grave. In the House of Commons last evening Sir Edward Grey, Under Foreign Secretary, stated that the Government had received notification from the Niger company that two French expeditions had entered their territory. Sir Edward added that the communications in regard to the matter had been sent to the French Government.

In moving a reduction of the estimates, Sir E. Ashmead Bartlett directed the attention of the House to the encroachments which the Government permitted France to make upon Siam. In Africa, France was still more active than in Asia, he said. She had sent out an expedition which was menacing the Upper Nile, and was seizing African territories, recognized as being within the British sphere of influence.

Sir Edward Grey replied that the advance of a French expedition under secret orders from the west side of Africa into territory subject to British claims, whose rightfulness had been so long known, would be not only an inconsistent and unexpected act, but also an unfriendly one, and would be regarded as such by the Government. England had striven to the utmost to reconcile the occasional conflict of interests. The Government would continue to pursue this line of policy, omitting nothing calculated to maintain good relations with France, and at the same time to uphold the undoubted claims of Great Britain.

Mr. Joseph Chamberlain characterized Sir Edward Grey's statement as the clearest and most satisfactory declaration yet heard on the subject from a responsible representative of the Government. He now saw, he said, that unless a clear understanding with France as to African affairs could be reached, the most serious consequences might easily ensue.

Henry Labouchere regarded Sir Edward Grey's speech as a menace to France. This speech was a menace on the lines of the familiar warning, "Hands off." Certain members seem to imagine the Nile to be as much British property as the Thames. He, for one, could not feel surprised that in view of such statements France was not friendly.

Sir Edward Grey denied that his statement had implied in any way a menace to France and Sir E. Ashmead-Bartlett withdrew his motion, in view of the satisfactory reply made by the Government.

THEIR EFFECT ON THE MARKET.

LONDON, March 29.—Sir Edward Grey's remarks in the House of Commons last night produced a disquieting effect on the Stock Exchange this morning. French rentes fell 1-2 and Consols and Egyptians unified 1 8.

BEFRIENDED THE WIDOW.

When She Died She Left Her Bachelor Friend Her Money.

Special to The Times.

BARRIE, March 29.—Three years ago a widow named Janet Miller, living in Oro township, died and left her property, $2300, to Donald McLean, a bachelor who was not a relative but who had been good to her when others neglected her in her widowhood.

A brother-in-law, Andrew Miller' sought to break the will, claiming that it had been made under the influence of McLean. The case was heard by Justice Ferguson, who ruled in favor of McLean.

Miss Maggie Corbiere, of Toronto, daughter of Jos. Corbiere, Barrie, who is visiting here, fell while skating on the rink and sprained her wrist.

GIRLS ON THE RAMPAGE.

Illustration of How the Weaker Sex Can Employ the Stronger.

Special to the Times.

CHICAGO, March 29.—The insubordination which has reigned among the inmates of the State Home for Juvenile Offenders for several weeks past broke out afresh last night. The members of the Board of Trustees of the house were spending the afternoon at the institution, and took supper with the inmates. The latter took this occasion to give a practical illustration of their unruliness, and they smashed all the crockery in the house, dismantled the dining room of its furniture, broke the windows, threw the contents of the pantry about the premises, filled the air with shouts, and then refused to go to their rooms at the command of the police. It required three waggon loads of police to quell the riot, and it was found necessary to carry the majority of the girls to their rooms by main force, and to leave a policeman on guard through the night at the door of each room occupied by the girls.

DRINK
SAUGEEN MINERAL WATER ONLY

The Water is from a Mineral Spring on the shores of Lake Huron, 1500 feet deep, and is recomended by all physicians as a sure cure for Dyspeptics. Not only that, but it is the most pleasant of all Canadian Mineral Waters to drink. It has not got that nasty salty taste the others have. It is aerated and sold in pint bottles, and is sold in all grocery stores and hotels in Ontario.

SCHEMES OF PAWNBROKERS.

How a Barber Paid a Quarter to Look at a Glass "Diamond."

A young knight of the razor in Lexington avenue told me that he had been swindled out of $2 by one man and out of 25 cents by a pawnbroker. He was shaving a customer a week or so ago when a seedily attired man entered, and waiting an opportunity displayed pawn tickets showing an advance of $20 on a watch, $18 on a diamond ring and smaller amounts on other articles.

"He offered to let me have the tickets for $2, and I thought if a pawnbroker would advance $20 on a watch it must surely be worth three times as much. Pawnbrokers, I know, only advance one-third of the value of goods at most. So I paid him the $2, and the next day I went to the pawnbroker's shop.

"I may be green, but that watch couldn't fool me. It was of brass, thinly washed with gold and worth about $4. That pawnbroker must have hired the man to take the tickets around, for he wouldn't have given $1 on that timepiece. I wouldn't pay $20 and interest to get it out, and I am out $2.

"It wasn't long after that that I had evidence that pawnbrokers stand in with these men. A shabby individual came in here and told a story of misfortune. He had been compelled to pawn a diamond ring, he said, for $85. It was half a carat diamond, he said, and he showed me a ticket. He said I could inspect the ring if I wanted before buying the ticket, so I went with him to a pawnbroker's near Seventy-fifth street.

"'Here's a man to see that ring,' he said to the pawnbroker, handing him the ticket.

"'I'll show you the ring if you give me 50 cents,' said the pawnbroker.

"I told the pawnbroker I wouldn't give 50 cents to see the ring, but I offered him a quarter, and he showed me the ring. It was one of these glass affairs that you can buy for 10 cents in the Bowery. I wouldn't buy it and left, but he had my quarter, and I have heard of other quarters he has made in the same way. It's a pretty easy way to make money—exhibiting 10 cent rings for a quarter a sight."

While I was in the barber shop a man entered and wanted to sell a pawn ticket for a pair of trousers for $1, but no one would buy.—New York Herald.

THE TEA HABIT.

Tepid Fluid Conduces to Neuralgia, Dyspepsia and Ruined Complexion.

Tea drinking as a habit is very much on the increase throughout the country, and women who have fallen into the way of taking a cup three or four times a day would do well to be warned in time against its insidious influence, says the New York Sun. Two cups of good tea is all the average feminine system can readily assimilate in 24 hours, and the usual results to the woman of oversociability in her dainty cups is apt to take the form of neuralgia and common dyspepsia that injures the best complexion.

In extreme cases very frequent among women of the lower classes in England and Ireland, where thousands of pounds of very inferior grades of tea are always boiled long and hard before considered fit for drinking, effects as serious as from alcoholism have been discovered recently, and yet the medical commissioners who inquired into this lamentable state of affairs contend that tea as a steady tipple would be robbed of half its ugly effects if always properly brewed and drunk hot, with very little sugar. It is more digestible, too, without any milk or cream, and the whole secret of its proper making lies in never permitting the boiling water more than an instant's contact with the leaves.

Nothing, if women only knew it, is more indigestible than the cups of tepid, oversweet fluid they sip at contentedly during a half dozen receptions of an afternoon in winter, that, shame be it to hostesses, is too often the only refreshment they offer.

Chinese Street Smells.

The foul smells of the streets of Canton are to my mind greatly exaggerated. But it is no doubt a city of many odors, strange and various. The houses being generally open to the streets for almost their whole front and the greater part of the town being roofed in, vapors from cooking continually fill the covered ways. Strictly speaking, few smells from the process of food preparation are pleasant, and to European nostrils the odors from Chinese cook pots are certainly unsavory. Imagine Shoreditch, Whitechapel and Wapping compressed into the narrowest avenues, covered in overhead, with all the houses open at the front, with cookery going on in every house at the same time within a few feet of the pavement where every one walks. Conjure up, as a setting for these culinary vapors, a moist, sweltering heat, an atmosphere heavy with the mingled odors of incense, joss sticks, opium, sandalwood, Chinese cabbage, strange roots and vegetables, which fill the place of our onions and garlic, wood smoke and vapors from fried fish shops, and add to the conglomerate smell thus obtained an occasional reek of a stagnant drain or a public latrine, then possibly it will be understood how in Canton there are strange pervading odors which are perhaps more trying to a foreigner than would be any definite nastiness.—"In the City of Canton" in Century.

Queen Victoria's Sham Rubies.

Real rubies are scarce. Most of the stones in use are shams. Even the queen of England cherished a pair of imitations. They were, after great trouble and large expense, exhibited in the London exposition of 1862 and proved to be merely spinels. When a customer goes to a reliable dealer and asks to see some rubies, he is asked, "How much are you willing to pay?" There is one ruby in a New York shop. It spends most of its beauty in the safe. Anybody with $8,000 can have it. Rubies are full of sentiment. It is the supposition that they give the wearer health and a happy frame of mind. Rubies were among the delights of King Solomon. Lapidaries say that he got hold of all the fine stones, and since his day the supply has steadily diminished.—Philadelphia Times.

The Jeweler's Carat.

The carat is a standard used by the jewelers to express both weight and fineness. When it is used as a weight, it is equal to four grains, or the one hundred and twentieth part of an ounce troy. In determining the fineness of precious metals 24 carats is considered the highest standard of purity. According to this standard, an 18 carat gold ring contains three parts of gold and one of some base metal.—St. Louis Republic.

Delaware river and bay were named after Lord de la Warr, who came to this country with Captain Samuel Argall on a voyage of discovery about 1610.

Sentence of Death Passed Upon Jessie Keith's Murderer — Rambling Remarks of the Prisoner When Sentenced to Death.

Special to The Times.

STRATFORD, March 29.—When the evidence in Chattelle's case had been put in and he was asked if he had anything to say he delivered himself of the following meaningless jumble:

"I have a secret, which I will give if the court wishes to hear it. The subject is to go according to the Gospel. Any more information is to your own knowledge. Can give better developments later than at the present time. Such was the Kingdom of Heaven in the first place, and in the second place a corruptible church. That is as far as I will go. I am pleased with the court as far as it has gone but would rather not open the case unless insisted upon. My complaints are that there will be objects either added or diminished, further than that there will be nothing in it."

After the jury had returned the verdict of "guilty" he was asked if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed upon him. Chattelle arose and throwing up both hands and shaking his head, announced in a full, clear voice, and without a tremor, "Thanks, I have nothing to say."

While Chief Justice Armour was speaking of the enormity of the crime Chattelle said, "I done it for a good porpose," and when he was sentenced to death on the 31st of May, he simply said, "Correct, sir."

John Idington, Q.C., the Crown prosecutor, had an easy task. H. M. East, of Toronto, retired from the defence because Chattelle would not agree with him on the course to be pursued.

"At the opening of the trial he said H. M. East insisted that the prisoner should admit the crime, relying on the medical evidence as to his insanity. He positively refused and wanted to fight the case on the evidence which would, of course, be entirely inconsistent with the plea of insanity.

"Thereupon, I informed the court that the prisoner's view of the defence was opposed to my instructions and I threw up my brief."

W. H. SIBLEY'S CASE.

The Outcome of a Plot by Convicts to Blow up the Bank of Montreal.

Special to the Times.

MONTREAL, March 29.—The forgery case in which W. H. Sibley, late editor of the Toronto Earth, is implicated turned out this morning to have been the outcome of a plot concocted by three inmates of St. Vincent De Paul Penitentiary to blow up the Bank of Montreal, when they were liberated.

Sibley has J. N. Greenshields, the well-known criminal lawyer, defending him.

THE ALIEN LAW.

An Attempt Made at Niagara Falls to Prevent Canadians Seeking Employment.

Special to the Times.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., March 29.—C. H. Turver and four others constituted which called upon the collector of the port today to see if he could not do something to prevent Canadians from coming over here, doing a day's work and then returning to their homes in Canada at night.

It was stated that these people in many instances worked for less than resident workmen were in the habit of receiving, and that if they did not, coming here was an injustice to people who lived and have property interests here.

Immigration Inspector O'Brien was present at the conference. This official, unlike De Barry, of Buffalo, is not willing to exercise authority or powers in defiance of the law and wanted authority. Collector Richmond said he was powerless, as the United States Court in a case against the Michigan Central decided that the law was not applicable in such cases.

A HEROINE'S DEATH.

Lost Her Life While Trying to Rescue Her Daughter from a Fire.

Special to the Times.

NORTHPORT, L.I., March 29.—Mrs. William Reeves and Hattie, her 14-year old daughter, were burned to death here today. Mrs. Reeves, who was awakened by the smell of smoke, first went to the bedroom, where her mother and father were asleep and succeeded in getting them safely out.

Then she dashed madly back into the burning building to save her daughter. Their charred remains were found clasped together in death.

A Toronto Chinaman at the Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., March 29.—Immigrant Inspector Maurice O'Brien stopped a Chinaman here this morning named Ah Linn who came from Toronto and was on his way to New York. He claimed that he had been in business in New York for three years, but had paid a visit to China during the war. His papers were irregular and Collector Richmond decided that he could not enter.

The Difficulty in Venezuela.

LONDON, March 29.—No communications have been exchanged recently between Great Britain and Venezuela on the frontier question and Great Britain has given no assurances that there will be no further trespassing on Venezuelan territory.

ROSEBERY'S CONDITION

He Has Been Able to Sleep Without the Use of Narcotics.

Special to the Times.

LONDON, March 30.—The Lancet and the British Medical Journal both announce that Lord Rosebery has gained strength considerably and that he was able this week to sleep without the use of narcotics.

At the same time it is learned from a most excellent source that the Premier's physicians are much alarmed on account of the fact that his stomach has given out and that his system refuses to respond to stimulants.

On top of this the Premier insists upon attending daily to certain business which makes the situation one of difficulty.

A $35,000 Blaze—Half a Dozen Buildings Destroyed.

Special to the Times.

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I., March 30.—A fire started at 4 o'clock this morning in the Journal building and spread rapidly, destroying R. C McLeod's carriage depot and warehouse, J. D. Reid's warehouse, Bank of Nova Scotia, D. McKinnon's grocery store and warehouse, McIntyre's hotel, J. A. Gourlie's drug store and George Muttart's store.

The loss is estimated at $35,000; insurance $15,000. The Manchester Fire Insurance Co., the North British and Mercantile and the Union Assurance Society are interested.

THINK IT "SWAGGER."

Opinions of Some French Newspapers of Sir Edward Grey's Statements.

Special to The Times.

PARIS, March 30.—Most of the French newspapers today agree that M. Manotaux, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, must reply to the utterances of Sir Edward Grey, the Parliamentary Secretary for Foreign Affairs, in the British House of Commons on Thursday night, with energetic protests.

Several of the newspapers take the view that Sir Edward Grey's statement was simply "swagger" arising from the fear that the Government would find itself in the minority unless it makes a patriotic display.

The Figaro says: "The Quay d'Orsay (the French Foreign Office) will show that it knows how, without losing its temper, to put the British Foreign Office in its proper place."

Death of a Cigarette.

NEW YORK, March 30.—Mary Hensell, a beautiful girl who worked in a cigar factory, took poison last night and died in the hospital. She was engaged to be married at Easter. Two months ago, Barbara Schoener, another cigarette girl, who had been the girl's inseparable companion, committed suicide. It was to Josh Schoener, brother of Barbara, that Mary was engaged to be married. Friends of the family believe that grief over the death of her companion drove the girl to commit suicide.

OXFORD WINS.

For Six Years in Succession They Win the Battle of the Eights.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, March 30.—The usual immense crowds of people of all classes and conditions thronged the banks of the Thames this morning to witness the 52nd race between the crews of the universities of Cambridge and Oxford since the present series began in 1829.

The race was rowed over the championship course, from Putney to Mortlake, four and a half miles, and, as in former years, the start was made from boats moored just above Putney bridge and the race was finished at the Ship Hotel at Mortlake. The weather was cold and raw, with squals of drizzling rain.

Oxford won the race.

Oxford has won 29 races and Cambridge 22, the contest of 1877 being a dead heat. Cambridge's last win was in 1889.

JOHN KIDD'S FUNERAL.

An Immense Assemblage in Attendance—The Young Widow Present.

Special to The Times.

ORANGEVILLE, March 30.—The remains of old John Kidd, the centenarian, were placed in the Kidd vault near Mono Mills yesterday afternoon. The whole country turned out to the funeral, there being over four hundred rigs in the procession.

Gertie Kidd, the 18 year old widow, was present and wore a costume of deep mourning.

Rev. Canon Henderson, of this town, conducted the religious services and preached a sermon suitable to the occasion. W. L. Walsh, of Orangeville, is sole executor of the dead patriarch's estate. Mrs. Kidd will receive barely what the law allows and it is said the bulk of the old man's wealth will go to his son Tom who attended him during his illness.

THE DECISION WILL STAND.

Great Britain Will Stick to the Award of the Paris Arbitrators.

Special to the Times.

LONDON, March 29.—In regard to the published statement that Canada has urged Great Britain not to further paralyze British industry by assenting to the enforcement of the Behring Sea regulations of 1895, it is officially learned that, whatever Canada may desire, the decision of the Paris Arbitration will be strictly adhered to during the ensuing season, and any side issue will not be allowed to affect that decision.

The Ill-Fated Chicora's Pilot-House Door.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., March 30.—Excitement was caused here last night when the fishing tug Tramp returned from a trip 30 miles out in Lake Michigan with the steamer Chicora's pilot-house door.

Train Robber Wore a Bicycle Suit.

MARYSVILLE, Cal., March 30.—The north bound Oregon express train was held up several miles north of this city about 1.45 this morning. James J. Bogard, the sheriff of Tehama county, a passenger on the train, was killed, together with one of the robbers, a man six feet in height, weighing 200 pounds, and attired in a complete bicycle suit, over which he had a pair of overalls.

Legislators Wild and Senators Liars.

NASHUA, N. H., March 30.—The adjournment of the Legislature yesterday was accompanied by exciting incidents. The Governor drove the legislators wild by vetoing all extraordinary measures carrying heavy appropriations. The Republican leader of the House entered the Senate chamber and declared that two thirds of the Senators were liars. The House passed a resolution calling the Senate the "House of Lords."

FLYNN WAS MURDERED.

Beaten Into Insensibility Near Shaddow Lake and Perished.

Special to The Times.

OWEN SOUND, March 30.—At yesterday's session of the inquest on the death of John Flynn, supposed to have been murdered at Shaddow Lake, Dr. McCullough, of Owen Sound, said the wound on the head was caused by a club or blunt instrument; that the other wounds on the body were caused by the same instrument, and that the deceased was beaten to insensibility and died from exposure.

The doctor swore that Flynn was not intoxicated at the time he was attacked.

A Gift for Adelina Patti.

LONDON, March 30.—At Philharmonic concert next week Adelina Patti will be presented with the gold medal of the society.

Ex-Detective Flynn Gets a Year.

MONTREAL, March 30.—Eugene P. Flynn, ex-Grand Trunk detective, was sentenced to one year in jail this morning.

Baron Alcester is Dead.

LONDON, March 30.—Baron Alcester is dead.

Li Hung Improving.

SHANGHAI, March 30.—Li Hung Chang is progressing favorably. The treatment of the wound has been antiseptic and has proved quite effectual. The Viceroy objects to having the wound opened for the purpose of extracting the bullet. The Empress' nurses are in attendance. The swelling caused by the injury has closed the eye. The bullet entered through the exterior wall of the left superior maxillary bone.

Racing at Liverpool.

LIVERPOOL, March 30.—The 48th race for the Liverpool Spring Cup of 800 sovereigns, one mile and three furlongs, a handicap for three-year-olds was run today, Wilson's Tilton, five years, and Mr E. Bonner's Merrywise, five years ran a dead heart for the first place. Mr, C. J. Blake's Gazetteer, four years, was third.

The judges decided the race in favor of Merrywise, giving the second place to Tilton.

In the High Court of Justice.

QUEEN'S BENCH DIVISION

CONDON ET AL vs. CAREY

Pursuant to a Judgment of the High Court of Justice, Queen's Bench Division, made in this action, the creditors of William Condon, late of the Township of Otonabee in the County of Peterborough, who died in or about the month of September, A.D., 1892, are on or before the 22nd day of April, A.D., 1895, to send by post prepaid to Messrs. Hatton & Wood, of the Town of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough, solicitors for the plaintiffs, their Christian and Surnames, addresses and descriptions, the full particulars of their claims, a statement of their accounts, and the nature of their security (if any) held by them; or in default thereof they will be peremptorily excluded from the benefit of the said Judgment. Every creditor holding any security is to produce the same before me at my chambers at the Court House, in the said Town of Peterborough, on the 23rd day of April A.D., 1895, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, being the time appointed for adjudication on their claims.

Dated this 23rd March, A.D., 1895.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

The Weather.

An Infant's Death.

Sadie, the only daughter of Mr. John Scott, aged 2 years, died early yesterday morning. The funeral will take place from the family residence, 43 Chamberlain street, on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, to the to the Little Lake cemetery.

Fish Laws.

If anything is to be done this year to put our fish law on a common sense footing it should be done at once. Bass and maskinonge fishing should be closed now. To leave the bass season open as last year till the 10th of May, is to have them slaughtered wholesale whilst they are on the shores filled with spawn. Provision should also be made for a thorough patrol of the lakes during the closed season.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

Cheese Meeting.

A very satisfactory meeting of the Star Cheese Factory, Verulam, was held last week. Mr. Robt. Mitchell was elected president, John Hunter, vice-president; M. Johns, secretary-treasurer; Messrs. John Lewis, Wm. Humphrey and Nicholas Tully, committee. Mr. Thomas Robertson was elected salesman and the formation of the Victoria cheese board, in Lindsay, of which Mr. Robertson is president, was unanimously approved. The seasons outlook is considered good.

Look Out for Tramps.

The country seems to be full of tramps who are already roaming about after their winter's sojourn in the big cities. Large numbers are said to be coming this way, as those who occasionally work are attracted by the canal rumors. There are others, however, who never work, and this class is generally pretty tough and subsist upon what they can beg, steal or frighten lone women into giving them. Keep your back doors locked, unchain the dog and load the blunderbus to the muzzle so as to be in a position to give these gentlemen of leisure a hot reception if they get too previous.

Just Punishment.

A severe example was made of a newspaper thief in Toronto. This class of theft has been on the increase of late and numerous complaints have been made by subscribers that their papers have been stolen. John Thorne, a young man with a bad record, was convicted of stealing papers from a number of people, Chancellor Boyd among them. The Magistrate gave him a severe lecture and said that the next person convicted before him of this class of theft would be severely dealt with. He sentenced Thorpe to two months. THE TIMES and its subscribers are greatly annoyed by the numerous thefts of papers from doorways. An example will be made of the first person caught in the act.

To Extend the Inspection.

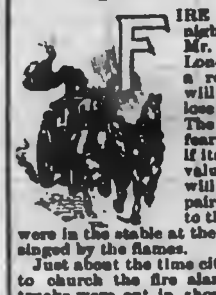
The treasurer of the W. C. T. U. of Ontario, Miss MacArthur, was in Toronto last week, and she with the president and other officers of the Association waited upon the Provincial Government to urge that the inspection of mercantile establishments, wherein females are employed—having particular regard to toilet arrangements, the providing of seats, etc.—should be of a Provincial instead of a local character, as at present. It was also asked that a female inspector should be appointed, not only for factories, but also for business houses as well. The members of the Government promised to give full consideration to the suggestions that were made.

Flynn's Successor.

G. T. R. Detective Holman, who has taken the position formerly held by ex-Detective Flynn, now in Montreal gaol awaiting sentence for perjury, has entered upon his duties. He unexpectedly dropped off the noon express at Cornwall the other day, and caught some of the cabbies and parties soliciting passengers on forbidden territory. One young lad met him in the station and sprang forward to take his valise, but, when asked if he drove a cab, scented danger, and answered "no." The other cabbies, not knowing the detective, were soliciting his patronage on the platform, when, in a gentlemanly manner, he informed them who he was, and gave them warning that any violation in future would be dealt with according to law. He is a powerfully built, athletic man, and evidently of an entirely different stamp to his predecessor.

VALUABLE HORSE BURNED.

Fire in Mr. W. H. Moore's Stables Last Night Did Much Damage.



FIRE broke out last night in the stables of Mr. W. H. Moore, London street, and as a result Mr. Moore will in all probability lose a valuable horse. The poor brute was fearfully burned and if its life is saved, its value and usefulness will be seriously impaired. In addition to this two colts that were in the stable at the time were badly singed by the flames.

Just about the time citizens were going to church the fire alarm sounded. The trucks were out in short order, but had hardly left the firehall before a telephone message announced that the fire was out. It was generally thought that it was nothing but an incipient blaze entailing very small loss, but investigation revealed that considerable damage had been done by a very peculiar circumstance.

It seems that Mr. Moore had just returned from a drive and had given the horse in charge of the stable boy. It was dark in the stable so Mr. Moore secured a lantern and went out to light the boy while the latter rubbed down the animal. The horse was in a box stall, tied to the manger, and the stall was liberally scattered with fresh and dry straw and hay which served as bedding.

The lantern which Mr. Moore carried was one with a spring bottom. By some means or other, probably on account of insecure fastening, the bottom, or oil receptacle, suddenly fell out The oil quickly spead over the straw and like a flash was ignited by the blazing wick, and in an instant the stall was a mass of crackling flames, through which it was utterly impossible to force a passage to the now, by this time, maddened animal.

The blaze was over in a few minutes, but in that time the unfortunate animal had been literally blistered with fire.

Mr. Moore at once sent for Mr. Thomas Johnston, the veterinary. The latter was attending the services at St. John's, and some delay was suffered in getting the message to him. When he did arrive he immediately applied remedies to relieve the animal's terrible sufferings. He does not hold out much hope that it will live. The animal was worth over $300.

A SAD EVENT.

The Sudden Death of Miss Maggie Stenson in Toronto.

The many friends of Miss Maggie Stenson, eldest daughter of Mr. J. T. Stenson, and the friends of the family, will be pained to learn of the young lady's death, which occurred early on Sunday morning.

The occurrence is indeed a very sad one. Miss Stenson had been in Toronto only a short time. Less than a week ago she was taken ill, but at that time it was thought that the illness was nothing more serious than a severe cold. On Wednesday however she developed symptoms of pneumonia and her mother and sister went to her bedside on Thursday. The next day the anxious members of the family here were informed that the illness was of a very serious nature, but later came news of a slight improvement. On Saturday morning Mr. Stenson received word that his daughter had taken a change for the worse, and he immediately left for Toronto to join the anxious watchers there. From the time of his arrival the patient gradully sank, and on Sunday morning at 3 o'clock quietly passed away.

Deceased had many warm and loving friends in Peterborough, her home. She was beloved for her many excellent traits and noble character. She was a consistent and earnest member of St. Paul's church, and her sudden death will be deeply felt there. The sorrowing family has the sympathy of the whole community in this their sad affliction. The body arrived last night on the C. P. R. train, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Stenson. The funeral announcement will be made later.

The sap ran one day last week, and those intending to make maple sugar are getting in readiness. Mr. W. Ventress, of Nogey's Creek, will go into it on a large scale and Cairnduff expects to boil down a good supply of the saccarine sweetness. Mr. Thomas Kelly has purchased a tremendously high toned evaporator, and is going to a bush in the north to make a large quantity, if there is a good run of sap.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

The Kinmount correspondent to the Bobcaygeon Independent says: "A Fishery Inspector was around here last week. He seems to make himself busy where there is very little need of his valuable services, and we never hear of his being busy where we know that his services are very much needed. He was up at Minden where no bass exist, and he fined a mill owner here $20 for putting sawdust in a river that never has any fish in it anyway. We would like to hear of his doing something down in the lower lakes where there are fish, and big mill owners, and where we hear every spring of shores being lit up with jack light fishers.

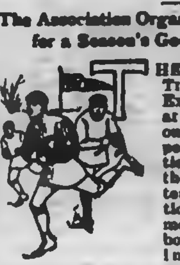
NEWSPAPER A.A.A.

The Association Organized—The Outlook for a Season's Good Sport Bright.



THE employees of THE TIMES, Review and Examiner offices met at the Oriental hotel on Saturday night and perfected an organization to be known as the Newspaper Amateur Athletic Association. There were 20 or more of the newspaper boys present, and the interest manifested augurs well for the success and future of the association.

Mr. William Menzies, of the Examiner, was made chairman of the meeting, and filled the position very acceptably. He thought an association as proposed was a necessity, in view of the fact that there were no class of men more closely confined than the newspaper staffs. Athletic sports would be healthful. They would afford healthful exercise and friendly rivalry which would be a recreation and a benefit.

The following officers were then elected:

Patronesses—Mrs. W. H. Robertson, Mrs. J. R. Stratton, Mrs. F. H. Dobbin.

Honorary Presidents—Mr. W. H. Robertson, Mr. F. W. McKay, Mr. W. K. Yokome.

President—Mr. Alf. Terrill.

Vice-President—Mr. W. A. Buchanan.

Secretary—Mr. F. T. Harris.

Treasurer—Mr. R. M. Glover.

Executive Committee—The officers and Messrs. T. J. Begley, Fred Hubbs, George McWilliams, Examiner; Fred Dobbin, George Heap, L. McWilliams, Review; Harry LaBelle, George Paxman, C. H. J. Mitchell, TIMES.

The Association will enter into the different sports as an athletic association, and it will not be confined to any one branch. It was decided to select at once baseball and lacrosse teams, and these will go into practice immediately. Later on in the season a football team will enter the arena, and when winter comes again hockey will be taken up. The Association already has a membership of gratifying proportion and by the time the members of the various staffs are enrolled there will be a membership of at least 40. Out of this number splendid material can be chosen to comprise the various teams, as their fitness for the different sports is demonstrated by practice. Outside newspaper teams will be challenged as the season progresses, and a few months of excellent, healthful sport is anticipated.

The executive committee will look after the securing of practice grounds at once. The association will select teams and appoint captains at a meeting to be held next Saturday night.

NOTES OF THE SPORTS.

The baseball club will meet tomorrow night for organization.

The annual meeting of the cricket club will be held tomorrow night in Mr. Rogers' office.

In the town council chamber, on Wednesday night, there was held a very enthusiastic and largely attended meeting of the bicycle riders in Cobourg and the surrounding suburbs. The officers elected are as follows: Hon. Pres., Capt. Walker; Pres., A. Skill; Vice-Pres., T. E. Lawless; Secy., Fred M. Hawley; Treas., J. J. Kerr; Capt., John Leuty. The colors selected are black and yellow. It is the intention to join the C. W. A.

The Evangelists.

It is probable that the evangelists, Rev. Mr. Moore and Mr. White, will terminate their labors in Peterborough on Wednesday night in the George street Methodist church. Tonight and tomorrow night they will conduct services in St. Paul's.

"As to the question of side saddles, madam," ventured the reporter as delicately as he could, "what will be the position of the coming woman?" "As to the question of saddles, sir," replied the president of the Woman's Convention, with considerable asperity, "the coming woman, if she feels like it, will take both sides."

Can Catarrh Be Cured?

MOST POSITIVELY SO BY THE USE OF

Oxygenator

The record of our remedy is remarkable, it having shown itself equally efficacious in every form of the disease, from the simplest first symptoms to the most aggravated type. We confidently believe that any person suffering from Catarrh who has vitality sufficient to keep him alive until Oxygenator is given time to impart its properties can be completely cured by its use. That all other remedies have failed is no evidence that it will not cure.

Obtain precise but simple directions how to use it from head office, and we will guarantee you splendid results with the first jar you start with. Chronic cases desired.

PERMANENT RESULTS GUARANTEED

Put up in Gallon Jars, Price $1.50; or Two Jars for $2.50; and sold only direct from the factory to the consumer.

A Metal Breadboard

THE WOMAN WHO HAS BEEN USED to kneading dough on the old fashioned wooden breadboard knows what a bother it is to get them clean and how cumbersome and heavy they are. When they begin to crack or check it's almost impossible to thoroughly cleanse them, and they may easily become dangerous coveyances of disease. It was left for a woman, of course, to remedy this state of affairs, and Mrs. M. M. Everhard, of St. Joseph, Mich., has patented a metal bread-board, which is one of the greatest labor-savers imaginable. It is light, does not absorb grease, dough does not adhere to it, and while it possesses all the advantages of the marble bread-board it is much cheaper and, of course, far lighter and easier to handle. If readers want to confer a favor upon their wives that will be forever appreciated, let them send $1 to the manufacturers, 101 Bay street, Toronto, for one of these boards.

STRANGLED BY HER LOVER

BODY OF A WOMAN FOUND HORRIBLY MUTILATED.

It is Said that a Minstrel is the Murderer—The Murdered Woman Was Strangled and then Butchered—End of the Draught in Missouri and Michigan.

Special to the Times.

NEW YORK, April 1.—The body of a colored woman, strangled to death and with both legs cut off at the knees and a large gash at the right hip, was found at 6 o'clock yesterday morning in front of No. 75 Sixth avenue. It was shortly after daybreak when a Mr. Phillips in passing down the westerly side of Sixth avenue saw a suspicious looking bundle inside the iron railing in front of No. 75. He bent over the railing and saw a human foot protruding from under the covering. He immediately ran to the Charles street police station and told of his discovery. The body was removed to the station house. As it was unwrapped the police saw the dead body of a colored woman. Both legs were cut off at the knees and were placed along the hips, feet downward. Around the neck was a piece of pink gauze or cheese cloth about five feet long, which was twisted to serve as a rope. This was knotted once over the windpipe and drawn so tightly that the skin was broken and a few drops of blood oozed out, the tongue was protruding and it was evident that death was caused by strangulation. On the body was a tightly fitting white cotton chemise the lower part of which was saturated with blood where it had come in contact with the severed limbs. The other garment on the body was a cheap, black cloth skirt. There was nothing to indicate the identity of the dead woman. She was apparently about 28 or 30 years old. The police are trying to establish her identity. It is evident the crime was committed some distance from the place where the body was found.

WELCOMED RAIN.

CHICAGO, April 1.—The drought which has prevailed for a number of weeks in Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Michigan was broken todey by a heavy rain fall, causing a decided improvement in crop prospects. Rain continues to fall in Nebraska, Minnesota and the Dakotas.

A SLIGHT CLUE.

A close examination of the severed legs showed that they had been cut just above the knee joint. As to the instrument used, Dr. Weston would not so decisively. It might have been done with a butcher's cleaver, or it could have been done with a knife or sharp hatchet. It was not skilled work. Dr. said that the murder certainly was not committed previous to Saturday evening. Up to a late hour it was said that no tangible clue to the perpetration of the crime had been unearthed. Detectives who were sent to Rahway, N.J., in the hope of finding a clue, learn that about ten days ago a colored domestic named Mattie Ivory left Rahway for New York, since which time nothing has been heard of her. It is claimed that the description of Mattie tallies pretty closely to that of the murdered woman, and her friends believe that possibly she may be the victim. Among Mattie's lovers it is said, was a member of a colored minstrel troupe which recently played in Rahway, and who is believed to be at present in this city.

DOGS IN THE ARMY.

Various Experiments to be Made by German Officers.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, April 1.—In May at Dresden will be made the public test of the efficiency of the dogs which have been in training for so long in German army, for military services, such as guarding the campaign, finding the wounded, carrying despatches and munitions. For the trial of the last there will be a journey of three miles and back. A number of barriers will be put in the way to test the ingenuity of the competitors and what is harder still, other dogs who have nothing to do, will be stationed along the route to tempt them to loiter.

DEPUTY RECEIVER-GENERAL.

Mr. David Creighton, Formerly of the Empire, Secures the Appointment.

Special to the Times.

OTTAWA, April 1.—The superannuation of Mr. C. J. Campbell, deputy receiver-general at Toronto, has been determined upon by the government, that gentleman having given the country services which entitle him at his present advanced age to be relieved of duty. Mr. Campbell is 73 years of age, and when he retires will have served twelve years. By an order in council the superannuation will take effect on May 10. Mr. Campbell's successor will be Mr. David Creighton, formerly manager of the Empire. The salary that attaches to the office is $3,000 a year.

TWO BROKEN ARMS.

The Result of Two Rigs Trying to Pass Through a Gate at Once.

Special to the Times.

CORNWALL, April 1.—Charles Willard, of Elma, Ont., had his arm broken at Winchester Springs. He was driving with a friend, when the latter started racing his horse with another, they both trying to go through a gateway together. One of the horses was crowded into the other sleigh, and falling on Willard broke his arm.

R. H. Lorne had his arm caught in the drum of a windlass in a stone mill at Mountain Station the other day and broken.

An Incendiary Fire at Port Rowan.

PORT ROWAN, April 1.—Incendiaries set fire to a building which J. G. Boucher was converting from a factory into a hotel last night, doing $3,500 damage. Insured in the Western Assurance for $2,300.

A Fire at Listowel.

LISTOWEL, April 1.—Fire yesterday destroyed the business places of S. H. Smith, R. Moore, C. A. Lee, and Bonnett & Bowyer.

THE BRITISH ADVANCE

Into an Unknown Land—British Advance Into a Wild and Barbarous Region—An Expedition Full of Peril—Umra Khan a Warrior.

Special to the Times

NEW YORK, April 1.—Speaking of the Chitral campaign in India, the Tribune's London correspondent says that it attracts more attention than is generall devoted to any Indian frontier war. It has been expected for months and the Government, in anticipation of this and other north-west frontier difficulties, has always maintained a substantial army in readiness around Peshawur.

The Chitral region to be penetrated is a terra incognita. No Englishman has travelled between India and Chitral by the short route.

But the difficulties of the enterprise are not only topographical. The expedition will enter a veritable hornet's nest of the wildest hillmen in Asia. There is no tribe in Afghanistan more fanatical and warlike than he Swatis. The chief ruler of those regions, Umra Khan, whose forces are assisting in the investment of Chitral, is an adventurer who raised himself to his present position by the sword. He has enormous influence, and it is not improbable that the British expedition may find itself confronted by 70,000 or 100,000 hillmen at various stages of the journey.

TO GET AN EASY PASS.

The British authorities are naturally exceedingly anxious about the outcome of this enterprise. It will be a great achievement to secure a short cut from Peshawur to Chitral, beyond which is a comparatively easy pass into Russian Turkestan, for the command of that point is the real objective point of the campaign, but this result can be obtained only by an enormous outlay of money and probably a large sacrifice of life, Chitral may prove another Afghanistan.

Sher Afzul has closely invested Chitral, where the British agent, Mr. Robertson, is. The British relief force, numbering 14,500 men, will cross the frontier today.

ENGLAND MAY DECLARE

A Protectorate Over Egypt and the Nile to Solve the Problem.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, April 1.—Sir Edward Grey's speech in the House of Commons regarding French encroachment in Africa produced a profound impression in Parliament and throughout the country, but we have as yet very little comment from such Parisian papers as speak with certain authority.

The Journal des Debats alone, of the serious journals, discussed the thing yesterday, advancing the argument that England had nothing to do with the Upper Nile Valley, which concerned the Sultan and Egypt alone, and that France could not recognize any Nile interests or rights save those of the latter.

If this is the attitude of the French Government, then England will at once solve the problem by declaring a protectorate over Egypt and the Nile.

A NEW BALLOT.

It Will Be Black, Except the Space for the Placing of the Cross.

Special to the Times.

OTTAWA, April 1.—By an Order in-Council, passed on Saturday, the Act of Parliament providing for the new ballot is to be brought into force immediately.

The new ballot will leave little opportunity, if any, for errors such as frequently spoil votes. It will be black, except the blank space opposite the name of each candidate, on which the voter is to place his decisive cross.

If mistakes occur under this plan they will be either from wilful ignorance or gross carelessness. The new ballot will be tried in the bye-elections, and that will test its utility for the general elections.

CUBAN INSURGENTS WIN.

In Two Minor Fights They Defeat the Spanish Government Troops.

Special to the Times.

KEY WEST, Fla., April 1.—Private advices from Cuba per steamer Olivette state that several minor fights on the 26th and 28th ult. took place between the Spanish troops and the insurgents in the Province of Santa Clara. The insurgents defeated the Spanish troops both days. She Spanish left their dead, numbering 49, on the field and retreated in good order.

Among the soldiers recently sent from Spain, there have been a great number of desertions, tde soldiers going over to the insurgents.

IMPRISONED THE DEBTOR

And a British Columbia Court Holds the Debt is Now Discharged.

Special to the Times.

VICTORIA, B.C., April 1.—The court on Saturday released John Clark, a local ship builder, imprisoned a month ago at the instance of Robert Ward & Co., for the nonpayment of an $8,000 debt.

The defence raised the unique point that by seizing the person of the debtor plaintiffs had taken the last recourse of law and all liabilities on defendant's part had thereby been discharged.

The court held the point well taken and ordered Clark's release, purged of all responsibility for the debt. The case is without precedent in Canadian courts.

SUNDAY BALL PLAYING.

Police Refuse to Arrest Players Until after the Game Had Been Played.

Special to The Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 1.—Rev. Dr. Pelton and others, representing the Reform League, appeared at the Ball Park yesterday and insisted on the Indianapolis and Cincinnati players being arrested as soon as they appeared in uniform on the grounds. The police refused to make the arrests until after a game of nine innings was played, then they were all arrested. This will be the way at all Sunday games here during the season.

Dismissed the Appeal.

OTTAWA, April 2.—In the Exchequer Court today Justice Burbridge dismissed the appeal of the Queen vs. Montreal Cotton Mill Co., for $13,878, which were a dispute for damages to the Lachine canal.

The Standard's Berlin correspondent says that Emperor William will christen the new warship Bismarck. Among the presents sent to Bismarck is a lock of George Washington's hair in a little golden box, the gift of an American lady. Bismarck weighs about 200 pounds, and looks better and younger than he did after his illness at Kissingen in 1893.

HOW'S THIS FOR A BRUTE?

THE MISERABLE MAN SAYS HE IS NOT BRUTAL.

Arthur F. Zimmerman Has Something to Say To the Public, Although too Proud to Speak for Himself.

Special to the Times.

TORONTO, April 1.—Arthur F. Zimmerman, who, with his wife, was the central figure in the Brant Place episode, is still confined to his bed at the General Hospital. He has recovered enough to take some interest concerning what has been written about him, and his desire to make a statement culminated in the following letter:—

Dear Sir,—In your column four the 27th of March I saw a statement which undoubtedly got made up of malice, falsehood and liars, and as I was unable to defend myself, the public opinion was turned against me. It will not be the place here to lay the matter broad upon the public view, but I will only direct you to my fellow workingmen. Ask Albert Hudson about me (now with the Toronto Silver Plate), my habits and general behaviour, my ability and knowledge of the trade. Inquire in Lyons, say Mr. George Reilly, of the Manhattan Silver Plate, or in Meriden, or in Derby, where I have been for 3 5 years, and then print your receipt of that kind, no matter what it will be.

Personally, I am too proud to speak for myself. I won't praise myself, but I deny to be a brutal, ignorant idiot, one of sluggish temper. Never in all my life have I been arrested for any offence, never been in any court up to January the first, 1895.

What drove me into trouble will be heard at court, if I am dead or alive, and what share I get of justice. If I had not survived, no one would now; now the whole world will see who is to blame for it.

Please send me some papers. I can't buy any, as no money is allowed to me, and oblige yours, very respectfully, Arthur A. Zimmerman, General Hospital, Toronto.

P.S.—Notify also the whole press in Canada and States, if you deem it necessary.
A. F. ZIMMERMAN.

PITCH IN ON THE G.T.R.

Three Train Hands Injured—Toronto Man's Miraculous Escape.

Special to the Times.

HAMILTON, April 1.—Early Sunday morning a serious pitch-in happened on the G.T.R., a short distance west of the Junction cut. A freight engine and van were wrecked, and 11 cars and their contents were burned. An engineer and fireman received several bad cuts and a brakeman had his back injured.

Freight train No. 418 was standing on the main line a short distance west of the entrance to the V, when No. 420 came along at a good speed and crashed into the rear of 418.

The engine was thrown on the bank of the cut, a total wreck, and the cars were soon blazing. A wrecking gang was telegraphed for, and in a short time it was at work. Before the cars could be pulled away 11 of them had been burned. Both Engineer Allen and Fireman McAteer, of No. 420, who jumped, were injured, and William Tanner, a brakeman on No. 418, had his back hurt.

A singular occurence in connection with the accident was that an elderly man, who had charge of a horse in a car on the train that was run into, and who was in the conductor's van at the time, escaped without injury, although the engine dashed square into the van. Later in the day he complained of being a little stiff, but left for Toronto, his home, in good spirits.

DEAD ON THE TRACK.

Michael Potter, a Chatham Bank Messenger and an Old Soldier.

Special to The Times.

CHATHAM, April 1.—This morning Michael Potter, messenger in the Merchants' Bank, was found dead on the C.P.R. shortly after the 1.22 express for the West had passed.

The deceased was going to London on the 2.45 a.m. express for his pension. He fought in the Crimea and has the Victoria silver medal for bravery at Sebastopool and also a medal from the Turkish Government. He came from Kingston twenty years ago, was 72 years of age, and leaves a grown up family.

It is not certain whether he was killed by the train or not, as the only bruise was one on his forehead, which may have been caused by falling.

An inquest will be held.

Toronto Man Killed.

FLETCHER, Ont., April 1.—A man was found lying beside the railway track near Buxton on Saturday evening with both legs nearly cut off above the knees. He was brought to this village, but died a few minutes after his arrival. The body was identified as that of John Hamilton, who has two brothers and a sister living in Toronto. A sister from Detroit took charge of the remains, which will be interred at Toronto.

The Times.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 2 1895.

Good morning!

In order to encourage emigration from the southern States to Manitoba and the Northwest, the Canadian Pacific has decided to give free transportation to settlers from the south northwards.

The New York Central start next month a new direct train service between New York and Montreal, crossing the St. Lawrence on the C-P.R., bridge and using the C.P.R., tracks from St. Constant to Montreal.

The French and German Foreign Offices are exchanging communications as to the conduct of French telegraph officials. The Germany Embassy in Paris learned that its cipher messages to Berlin were copied at the French office, and efforts were made to translate them.

Have patience with Spring. She is only experimenting. In a day or two she will be turning out as fine an article of weather as anyone could wish for.

Bouncer De Barry has discovered that Dr. Barnardo's pauper boys are illegitimate children of the British aristocracy, and therefore as such the bouncer has sternly resolved not to admit them into the United States. There may be some reason for De Barry's determination. If the Barnardo boys are really scions of British nobility, they might carry off all the American heiresses when they grow up.

Fluent and fiery United States statesmen frequently view with alarm the fortifications on the Canadian side of the boundary line, and point to them as the perpetual menace to Uncle Sam's territory. But what about the fortifications on Uncle Sam's side of the line? Are they not a perpetual menace to Canada? Yet nobody in this country objects to them or demands their removal. They don't scare anybody over here.

Those persons who have been writing anonymous letters to the parents of the murdered girl, Jessie Keith, reviling them because of their agnosticism and informthem that the murder of their child was a judgment from the Almighty because of their lack of faith, are not Christians. They may think they are Christians, because they accept the theological dogmas of Christianity; but they are not genuine Christians, because they have not the spirit of Christ.

The rambling remarks made by the murderer Chatelle to the jury at Stratford the other day appear on the surface to prove that the wretch is insane. But it is more probable that his senseless speech was a cunningly devised trick to convince the jury that he was not responsible either for his words or his acts. The reports of the trial show that he was affected by the sentence and seemed to realize his awful position. If he were really insane it is doubtful if he would have been so affected. Still, it is not right for the law to take the life of an irresponsible man, even one guilty of such a horrible crime as that for which Chattelle has been condemned; and it would be well to have the man examined by experts so that all doubts on the subject may be removed.

A CANADIAN WORLD'S FAIR.

We believe that the whole Dominion will hail with delight the proposal to hold a Canadian World's Fair at Montreal in 1896. It is rather astounding that this grand idea has never struck the Canadian mind before. Almost every other country on the face ot the habitable globe which lays claim to any national and material importance, has had its great International Exhibition. Indeed, some of them tried the experiment not only once, but several times and on each new occasion with increased popularity and success. In fact, since the days of the great Crystal Palace Show at Sydenham, London, through the whole gamut of these great reunions of the arts ot industry and peace in England, France, Belgium, Holland and Germany up to the crowning wonders of the great Chicago World's Fair and the still more recent San Francisco Fair among our neighbors of the United States, history of the world's progress in civilization has been marked by these conspicuous and memorable milestones in different countries which have so much added to their material wealth and importance Even some of Great Britain's larger colonies like Australia have not neglected these valuable means to the great end of bringing themselves into the world-wide notice and stepping into the foremost rank as essential factors in the further development of modern civilization. Canada alone, of England's greater possessions, has thus far overlooked this valuable stepping stone to her own development and the enhancement of her own importance. We are sincerely glad, however, to see that this regrettable oversight is to be repaired at last. Thanks to the zealous and indefatigable exertions of Mr. J. H. Stiles, of London, Eng., who was Great Britain's Commissioner at the recent San Francisco Fair, the Dominion is to have the honor this time of being the country in which the world's next great international exhibition will be held. For some time past Mr. Stiles has been working upon the project in Montreal with a devotion and energy worthy of so important a cause and we are happy to say that his efforts have at last been crowned with the fullest success. He has succeeded not only in enlisting the heartiest sympathy ot the municipal government, the leading institutions, the railway corporations and the principal business men and leaders of public opinion in the sister city, but in obtaining the ratification of his project by its entre population through an immense public meeting just held there. In other words, it has been definitely decided to hold the next World's Fair in Montreal, beginnig on or about the Queen's Birthday of next year and keeping the great international show open for a period of five months, or throughout nearly the whole summer of 1896. A committee of prominent citizens has already been formed to make the necessary arrangements and we are told that a joint stock company will be formed, and as soon as $400,000 of its stock have been subscribed by Montrealers, the Dominion and probably also the Provincial Governments, as well as the Montreal city corporations, will be asked for suitable grants to help carry out the great project, as the buildings alone will—it is estimated—cost $780,000. As will be seen, therefore, this great undertaking is already well started and Canadians generally, without distinction of race, creed or locality, have now something to look forward to that will direct the eyes of the whole world to their beautiful land for the next eighteen months.

TAKEN IN TIME.

Mrs. Carlough of South Casselman, Makes a Trial of a Certain Remedy.

SOUTH CASSELMAN, April 1.—The approach of spring has been marked in this neighborhood by a considerable amount of sickness, and much uneasiness was felt at one time over the condition of Mrs. Jemima Carlough, who is well known in this part of the country. She was compelled a short while ago to take to her bed suffering from severe pains in the back, loins and side, and the rear part of the head, and it was feared that her illness would develope formidable symptoms, which it doubtless would have done had she not promptly sought relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills which have effected a marvellous cure.

THE LITTLE ARMCHAIR.

Nobody sits in the little arm chair;
  It stands in a corner dim;
But a white-haired mother gazing there,
  And yearningly thinking of him,
Sees through the dust of long ago
  The bloom of her boy's sweet face,
As he rocks so merrily too and fro,
  With a laugh that cheers the place.

Sometimes he holds a book in his hand,
  Sometimes a pencil and slate;
And the lesson is hard to understand,
  And the figures hard to mate;
But she sees the nod of his father's head,
  So proud of the little son,
And she hears the words so often said:
  "No fear for our little one."

They were wonderful days—the dear sweet days
  When a child with sunny hair
Was here to scold, to kiss and to praise
  At her knee in the little chair,
She lost him back in the busy years,
  When the great world caught the man,
And he strode away past hopes and fears
  To his place in the battle's van.

But now and then in a wistful dream,
  Like a picture out of date,
She sees the head with the golden gleam
  Bent over a pencil and slate.
And she lives again in the happy day,
  The day of her young life's spring,
When the small armchair stood just in the way—
  The center of everything.

EXPENSES OF A DINING CAR.

Costly Service Maintained For the Convenience of Travelers.

A modern dining car of the most approved pattern costs $25,000 to build. Next come the kitchen utensils, the table furniture, the silverware and linen, averaging about $3,000 worth to a car. Each car must have a steward, who usually gets $100 a month, and a head cook, who values himself at $75 a month. There must also be one or two assistant cooks and three or four waiters. Three hundred dollars a month is the very smallest outlay for wages, while the cost of raw food material, breaking of dishes and the board of employees is about $2,000 per month additional. An average five days' run costs very nearly $600 for food and service, so that it would take 40 persons at every meal on the run to pay the daily expenses without allowing anything for interest on the investment or for wear and tear on the furnishings. The kitchen of a dining car contains every convenience except room. There is a range capable of doing all the boiling, broiling, baking and stewing for hundreds of people, yet occupying comparatively no space at all. There is a board for the carver, a bin and table for the baker and a sink for the dishwasher, with shelves and imperishable supplies, all in an area of 5 by 13 feet at most. Every inch of space is carefully utilized. Under the car is the cellar or refrigerator, where ice, beef, mutton, poultry, milk, butter and other perishable supplies are kept.

The steward, who is in charge of all this, must be a good guesser. To be sure, the dining car is run on the principle that no money will be made anyway; that one road must run it because a competing road does; that the traveler must therefore have the best in the market for a fair price, and that it is better to throw away unused and spoiled material at the end of a trip than to run out of some necessary on the way. Yet I imagine that the steward who has the lowest average of wasted food stands highest in his employer's regard. The first thing he has to do is to make out the bills of fare for the trip. These must be approved by the head of the commissary department. The chef buys the necessary supplies, but the steward has to turn in an inventory of them at the starting point, and also a statement of what has been used en route and what is left at the end of the run. There is no method of estimating the exact number of meals that will need to be served during the run, particularly if it be a short one. Suppose it is to be made from Washington to New York. Individual methods of economy are very different. While some prefer to pay $1.25 for the extra comfort of a seat in a parlor car, there are others who think the common coach good enough and prefer to spend their dollar in the dining car. Again, there are some who frequent both parlor and diner, and others who care for neither. For a longer journey every berth in the sleeper may be occupied, and yet the dining car may be practically tenantless, or the sleeper may be nearly empty and the diner full of people from the day coach, or it may be crowded with the occupants of both. As the steward goes through the train on a tour of inspection or in giving his first call for a meal he must note the number of lunchboxes and guess from the faces and dress of the passengers how many orders he will have. But even his best judgment will be far out of the way, for the lunchbox may be for the next day's light repast, or some of the best dressed passengers may not have decided whether to patronize the dining car or not.—Kate Field's Washington.

How a Fish Breathes.

The gills of a fish are situated at the back part of the sides of the head and consist of a number of vascular membranes, which are generally arranged in double, fringelike rows, attached to the parts by the base only. In some cases these membranes are feather shaped, in others mere folds attached to the sides of the gill cavities. The fish is a cold blooded animal—that is to say, its temperature is seldom more than a degree or two higher than the water in which it lives. This being true, the creature needs but a very small amount of oxygen to keep the blood at a temperature sufficiently high to sustain life. This oxygen is supplied to the blood of the fish by respiring large quantities of water, or rather drinking large quantities of water, and respiring the air separated from it by the gills. This explains why a fish cannot live in a tank of water which has been sifted through the gills time and time again any better than a human being or other animal can in air that has been deprived of all its oxygen by being taken into lungs and expelled without being aerated. Fish that die in the stale water of aquariums may be properly said to drown, because they perish for want of air, the same thing which occasions death by drowning in man and other lung breathing animals.—St. Louis Republic.

The Order of the Garter.

An evening journal, in a dissertation on the Order of the Garter, states that it consists of 25 ordinary knights and 25 extra knights, which is quite wrong. There is no fixed number of extra knights, who are all royal personages, and there were only six of them when the queen's reign commenced, whereas there are now 22. During the last two financial years £1,230 has been paid by the public to the dean and chapter of Windsor and to the Garter officers in respect of fees and expenses in connection with the creation of three extra knights. In all other countries such payments are made by the new knights themselves, but here the taxpayers find the money, and last year the lord chamberlain received £3,000 to provide and repair insignia of the various orders of knighthood.—London Truth.

Last Letter of Emin Pasha.

Sir William Flower has communicated to the Zoological society some posthumous tidings of Emin Pasha. This was a letter concerning some zoological specimens which never arrived in England at all, having been lost at the time of Emin's murder. The letter and the journal—principally relating to observations upon birds—which accompanied it were written in a fine and minute hand, like copper plate engraving. The letter had the additional and melancholy interest of being perhaps the last that Emin Pasha wrote. He was in constant correspondence with the president of the Zoological society about matters of zoological interest and always wrote in English, of which apparently he knew nothing until he went to Africa.—New York Times.

FRANCE GETS WARNING.

CAN'T TWIST THE LION'S TAIL WITH IMPUNITY.

Overstepped the Limits of Patience—Ministerial Statement Discussed in the Press—Feeling in Egypt.

Special to the Times.

LONDON, March 30.

THE statement which Sir Edward Grey, Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, made in the House of Commons, saying that an advance of the French into the territory of the Upper Nile valley, belonging to the Royal Niger Company, and therefore under British protection, would be an unfriendly act, and that it was well known to France that Great Britain would so regard it, is causing a profound sensation here and on the continent. Sir Edward's announcement, which was read from notes believed to have been written by the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, the Earl of Kimberley, is looked upon as revealing the extremely critical relations now existing between France and Great Britain. The fact that the statement was prepared in writing beforehand emphasizes the

SERIOUSNESS OF THE SITUATION

and shows that every word embodies the views of the Cabinet. In brief, the statement is that it is becoming daily more difficult to live on good terms with France, that Great Britain has made concession after concession in the past two years in the interest of peace, but that the end has now come, and that it is found necessary to warn France from the Ministerial bench. The most important and significant portion of Sir Edward Grey's statement was the following: "But something besides our own efforts is necessary, and that is the cooperation of the French Government and the French people."

PRESS COMMENTS.

Commenting on the present aspect of the Anglo French situation, the Globe says: "England can safely call upon the world to judge whether she should face France's deliberate provocations in Africa and Siam, or whether it would become the dignity of a great nation to turn the other cheek to the smiter any longer."

The Pall Mall Gazette says:—"France is warned that she has not a shred of pretence that she does not know that her advance into the Nile Valley would be regarded by England as an act of open and avowed hostility."

The Star says:—"We deeply mistrust the statement of Sir Edward Grey, which was a latent menace to France, first, because it is the fruit of a new spirit, which has unhappily crept into the Liberal foreign policy, and, second, because we are aghast at the magnitude of the claims to which we are therefore committed."

THE FEELING IN EGYPT.

The Daily News learns from its Cairo correspondent:—Sir Edward Grey's statement has caused a profound sensation here. It is the absorbing topic. The Anglophobe section is especially struck by the clear, firm attitude of the Government. The declaration cannot fail to have a good effect here.

A Cabinet meeting will be held to-day to consider foreign affairs.

SAMPLES OF FRENCH OPINION.

PARIS, March 30.—The Debats says: "In regard to the Upper Nile, France can only recognize the rights of Turkey and Egypt, and no others. The proclamation of England's claims there does not constitute a title. It is needless," it says, "to notice the eccentricities of the British. The only sensible speech in the House of Commons on the subject of the differences between France and England was that of Mr. Labouchere, and the situation shows France the necessity of defending her territory."

The Figaro says: "Sir Edward Grey's statement was impudent. It was simply raving on his part to accuse France of bad faith, while his menace is tomfoolery."

The Figaro further says that it looks to M. Hanotaux to keep the British Foreign Office in its place.

The Gaulois says France will respect only the rights of the Porte in Egypt, and not notice those which England arrogates to herself.

Gil Glas says England has not forgiven France for her expedition to Madagascar.

The Rappel says England is playing a dangerous role, and making many enemies.

On Thursday next M. Hanotaux, Minister of Foreign Affairs, will reply to an interpellation in the Chamber of Deputies on the statement made yesterday in the British House of Commons by Sir Richard Grey concerning the relations between France and Great Britain.

CABINET COUNCIL MEETING.

LONDON, March 30.—The Cabinet met at 11 o'clock and was presided over by Lord Rosebery, who is much more vigorous than he was upon the occasion of the last meeting. The Council ends its session at 1 40 p.m.

LONDON, March 30.—Lord Rosebery started for Nice this morning and Lord Dunraven took his departure for Monte Carlo.

Did Not Know His Name.

The men of the Light division in the Crimea always spoke of Sir George Brown as "the general," as was then and is still, though in a lesser degree, the habit of soldiers, possibly from not knowing the name of the immediate leader. This ignorance cost Sir George £1 during the worst of the winter. He had seized an opportunity of meeting Lord Raglan to urge the desirability of his showing himself more frequently in the camps.

"What good will it do?"

"Oh, 'twill cheer the men up! Why, sir, numbers of my men don't know your name."

"But they don't know your name, George."

"Every man in the Light division knows my name."

"I'll bet you £1 the first man we ask does not."

"Done," said Sir George, and they rode to the Light division camp.

"Come here, my man. Who am I?"

"You're the general sir."

"But my name?"

"You're the general, sir," and nothing more could be elicited from him. Sir George Brown paid up on the spot.

No one who saw him ride straight toward the foe, without an indication that he was in any danger, is likely to forget the animating effect of his bearing on the soldiers.—Sir Evelyn Wood in Fortnightly Review.

The Lady of the Plains.

A young woman from the treeless plains of the west had gone to Boston to a music school on her first trip east, and among the first persons she met at her boarding house was a youth from Bangor. As their acquaintance ripened she told him of what had interested her on the journey.

"Why," she said, with an exultant spirit, "I saw at one place in Pennsylvania a hundred saw logs in one pile."

"A hundred!" he asked, with a tinge of a smile.

"That's what they told me. You know, we don't have saw logs where I came from."

"Is that so? You ought to come to Maine once."

"Do you have them there?"

"Do we!" he replied magnificently. "Do we! Why, my dear young lady, saw logs grow on trees in Maine."

"Really?" she asked in open eyed astonishment.

"It's a literal fact," he asserted positively.

"Well, I don't believe it," she contended, and, do what he could, he could not convince her that he was telling plain, unadorned truth.—Detroit Free Press.

Twenty Years Hence.

Mrs. Newera (entering kitchen hurriedly about 3 p. m. registration day)—Alfred, dear, I am sorry to disturb you, but if we don't register every vote we've got in the ward they are going to lick us sure! Take off your apron and come along. There's a carriage at the door.

Mr. Newera—Ethelberta, I've tried to be a good husband to you. I've never refused to do anything reasonable you have required of me. I have taken care of the house and kept the children out of mischief while you've been at the club or hobnobbing with the candidates down town, and I've never complained, but I'm right in the middle of the fruit canning season, and if you think I'm going to leave this porcelain kettle full of peaches all ready to put in the jars and let the six gallons of apple butter in this washboiler burn and go to waste just for the sake of going out to register you don't know me, madam, that's all. Now, you get out of my way and go on about your business, or I'll throw a dipper of hot water on you!"—Chicago Tribune.

Comparative Strength of Materials.

Cast iron weighs 444 pounds to the cubic foot, and an inch square bar will sustain a weight of 16,500 pounds; bronze, weight 525 pounds; tenacity 3,600; wrought iron, weight 480, tenacity 50,000; hard "struck" steel, weight 490, tenacity 78,000; aluminium, weight 168, tenacity 26,000. We are accustomed to think of metals as being stronger than wood, and so they are, generally speaking, if only pieces of the same size be tested, but when equal weights of the two materials are compared it is then found that several varieties of wood are stronger than ordinary steel. A bar of pine just as heavy as a bar of steel an inch square will hold up 125,000 pounds, the best ash 175,000 pounds and some hemlock 200,000 pounds. Wood is bulky. It occupies 10 or 12 times the space of steel. The best steel castings made for the United States navy have a tenacity of 65,000 to 75,000 pounds to the square inch. By solidifying such castings under great pressure a tensile strength of 80,000 to 150,000 pounds may be obtained.—Railway Review.

The Old Time Husking Bee.

A story is told of husking bee deviltry in the pioneer days of Dexter. Captain Small, one of the first comers, after he had grown to the dignity of having a big barn, gave a husking, to which a large and merry party gathered. While the supper was progressing and the coast was clear some of the "boys" drove one of the captain's steers into the barn floor, and attaching a rope to him lifted him up over the high beams to the top of the haymow. They were so spry about it that the joke was not discovered. The steer was missed, of course, and a search of all the surrounding country was made without success. The animal was given up for lost when one day, a week after the husking, the captain was in his barn and heard a long "moo!" up in the ridge pole. Looking up, there was the missing steer gazing calmly down at him over the high beam. Such was the sport the daddies had in their young days. Modern huskings are more prosaic.—Lewiston Journal.

Sufficient Excuse.

An exchange remarks of John Quincy Adams, recently deceased, that he was very fond of fishing and not especially fond of his legal profession.

One day a case in which he was counsel was down for trial in a Boston court. Mr. Adams did not make his appearance, but sent a letter to the judge. That worthy gentleman read it and then postponed the case with the announcement:

"Mr. Adams is detained on important business."

The note read as follows:

"Dear judge, for the sake of old Izaak Walton, please continue my case until Friday. The smelts are biting, and I can't leave."

Not Hasty.

A very small boy was trying to lead a big St. Bernard up the avenue.

"What are you going to do with that dog?" asked a kindly gentleman.

"I can't make up my mind," was the answer, "not till I find out what the dog thinks o' doin weth me."—Washington Star.

WHY IS THIS THUS?

The Prince and Princess of Wales Do Not Associate as Much as Formerly—Tattlers, to the Sorrow of Many, Are Still Alive.

Special to the Times.

LONDON, March 30.—With the Prince of Wales' return to London from the Riviera the announcement is made that the Princess of Wales is going to Copenhagen next week on a visit to her parents, the King and Queen of Denmark.

This has started gossip afresh, and it has brought into prominence the fact that the Prince and Princess of Wales seldom remain in the same country together. The Princess has spent very little time in England during the past two years.

Incidentally it is announced that the Prince of Wales will soon pay another visit to the Earl and Countess of Warwick, the latter being more generally known as the famous beauty, Lady Brooke.

During the stay of the Prince of Wales at the Riviea his partiality for Americans, especially ladies, was again remarked with many ill natured comments from expectant Britishers hovering near. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Winslow and Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Goelet were seen to be on terms of intimacy with the Prince which are enjoyed by but few English people.

THE DUKE OF YORK ILL WITH INFLUENZA.

LONDON, March 30.—The Duke of York, heir presumptive to the throne, is suffering from a mild form of influenza.

SANDRINGHAM PALACE INJURED.

LONDON, March 30.—The gale of Saturday last did much damage in the grounds of Sandringham Palace, the residence of the Prince of Wales. It is said that the loss through the storm will foot up over $10,000. Among the trees blown down were some planted by the Prince of Wales himself, which had special historic interest.

A SHEEP STEALER'S FATE

Sent to Kingston Penitentiary for Five Years From Stratford.

Special to the Times.

STRATFORD, March 30.—James Shaen, of the Township of Logan, has been convicted at the Assizes and sent to Kingston penitentiary for five years for stealing fifty sheep from the ranch of John Whyte & Sons, of Mitchell, opposite which place he lived. The trial lasted twelve hours without intermission and over 40 witnesses were examined. It aroused nearly as much excitement as the Chattelle trial.

This ends the Assizes, the case of The Queen vs John Hardman for shooting at S. A. Cameron, of the Albion hotel, this city, being traversed to next Assizes at the request of the prisoner and on condition that he remain in jail.

TUPPER WILL REMAIN.

Will Retain His Position—Reason for the Rightabout.

OTTAWA, March 29.—Sir C. H. Tupper is back attending to his departmental duties and will not press his resignation.

Sir Adolphe Caron will occupy the seat which Sir John Thompson had in the House but it is expected that Foster will lead.

The arrangement by which Sir Charles returns to his post is said to be the abandonment of the intention to pass remedial legislation this coming session.

Sir Charles insisted on an appeal to the people first and the rest of the Cabinet yielded.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Mayor A. D. Stewart of Hamilton has been asked to oppose Dr. Montague in the present bye election in Haldimand as a McCarthyite. He may accept.

J. E. Armstrong has been nominated by the "P.P.A." in East Lambton for the Commons. The order also has a candidate in West Lambton.

J. D. Edgar, M.P., addressed the electors at Vandorf the other day.

The Hamilton W.C.T.U. defeated a motion to endorse W. W. Buchanan, the Prohibition candidate.

After the adjournment of the Manitoba Legislature yesterday for six weeks the members presented Premier Greenway with a life-size portrait of himself.

STEAMBOATS AND RAILWAYS.

Vanderbilt System After Canadian Charters—A. M. Smith Estate.

OTTAWA, March 30.—The Vanderbilt system have long been said to want an entrance to Toronto, and it was said they were behind the New Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo Railway. This is conclusively proved by notice of application in today's Gazette for an act giving the Canada Southern Railway Company power to "acquire, lease or amalgamate" with the T., H. & B. Railway.

A charter has been granted to the executors of the late A. M. Smith, of Toronto, to purchase the steamer Persia and other vessels, and carry on a general transportation business, under the name of the Toronto and Montreal Steamboat Company.

THE COMMONS SPEAKERSHIP.

Wm. Court Gully, Q.C., M.P., Nominated by the Cabinet for the Position.

Special to The Times.

LONDON, March 30.—Lord Rosebery, the Premier, came specially from Epsom today in order to preside at a Cabinet Council, at which, according to the Daily News, foreign affairs and the speakership were the matters discussed.

Later.—It was learned that the Cabinet Council decide to nominate William Court Gully, Q.C., M.P., for Carlisle, for the speakership, to succeed Sir Arthur Wellesley Peel.

A Failure at Orangeville.

ORANGEVILLE, March 30.—Thompson & Son, general store, of this town, have assigned to Richard Tew, with liabilities of $15,000 and assets of $1,500 less.

GREENWAY'S VIEWS.

A Hint to the Quebec Members His Government's Action.

Special to The Times.

WINNIPEG, March 1.—Premier Greenway, in an interview yesterday on the School question, said: There is no likelihood that the Quebec members can force the Dominion Government to legislate for separate School at the opening of the session at Ottawa on the plea that Manitoba has refused to pay attention to the remedial order. Such a course, in view of the fact that at some inconvenience to the members the Manitoba Government has adjourned the House for a time that the order may be fully and deliberately considered, would be unstatesmanlike and impossible.

New Companies.

Notice appears in this week's issue of The Ontario Gazette of the application for incorporation as a joint stock company of the Huntsville & Lake of Bays Transportation Company (Limited), which is intended to carry on a transportation business on the Lake of Bays and Peninsula Lake, to establish on the portage between the two lakes an electric railway, and to produce, sell and distribute electricity for light, heat and power. The capital will be $25,000. The Pilkington Brothers (Limited), A British joint stock has been authorized to do business in Ontario.

BABY AND ITS GRANDMOTHER

A GRATEFUL MOTHER'S PRAISE.

Loving and grateful mothers never tire of praising and recommending Lactated Food.

The following letter is interesting to all who have babies and aged parents.

"Until I began the use of Lactated Food my baby was sick all the time. When three months old he was very frail and weak. I began to feed him with Lactated Food, and he gradually grew better. He is now eighteen months old and weighs twenty-five pounds, and as well and strong as other children.

"My mother had a very weak stomach and could keep nothing on it until she began to use Lactated Food. It has made a marvellous improvement in her case, and she has now no difficulty in retaining her food. There cannot be enough said in praise of your wonderful Lactated Food."

Four Killed in a Boiler Explosion.

WOBURN, Mass., April.—Just before 7 o'clock this morning one of the boilers in the old Cann tannery exploded with considerable force, killing four men and injuring six others. Foreman Parker had ordered that the whistle be blown to start the works. The rope attached to the whistle was pulled and instantly the explosion occurred.

20,000 Reserve Called Out.

MADRID, April 1.—Marshall Martinez Campos lunched with the Queen Regent yesterday, previous to his departure for Cuba. Owing to the despatch of the reinforcements of troops to Cuba, the Government has called out 20,000 men of the reserve to complete the effective strength of the army.

The Oakville Gold Cure.

Information regarding the above will be given with pleasure to all parties desiring such information. A. H. MELVILLE.

Out of Its Misery.

The injuries of Mr. W. H. Moore's horse. which was badly burned on Sunday night, rendered it necessary to hill the animal. Mr. Moore sustains quite a loss.

Trent Valley Canal.

Official notification of his appointment as a valuator on the Lakefield-Peterborough section of the Trent Valley canal has been received by Mr. H. T. Strickland. The valuating and purchasing the land for this division is to be proceeded with at once. The appointment of Mr. Strickland for this work gives general satisfaction, as he is well acquainted with every foot of land throughout the district.

Hotels Peculiar Characteristics.

The Porter House became celebrated for its beefsteaks, commonly known as the Porter House steak; but the Jamieson House (the Little Windsor on Brock street) is celebrated for its hot suppers of fried liver and fried potatoes which are prepared and cooked in the most exquisitive manner under the supervision of Mrs. Jamieson, so says one who appreciates dainty dishes.

John Young, dealer in stoves and tinware, Thornbury, has assigned to Henry Barber & Co.

April Fool Jokes.

Yesterday was April 1st, and the usual practice of playing jokes on friends was observed. Quite a unique deception was successfully operated in the Palace Restaurant. A quantity of sandwiches were made up, and placed where customers could easily help themselves. Instead of the customary layer of ham, pieces of flannel were put in. There was any amount of fun provoked by the actions of the bitten ones.

The Outfall Sewer Award.

A formal notice of the town's appeal against the sewer award was served upon the township's solicitor on Saturday evening. The appeal recites several reasons for opposing the award. The hearing of the appeal is set down for Thursday in Toronto. The township councils of Otonabee and North Monaghan met in Messrs. Edmison & Dixon's office, Saturday afternoon, to consult on the case of the outfall sewer and the course to be adopted should an appeal be made by the town. North Monaghan had already passed resolutions in Council instructing their solicitor to take the necessary action and employ counsel to defend the award, if an appeal were made. The Otonabee Council endorsed this action and also passed similar resolutions and provided money for the appeal. The counsel for the townships will be G. H. Watson, Q. C. South Monaghan has withdrawn from the fight.

PERSONAL MENTION.

THOMAS CAHILL,
Chairman.

A deputation consisting of Messrs. George J. Horkins, Ed. Brown and W. H. Bradburn, representing the bicycle club was present, and in reference to the grant mentioned in the above report, was heard.

Mr. Horkins showed conclusively that the securing of the "meet" in Peterborough would be of great benefit to the town. The Committee would drop all efforts in that direction if the town would grant but $250. The C.W.A. had a membership of 5,000. In former years the racing events covered two days. This year there were two classes and three days at least, would be occupied in the races. Seven towns were bidding for the meet. London, the strongest opposition in the west had been persuaded to drop out of the contest. There were 200 members of the C.W.A. in Peterborough, and out of this number 25 only rode wheels. The balance had joined simply to help the committee secure the meet, and this, he thought was proof that the grant of $500 would meet with popular approval. He anticipated that at least 3,000 members would attend the meet. They would leave probably $50,000 in the town—this was a low figure, he thought. The club here would expend at least $2,000 in securing the meet. For the $500 the Council gave—or for every cent, $1 would be left in the town. To a question put by Councillor Dawson Mr. Horkins said it would cost about $750 to put the track and grand stand in shape.

The mayor heartily endorsed the granting of $500. He didn't think that Mr. Horkins had overrated the benefit that would ensue from the "meet," nor that the sum of $50,000 was an exaggeration of the amount that would be spent.

Councillor Sproule also endorsed a grant of $500. The town would get a very large amount in return. As an advertisement the "meet" would be worth $100. It would not only bring a large number of people in town but it would keep the townspeople from going elsewhere on that day.

Councillor Best said that when the matter came up in committee he thought $500 too much to give but since the largely signed petition came in, he thought the Council would be justified in making the grant.

Councillor Mills opposed the grant. He had been told that $250 was all the wheelmen desired. If so large a crowd was coming the gate receipts should cover the expenses. As far as the petition was concerned, there were the signatures of citizens to it, whom he had heard oppose the grant—who said it was a shame to throw away the people's money. He would go this far—the Council would guarantee to cover up any loss that rainy weather might cause, up to $500.

Councillor Dawson opposed the grant. He thought the local club would make a good thing out of the "meet."

Mr. Horton stated that the prize list would probably amount to $2,000. As to the petition, neither the committee or any members of the club had had anything to do in getting it up.

Councillor Stone was willing to vote for the grant provided a guarantee was given that $1,000 was spent in prizes.

The mayor didn't think that was the point. The question was, will the meet benefit the town to an extent that would justify the outlay. He thought it would.

Councillor Phalen favored the grant. He didn't think anyone had been forced to sign the petition.

Councillor Cahill thought it was very desirable to have the meet. He was willing to compromise on $350. No doubt citizens would subscribe the other $150.

Finally the council passed a grant of $400 on the following division:

Yeas—Councillors Cahill, Sproule, Best, Denne, Phalen, Mills, Brady and Stone.

Nays—Councillors Dawson, Clinkscale, Sawers and Mason.

STREET AND BRIDGE COMMITTEE.

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Street and Bridge Committee beg leave to report as follows:

1. We recommend that the request of the County of Peterborough that this Council memorialize the Dominion Government to take charge of all the swings on bridges on the Trent Valley waters be agreed to, and that a memorial be passed accordingly.

2. As the report of this Committee presented last was not adopted we again present the recommendation that David Knox be granted $50 for the purchase of a six inch vitrified sewer pipe for a drain from his vinegar factory, provided that he establishes the vinegar factory as proposed.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

HENRY BEST,
Chairman.

The report was adopted as read.

HEALTH COMMITTEE.

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Health Committee beg leave to report as follows:

1. Your Committee, as authorized, advertised for tenders for a dumping ground and received several tenders. The lowest tender was from William Forster, who offered to rent a ground for $48, or to rent the ground and dig and fill the trenches and do all care taking for $198. We recommend that Mr. Forster's tender to give the ground and do all the work and care taking be accepted, he to be responsible for all the work and for it being properly done.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

F. MASON,
Chairman.

The report was adopted as read.

MARKET COMMITTEE.

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN:—Your Market Committee beg leave to report that as instructed by the Council they sold the market tolls and charges for the year commencing April 1st by auction on March 22nd. The bidding was spirited, and the high standing of the market was shown by the fact that the tolls sold for $2,230, which is $180 more than last year. Mr. R. H. Green, the present market clerk, was again the purchaser.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

H. G. DENNE,
Chairman.

The report was adopted as read.

FIRE WATER AND LIGHT COMMITTEE.

To the Mayor and Council of the town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN:—Your Fire, Water and Light Committee beg leave to report as follows:—

1. We recommend that the water carts be repaired and painted and got ready for the season.

2. We also recommend that couplings and expansion rings for the hose be purchased, and that the stand pipe valves in need of repairs be repaired as required.

3. It will be remembered that some months ago the Bell Telephone Company gave notice cancelling the contract made a few years ago for the construction and maintenance of the fire alarms. Your committee has had several conference with representatives of the company in regard to it and a new contract has been drafted and will be submitted to you with a bylaw authorizing it to be signed.

4. Your Committee recommends that 2 standpipes be purchased.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

THOMAS BRADY,
Chairman.

A bylaw authorizing the Mayor and Clerk to execute on behalf of the town, a certain agreement with the Bell Telephone Company, was read a first, second and third time and became law.

A bylaw to grant aid to the Peterborough Fire Brigade Band, Salvation Army Band and Peterborough Horticultural Society was passed.

On motion of Councillor Sproule, seconded by Councillor Best, the Railway Committee was instructed to make an effort to secure from the railways a rate for a Wednesday market day, the same as is given on Saturdays.

On motion of Best, seconded by Councillor Denne, the Street and Bridge Committee was instructed to advertise for tenders for street watering.

Mr. A. P. Poussette addressed the Council in reference to the application of the Peterborough & Chemong Park Railway for a charter. He explained that it was simply a matter of form that such application should be accompanied by a resolution of the town council offering no objection to the granting of a charter. A resolution was accordingly passed.

The following resolution created some amusement in the face of Councillor Sawer's eagerness to take the former relief officer's duty upon himself.

Moved by Councillor Sawers, seconded by Councillor Sproule that the chief of police be appointed relief officer without salary, to be under the control of the Charity Committee.

The motion was voted down. Councillor Sawers then declared that during his four month's absence during the summer, no charity would be dispensed.
